Guideline Clear

Integration Now, Says Government

Harold Howe, II, U. S. Commissioner of Education, has passed the 1967 word from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare on desegregation, in a letter-memorandum dated "January, 1967", according to Supt. of Schools Thomas L. Crook Tuesday.

The order read; "We are issuing these guidelines now to give school officials as much time as possible to prepare for the coming year. The only substantive change is to permit the 30-day choice period in free choice plans to start as early as Jan. 1.

"The most important requirement in remaining eligible for Federal assistance is to make further progress in 1967-68 in eliminating the dual school system, in regard to both students and faculty.

"School officials are responsible for preparing students, teachers and all other personnel, and the community in general, for the successful desegregation of the school system," the memo continued.

All members of the board were given copies of the memo, with suggestions they study it before next Monday at 10 a.m. at which time the board will be asked to make up its mind on districting county schools in the junior and senior high grades, as well as the elementary level.

Scores of parents have expressed upset at plans to make Murray Junior-Senior High School a district junior high school for southeastern Martin County. Many members of the Negro community have said they would rather wait a year to end all segregation in the county; some are adament for the complete job in 1967. The school is located in Port Salerno's Negro area south of Cove Road, and cost $450,000 to construct.

Chief on the school board's list of advisors in the matter is a Republican attorney who admits to being a many-generation cracker, James Littman. He advises; Follow the law, sia; out of trouble.

United Fund Elects Tuesday

Officers and directors for the ninth annual Jensen-Rio United Fund Association will be elected Tuesday, Jan. 10, at 8 p.m. at the Community Center in Jensen Beach.

All fund-raising organizations wishing to participate in the drive's funds will have representatives present and will present budget requests, said Al Palmer, UF president.

Following the appearance of the organizations, the election will be held.

A slate of nominees will be presented by the nominating committee comprised of past presidents Dick Campbell, chairman; Zola Swarthout, Anita Hoke, and Al Palmer.

The newly-elected president will appoint committees, name the fund drive chairman and, with the new board, revise budget requests and set a goal for the 1967 drive.

Last year's drive goal of $6,500 went over the top as the event drive since the organization was formed in 1958 when the goal was $4,500.

Agencies participating in the "One For All and All For One Drive" last year included the Jensen Beach Samaritans (free ambulance), Jensen Beach Community Center, American Red Cross, Mental Health Association, Crippled Children and Adults Association, Retarded Children's Association, Animal Rescue League, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and the local units of the Martin County Council on Aging.

25 Fly To Inaugural

Twenty-five localites flew from Stuart Airport to the governor's inauguration on a chartered DC-3 on Tuesday, in the Martin County Republican plane.

The group included: Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Meyers, Mrs. Hugh L. Willoughby, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Hiley, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Carlin, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin O'Brien, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lindsey, Mrs. Geo. Faller and George, Jr., Mrs. Pickett Warren, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Hackett, Mrs. Frank Glass, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Killen, and Ross H. Philbrick, all of the Jensen Beach-Stuart area.

Also Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bodo, Hobe Sound, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rhoades, Sr., and Mrs. Wm. Schreckengust, Ft. Pierce.

The passengers boarded the plane at 7:30 a.m. and were scheduled to return from Tallahassee early this morning (Wednesday).

Stanley Smith arranged for the plane through Florida Aero-Mobile, Lantana.

Wacha Steps Down As Chairman; Served Six Years

Martin County commission changed chairman for the first time in six years Tuesday morning when Frank A. Wacha asked to be relieved of the job which he said he would be happy to do without.

Commissioner Jack Saunderson, Fort Salerno, was elected chairman, and J. H. Bruner, Stuart, vice-chairman, at the reorganization meeting which first saw both Wacha and Saunderson nominated for the jobs they have held for the six years.

Reorganization was preceded by swearing in new counties, County judge Mallory L. Johnson performed the rites, giving both John A. Hussey and Bruner the oath of office.

Bruner moved, seconded by Hussey, that Wacha and Saunderson be re-elected as chairman and vice-chairman.

"Before you write down the motion, I'd like to withdraw. I'm winding up six years as chairman of the commission, and for six years my schedule has been at the whim of the board, for work, for vacations, even for sickness," said Wacha.

"The last four years have been more difficult than they should have been. The job has been laid out as having fabulous powers and influences, not true. As of today, I feel like a saturated sponge that needs time on the shelf and reconditioning.

"I would not refuse the job if you asked me to do it, but I ask that you withdraw your second and motion so as not to put me in a position in which I must refuse the chair.

"I don't feel I'll be any more or less of a commissioner without the chair, but I'd like to sit in one of the other chairs for a while," he concluded.

After some urging, Hussey and Bruner withdrew, Wacha then moved for the election of Saunderson and Bruner.

Three Ayes seconded and the vote was unanimous.

Saunderson said, "If I can do as well for a year, I'll be glad." He said he took the chair with "mixed emotions", that Wacha had done a good job but deserved a rest.

County engineer Fred L. Heil and county attorney Dean Tooker were reappointed as were all department heads.

Twelfth Night Ceremonies Set

Twelfth Night Christmas tree burning ceremonies, awaiting the epiphany, will be conducted Thursday, Jan. 12, at 7 p.m. on the Jensen Beach Causeway, sponsored by the Martin County Volunteer Fire Association.

The public is invited to bring Christmas trees to the causeway for burning and to take part in the short service to be conducted by the Association. A prayer will be said after which the trees will be lighted while spectators recite the Lord's Prayer.

"The burning of Christmas trees on the causeway is to celebrate the birth of our Lord and is not necessarily connected in any way with fire," explained Father Norman B. Feaster to The Mirror.

"The Epiphany commemorates the time that the Wise Men visited our Lord," Father Feaster continued. "Traditionally this is the end of the Christmas season. Christmas actually lasts for 12 days."

Children used to be given Christmas gifts which were opened each day during the 12-day period, rather than just Christmas Day, to make it last, it was pointed out.

On Friday at 7:30 p.m., ministers will gather on the causeway to dramatize the religious displays which have created a great deal of interest in the area.

Republican Protest Filed To County

An official petition of complaint over the way the November election was handled in some Martin County precincts was mailed to the county commissioners early this week by Dr. William G. Myers, chairman of Martin County Republican Committee.

Dr. Myers said he or attorney J. F. Littman will appear at the Jan. 10 meeting of the commission.

The petition detailed some of the violations including denial of admission to several polling places of watchers until 7 a.m. although the election laws allow them to witness elections from beginning to end.

In Precincts 11 and 13, the Democratic County Committee chairman, certified as a poll watcher, was observed talking to election board officials and also to voters, a direct violation of the election laws, and he was certified in every precinct in the county, Myers reported.

In the same two precincts sample ballots were passed out showing Democratic candidates names in full print, a definite violation, Myers claimed. In Precinct 13, Illiterate voters who did not present special registration cards were not required to swear to a standard oath prescribed by the election laws, thus were given aid illegally.

In this same precinct, Dr. Myers said, several people would accompany an illiterate voter into the privacy of the voting machine to aid him in voting.

In the problem Precincts of 11 and 13, the makeup of the election board did not contain a Republican representative. The law calls for the appointment of one from another precinct.

"These seven broad categories are the main violations noted. There were many other minor ones, but these were usually straightened out in discussions between poll watchers and the election board," Dr. Myers said.

Dr. Myers asked two questions: "What recourse do we have in election law violations when the circuit court denies jurisdiction" and "Since the majority of violations were mainly in Precincts 11 and 13, and since we were in an area of integration of the races, and have precedence in Precincts 1, 7 and 8, why do we continue to isolate and discriminate against Precincts 11 and 13 when by absorbing them into surrounding precincts some of the obvious problems would be solved?"

Judge C. Pfeiffer Trowbridge did not deny jurisdiction. He declined it on the basis that charges were incorrectly drawn in that they were not in affidavit form and therefore insufficient to invoke the jurisdiction of the court. He also held that protests were not sworn to, as required and that the protests alleged misconduct but did not state facts which, if proven, would constitute the making of fraudulent returns.)

Dr. Myers asked the commission to add more voting machines, and to consult with both executive committees before naming members to the election boards.

A Year Of Growth In Martin County Highlighted By Political Developments

by Dick Campbell

1966 was a busy year in Martin County, this 1966. It was a year that saw the emergence of a powerful Republican party with organization and unity in challenge subtracted Democrats. It was a year that saw industrial and commercial developments that point to a 1967 that will begin the biggest increase in business activity so long promised by the nearby booms of Palm Beach and Cape Kennedy.

The year was a good one for business, with an unreal summer, followed by an early fall season, and higher than usual sales. Profits were held at about an average in the business community with the increase in wholesale prices taking away al gross profits.

Bridges and road-wise it was a quiet year, with promises being the most important thing that the county could elicit from the state. It was a year that saw the solving of some of the problems of the county's harried road crews, and the creation of new ones with a very wet year.

It was a year that started out with a promising building program that with few homes left on the market, and new ones added back due to the tight money situation. The future for home builders is bright, though, with the promise of an easing of credit.

Newswise, here is how the year went. Some events that are what happened are as follows:

January

The big news of January was another successful drive for the Jensen Beach-Rio United Fund. The drive went over the top of the $8,500 goal. George Apostolopoulos, Stuart restaurateur, purchased Jensen Bowling Lanes and used the year to turn it into a financial success, adding a new night club in Jensen Beach. The bowling lanes had been in and out trouble for a long time.

A bridge on Indian Avenue, being rebuilt, was named for county commissioner Herb Brunei. At the same time a new county park, called Savanna Park, just east of Jensen Beach was announced by county commission chairman Frank Gaskins. Sandsprit Park, near Salerno, was enlarged with a purchase of more land.

The contract for a hydrofoil prototype was awarded to Grumman Aircraft, with most of the $3.8 million being spent in Martin County at the ever-increasing plant on Witham Field. The Soroptomist Club of Stuart started an Ace Club, embracing high school girls into the service organization.

Fisherman's Village, a new concept in retirement living in Stuart, opened, and found a ready market, selling out the first section in less than six months. The Retarded Children's Variety Show was a social success, and many celebrities from as far south as Miami attended the open house benefit fashion show at the home of the Owen K. Murphys in Port Sewall, hosted by the Jensen Women's Association.

Bill Murfin of Hobe Sound was tagged president of the Martin County Young Republicans beginning a rise that would see him chairman the Florida Republican Party by election time. The Jensen Beach Post Office moved into its new building (as yet not officially dedicated), and a new low of 26 degrees was registered as the month went out like a deep freeze.

February

The new county barn was opened officially, and the Jensen Fireman held a successful pig roast on the causeway. Hikers started a fuss that is still going on, coming to the fore with demands for a clarification of the status of Indiantown.

An ill-fated upper-teen night club got under way in Jensen Beach, dying later from lack of support by teeners. A new girl scout troop was founded in Jensen Beach, and the lack of no ambulance service brought an offer of a free ambulance from Amity Buick in Stuart, later becoming the start of the Martin County Ambulance Service.

March

March was like a lion coming in, with politics brewing over the county. Filing began for the county seats and didn't end until closing time. A half million dollar hangar for Grumman Aircraft's expansion was started, and the Martin County Fair was one of the best ever.

A million dollar replacement for the rickety old Palm City bridge was announced by the State Road Board and a start was started over clam beds in the Indian River. The new testing facility for Outboard Marine Corporation opened in an 'informal setting in this month and Al Palmer was elected to a second term as president of the Jensen Chamber of Commerce.

The new Baptist Church in Stuart was completed, and a new junior college for Martin County was announced by St. Joseph College, opening in September.

April

A new sailing school was established in Port Salerno. A new branch office of First Federal of Martin County was announced to be in Jensen Beach, and the Palm City Bridge location was set by Governor Burns at its present location. Most of the month of April was devoted to hard fighting on the political level, charges and counter-charges, and a lead in to the election on May 3rd.

The new St. Joseph College chapel and auditorium was dedicated by Bishop Coleman Carroll, and the primary election ended. Jim Navitsky was named head coach of Martin County High's football team.. A new chamber of commerce was formed in Indiantown, and the Okeechobee Waterway bostacade was a big success, with Secretary of State Tom Adams kicking it off in attendance here.

Mrs. Kermit Tucker took over as head of the Junior Women, and Bill Murfin was elected chairman of the Florida Republican Executive Committee, spearheading a shakeup and new face for Republicanism in the state. Mrs. Anita Ricou Tilton was elected president of the Indian River Early Settlers, and zoning of the county kept pace as Port Salerno got a zoning plan.

The entire state of Florida was shocked by the fire bombing of the office of The Mirror. The bombing was never solved.

June

The Outdoor Writers of America met in their annual and most successful convention at St. Lucie Country Club, bringing a bonidle of publicity to the area. A study of the St. Lucie Inlet got under way and the teachers of the county got a long awaited pay raise.

Hurricane Alma, first of the season, slashed through Martin County, and the county was prepared for all Alma had to offer, suffering little damage.

The Mirror Mail-Awa, edition, destined to win the award for best color in Florida newspapers, came out and was gobbled up by avid readers. The new ball park was dedicated at Port Salerno.

July

July got off to a smashing start with the most outstanding fireworks exhibit ever seen in these parts on the Jensen Causeway. Thousands came from all over Florida to see it. Rainfall in June set a record with 15 inches making the county road program fall way behind schedule.

Palm City got a new civic center, and the county tax roll got a boost to 100% valuation. The county school budget was boosted by 10% and summer business in the county was up over 20% in a good tourist summer.

The Mirror won two national awards for journalism, and Lake Okeechobee, high from summer rains, was dumped into the canal and started killing salt water fish in the rivers with tons of fresh water.

The county tax rolls totaled $222 million, and quick action saved the county experimental lobster and turtle projects from being moved to Palm Beach County.

The summer meeting of the Florida Press Association's southern districts was hosted here by The Mirror, and the old railroad depot, a landmark in Stuart, was sold. A new roof was put on the House of Refuge Museum through donations collected by the Soroptomists.

September

County schools opened with confusion over the new choice of school forms, and a lobster range war began with the opening of the lobster fishing season. It settled down when the fishermen found they could fish together and a few poachers found some buckshot lessening their love for the succulent lobster.

GOP Women held their fall conference in the area, and the beauties of the county vied for attention and Karen Cody, a nurse, and Kathy Wyatt, a student, won the honors of Miss Martin County and Miss Stuart Jaycee..A lot of Labor Day fun was had on the Jensen Causeway with a boat race and people-type games. The Stuart Jaycees in a vain battle to fluoridate Stuart water matched the plan for Hutchinson Island zoning which was changed many times before being tentatively accepted.

The movie business came to Martin County with the filming of parts of Ivan Tors "Gentle Ben" at Port Salerno. The sisters of St. Joseph celebrated 100 years in Florida in this month.

October

The Jensen Chmber asked the county to bless a drive to get public opinion on beachfront purchase for public use. The drive is still under way in the county. The St. Lucie Inlet became a Federal project, and the county won the praise of the state auditors for its bookkeeping as charges of mal and misfeasance were hurled in a show of contempt for county officials seldom seen before.

Eugene Williamson was the center of controversy as he created a n investigation by the state's attorney by protesting a zoning variance a little too strongly. The attorney cleared county officials of misconduct charged. The Martin County football team was on its way to a winning season, and played some great football for its new coach.

Frances Langford took Tony Romano and Johnny Cuzzins on a Viet Nam entertainment tour that lasted through most of December. Politics began to warm up for the November election, and fishermen fought over whether the fishing here is as good as it used to be after one sportsman complained to the county about netters in the river.

Cable TV for the county was assured by Victor Orlstano and hopes for a 1967 delivery of the service was the topic of the coffee corners for several weeks.

The county tax bills were mailed...and then came the election.

November

The county started looking for a new dump, and the county DCT high-schoolers were host to 400 of their brethern from throughout the district. Another hangar for Grumman was announced to be built, and the Republican landslide was evident in Martin County as the election was held. People will be analyzing that one for a long time.

A sandbar closed the St. Lucie Inlet, forcing the cancellation of the sailfish tourney. Republicans filed a suit charging election violations in the wrong court and had it thrown out, since then filing it with the county.

Soroptomists celebrated their 12th birthday and the City of Stuart okayed a $350,000 bond issue for sewers. Rachael Fenton was crowned homecoming queen for MCHS, and the new W.B. Tilton building in Jensen Beach was opened.

December

A purchase of the south Jensen Beach Shopping Center by the Ralph Evinrudes was top news, along with the clearing of the St. Lucie Inlet (due to fast liason work by Rep. Paul Rogers), Florida Power and Light opened its new service center in Stuart, and a fantastic exhibit of Christmas carols was erected on the Jensen Beach Causeway, with a carol sing that drew thousands to the site.

The school board has over integration and junior high schools got off the ground and will last into 1968. The Jupiter Island people got shook up when they found they might have to ship in concrete when the SRD posted their two island bridges with low weight limits. The problem was just about solved when a barge and the Jupiter bridge hit each other and the bridge was put out of commission. Then everyone in the county had a Merry Christmas, and ended the year in fine fettle with house and club parties, church services and beach and river fishing and sunning.

It was a very good year.

Fire destroyed a barn owned by Ralph (Johnny) Kramer, off Indiantown Road near Martin County High School Friday afternoon.

Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department sent a tank- of to the scene. Apparatus was also sent from Palm City and District 2.

Loss was estimated by Kramer at about $2,000 with mowers, pipe, electric motors and other tools chiefly responsible for the total.

NEWLYWEDS--Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Curley are pictured above after their marriage Dec. 29, 1966, at St. Joseph Church in Stuart. The bride is the former Miss Patricia Uhl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Uhl of Jensen Beach. The groom, a Navy man stationed in Philadelphia, Pa., is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Curley of Libertyville, N.Y. Mrs. Curley will return to St. Vincent's School of Nursing in Jacksonville, Fla., while her husband continues his service term. The wedding reception was held at Seymour's Inn, Jensen Beach.

A NARROW WINDOW

A narrow window may let in the light,
A tiny star dispel the gloom of night,
A little deed a mighty wrong set right,

A rose, abloom, may make a desert fair,
A single cloud may darken all the air,
A spark may kindle ruin and despair.

A smile, and there may be an end to strife;
A look of love, and Hate may sheathe the knife;

Flammable DollsFound

Four flammable dolls were turned in to Fire Chief Milton Griffin, Stuart, last Saturday.

The dolls, made in both England and Poland, whose faces and hair flare from the heat of a cigarette or electric heater, had been tagged as fire hazards by underwriters.

Albert Krueger, local nurseryman, turned in three of the dolls purchased last summer in New York State. The fourth was brought here from Key West as a Christmas gift.

Two of the dolls were used to check. Both flared instantly and burned in a flash fire.

Parents were advised to check with firemen if they have such dolls in their possession.

Sages Visit Hawaii

Milton and Bertie Sage had some wonderful experiences last summer and fall which their friends would like to hear more about. One of these was their trip to Hawaii which I managed to persuade her to tell about. Mrs. Sage, Bertie, started to explain that this was not a sight-seeing trip as they had been there before. The object of their trip was to visit with their son and family. Anyway here is her account:

"On October 7 we took the plane to Hawaii where we were met by our son, his wife and four children. They loaded us with leis as is the custom. The first day we went to a park on the beach which is maintained by the Hawaiian Light and Power Co. Milton with our son and oldest grandson went out in the surf and did some snorkle diving and spear fishing.

The next day it rained, but the air was so lovely and warm you just never minded the rain. The kids played outside just as if it were clear and sunny. Naturally they got wet, but no one seemed to mind.

On Monday, we walked along the Waikiki Beach and watched the surfers and the outrigger canoes coming in on the waves. While the four children went to school, the four adults again took off for Waikiki. The men took their fins and snorkel gear and had a lot of fun in the water while the women shopped in the Ala Moana Shopping Centre. This is the largest shopping centre we have ever seen. It is on four levels and there is car parking on each level. In the evening we had dinner at the La Rhonde revolving restaurant, which is a sight to behold.

Wednesday, we drove around the Island of Oahu. We stopped at Waimea Falls for lunch. Then went to the Dole Pineapple Plantation where we bought some delicious fresh pineapples, which were wonderful. On the windward side of the island we also bought some papayas and bananas. These tropical fresh fruits are an perfect eating.

Kodak puts on a camera show at Waikiki so that is where we went the next day. We had lunch at the Whaler Tea Room. This is a very romantic spot right by the Salvation Army. The food is good too.

It is now another week end so the whole family plus Grandma and Grandpa went to see the Aloha Day Parade.

It is not the Rose Parade but the orchids, gardenias and tropical flowers made beautiful floats. After the parade we took in the wild life park and watched an interesting show with whales, porpoises and things that Hawaiian maidens. We ended our day with a picnic lunch on the beach. All very relaxing and fun too.

We just loafed around on Sunday. Played croquet in the children's lovely yard and just enjoyed their company as we had to leave the next morning for the mainland.

OCEAN BREEZE PARTY AT HAUG HALL– Delicious cake was served at the Dec. 29 luncheon (I know for I tasted it) held at Haug Hall. After the luncheon, card games were arranged to suit the 17 tables of guests, and a pleasant, sociable afternoon was spent by all. Pictured above, seated, are: Mrs. Ed Whitlow (guest, Stella's mother), Stella Sorrell and Gladys McLarty, hostesses. Standing: Hostess assistants, Dorothy Kinker, Bess Rennie, Fran Gordon, Nellie Cook and Ruth Phelps.

Rainfall In 1966

The year 1966 started off with a cold and unusually wet January. As the winter progressed weather improved and was quite enjoyable. Our only hurricane passed us during June. Alot of rain fell this month, 17 inches. We really needed these rains as our water table had been low for several years. Although we had 50% more rain than average for the whole year, we heard no complaints and contrary to expectations, the mosquitoes were for the most part conspicuous in their absence.

Precipitation for the past year as recorded by Art Johnson of South Fifth is as follows: Jan. 7.80 inches; Feb. 4.50; March 2.50; Apr. 2.50; May 2.40; June 16.8"; July 5.77; Aug. 5.27; Sept. 7.07; Oct. 6.79; Nov. 3.05; Dec. 5.05. Total for 1966 was 74.30 inches.

A Cool Christmas Day 1966

Christmas Day 1966 was the coldest one we remember with a high of 62 and a low of 33, consequently the beaches were not patronized too much. However the weather changed for the better the following day and our many Christmas visitors from the north had plenty of opportunities for sun and surf bathing before they returned to their snowy homes. The whole week was sunny, warm and ideal beach weather. Incidentally the robins have been here for several days and the flame vine is beginning to blossom which are nature's signs that the New Year is at hand, so. HAPPY NEW YEAR everyone.

MOVIE

The movie for Sunday Jan. 8th, 1967 will be "Do not Disturb". Doris Day and Rod Taylor star in this cinemascope picture. Doris Day pictures are always popular with Ocean Breeze crowds and this one, where Doris finds a house in the English countryside should be no exception.

OUR YOUNGEST CHRISTMAS VISITOR- Our youngest Christmas visitor is two-and-a-half month old James Martin Fox, held by his grandmother, Mrs. Mary Stiles, whose daughter, Margaret, son-in-law, John, and three children visited then this Christmas.

Friendly Town, Nice People

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin McDonagh's trailer is located on South Fifth. The Mc Donaghs had a very unhappy experience on their way to Ocean Breeze from Saginaw, Mich. They were traveling through Georgia when Mr. McDonagh was taken violently ill. He pulled the trailer into a rest area about 40 miles south of Dublin where they spent the night. Next morning he was no better and the ambulance was called, and he was taken to the McRae hospital where an operation for ulcer of the duodenum was performed. The ambulance driver and his helper brought his car and trailer and parked it in the hospital yard so that Mrs. McDonagh could be near her husband. His operation required a lot of blood and as there was no blood bank in McRae he had to depend on local donors. The first donor was a girl from the Georgia Power Company. She came to visit most every day for the next two weeks, at the end of which time Mr. Donagh was able to get about a bit and this young lady drove them around and showed them the town.

Letter From Max Smith

We are in receipt of a letter from Max Smith which will be of general interest:

Buffalo, N.Y.

December 23, 1966

Bea and I flew up here by jet plane from West Palm Beach. Due to heavy fog we were an hour late in leaving but we gained 30 minutes of our loss by the time we reached Buffalo, where we plan to spend our Christmas with our daughter, her husband and their four boys from 6 to 17 years of age.

Their oldest son drove the car to the Mercy Hospital. The streets were covered with ice and snow and children were skating on ponds out by the hospital. The registrar advised us Don Wells was in room 262, so we took the elevator to the second floor and when we stepped out of the elevator, two attractive looking women were talking to a man in a wheel chair who looked up and exclaimed "Hello Max". It was Don, and he introduced us to the ladies, and we visited for half an hour. Don was so thankful for the many cards he received from his friends in Ocean Breeze Park. I took him some of our Florida fruit, and Don seemed very cheerful. His right leg where the bones were broken seemed to be his biggest concern; and he was very uncertain about when he would be all right for discharge.

It was snowing as we returned to our daughter's home and the temperature was 19 degrees so we will enjoy our warm climate when we return to O.B. around Dec. 28. We plan to go to the midnight service on Christmas Eve at an Episcopal Church a mile from here.

Tonight for dinner we fixed fruit and papaya dessert. It was a new combination for the boys and they sure cleaned it up. We took a suitcase of oranges, tangerines and grapefruit with us. The houses have very beautiful decorations and I told the family of the beautiful decorations in our park.

We trust you will have a nice Xmas. By the looks of the many decorative packages under the tree, I think we will have a nice time here too.

Our very best wishes,

Max

Doctor and Mrs. Williams of Woodruf, Wisc. were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Burtiam over Christmas. The doctor is a cousin to Earl Burtiam and the two men met for the first time in 50 years at the home of some relatives, last summer. The Williamses spend the winters at Zephyr Hills,

CAMERA CLUB

The meeting of Dec. was opened by Cliff Ogle giving a short talk and explanation of the meaning of "Flames Per Second" in movie potography.

The meeting was well attended considering it was Christmas holiday week. After Ogles talk, Doug Bigs kept his audience were interested as usual during his one hour showing of slides made last summer, mostly of North Carolina and the New Orleans vicinity. Several remarked that they appreciated his commentary as much as his good slides.

Next Thursday, Jan. 5th, 1967 Tom Cook will, after showing some local scenes, take his audience for a trip through Idaho and the Canadian Rockies to Saskatchewan, Canada, by means of color slides.

Golf Course Plans Will Be Released

Sometime after Jan. 19 the public will be told of plans for the new relationship between the county and Martin County Golf and Country Club, according to a report given after a 1-1/2 hour work session Tuesday afternoon.

Seven members of the board of directors of the golf club, and the county golf committee attended the session.

Dean Tooker, county attorney acted as spokesman for the county in a press interview.

The group will meet again the evening of Jan. 18 at which time a decision will be made. Results will be given to the press the following morning," Tooker said.

Attending the meeting on Tuesday were commissioners Jack Saunderson and Tyner Powers of the golf subcommittee; Dr. Dennis Rinaldi, newly elected president of the golf club; Jean Willchester, Perc; DuMar, secretary; David H. Irons, Alvin N. Andrews, county tax collector and treasurer of the golf club; Cy Evans, Charles Grant, Fred Ball, county engineer; and Tooker.

Meetings have been held since August, searching for a plan by which the publicly-owned quarter-million dollar course can be operated in an equitable manner on behalf of the public in cooperation with club members.

The main complaint is that the physical condition of the course, being maintained by the private club, is deplorable.

The public will be given an opportunity to register opinions between Jan. 19 and the next meeting of the county commission to be held Jan. 31, according to Powers. Final action will be taken by the commission at that time, he said.

Recently a $3,000 study of the situation was made by Horwath and Horwath, international firm of public accountants and business counselors.

Rusty Spurs To Hold Rodeo

The monthly rodeo of the Rusty Spurs Riding Club will be Sunday at 2 p.m. at the Jack James Ranch on SR 76.

All county riders are invited to participate, and the public is welcome to view the show.

A Haid Full Of Sporting Tips

by Howard Lee Haid

A survey of last year showed that about 44% of the entire U. S. population--in case you're doing mental arithmetic, that's about 87 million people- prefer water-based recreational activities, and the trend is an ever-increasing one.

This figure, of course, includes fishing, water skiing, boating, and all other outdoor sports that have to do with the water. Leaders, definitely, are fishermen as about 60,000,000 people went fishing last year according to the same survey.

But, since this trend is upward, it does mean that each passing year will see more and more use of our waterways. And with this use there come problems.

You can name a number of problems and cuss and discuss them from now until

Free Piloting Class Starts

Registration for the Ft. Pierce Power Squadron piloting class will be held at 8 p.m. Friday, Jan. 6 at the Community Center, South Beach, Ft. Pierce; and at 8 p.m. Monday, Jan. 9, at St. Lucie Country Club, five miles north of Jansen Beach on U.S. 1.

These free classes are offered to all men and women interested in boating safety and operation.

Courses will be conducted from 7:30 to 10 p.m. Monday nights at St. Lucie Country Club.

eternity and still not arrive at a solution satisfactory to all. The water skier interferes with the fisherman, and the fisherman, in his slow rig, causes headaches for the speedboater and...just and.

But think of these problems for a minute, and you'll see that just a wee bit of courtesy on the part of EVERYONE concerned would alleviate a great many of them.

Start practicing courtesy now--It's much better than trying to obey sundry laws brought about by lack of courtesy afloat.

Mariner Notices

The U. S. Coast Guard (District 7) notice to mariners dated Dec. 28, included the following data of interest to boatsmen in this area:

St. Lucie Inlet Buoy No. 3-A previously reported off charted position has been replaced on charted position.

Intracoastal Waterway, at Jupiter: The Colony Bridge located one-quarter mile north of Jupiter Inlet has been rammed and is at a 30-degree angle in the Intracoastal Waterway. Visible parts of the bridge are marked with white lanterns and the bridge is reported to be a menace to navigation.

Special notice: Temporary changes in the East Coast USA Loran "C" chain are scheduled to become effective at 10 a.m. Jan. 4 for a period of approximately five months.

The master station will be relocated to Wildwood, N.J., to allow reconstruction of the transmitting antenna at Carolina Beach, N.C. which will intermittently test transmit during the period.

Changes will be made in pulse repetition rate designation and coding delay will be made to accommodate a new slave station at Dana, Ind., which started test transmission Dec. 15.

Stations in the chain include Jupiter Inlet (at Jonathan Dickinson State Park in Martin County), Cape Race, Newfoundland; and Nantucket, Mass.

Boating Course

Flotilla 59, U. S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, will conduct a new course in Safe Boating Jan. 10 through Feb. 10, according to Cyrus W. Trowbridge, newly-elected flotilla commander.

The free classes will be held each Tuesday and Friday night from 8 to 10 p.m. at the flotilla's clubhouse on the St. Lucie River east of the FEC railroad bridge.

Chips, Divots And Tips

by Matt Moore

Golf wise Martin County faired pretty well for the Holidays. The golfers seemed to find a little more time for golf. The Monday after Xmas we played 256 players and all the other days following were up to the 150 mark. We had an eagle at number 14 made by Paul Thomas while playing with Mrs. Thomas and Jackie Hartzill. The Saturday Blitz was won by my team with Bill Snowden, Van Van Horne and Bill Hartzell. The score was seven over par for the two best balls at 143.

The ladies Golf Association handicap championship gets under way the 3rd this Tuesday. One round will be played a week to completion. The men's handicap championship was delayed one week so as to sign up some more players. Sign up with the pro at the Club House.

Golf swing wise, you r error is how far outside the line of flight you swing when you swing down at the ball. Swinging down inside and out is a way of compensating for this right side error. A closed stance aims you right. An open stance aims you left. When you practice, open your stance and aim left. This brings into play your left side muscles and makes it imperative that you swing from the inside and out to flight. The ball on the target. Golf is a two handed game, but the left must lead the right if you are to hit shots with any consistancy.

Good golfing again for '67.

$100 Reward Offered In Hit And Run

A $100 reward for information leading to the arrest of the driver of the car that hit and severely injured a Stuart resident Dec. 23 has been offered by the Rev. Edward M. Miller, pastor of First Baptist Church of Interlachen, N.Y.

Rev. Miller is the son of Mrs. Helen Pichalski, 74, who was injured on the Jensen Beach Causeway. She was hit as she walked along the highway at the pre-Christmas carol sing.

Rev. Miller is here to visit his mother who is a patient at Martin Memorial Hospital. She suffered three broken ribs, a slight concussion and a broken arm. The minister asked that any information be turned over to him through Stuart P. O. Box 2182.

Authorities have been unable to locate the car, a green Volkswagen, believed registered in St. Lucie County, and driven by a lone person. The driver fled the scene of the accident, heading north on Indian River Drive, leaving behind a broken headlight.

Access Trial Set For March

March 1 has been set by Circuit Court Judge C. Pfeiffer Trowbridge for the trial which will determine some of the future for public access to the Martin County ocean beaches. The Judge recently denied a motion by Florence M. Barnes, plaintiff, represented by Thomas H. Thurlow, Jr., attorney, who sought a summary judgment.

Dean Tooker, county attorney, represents Martin County, defendant.

Almost a year ago the suit was started by Mrs. Barnes against the State of Florida. The State declined to become a party in the "quiet title" suit. When it was brought up to the county Tooker and commissioner Frank Wacha, after studying the subject, felt the county owned the property.

Recently, private owners along the 16-foot right-of-way said road which borders the dunes have placed No Trespassing signs and posts to prevent traffic along the way south from the county-owned beach at Jensen Beach to a 2400 ft. stretch.

The obstacles were removed by the county road department at the order of Tooker last week.

Properties bordering the road are: Stuart Properties, Inc., with 1,471 feet; LaPosada, 267 feet; Hoyt Murphy, 83 ft., and Mrs. Barnes with 538 feet.

Jensen-Rio United Fund Elects Mrs. Hall, Sets Drive February 6 To 15

Mrs. Charles (Jackie) Hall was elected president of the Jensen Beach-Rio United Fund Tuesday night at the organizational meeting of the new drive, and February 6 through 15 was set as the target week of the drive. The general membership also named Willard Bowman drive chairman and first vice-president of the eight-year old all-for-one-one-for-all drive.

The kickoff breakfast, at which all drive chairmen and workers will receive work materials, will be held at 8 a.m. Monday, Feb. 6 at the Villa Capri Restaurant.

The goal for the drive will be determined from the applications for participation submitted to the board of directors at the meeting. Formal requests and budgets of the following organizations were received Tuesday night at the meeting, held in the Chamber of Commerce office on Commercial Street in Jensen Beach; Jensen Beach Samaritans (free ambulance), Jensen Beach Community Center, Rio and Jensen Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts, Rio and Jensen Girl Scouts, Martin County Retarded Children's Assn., Martin County Crippled Children & Adults, Martin County Animal Rescue League, Martin County Red Cross, Martin County Mental Health Association, Pioneer Occupational Center and Mars Hill Community Center.

Other officers elected include Mrs. Orlena Braun, second vice-president; Dr. A. J. Wiegand, third vice-president; retiring president Al Palmer, fourth vice-president; Mrs. Rick Carroll, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Zola Swarthout, recording secretary; and Al Wilson, treasurer.

Mrs. Hall announced the following chairmen for the drive: Businesses, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Chase and Dr. Wiegand; Special gifts, Dick Campbell and Zola Swarthout; Publicity, Ruth Bowman; Letter distribution, Jensen Beach Boy Scouts; Kickoff breakfast, Mrs. Rick Carroll; Victory Dance, Dick Campbell; Organizations, Mrs. Dick Hoke; Finance committee, Alex Wilson, Dick Campbell, Al Palmer and Mrs. Dick Hoke.

Nominations for officers for the 1967-68 year were made by Dick Campbell, chairman of the nominating committee. Members of the committee included Palmer, Mrs. Hoke and Mrs. Swarthout.

Directors elected at the meeting included Mrs. Willard Brady, Mrs. Edwin Miller, Mrs. Franklin Giles, William Delaney, Mrs. Jane Watson, Mrs. Freddie Mae Dorsey, Mrs. Lucille McElfresh, Mrs. Wiles Dailey, Mrs. Lloyd Chase, Mrs. Richard Richardson, Rex Walker, Mrs. Gus Friedrichs, Miss Marian Tschischeck, Mrs. Frances Hobbell, Mrs. Hazel Hartman, Mrs. Mardee St. Clair, Mrs. Mert Chase, Mrs. Edna Robbins, Mrs. Kitty Robertson, Richard E. School Board Okays Future Planning Survey

Over 100 persons attended the first regular session of the Martin County School board when it met Tuesday night with new board members, new chairman, and a new night-meeting time.

In a 3-2 vote in which the new members voted as a block, the board tabled, for possibly a month, all moves to adopt further integration plans. They cited lack of adequate information, the desire to discuss needs with a representative of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare; and the possibility all board members will be better informed after a two-day orientation conference scheduled for Thursday and Friday at Tallahassee, as reasons for delay.

However, the board unanimously accepted a suggestion made by the Martin County Taxpayers' Association that George Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn., through its division of surveys and field services, be invited to conduct a complete survey of the school system.

The taxpayers' association offered $1,000 towards the cost of the survey which may be $12,500. The board accepted the offer and agreed to invite the college, which made similar surveys in Dade and Duval Counties, to do a study here, probably covering such major areas as social-economic background, legal control, administration, organization, curriculum and teaching in both elementary and secondary schools, teacher personnel, school plant, pupil transportation, finance, taxation and business affairs.

It was pointed out that questions such as the need for a technical high school, with vocational and agricultural training, plus other studies, would lead to better answers to all manner of questions being raised by the public as well as board members. Reports will be made public.

An advisory group probably will be named by April, it was indicated after a report by Mrs. Marion Rockwood, the school department's representative, on the 24-county Florida Educational and Research Development Council. The board voted to continue as a member, and agreed to eventually adopt a plan by which a 15-member local lay-professional council would work on long-range plans in many phases of school planning.

At the suggestion of Homer Wall, Indiantown member, the board voted to require the school architect to provide plans to members for study 30 days in advance of advertising for bids.

The board voted to go ahead with construction of four new classrooms at Martin County High School, and a four-room addition, including administrative suite, library and two classrooms at Hobe Sound Elementary School. The plans will be studied carefully.

A motion by Frank DeStefano to phase out Murray High School, making Martin County High the county's sole high school, got a second from chairman Joe Greenlees who first vacated the chair, turning the gavel over to Mrs. Jean Murfin, vice-chairman, temporarily.

When it was tabled, the topic of what to do about three junior high schools was dropped. After a long discussion, a motion to district the county's elementary schools also was tabled.

Members of the board said the Peabody College survey, which would take about six months, would provide the answer. However, the 1967-68 integration schedule must be submitted in a shorter time.

Plan New Plant

J. H. Bruner, member of the firm of K & B Corp. of Stuart, which is constructing the Hoosier Metal Products, Inc., plant on U.S. 1 immediately south of the Stuart city limits, said K & B has been underwriting the bonding for the new plant. Preliminary arrangements for the construction to house a satellite industry in the Hoosier company are under way.

Bruner also said the company for an additional plant area of 10,000 square feet had been signed.

The new addition to the local industrial scene would be Homecomb Production, Inc., of which Robert F. Roberts is president. Roberts is now located in the Indianapolis area but wants a plant near Stuart.

Bruner said a 60 x 70 foot building, where high temperature heat processing of metals would be done, is being discussed. The building would be of metal because of the high temperatures involved.

Hoosier is a manufacturer of high-temperature resistance major components for jet engines, for which K & B is nearing completion of a new plant fronting on 200 feet of U.S. 1. Hoosier is expected to go into production around Feb. 1.

Emil V. Gariati, president of Hoosier, a Gas City, Ind., firm, said in December he expected his firm would attract other light industries employing eight or ten men to act as subcontractors and suppliers for Hoosier.

There were indications that Honeywell was one of these satellites.

Notice To Winter Visitors

When you arrive in Martin County, please register with the Chamber of Commerce, check in at the Post Office, and notify The Mirror of your local address. Make yourself known to us!

Cases Point To Register

Two local cases involving the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce, and the need for winter visitors to register with the chamber office, were pointed up this week by Reg Walker, Chamber secretary-manager.

In one case, a visitor by the name of May Pringle was being sought by the state police, who had an important message for him. In the other, a pension check for Thomas Fowler was found, but the Chamber manager could not find Fowler to give him the check.

Residents are asked by the Chamber to register their address in the Chamber office on Commercial Street so that they may be located to receive messages that might come to them through the Chamber.

Rogers Cites Benefits Of Oceanographic Research

Local research possibilities in the general field of oceanography were cited by U. S. Rep. Paul G. Rogers Wednesday night at a membership drive meeting of Florida Oceanographic Society, held in Stuart.

Introduced by Stephen Schmidt, director of the Science Museum and Planetarium of Palm Beach, and president of FOS, Rep. Rogers pointed to erosion, wave action, weather control, and air-sea actions as the research possibilities.

He then outlined the potential fields of study and the benefits to be derived in what he described as the third of the great ages of exploration.

Rep. Rogers predicted waning expenditures in the space field in favor of increased appropriations of government funds in the study involving depths of the seas. He cited the need for many more scientists and technicians in oceanography, pointing out that this country has less than half of either in use now.

"The United States must push into leadership. That's one reason why I'm so delighted to see your society organized and showing leadership in this area," he said.

There is strong competition for oceanographic facilities in the country, he pointed out citing California where the Scripps laboratories are active; Massachusetts where the Woods Hole facilities are well established; even the Virgin Islands, as competitive for the research bases being planned for Florida.

Rep. Rogers predicted sea grant colleges, to speed training of personnel; increased numbers and sizes of oceanographic departments of companies now mainly involved in the aerospace field, and increased governmental activities in the field, chiefly through the U.S. Navy.

His comments on fish flour, as yet not approved for general human consumption by the U.S. Public Health authorities because of fluorides fish bones produce in making the flour, brought chuckles from an audience of about 100 people, because of the recent City of Stuart fluoridation battle.

Fish farms, undersea defense commands, extensive new research in shrimp, crabs, money fish, lobsters, fish trapping, extraction of minerals from the sea, and other topical departments of oceanography received some comment by the Congressman.

The Florida Oceanographic Society was formed in Martin County in 1964, when James Rand donated his former home at 1212 Riverside Drive, and the Public Health Laboratory on East 7th St., as a nucleus of the society.

Since then, the Riverside Drive property has served as a stopping place for visiting scientists and students when in the area.

For the past two years, a continuing project has been the gambusia mosquito control studies by Ray Roberts and George Renvick, Martin County High School science teachers.

IT'S THIS WAY--Local Realtor Ralph Hartman leased over to say a word to Rep. Paul Rogers in the receiving line as County Commissioner Herb Bruner introduced a guest and Rogers said a hello. The receiving line was filled with old friends of the popular Congressman.

Lloyd and Ruth Osborne tell us that Ruth's two sisters and a brother spent the Xmas week-end with them. Lloyd is quite a fisherman. One day last week he came in with 70 pounds of bottom fish, fishing in the inlet. I know he keeps a record of his catches so I asked how much fish he had caught to date. In the last three months he has hauled in 1688 pounds of fish, all of which were bottom fish with the exception of about 30 blues, which goes to show that fishing chances around here are still tolerable.

While on my rounds on Saturday I noticed Eldridge Reynolds washing his car. Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds had just returned from a four week trip to Windy Hill Beach, S.C. where they had been visiting their daughter son-in-law and family. Reynolds said it was nice to be back here where it is warm. It was raining most of the time coming down and although car traffic was light trucks really threw the muddy water around.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Lock's daughter and son-in-law, Carol Martin, and children visited them over the holidays. The Martin family stayed at the Rod and Reel Motel and they had a ball swimming and playing shuffleboard, etc. Their daughter is teaching at the University of Marietta, Ga.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Paul are back from Ohio where they spent the holidays with their son, daughter-in-law and three grandchildren at Dayton. Their son is Major Wm. S.Paul and is stationed at the Patterson Airforce Base.

We are pleased to see Luther and Clara Mason back in the park. Luther looks quite good after his operation which was quite a serious one.

We hear Joe Regan is still suffering with his back but the Regns hope to leave Woodbury, Conn. by the 15th of this month.

Just a reminder to O.B. residents that the Federation of Mobile Home Owners dues are over due. Mrs. Ed Hackbart, 2 Arbovitae, Treasurer will be at home to receive dues Friday Jan. 13 from 10 to 12 a.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilder Weeks returned to their trailer home on Mango Jan. 6 after spending three weeks at their son's place in Greenfield, Mass. Their son has the Firestone Frigidair business and Wilder found plenty to do, helping his son with the business while there. He said they travelled by way of highway 301 and although the weather was cold, the road was good and they had no trouble.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Stover have rented Mrs. Pendorff's trailer on Banyan where they expect to stay for the balance of the winter. Stover says he worked for the Western Electric Company in Baltimore, Md. for 40 years and after retiring they moved to York, Maine, where they have a summer home.

They have been here a month now and Stover says he likes the park for the many forms of entertainment that are available but not compulsory. He likes the feeling that one can come and go as they please.

Walter Burr, also on Banyan, tells us that is the second year that he and Mrs Burr have been here, and they intend making it their home. He proudly showed me his Florida car license plate and informed me that he is now a registered Florida Citizen and intends to register as a voter in the Town of Ocean Breeze.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Miller are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Smith of the 'South Ten'. Mrs. Miller is Wilbur's sister. At present the Millers are touring South Florida. They will be returning to Union City, Ohio about Jan. 20.

"LILBIT LANE"--Lilbit Lane is now filled to capacity and looks real smart now that the grass and shrubs have taken hold.

Shellenburgers Have Blue Peanut Eaters

Mr. and Mrs. Shellenburger were reclining on their patio when we called Dec. 30. Shellenburger was holding a peanut between his thumb and first finger and one of several bush blue-jays would light on his hand and peck at the peanut till he had made a hole, then he would fly away with the kernel. Ialso tried it. It was fun. This same flock of jays used to visit the Boyces every day and accept peanuts from Mrs. Boyce. This trailer was unoccupied all last summer and we didn't see a sign of the birds as we passed so we presumed they had moved away. However we see they have found the same old spot and although the people are different, the birds, (Mrs. Boyce called them her blue birds) find the new people are just as generous with their peanuts.

This is the Shellenburgers second winter in Ocean Breeze and their first on West End Blvd. where they are living in the trailer home previously owned by the Boyces. Shellenburger was, previous to retiring, a line foreman for the Richfield, Pa., Power and Light Co. His latest acquisition is a bicycle which he is learning to ride.

Champagne For Breakfast

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hackbart returned from Westchester, Pa. Jan 2 after an enjoyable two weeks with their son and his wife and family. In reply to my question as to what they did or where they went, Ed replied, "We didn't go anywhere. We were snowed in."

All arently a near blizzard had dumped 8 inches of snow, and the high wind had made some big drifts that a car couldn't navigate. Ed said they did really enjoy the plane ride. They went first class and were really treated swell. As Ed put it, "We had champagne at every meal even for breakfast.

Blizzard Halts Air Travel

Shaff Williams tells us some of the difficulties connected with air-travel this past Christmas time. Mr. and Mrs. Louis Kraft wanted to visit Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fair on South 5th for Christmas so they booked return passage from Baltimore to Orlando way back last summer.

They drove from their home town of Mechanicsburg to Baltimore in a snow storm to catch the 6 p.m. flight, only to find it had been cancelled due to the blizzard. The airline company put them up at the Lord Baltimore Hotel and they finally managed to get air-borne at 3 p.m. Christmas Day. When they reached Orlando, friends of theirs drove them here. They had to be back by a certain time so their visit with the Fairs had to be cut to 4 or 5 hours, after which, they returned to Orlando and caught their plane and returned to - - another blizzard.

Richard Wren Dies

Richard Wren, after an extended illness, passed away Sunday, Jan. 8, at Spring Lake Convalescent Home, near Stuart. Dick and Ruby Wren have been residents of Ocean Breeze the past four years and were well known. Both Wrens were in show business and Dick was manager of a theatre in Detroit for many years. The Wrens have one son Dr. H. M. Wren, and two daughters, Mrs. J. Snowden and Mrs. George Hrisched

George Hrischenko; also they have eight grandchildren, five great grandchildren. Dick has three brothers and two sisters living in Canada. He was a member of the Lola Valley Masonic Lodge #583 for 30 years. Mr. and Mrs. Wren had been married 56 years and were members of the St. Pauls Presbyterian Church, at Lincoln, Mich. where he will be buried.

POTTED MUMS--The beautiful pot of chrysanthemums which grace the Park office porch was presented to the Hoke family for Christmas. More than forty blooms were counted on this one display.

Puppy Memories

BY Nellie Cook

I'm sure many of you will remember seeing the picture early last Fall of a little dog that Mr. and Mrs. Innis' son Richard sent to his parents from Germany. Dutchess, as they named her had accompanied Richard on many trips in his Volkswagon prior to coming to this country to make her home. She seems to be happy here and they had supposed she had forgotten Richard and her home in Germany, however, recently Richard sent his folks some things to keep for him till he returns to U.S.A. and among the things was a little teddy bear which he had hanging in his car for some time. Just to see what would happen Mrs. Innis held the bear out to Dutchess who promptly grabbed it and crawled under the davenport with it where she tried her best to keep it. Do you think it was a coincidence? Or, did she really remember Richard and her former home, and feel that in keeping the bear she was protecting his property? Or, was she just home-sick for her puppy memories? We will never know for sure I guess, but with Richard so far away I like to think she remembers her first owner and home.

Mr. and Mrs. George Millars' daughter, son-in-law Bert McConnell and grand-daughter were guests of the Millars for the holidays. McConnell is Inspector of the Police Department of Long Island. He was one of the party on the Royal Flush out of Salerno, one day last week when he caught these two specimens.

For the past six years Mr. and Mrs. Innis have corresponded with their son Richard via recorded tape, and during that time he has been stationed in Hawaii, Alaska, several of the United States as well as Germany, Turkey, Italy, and Greece. Just two weeks ago they received a tape sent from the D.E.W. Line in Alaska May 11, 1964. S omehow this tape had been lost in the mail for two and a half years. The wrapping, although it looked like it had been around, (to Quote Al) was still intact and the address readable.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jewsbury have arrived and their trailer is parked at the corner of Mango and Sixth. The Jewsbury's were in Mexico last winter and saw a lot of that country. Travelling as they did, some 10,000 miles. Jewsbury worked for the Ford Railway until 6 years ago when he retired. To our surprise, he told us the Ford Company own 300 miles of track.

Mrs. Cecile Harlow had the pleasure of the company of her daughter and her son-in-law Dr. Ray H. Flory from Milroy, Pa. for the holidays. While here Dr. Flory attended the Anesthetists Convention in Miami Beach.

THE ROBERTSON'S MOTOR COACH PHIL ROBERTSON AND DAUGHTER GAILIA

Motor Coaches Visit Ocean Breeze Park

Three family motor coaches were parked on the apron near Ocean Breeze for last week, a Streamline Motor Home, a Dodge Motor Home and the Motor Coach in the picture, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Robertson from Freemont, Ind. are the owners of this 30 x 8 foot coach. This mobile-home has all the facilities of the average travel trailer. It is independent of electric power as all appliances can use either gas or electricity. The large window space in the living quarters provides wonderful viewing opportunity for the travellers on both sides and front, and the sleeping quarters in the rear have four bunk style beds to accommodate Mr. and Mrs. Robertson and their son and daughter. The Robertsons have joined the National Family Motor Coach Association and intend to attend the National Rally at Bowling Green, Kentucky, this coming summer, probably in July. Their local organization also have their rallies about four times a year. This visit to Ocean Breeze is of necessity of short duration as the childrens education has to be considered.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Rowe and Mrs. Rowe's mother are new arrivals on Mango Dr. When they left Brant Lake, N.Y. the temperature was 10 below zero, so they find this 85 degree weather quite a change. The Rowes were in here on a visit the winter of 48-49 and notice a wonderful change. Rowe was in the boat building trade and likes fishing.

Gilbert and Dorothy Mercer went to Indianapolis for the Christmas holidays to visit their daughter and son-in-law and two small grandsons. Gilbert said they enjoyed their visit but the travelling was bad. Ice and snow with fog in the mountain areas and very heavy traffic took all the fun out of the journey.

Pat and Sylvia Rand of Bay Drive had the pleasure of their daughter and son-in-law's company over the holidays. Mr. and Mrs. D.C. Gist took full advantage of the nice weather to go to Key West, also one day the Gists went on a deep sea fishing trip out from Elvtera, when they caught 25 Kings. This was their first experience of Florida and they hated to leave, especially when they left the morning of Jan. 5 and a cold north wind was blowing as a premonition of what they had to go back to.

Tire Blows, Car Crash

Tuesday Jan. 3 Mr. and Mrs. Fred Maish and Mr. and Mrs. Orville Beem were on their way to do some shopping in West Palm Beach when they met with a bad accident. Fred was driving, when soon after passing the International Market, the right front tire blew out. Immediately the car swerved to the right, and struck a utility pole which stopped the car dead. Although they were travelling at about 30 miles per hour, the sudden stop threw the occupants of the car forward with such impact that many bones were broken. All four were taken to the hospital where it was found that Fred had four broken ribs and his wife Bernice had a splintered in her heel and many bruises. Orville Beem also had cracked ribs and his wife a broken arm. After treatment they were all discharged except Mrs. Beem. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Olinger drove down and brought them home. The car was very badly damaged.

As of Jan. 8, Mildred Fenwick reports that Mrs. Beem is some improved and today was in a wheel chair for the first time.

A Haid Full Of Sporting Tips

by Howard Lee Haid

Barbeque is something that should be enjoyed on a leisurely sunny afternoon, surrounded by friends imparting an atmosphere of just plain relaxing. That was the scene this past weekend at my house, and everyone attending seemed to have a real good and full time, at least I felt that way by bedtime, and the midnight snack I was planning was mighty tempting. As said by some old-timer..."Weren't hardly left teeth to fill my holler with".

The barbeque I'm speaking of was a postponement from New Year's Day when Rogers truly made a hasty hunting trip to the great woods in quest of the wiley deer. I had promised all my friends invited, the stay of barbeque would be well worth the wait for when I returned with a deer to fill the menu, my wife would provide eating unsurpassed. Sure enough, and true to my word and my surprise, I returned to white sandy land with deer, an exciting trip and a feeling of pride, for usually I wind up eating my own words rather than what I had promised.

I might add here, that any time one wants to assure a crowd pleaser for a barbeque, be sure to include some venison (if you're lucky) on the menu.

Preparing the barbeque was almost as much fun as providing the necessary fare and the satisfied looks on the guests' faces was well worth twice the effort. The deer meat was marinated overnight in my own recipe consisting of two cloves of garlic, one-half cup of vinegar, one-half cup of soy sauce, two teaspoons of olive oil, a half teaspoon of oregeno, salt and pepper, added to one gallon of water.

The following morning, the meat was placed on the grille over a very low fire containing hickory, and allowed to smoke slowly for about six hours. The fire was then increased to cooking temperature and the meat was cooked until done,...a real mouth-watering treat when it comes to venison. Also on the menu was some swamp cabbage, beans, chicken and ribs to add variety to suit anyone's palate, and that it did...

At this point I think a short bit about the hunting trip is in order, and it was a real thriller for me.

I left here Sunday afternoon, Jan. 1, about 3 p.m., in the company of E. C. Blackman and Lester Tucker, Blackman's brother-in-law, visiting from Georgia. We were to meet the rest of our party in Belle Glade at 6 p.m., and they would guide us to the camp site, which incidentally was inaccessable except by half-track. The rest of the party consisted of Luther C. W. and George Rhoden of Westbury Farms and Jake, Arlen and Frank Woodham of Okeechobee.

We arrived at our meeting place on time or a little before, and were still waiting at 8 p.m. Decisions! We'll make like Daniel Boone and go looking. Luck would have it,...we found a friendly native who knew the described spot and fortunately gave good directions. Finally, at about 10 p.m., we found our party, or they found us,...after we had been thoroughly inspected by the local wildlife officers, for somewhere in the night we had passed into the Loxahatchee Wildlife refuge.

Arriving at camp by means of the half-tracks, supper was still hot and waiting, and after a good meal and a few campfire yarns all settled down for the night. All that is, except me and one lowdown mean, ornery mosquito in there in one area of, and there was exactly just one, it had to pick on me. It was a tough turtle and after about one hour of hunting, I finally won,...and then it was the dawn.

Breakfast over and all the gear loaded on the track, we set out in quest of our quarry. The sight of that Martin hog area in the early morning hours defies description. It is absolutely beautiful and it makes one know there is

by Matt Moore

Those eagles are flying again at Martin County. Apple Holland eagled 4 for the second time recently hitting out his third shot, and Paul Hardwick made a 2 on new number 5 holing out his second shot with a 9 iron.

The Blitz Saturday was won by Kelly Childs, John Bateman, Ray Bliss, Dean Tooker. The score was 49.

The annual pro-am at Vero Beach was a big success. The weather was perfect both days. Dennis Rinaldi played with Bill Girard, professional from Sarasota, Fla. Their team score for 36 holes was 10 under par at 129, which just finished out of the money.

My team score was 132 which finished in the money. My partners were Paul Hardwick, from Stuart, Jack Blair and Ron Karlson from Vero Beach.

Ron Karlson, a nine handicapper, on the second day had all nine shots for nine pars and a birdie 2 on the fifth. He threw par 148 yards long, took a 4 iron and made a hole in one. He was 11 under par on the 9 holes. It was quite hard to cut a piece of with that string going, but Paul cut his slices and I cut his hooks and the total of 14 under and came of 88.

The first round of the handicap championship gets under way this week and with a good many buys in the first round as we had to use a bracket of 64 with only forty some odd players entered. The rules are posted on the bulletin board.

We use full difference in handicaps. Weekends have a little more to living than all the hustle and bustle we become accustomed to in our every day way of life. This particular area is alive with deer, and the sight of one bounding through the saw grass is worth the trip alone.

We rode all morning scaring up numerous does, and by noon had not had a shot at a buck. After a short lunch break, we resumed travel and at about 1 p.m. up popped our target, and success was ours. Meat for the table,...the barbeque, and the end of a successful hunt.

The end of another year and another season,...hear year, time permitting, I'll do it again, successful or not, for the feeling of the great outdoors cannot be denied.

Tigers Rebuffed By Boca Bobcats

Last Friday night's basketball game between Martin County High school Tigers and Boca Raton's Bobcats saw the Tigers go down to a 74-60 defeat after the Bobcats racked up a 22-8 lead early in the game.

After the first quarter, the Tigers managed to stay over the rest of the game, but the damage was already done. Martin closed the gap to 10 points several times but never caught the Boca team.

The loss dropped the Tigers to a 2-7 record overall and 1-1 conference play. Boca went into first place in the Eastern Division of the conference with a 4-0 conference record and 5-2 overall.

Bobby Gallivette led the Tigers in scoring with 19 points followed by 6 rebounds and 5 assists.

"I thought that we played pretty good as a team," said Gallivette. Tiger coach, Vince Allen, "but we let quarter breaks get us again."

Martin County's next game will be Friday, Jan. 13, when the Tigers will play Pahokee at home.

On Monday, Jan. 16, the Tigers will play Vero Beach another home game.

Jaguars Defeat John Carroll

The South Jaguars defeated John Carroll High 47-11 Friday night in the opening game of the season. The Jaguars controlled the game from the beginning, jumping out to an early lead and never relinquishing it.

Coach Allen said that the Jaguars are the strongest team they have had in the past few years. The Jaguars have a record of 1-0 for the season.

The Jaguars will play their next game on Jan. 13 at home against Fort Pierce Central.

"Corky" Hudson Elected President Of 1st National

D. S. "Corky" Hudson, Jr., 39, was elected president of First National Bank of Stuart on Tuesday.

First National, with assets today of more than $25,000,000, not including $6,000,000 assets in its Trust Department, was founded in 1933 as the Citizen's Bank of Stuart by D. S. "Denny" Hudson, retiring president. He was re-elected chairman by the board of directors at its annual meeting and will serve actively in that position.

"I am proud of the confidence placed in me and will do my best to continue the same sound policies of financing and service to the community which made this bank grow during my father's 34 years of leadership," said the new president.

"I have full confidence in the growth and expansion of Martin County," he continued. "As in the past, First National will always look to the future, expanding its services in advance to meet the needs of one of the fastest growing parts of Florida."

D. S. Hudson, founder of the bank on Feb. 13, 1933, just prior to Roosevelt's "Bank Holiday" and saw it grow to membership in the Federal Reserve System, recalled that "Corky" and a younger son, Dale, who is a vice-president, "earned their spending money as boys working in the bank."

D. S. Hudson, Jr., began his formal association with First National upon his discharge from the Army in March, 1954, after serving 18 months with the 45th Division overseas in the Korean War.

Born at West Palm Beach in 1928, he is a graduate of Martin County High School and Bolles School at Jacksonville, attending the University of Florida until he joined the Army.

He married the former Anne Pittman in 1954, and they have four children, Dennis III, 11; Dana Lin, 9; Suzanne Marie, 6; and Andrew Benton, 3.

His activity in civic affairs includes being a past president of Stuart Rotary Club, member of board of directors of American Red Cross, treasurer of Pioneer Occupational Center and treasurer of the National Foundation of the March of Dimes. He is a member of St. Mary's Episcopal Church.

For the last four years he has been senior vice-president of First National, and in the eight preceding years, he served "in just about every position in the bank," making loans, collecting notes and serving as chief of notes and chief of loan departments, installment and real estate.

"He has had just as rigorous training in this bank as if he had not been a member of the family. He has had the experience and has shown the ability to take this post," said his father.

The retiring president looked back on the steady growth and expansion of the institution he has led. "Times were really tough here when we opened back in 1933," he recalled.

Those were the days before federal deposit insurance, and the community had been without any bank after two had failed.

The bank opened with $18,250 capital and in the first year made loans of only $6,536. But in a year its deposits had grown to $126,000, even in that era's low interest rate of one per cent--and its growth has never stopped.

The first expansion from its original location at Osceola Ave. and St. Lucie Ave. was Jan. 1, 1938, when it moved into modern quarters at the corner of Osceola and Osceola (now Colorado) Circle. Growth brought two more expansions in 1946 and 1953. The bank became a National Bank Aug. 30, 1958. The big move into its home at U.S. 1 and Colorado was made in the fall of 1961.

"We thought then that we had planned for at least 10 years in advance," said D. S. Hudson, "but Martin County's growth is catching up with us."

The impressively designed home of First National, with its Florida wilderness murals by Joy Postle and attention compelling pylon, is termed one of the most modern banking homes for varied services in the nation.

"But what we are proudest of," said the retiring president, "is the confidence placed in us by our more than 15,000 patrons, I thank all of you for that confidence in the past and know that it will be merited by First National's new leadership.

"The momentum has been established, I believe that the future holds even greater progress for Martin County than I have seen," he concluded.

Jail Conditions Will Be Subject For Grand Jury

Subpoenas were issued to county officials Friday, asking their appearance before the newly picked grand jury.

Those invited to appear were county commission chairman Jack Saunderson, commissioners J. H. Bruner and Frank A. Wachs. Also county engineer Fred L. Bell, Sheriff Roy C. Baker, Deputy Sheriff Tom Wyatt, and possibly others.

Speculation was rampant until it was learned that records of the county jail, its floor plan, plus information on the courthouse were among the details to be brought to the grand jury session by some of the officials.

James Humphrey, 28-year old foreman of the grand jury, declined all comment. He learned he could say nothing, after checking with Circuit Court Judge C. Pfeiffer Trowbridge.

Evidence on jail conditions will be presented to the jury by assistant state attorney Spencer Gilbert.

It was learned Friday that complaints had been made, although the source was not identified.

Criticized were dirty conditions in the jail, poor food, overcrowding in some areas during certain times of the year, lack of office space both in the jail and in the courthouse offices of the sheriff.

The jail has been under investigation previously, and additions have sometimes resulted.

Powers 'Teed Off'

Work Session Plans Golfer Settlement

A "work session" Tuesday as a prelude to a meeting set last Friday for tonight (Wednesday) to settle the future relations of the county and the Martin County Golf and Country Club, was attended by all five members of the county commission, three representatives of the Golf Club, county engineer Fred L. Bell and county attorney Dean Tooker. The latter two, with county commission chairman Jack Saunderson and Tiner Powers, were members of the original sub-committee named last summer by ex-commission chairman Frank A. Wachs.

Powers said he didn't know anything about the meeting until Tuesday morning, but that he knew about an offer being made by the golf club committee last Friday.

He said he had been away since Friday, returned upset over reports that the whole question was to be settled Tuesday.

"The meeting had been set for Wednesday night, the last time I heard about it, I thought we had an obligation to the press and the public to do what we told everyone we planned to do last Friday," said Powers after the session, which started at 1:15 p.m. in Tooker's office, ending at 2:30 p.m.

"Wednesday night's meeting is still on," Powers added, saying he was not happy about failure to provide a contract between the county and the club, failure to take into consideration the club has been "sponsored" to the tune of some $83,000 in recent years, and that no provisions had been made for future financial returns to the county taxpayers.

From various individuals who attended the meeting, it was learned that Tooker and Bell were handed a letter at about 12 noon in which details of an offer by the golf club officials to the county were outlined.

At the meeting, as it was finally set up, in addition to the named county officials, were: Dr. Dennis A. Rinaldi, president of the Golf Club; Jean Wilchester, and Alvin S. Andrews, treasurer of the Club and county tax collector.

In brief, the club offered to suspend further construction on the course (which has been done), to improve conditions of the course (now being done), to improve drainage, remove dead trees, clear out underbrush (now under consideration).

Also, to provide preferential treatment to local taxpayers through issuance of a $10 card entitling the holder to pay $3 a round for playing (18-holes). (The Club has already started this.) Membership rates start at $100 a year, and transient fees for 18-holes are $6.

Budget procedures to show that the club was operating on a pay-as-you-go basis were promised by the Club, and better liaison between the Club and commission was promised.

The Club agreed to take full responsibility for management and maintenance of the golf club, including payroll and insurance, but asked in return the loan of county equipment and personnel for course work.

The Club officials said plans for new construction at the course has been halted, and that plans for discharge of the course architect (already done) and the hiring of a competent greens keeper would be carried out.

Powers, who consistently has said he favored a contract under which the county could "get a fair return on its investment," in the course, which is owned by the taxpayers, said he felt some agreement should be set up whereby a trial was permitted, but he said he felt all of the taxpayers were entitled to a fair return on the $250,000 investment in improved real estate.

It was brought out at the session that an act of the Legislature could be asked to permit the county to lease the course to the golf club as a non-profit corporation.

Saunderson said after the meeting he felt the commission would ask for the legislation, should agreement be reached Wednesday night.

At least one other commissioner said he favored such a move providing the income from the golf course were used to improve and add other park facilities in the county.

Saunderson said he agreed with this thinking.

It was also revealed that the county's present lease is illegal and is only for land under the ninth and 18th holes.

The press and the public, specifically, will be barred from the meeting set for tonight, according to Saunderson. A press "conference" will be held at 9:30 a.m. Thursday, and according to a majority of the commissioners who had anything to say following Tuesday's meeting, the entire project would be turned over to the commission as a whole at its Jan. 31 meeting.

Complete Text Of Constitution

This week The Mirror begins the complete text of a proposed new Florida Constitution being studied by the State Legislature.

It is reprinted by The Mirror so area Floridians will have an opportunity to follow the historic debate over major changes in the basic law of the state.

If approved by the State Legislature, the document will be submitted to voters of the state for ratification or rejection. Three-fourths of both Senate and House must concur in order for the election to be held on an emergency basis April 18, as proposed by Gov. Claude Kirk.

If the proposal wins that margin of approval in the Legislature, the effective date of the constitution would be July 1 if voters also approve it.

Either way the proposal represents more than a routine attempt to overhaul Florida's Constitution since Florida's present, much-amended Constitution was adopted in 1885.

Company Seeks To Expand

Barnett R. Ehrlich, doing business as Bee Line Bus Co., has asked for a certificate of public convenience and the necessary authority to increase services of his bus line in the area.

Ehrlich seeks to run a round-trip-a-day from Indian River, St. Lucie and Martin Counties to the West Palm Beach dog track, picking up and dropping passengers en route.

He also asks permission to operate between Martin and Brevard County, making pick-ups and drops en route in St. Lucie and Indian River Counties as well, as a service to the Cape Kennedy Missile facility. His bus would connect with the NASA tour of the base.

At present, Ehrlich's bus runs daily between Jensen Beach and Stuart, except on Sundays. It is also used as a school bus on one run.

A hearing has been set for Jan. 26 at 1 p.m. at the courthouse, according to B. C. Stanley, executive secretary of the Public Service Commission.

United Fund Gets Rolling

The Jensen Beach-Rio United Fund got its way with an organizational meeting ... shows what can be done with enthusiasm, ...rmination and public response. Another ... in the strong chain of community co...ration was forged with the naming of ... Charles Hall of Rio as president of ...organization.

...lo has always been an important part ... the United Fund drive but has never ... a president. That ended last week as ... Hall, a tireless community worker, ...t president of the Jensen P.T.A. and ... years an important part of the United ...d, was tapped as UF leader for 1967. ...illard Bowman, drive chairman for the ...ing year, has served for three years ... the United Fund, and has many years ...perience in civic work, including having ...ded a Cancer and March of Dimes drives ...Philadelphia. Bowman brings an organiza...al experience to the United Fund that will ...e long-lasting links of strength into the ...r-expanding chain of United Fund activi... in Jensen Beach and Rio.

The fund drive has almost become automatic in its appeal to local citizens. The one-drive element, in which local residents are asked to give to support some twelve different organizations with one donation, has appeal and brings immediate response. The fact that the Jensen Beach-Rio United Fund has made its goal each year of the eight years it has been in operation speaks well of the popularity of the one-drive plan.

Jensen and Rio can be very proud of the United Fund. It serves as a model for other communities, and its officers have assisted in the formation, in the past year, of a new United Fund campaign in Jupiter. This kind of community cooperation can only succeed.

We wish every success to the 1967 drive of the Jensen Beach-Rio United Fund, and we urge all citizens to respond generously when their neighbors call on them to give the United Way with one check for all organizations participating in the drive.

We salute Mrs. Hall, Will Bowman, and all the active community workers who are helping to make this good work succeed.

Small Convention Center

...Martin County can look to a bonanza of ...iness by encouraging small conventions in ... communities, and some local people are ...g something about trying to get more of ...h meetings for the county.

...ast week, county engineer Fred Bell an...nced that there would be a meeting of some ... engineering and surveying experts in the ...nty in March. Recently, The Mirror ac...red the 1967 state convention of the Flor... Press Association for our area. The Jen... Beach and Stuart Lions Clubs acquired a ...trict meeting a month ago, bringing several ...dred Lions to visit here.

...f more and more civic clubs, professional ...ieties and governmental agencies would ...g their state groups to meet in the county ... business activity would mount considerably.

The dollars that people spend, especially in a more-than-one-day meeting, can be truly a bonanza to local motels, restaurants and shops. The business would also be plus-business, for it is proven that every conventioneer spends at least $40 a day while in a convention.

We have the facilities to hold small conventions in Martin County, and there are many such conventions, district meetings and seminars which can be acquired by local clubs and agencies.

We might add that many of the visitors come back on personal vacations or weekends after a visit to sun-and-pleasure-filled Martin County. It is a big business, this convention boosting, and we hope that more and more local groups bring more and more meetings to the county.

Your Florida Constitution

This is the first installment of the complete text of the proposed, new Florida Constitution, now under study by the Florida Legislature. This document will provide the political structure under which Florida citizens will live, replacing the outmoded, often-amended document we use today. It is the responsibility of all citizens to study, know and comment on this constitution.

Part 1 of a series.

PREAMBLE

We, the people of the State of Florida, being grateful to Almighty God for our constitutional liberty, in order to secure its benefits, perfect our government, insure domestic tranquility, maintain public order, and guarantee equal civil and political rights to all, do ordain and establish this constitution, and adopting and recognizing the supremacy of the principles stated in the following

DECLARATION OF RIGHTS

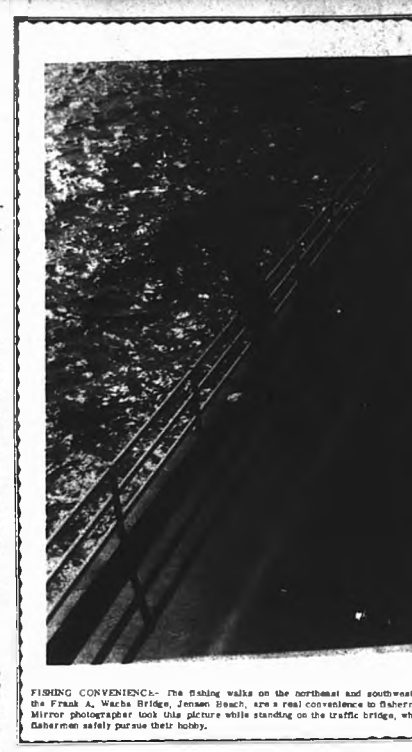
Section 16. Section 23. SOVEREIGN IMMUNITY--Sovereign immunity from liability in tort or contract shall not exist.



FISHING CONVENIENCE- The fishing walks on the northeast and southwest sides of the Frank A. Wacha Bridge, Jensen Beach, are a real convenience to fishermen. The Mirror photographer took this picture while standing on the traffic bridge, while these fishermen safely pursue their hobby.

Stuart Chamber Warns Businesses On Fake Bills

The Business Ethics Committee of Stuart Chamber of Commerce issued a warning to local firms concerning yellow forms being received here which may be mistaken for bills. The form is headed "Please return this card with your check."

The one turned into the Chamber says "$66.00 Annual Rate, Pay this Amount." The business classification and name are typed on the left, and on the right the invoice-type card states, "Make check payable to - Classified Business Directory, P. O. Box 24831, Los Angeles, Calif., 90024."

Three California companies have mailed these forms into this area during the past 18 months, according to the Chamber. The first time, three local firms mistook them for bills for advertising with a firm which annually publishes a local directory, or for their telephone company yellow pages listing.

Actually, facts regarding the model are printed on the reverse side of the current mailing of forms, but not on the face.

Eight standing committees reported at the Jan. 12 meeting of the Chamber board of directors.

A preliminary draft of a color brochure was presented by Jack Sailer, tourism chairman. Further study will be made.

Vernon Chance and John L. McCulley attended a recent meeting of the Okeechobee Waterway Association.

The Beautification Committee will discuss restoration communication competition with the Garden Club of Stuart. Monthly awards are currently being given business firms under a new program of the Retail Merchants Association.

Chamber president Allyn Waterman will assume chairmanship of the Education Committee due to John Ball's move from the city. The group will proceed with a survey of needs of local firms for technically trained employees. The board voted that a representative of the Education Committee attend meetings of Martin County School Board.

Mrs. Rosaleen Murray, manager of the Chamber, will attend a meeting of the Florida Travel Council in Miami.

G.E.D. Tests

The 27th series of General Educational Development (GED) tests will be given Jan. 23 through 27, according to E. B. Horton, coordinator of Adult Education in the Martin County school system.

The tests will be given at the Instructional Center, 500 E. Ocean Blvd., Stuart, beginning at 7 p.m. each night.

"There are five parts to the examination. One section will be given each night and each test will take approximately two hours to complete," said Horton.

The materials covered in the tests will be equal to the materials studied in the senior year of high school. The five sections include science, mathematics, literature, English and social studies.

Legal residents of Florida, 20 years or older, who own a home or business, or have filed manifestation of domicile with the clerk of circuit court, are eligible to take the examination providing they have at least one credit in American History or government or civics.

About 50 county adults are enrolled in high school review programs preparatory to taking the tests. Enrollment in review courses is not mandatory, Horton said.

Some adults taking the courses may elect to continue with studies and take the tests in May, he said.

Filing of complete application forms should take place prior to Jan. 23 at the Adult Program office.

Our Problems Are Solved?

It is good to have an objective reporter like Glenn Laney of The Miami Herald on the scene here in Martin County. He brought something to light recently that we might be able to develop into a good thing for the county as a whole. Looked at in an objective manner, we might even begin a master plan for the consolidation of Martin into a business-like governmental unit.

Laney proposed, through his "Off The Record" column, that Martin County give the south county area to Palm Beach County. In that way the county wouldn't have to pay the $6,000 a year fire protection bill to Jupiter's Fire District, and the school board here would be rid of a transportation problem of 25 miles each way for school children.

We think it is a great idea, and propose that it be expanded so that it be more feasible.

First of all, Indiantown is some 20 miles west of Stuart, Port Mayaca is 30 miles west, and Dunlap Camp area is 25 miles away. If we took that section (and we might as well include all lands west of the turnpike) and gave it to Okeechobee County, then most of the children would be able to go to school out in Okeechobee and we wouldn't have to haul them the 60 miles per day from Port Mayaca to Stuart and back.

Then, why stop at the south county line area? We all know what a problem the Murray High School is. If we gave Palm Beach County the land all the way up to Fort Salerno, then the school board wouldn't have to solve the problem at all. It would be passed to the Palm Beach County School Board.

Also, you know what a problem it is getting across the Roosevelt Bridge early in the morning when the charter boats keep the bridge tied up. Well, we could give all that area north of the St. Lucie River, including Sewall's Point and Hutchinson Island, to St. Lucie County. Goodness, think of the problems that would save all governmental agencies.

That would leave the City of Stuart and Palm City in Martin County, and give the taxpayers a compact place to put money.

How's that for solving the problems of the county?

I suggested this plan to the people in Indiantown, but they laughed and turned it down. Now, that wasn't very far-sighted of them. I also suggested the plan to the south-county-line people, but they don't want to pay the high taxes in Palm Beach County, so they turned me down there, too.

I even suggested it to the people in downtown Jensen Beach. Funny, I couldn't understand them. They just laughed; and now when I see them they keep saying, "ho, ho, ho,"....and it isn't even Christmas.

I think I'll just abandon my plan for saving the world and get back to writing "mickey-mouse" stories for The Mirror, Press and Courier.

Wacha Works On Swap Of River For Beaches

Commissioner Frank A. Wacha will continue working on a plan whereby county-owned land on the Indian River side of ...er side of Hutchinson Island would be swapped for 100-foot strips from A-1-A to the ocean beach, at the suggestion of the Martin County Commissioners.

The county-owned strips would guarantee access to the beach, which is in the public domain from the dunes to the water by Federal law.

The county owns island land from river to beach, including 1,648 feet at Jensen Beach, 1,150 at Stuart beach, 760 feet at the House of Refuge, and at a street end at Yacht Club Beach. However, access to the beach between these can be made only by crossing private property or walking miles along the beaches.

In Martin County, the island is about seven miles long.

Martin County owns about four miles of causeway beach on the Indian River. Land to be swapped would be river-side stretches of the ocean to beach stretches, west of A-1-A.

In other business:

Contracts were awarded to low bidders on the new addition to the courthouse. Percy Johnson was lump-sum low bidder, at $3,858, on electrical work, about $1,000 under the next highest bidder. The job will be completed in 35 days, he said.

Krauss & Crane was low bidder on air conditioning work at $4,987, about $150 lower than the next bid.

Fred A. Hein was low at $1,696, by about $200, on ceiling work to be done in 10 days, subject to time to do the wiring and air conditioning work.

Bids on the Lavi M. Johnson Agricultural building air conditioning and heating were tabled for the second time "for further study".

Commercial Cooling, Rio, was announced as low bidder, however, at $3,592, about $1,000 under the next bid.

Florida Contractors Supply, West Palm Beach, was low bidder on a dragline bucket, at $914.62, about $12 lower than the only other bidder.

Commissioner Tiner Powers reported a request by the board of library trustees that the commissioners recommend for appointment to the library board by Gov. Claude Kirk, Mrs. Pickett Warren, William L. Ong, and James A. Garver. Mrs. Warren would replace William Crary, whose term expired Jan. 18; Ong would replace Dr. W. Ira Williams who has resigned; and Garver would continue for another term.

Donald Armstrong, local architect, was named by Commissioner J. H. Brunner to the county zoning board to replace Richard Fryer who moved out of District 2.

Brunner also re-appointed Fred Rhodes to the board of adjustment, and Russell Wiley, his alternate.

Commissioner J. W. Hussey, District 4, named Wilson Matheson to replace Ernest Higbee on the board of adjustment. Higbee asked to be replaced, Hussey said.

Powers was named to represent the commissioners at Tallahassee Jan. 31 at a conference on conservation. Reports will be turned over to the state for use in the U.S. Congress.

STUDY SESSION--A "buzz" group of parents and youngsters discussed ways parents can increase the study ability of students at the Jensen Beach Elementary School PTA meeting Monday night. This "buzz" group was headed by Mrs. Wallace Fletcher, rear left.

MARTIN COUNTY WELCOME WAGON CLUB--Shown here at the Martin County Welcome Wagon Club luncheon held at Manatee Marina Restaurant Tuesday are the following officers of the Club, not in order: Mrs. Alice Gumbs, president; Connie Smith, Gold Coast Club representative; Ruth Benson, vice-president, Madlyn Rehnlser, treasurer; Ann Millan, secretary; Deelma LaForge, corresponding secretary; Mildred Dolan, historian; and Mrs. Helen Ditzler, area supervisor. Fifty newcomers attended the luncheon.

INTENSE--This very intense group shows the earnest discussion that took place in this "buzz" session which talked on the way children can best utilize time at the Jensen Beach Elementary School PTA meeting Monday night. The session was directed by Mrs. Ben Fulton, right, facing camera.

Parcel Post Rates Increase

New rates and a new system for identifying parcel post zones went into effect Jan. 15, as provided in legislation signed into law by President Johnson Sept. 20, 1966, according to Mrs. Charlotte Rynski, clerk-in-charge of the Jensen Beach Post Office.

The new rates will range from 40 cents for a three-pound parcel destined for local delivery, to 60 cents for the same parcel to zone 3 (150 to 300 miles), to $1.05 to zone 8 (over 1,800 miles). The new zoning method will also apply to air parcel post, catalogs, and to publishers who pay zone rates on the advertising portion of their periodicals.

Mrs. Rynski noted that all parcels mailed between post offices within the West Palm Beach sectional center can be determined by the first three digits of 334 in the zip code.

The new rates are expected to provide an additional $74 million annually for the post office department. The later size and weight increases will add another $32 million a year. The additional revenue is to help keep the department within four per cent of costs on parcel post as the law requires.

Use of zip code will make it easier to mail packages as the mail clerk can quickly determine the proper zone, and thus the rate, for the package, she said. The zones are based on the distance a parcel travels between the 552 sectional centers in the country.

The rate increase will average about ten cents a parcel. Starting July 1, the law provides for a series of size and weight increases on packages mailed between first-class offices. Jensen Beach is a second-class office. The size and weight increases will be in five annual steps, the last coming July 1, 1971.

By consulting a simple chart, the zone can be readily identified because the first three numbers of the zip code represent the sectional center. This replaces a method in which a directory often had to be consulted to locate the proper zone for each of the nation's 33,000 post offices.

BETTER HEALTH--Discussing the ways to better health in a "buzz" session Monday night at the Jensen Beach Elementary School PTA meeting were these local mothers. This session was directed by Mrs. Charles Hall, right.

School Plans May Be Revived

Plans for the recent addition to the Palm City School are being studied by Martin County school board members who have indicated a desire to use the blueprints for an addition to Hobe Sound School, according to Supt. of Schools Thomas L. Crook. The members inspected the Palm City plant recently.

"They liked the layout, and suggested changes were comparatively minor," he said.

The board, at the Jan. 10 meeting, had discussed reduced architects fees in instances where blueprints and plans could be used in more than one construction project.

Crook said the reduction in architects' fees would be studied before the February meeting.

Donald Armstrong, official school architect, is paid an annual retainer plus six per cent on construction projects for which he is designated the architect.

Recently the schools have used Pryor and Rosmarin, local architects, on several projects.

In Palm Beach County, architects are paid as low as two per cent when plans are used over again.

Martin County High School Tigers were routed Monday night by a consistently-winning Vero Beach basketball team. Vero's Indians rolled to a 109-60 victory over the Tigers.

Charles Greenlees led the Martin scorers with 24 points, 16 in the first half. Second high scorer was Mark Hopkins with 10.

This was the ninth win in ten games for the Indians, and the third time this year they exceeded the 100-point mark.

Harry Hoke Is Elected First Federal President

Harry H. Hoke, mayor of the Town of Ocean Breeze Park, and a Martin County pioneer since 1938, was elected president and chairman of the board of First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Martin County last week. The election of Hoke took place at an organizational meeting of the board of directors of First Federal, following the annual meeting.

Hoke was one of the founders of First Federal Savings and has served on the board since the association was chartered in 1956.

One of the most active community leaders in Jensen Beach, Harry Hoke arrived in Martin County in 1938 to establish what was then known as "Hoke's Camp", a travel trailer community which, at its busiest, could handle 38 trailers. His had been a history of a nomad, for he had been a fair and exposition "decorator", traveling throughout the western part of the United States decorating floats, businesses and buildings for centennials, fairs and expositions.

Once in Jensen Beach with his wife, Queena, and two sons, Gene and Dick, Hoke set out to build what is now the largest privately owned mobile home community in the State of Florida. Run with the close knit cooperation only a family operation can sustain, the park has become a haven for retired and semi-retired families, and there are now over 550 mobile home families at Ocean Breeze.

The key to the entire operation has been the showmanship of Harry Hoke and Sons. Spearheaded by Hoke, who is as tireless a worker as he is an organizer, classes were set up in art, hobbies, ceramics, shuffle boards and square and round dancing. "I believed then, as I believe now," said Hoke, "that our families need and wants broad base of planned recreation, and the response has been enthusiastic."

Following World War Two, Hoke became ill, and during his recuperative period he spend his time organizing the first Indian River Shuffleboard League, bringing the best in coastal Florida's shufflers together for competition. Hoke also installed the shuffleboard section of Ocean Breeze Park and enthused the residents to such a point that they began to learn shuffling in earnest. Ocean Breeze Park shufflers have won the trophy at least in the league every year since its formation, now 18 years.

Harry Hoke has a paternal feeling for the people in his community. He worries when one of another is ill and has taken care of many who needed care. It was his interested attention to the problems of all Sainted Cemetery that brought it out of a state of disrepair into a beautiful memorial park. Hoke has been president of the cemetery association and is now in the process of turning it over to a church group for operation.

Hoke also saw the need for and promoted a free ambulance service for the residents of the Town of Ocean Breeze Park. Now residents have their own ambulance for use of park families at no cost, driven by trained volunteer drivers.

When the Town of Ocean Breeze Park was formed, Harry Hoke was elected its first mayor, and he has held that office ever since. He has never been opposed for office.

When the board members of First Federal Savings of Martin County elected Harry Hoke its chairman, they also selected as first vice-president R. V. Johnson, and named James A. Garvey executive vice-president and managing officer, Paul J. Hennings treasurer and assistant secretary, and Frank G. Ghiotto, Jr., secretary. In addition to Hoke, members of the board include Garvey, Johnson, Clifford M. Luce, William E. Owens, Andrew O. Fittman, Jr., and Dr. Paul O. Thomas.

Board Denies US 1 Zoning Changes

Martin County Planning and Zoning Board re-elected Howard Lee Haid to the chair when it met Thursday night. Frank Forsberg was re-elected as vice-chairman and Donald Armstrong was named a new member, replacing Richard Pryor who resigned.

The board recommended a change from R-3 to R-3-A for a large area near the intersection of SR 76 and Indian Ave., owned by Gale Kiplinger now, to permit establishment of a mobile home park.

No action was taken on a Booker Park trailer park in the absence of the engineer who worked on the plans.

North U.S. #1 will remain unchanged as a C-1 commercial category by unanimous vote of the board. However, the board announced that should any change be warranted in the near future, it should be requested by virtue of a petition, submitted to the board by a majority of property owners on U.S. #1, requesting a new public hearing on the matter.

The zoning board had been requested by the county commission to restudy the area to determine if a change was in order.

Mrs. Marjorie Homlar of Port Salerno was told to get a petition signed by neighbors before requesting a zoning change from top residential to multiple-family dwelling use on sewer lots across from one of the fish houses. Her request has been pending for several moths.

Local VFW Formation Is Planned Here

The formation of a post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars is under way in Jensen Beach, according to Cecil Branford, the past commander of the Ft. Pierce area. Branford and Joe Svec, Eden resident, are both life members of the veterans' organization and are contacting prospective members.

Branford said that the post will be the third in the county, there being a post in Indiantown and one in Stuart.

Membership in the Veterans of Foreign Wars is open to all former servicemen who served outside the United States during the great wars. Included are veterans of World War I, World War II, the Korean War and Viet Nam War.

Membership, according to Branford, is open to persons "who served honorably as an enlisted man or officer in any foreign war, insurrection, or expedition for which service a campaign medal is authorized".

Persons interested in assisting in the formation of the post in Jensen Beach can contact Branford or Svec.

Chamber Reports Active Year At General Meeting

The Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce reported almost 6,000 pieces of mail received, and 4,500 pieces of mail sent out in a year-end report to the general membership at a meeting Monday night at the Community Center in Jensen Beach.

The progress report for the year, made by Chamber manager Reg Walker, showed 3,893 pieces of mail, which included many inquiries, received, and 4,597 letters and cards mailed from the office in 1966.

The office was busy, with 3,225 visitors asking information, and 3,068 telephone calls.

The Chamber also distributed over 8,400 maps and mailed 10,467 fishing guides to prospective tourists.

President Al Palmer reported that 1,558 visitors were registered by the Florida Development Commission at entry points into Florida as stating they were coming to Jensen Beach. He also told of many activities in the past year to assist in gaining tourist business for the county and in make the community a better place in which to live.

In other business, members of the Chamber heard local residents:

Complain about speeding on SR 707;

Offer a clarification of the "no fishing" signs on Jensen Beach Bridge by explaining that fishing was to be from the water-level fishing walks;

Ask that local visitors be reminded that only one fishing rod is permitted by state law on the bridges by any one person;

Heard that fishermen complain about the commercial netting fishing, and an explanation by one resident that the complaints were unfounded;

Heard about the need for a boat ramp on the south side of the Jensen Beach Causeway;

Spent time discussing the need for more tourist activities for "fishing widows", such as card games and other activities at the community center, and discussed the idea of reactivating the local civic club;

Heard Palmer designate past president Dick Campbell as chairman, and past president Frank Forsberg and director A. J. Wiegand as members of a nominating committee for the new year officers.

Following the meeting the members and visitors were served coffee and cookies by Mrs. Reg Walker.

CHEER UP, PETE- The expression on the face of Pete Hand, director of the Retarded Children's Variety Show, is enough to make any sympathetic reader say, "Cheer up, Pete, things will get better." Even singing star, Darley Ann Howard, seems to be trying to cheer up the director. The 13th annual variety show will be held Friday and Saturday nights at Martin County High School.

U.F. Sets Record $10,000 Drive

The executive committee of the Jensen Beach-Hobe United Fund set a record $10,000 goal for the 1967 fund drive last week. The goal was set at a meeting of the board in the Hobe Sound Elks Club and is the first million dollar figure ever attempted by the United Fund.

Last year the fund drive set a goal of $8,500, and passed the mark in the one-week drive by $52.

"The needs of our organizations mount as the county grows," said drive chairman Willard Bowman. "We must meet those needs if we are to continue to serve the twelve agencies that have banded together to hold one drive for aid."

The drive has met its goal for the past nine years.

Plans for canvassing the Jensen Beach and Hobe communities are under way now, according to US president Jackie Hall. This includes door to door and business canvas in a one-week drive, Bowman, in a statement to The Mirror, said, "We are announcing our goal early to let everyone know that we are aiming for our greatest challenge, and we feel assured that the people will be ready for the non-paid volunteer who comes to collect for the fund."

PO To Be Dedicated Feb. 19

Sunday, Feb. 19, at 3:30 p.m. is the time set for the dedication of Jensen Beach Post Office. The new time has been set because of a conflicting meeting Congressman Paul G. Rogers has in Fort Myers on Saturday, Feb. 18.

Rep. Rogers will dedicate the building.

Richard E. Campbell, editor of The Mirror, and a past president of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce, will be master of ceremonies. Others taking part in the ceremonies will be Frank A. Wacha, county commissioner, and Albert L. Palmer, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Notice To Winter Visitors

When you arrive in Martin County, please register with the Chamber of Commerce, check in at the Post Office, and notify The Mirror of your local address. Make yourself easy to find.

Circus Is Coming To Stuart Jan. 31

The circus will be coming to Stuart on Tuesday, Jan. 31 when the trucks of the Great Hoxie Brothers Circus will unload their wonders at the fairgrounds.

Hoxie Brothers Circus, known as America's finest family circus, will exhibit rain or shine. Tickets are available in advance from members of the Civic Club who are sponsoring "The Greatest Circus on Earth for the Money."

Hoxie Brothers Circus, known as America's finest family circus, will exhibit rain or shine, and tickets are available in advance from members of the Stuart Jaycees who are sponsoring "The Greatest Circus on Earth for the Money".

The big 3-ring circus will present a herd of performing elephants who literally work for their keep. They are handy raising the tents each day, pulling up heavy trapeze rigging, and elephant power in the mud is more reliable than motor power.

Trainer Captain Kenneth Ikart reported each elephant drinks a barrel of water and eats three bales of hay per day, plus a quantity of bran mash and oats. Peanuts are a favorite, but elephants, like goats, will eat anything. Carrots and bread are particular delicacies, and elephants love sweets of all kinds, he said.

Elephants have wistfulness, according to Mrs. Betty Tucker, wardrobe mistress. With a rainbow theme for this year's show, she directed her staff of seamstresses in making costumes for the ballet, down to the gaily spangled blankets for the elephants and horses.

The blankets for the elephants are the most expensive and most difficult to make, she explained. They must be carefully fitted to the slopes of their shoulders, tapering of hips and curves of their backs.

Winter quarters for the circus is Miami. After the two performances, the crews will fold the huge bundles of canvas, pack the equipment into the transport trucks, fold the flags, pull up stakes and take off for another one-night stand at another town.

CIRCUS IS COMING TO TOWN!- Miss Mildred and her pachyderm pets are shown above. They are one of the many feature attractions appearing with the Hoxie Bros. 3-ring circus scheduled for the Stuart Fairgrounds Tuesday, Jan. 31, sponsored by Stuart Jaycees, and the Rodeo Bowl in Indiantown, Friday, Jan. 27, sponsored by the Civic Club.

PENNY'S CORNER

Here is absolutely the craziest sounding way to charcoal cook a steak! You won't believe how delicious it is until you try it and I promise your guests will be fascinated.
First you'll need a really thick steak. Ask your Publix meat man to cut a 2 inch thick sirloin for you. Then coat one side very generously with mustard as if you were frosting a cake. Now completely cover the mustard with rock salt. Yes, must use rock salt. Ordinary salt won't do. Pack on all the rock salt you possibly can.
Now here is the crazy part. Make a large bed of charcoal and let it burn down until coals are glowing and show a little gray ash. Now lay the steak right on top of the coals, mustard salt side down. Yes, right on top of the coals. Allow 30 minutes per side for medium rare. That sounds like a long time, but the salt dissipates some of the heat and at the same time seals in the juice. While it cooks, coat the other side the same way with mustard and rock salt. Don't be afraid it will burn up. The salt crust sticks to the coals so that when you turn the steak to cook the other side the crust peels off and the meat looks as if it had been broiled in the regular way.
Steak cooked this way tastes like no other steak. Believe me, it won't cook or taste the least bit burned. It will be juicy, tender and you'll find the marvelous charcoal flavor has permeated the entire steak. Try it one time and see if you don't agree.

Proceeds will be used to provide the library with books essential to further education and research on the secondary school level. Garden Club Tour Features 'Cashel'

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Owen K. Murphy, Port Sewall, will be one of the residences visited on a tour of the Garden Club of Stuart on Sunday.

The theme is "Show Boat" and the tour will get under way at 1:30 and end about 5:30 p.m. Six homes and gardens will be shown.

"Cashel", the Murphys' home, was built in 1918 by John J. Maloney as a retreat for Catholic priests. The name means "castle" in Gaelic. A grotto still stands in a shady corner of the gardens that stretch to the St. Lucie River. In the center of the south garden is a large swimming pool.

Murphy's cabana will house a "high class rummage sale", according to the committee, including a bake sale and plant sale in addition to gift articles.

Jim Hutchinson, local artist, will exhibit some of his paintings.

Other homes to be toured include the new home of Dr. and Mrs. Walter Davey on St. Lucie Blvd. and the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Cy Evans in the same area.

The traditional home of Mrs. Hugh S. Willoughby, a neighbor of "Cashel" will be visited. Overlooking West Lake, the St. Lucie River and the Inlet, it will house exhibits by the Men's Garden Club.

The Oriental-style home of Col and Mrs. Robert J. Koster, North River Shores, is on the agenda, as is the Egyptian-motif home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Holshauer in Coconut Park.

The Davey gardens have been newly landscaped and their home is in the early Floridian-Spanish decor.

The Evans' home, also in Port Sewall, is furnished in the traditional period. Evans is president of the Men's Garden Club and their gardens reflect his interest.

A gigantic Banyan tree graces the entrance to the Willoughby residence which commands a superb view of the St. Lucie Inlet.

The Holshauer home is built on a pointed shape of land jutting into the North Fork of St. Lucie River. The unusual form of the house takes advantage of the surrounding waters.

The oriental decor of the Koster home shows the influence of his two tours of military duty in the Far East. From the imported shingle hip roof to the rocks and stone lantern used in the landscaping of the grounds, this home presents a perfect environment for the Japanese characters on the front door which spell out the wish for "Happiness and Long Life".

Tea will be served in the Solarium of "Cashel".

The Horticulture Exhibit at the Davey residence is open for public showing. All exhibits, potted plants, are to be brought to the Davey home Saturday, Jan. 28 between 3 and 4 p.m. Cut specimens of flowers, fruit or foliage may be brought at that time or Sunday between 8 and 10 a.m.

All proceeds of the tour will go toward the Garden Club Civic Beautification Club program.

The next business meeting will be held Monday, Feb. 6.

About 200 women attended the luncheon-card party Monday, Jan. 23, at The Outrigger Restaurant. Each table was centered with a bird figurine, later used as the table prize.

A stole was won by Mrs. L. P. Brodeur, and a set of jewelry was awarded Mrs. Ivy Wahl.

Fish Fry Friday

A fish fry will be held Friday, Jan. 27, at 6:30 p.m. at the Post Home, sponsored by American Legion Jensen Beach #126 and Auxiliary. Members and their families are invited.

A MOMENT OF PRAYER--Students and teachers pause for a moment of prayer at opening ceremonies for the tree planting in honor of Arbor Day at Port Salerno School.

Port Salerno School Honors Arbor Day

The Port Salerno School student body, faculty and visitors heard principal J. A. Carson speak Tuesday morning at ceremonies conducted at the school honoring Arbor Day.

Students taking part in the program included Tommy Rogers, John Crane, Hoit Hobbs, William Baker, Pamela Osborn, Berry King, Marci Weise and Donnie Stone. Jean Watson read the Scripture.

Florida's Arbor Day is the third Friday in January. The program included the planting of slash pine seedlings, made available through the Florida Forest Service at no cost to the school.

Two out of every three Florida acres are woodland, Carson said, and products turned out by forest industries are worth more than $800 million annually. Income from forest products ranks within the top five of Florida's income, he continued. He stressed the need for more timber in Florida and called attention to the devastation of forest fires.

BIRTHDAY HONORS--Birthday honors were bestowed on Mrs. H. Shellenger, first grade teacher at Port Salerno. Mrs. Shellenger was awarded the honor of planting a birthday tree at the special Arbor Day ceremonies.

A Haid Full Of Sporting Tips

by Howard Lee Haid

FACE THE FUTURE with a smile and optimism and the problems to be overcome certainly can be minimized. This is the way I choose to look at the Martin County Golf and Country Club's future.

During the past few weeks, the deep dark secrets, and the mystery of the wizards have been brought to light, still much fuss and quite a bit of unnecessary bulla-bation. Criticism and suspicion abound on all sides and finally ended in a slight but somewhat earth-shaking explosion. The breaking point ...the regrouping of forces...the forcing for position... and finally TRUCE... TERMS for both sides....

As things stand today, the outlook for 1967, '68, '69 and so on looks great for all golfers at Martin County. I have talked with members of the county commission golf sub-committee and with members of the golf club, and as happens in all crises....sincere and honest leaders emerge from the flock to show the way. With men like Dr. Dennis Rinaldi and Charlie Grant, plus lots of help from un-named others, the future operations of the course should improve to an era of unpredictable profit, promotional and pride-winning esteem for the golfing public.

The realization by the county and the club that the course should be maintained for use by the general public, rather than for private groups, highlighted the sense of things to follow. Greens fees to county residents, memberships, tournament participation and course conditions all add up to total utilization for the home-town folk.

Predictions often fail, but I'll gamble one on the present leaders of "The Better Golf Course Movement" and say that in the years to come, Martin County will be envied and copied for its foresight....

Man has created an environment which, at times, threatens to overwhelm him. The pursuit of a livelihood in this fast-paced modern world imposes enormous burdens on flesh and spirit. The mind bends; the body grows weary; the spirit sags just from the effort to keep up. Small wonder that all forms of recreation are booming: bowling, golf, tennis, fishing and, of course, movies, football, television, and other spectator sports. Man simply flees now and then from the environment he has fashioned.

Few things can match fishing for total escape from the mental and emotional tensions of the day-to-day working world. Bowling and golf, for example, admittedly are great recreational activities, offering an abundance of healthful exercise. But they pose their own mental and emotional problems and offer little relief from those of the working day.

Take the executive who has had a hard week at the office. He's a mid-80 golfer. He goes out to the golf course on Saturday for relaxing eighteen holes; steps up in the first tee; slices into the woods; whacks out of that one into a sand trap; chips into a water hole; finally reaches the green and five-putts. Is he calm, serene, and at peace with the world? Of course not; he's ready to blow his stack.

Or take the employee who has had a rough day. He's done half a dozen things wrong and has been thoroughly chewed out by the boss. It's bowling night, and he carries a respectable 180 average in the company league. He rolls five perfect strike balls in a row—and leaves splits. At the end of five frames he has 45 pins down when he should have had 180 in four. Is he happy and gay? No, sir; he's frustrated.

Experiences such as these may compound the tensions that have an effect on health. Fishing, however, is different. An important difference is the fact that the average fisherman is under no particular pressure to improve his game. In these days of no-backlash casting reels and automatic fly reels, plus the infinite variety of other aids, it's easy to become an expert fisherman. As a matter of fact, anyone who has fished half a dozen times or so is an expert, particularly if he has caught any fish at all, which is probable.

Chips, Divots And Tips

by Matt Moore

We're back to holes in one again. Ed Prohaska made an ace on our new number seven hold which is 190 yards long. He played with Mrs. Prohaska and Miss Joe Newton.

The big upset in the president's cup tourney was Ted Hearn beating Bill Snowden. Snowden has won this tourney the past three years.

Blind Bogey winners were Bob Randolph with 75, and tied for second with 75 was Pep Rambert, Charles Gipe, Jean Wilchester and Dick Garlington.

The team of Neal Pope, Bill Harrell, Gene Burgett and Moe Trout won the Blitz with 147.

To play in the Saturday Blitz you must now sign up by Friday afternoon.

Open & Closed Stance

The dynamics of a golf swing deals with the plane of the swing and everything done physically and mentally caters to the plane of the swing, particularly in the downswing and the hitting area.

In an open stance, you aim left, and in a closed stance you aim right. When you are square with the target the plane coincides with the line of flight.

It's a natural law that the ball follows the path of the club and starts out in the direction in which the force is applied. Thus the plane of a swing plays a key role in aiming a golf ball.

Open and closed stances, in aiming a golf ball, are variations from the standard or square stance. If you close to the hole, or aim right, the plane has to hit from the outside in to bring the ball on target. If you open to the hole, or aim left, the plane has to swing from the inside out to put the ball on target. From a square stance the plane has to be on line for the ball to start on target.

Most players play with a closed stance to accommodate their error, which is an outside and in swing. If you have an outside and in swing, open up to the left when practicing, then you will have no swing from the inside and out to start the ball on the target.

It's always better to work against your error in the practice swing and swing away and do your best on the course.

Sailfish Tourney Off To Good Start

Early lead in the Stuart Sailfish Club's 13th annual light tackle tournament was held Monday by Dr. Charles L. Moore, a Lake Worth surgeon.

Fishing from "The Scalpel", his entry in the 28-boat fleet fishing the tournament, Moore whipped two sailfish about three miles off the beach slightly north of St. Lucie Inlet. His boat is the second smallest craft in the tournament.

On the second day, Tuesday, A. H. Evert, Bloomsberg, Pa., whose craft, the 'Sundra D', a 37-footer skippered by Capt. William Dorfner, whipped six sails at 12-A to take the day trophy and jump into the tournament lead.

Dr. Moore, who led with two sails Monday, moved into second place, whipping two more. He lost points on one fish when a coat cut it loose.

In third place, with three whipped Tuesday, was Norman Armour, Palm Beach.

Others scoring more than one fish Tuesday included Frederick B. Patterson, Delray Beach, two on the 'Pepper' with Capt. Fred Hastings; and William B. Todt, Stuart's vice-mayor, who whipped two on the 'Bilbee'.

Mrs. E. Julian Davis, Ft. Lauderdale, fishing on the 'Hobo', Capt. Jack Whitcar, whipped one to lead the day for the woman's day prize. Total fish caught jumped to 28 with Tuesday's 20, giving the tournament an average of one to a boat for the two days.

Kings, false albacore, dolphin and wahoo catches were heavy during the day.

The tournament continues through Thursday.

LINED AND WAITING—Lined and waiting to compete in the Pinewood Derby, held by Cub Pack 430 at the Stuart Youth Center last Monday evening is this interesting display of model racers, all hand-made by the individual cub scouts.

Two Charged With Netting

Charged with netting without a license in a quarter mile of a bridge (Ernest Lyons Bridge) in the Indian River, by salt water conservation agent Rolland C. (Boots) Byrd, were Bobby Crane, Port Salerno, and Bud Sims, Sebastian. Crane owned the net, Byrd said.

Robert Tufts was charged with having no boat registration.

Byrd said verbal warnings will be handed out for a few days, then, "There'll be a general crackdown" on small craft guilty of violating the marked channels in the area.

Sturgises Enjoy

Holiday In Alaska

Mrs. Sturgis left New York on the Orient jet at 7 P.M. July 1 and flew non-stop to Anchorage where she joined her husband at 9:30 p.m. Alaska time, gaining three hours crossing the several time zones. She says she didn't notice the weather at all disagreeable, in fact they had remarkably nice weather except for one three day period when it rained hard all the time. This was at Mount McKinley National Park. The Sturgises used a tent for sleeping quite a lot of the time, but this time they stayed at the hotel. Accommodation here was $18.00 per day, meals extra. However, they did not find accommodation generally was reasonable, averaging about from five to twelve dollars a night. Some cabins have cooking facilities, but is dear. Dairy products particularly so. Anchorage is the most reasonable this way. A steak dinner can be bought there for about five dollars.

Mrs. Sturgis says the Russian Lake area is the most spectacular and the most beautiful. It was in this area that Sturgis got such outstanding shots of almost bright scenery. The fishing was terrific. In one hour they caught a whole string of fish. They saw several glaciers, the most beautiful one being the Blue Glacier between Anchorage and Seward. At the end of one of these glaciers, huge pieces of ice had been breaking off to form icebergs. Some humorist had erected a sign, "FREE ICE". The red fireweed is very conspicuous in this north land. One mountain-side had been burned over the previous year and while the Sturgises were there it was covered with a flaming mantle of this red fireweed. They spend a week in the Russian Lake area and used an abandoned log cabin while there. It had a wood burning cook stove and a supply of cut wood. They enjoyed their daily boat trip around the lake fishing or watching the animals along the shore. The fish were Rainbows and Dolly Vardens. This lake was so named as it was used as a prison camp by the Russians when they owned the territory. It is only accessible by plane.

While in Alaska they drove to Seward and Valdez. Valdez was a thriving town of about 10,000 during the boom time of gold rush days but now it is just a frontier town and probably since the earthquake it may no longer exist. According to Sturgis, the roads in Alaska are good and many are "black-topped. However, there are 1,100 miles of gravel road on the Alaskan Highway which when dry is very dusty. There also are sharp pebbles which the big trucks pick up and throw. He advised one to stop when meeting one of these trucks to avoid a broken windshield. Also, to go slow on this piece of road. Fast driving results in many blown tires.

In reply to my query regarding the insects, Mrs. Sturgis said the mosquitoes were very bad one day but with that exception they were no problem. About the middle of August they began their homeward journey. They were in no hurry, so made several stops on the way. One of these was a detour from Whitehorse to Juneau, where the annual salmon derby was being held. They tell us the whole holiday was very enjoyable and they are looking forward to another trip to the 49th state next summer. This time it will be in a camper which Sturgis is building for that purpose.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. O'Mara and a friend Mrs. Kennedy arrived here Jan. 15 from their home in Buffalo, N.Y. The O'Maras are usually much much earlier than this but this time Mr. O'Mara had surgery Oct. 24th which delayed them. Coming down they had the misfortune to have the engine on the car freeze while driving and by road and be involved in an accident which sent Mrs. O'Mara to the hospital where she had stitches in her forehead and chin. After spending the night in the hospital Mrs. O'Mara was released, but due to the damage to the car they were held up for five days in the little town of Haymarket, Virginia. Mrs. Kennedy will be returning to Buffalo after a short visit here.

OCEAN BREEZE NEWS

by Tom Cook Phone 287-5312

BANANAS - OCEAN BREEZE STYLE--Two good healthy stalks of bananas have been grown by Clay Mitchell and ripened this winter. They are of excellent quality. We can vouch for this as we have sampled them. Fruit ripened on the tree is always superior, and we can't have that feature in imported bananas.

'Growing Pains'

This story was given to me by Mrs. John Wall of Cocoa Street, Ocean Breeze, and written by Mrs. Wall's sister Frances Niedorer to give her children an insight into the living conditions she remembers during her girlhood years from 1900 to 1912. It is with Mrs. Walls permission I submit this story, which is entitled

"Growing Pains"

It was in the small town of Rockdale, Wisconsin nestled in a dale between hills with the Koshkonong River or creek as we called it" running through the town. This creek divided the town into the west side and the east side. The two were joined by a high bridge down stream below the mill. The creek continues on for miles in a snake like fashion through the country side, until it reaches Lake Koshkonong, about twenty miles South.

At Rockdale a dam was built forming a large wide pond that extended almost to Cambridge, the village north of us. This dam supplied the water power to run the mill. In summer when the power was low, a big oil engine supplied the power.

My father, Jack Turnbull, was the new young miller and my mother, Mary Stewart, was one of the two teachers of the two roomed grade school. They both roomed and boarded at the home of Theo Tellefsen. Thus a romance began. They were married and moved into the house next door to the Tellefsens above the dam. This house was furnished by the owner of the mill for the miller. It was in a pretty location, with the lawn extending down to the banks of the pond. The mill was across the pond on the other side of the dam.

The house had seven rooms plus a large pantry and an attached wood shed. We felt we had a lovely home even if we had no indoor plumbing, only an out house sitting about a hundred feet or more from the house on the bank of the pond, and a very cold place to go to in the winter time. Our heat was a coal stove which was set up each fall in the dining room. This heated the dining room, parlor and downstairs bedroom. The kitchen range on which all the meals were cooked also heated the kitchen. In the winter time we had heated flat irons wrapped in paper to heat our beds in the cold upstairs bedrooms.

We took our baths in an oblong tin tub - in the wood shed in the summer (with water heated on the kitchen stove) and in winter in the kitchen in front of the open oven door.

We had no ice box so everything was kept in the cellar on the cool dirt floor. I wish I had a penny for every time I have run up and down the basement stairs with food before and after meals - and many other times. The cellar was loaded with shelves of canned fruits, vegetables, and meats. It had an outside entrance too - a slanting door which we loved to slide on.

Reeses Return From Nassau Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Leland Reese of Tenth Street just returned from a four day Bahama trip which they both thoroughly enjoyed. Reese said he couldn't praise the food and service they received on the Bahama Star highly enough. He showed me a sample menu. Glancing over it casually I would think the most fastidious epicure should be able to select a satisfactory meal from that selection, and as Reese said, there is a different menu for each meal. In addition to the three main meals of the day, there is a coffee hour in mid afternoon, and late at night, when tempting cakes and other confections are there for the passengers to partake of. During these coffee hours a calipso band plays lively music.

While eating is a pleasure not to be passed up, other forms of entertainment are provided on board to contribute to making the trip as enjoyable as it can possibly be. Good high class variety entertainment is provided entertainment is provided every evening in the form of a floor show. Reese says he has seen many floor shows but none that could compare with the entertainment they had. There was juggling, a violinist and a baritone singer, all of exceptional quality, besides other items. An organist could hold his audience for an hour every evening and the five piece orchestra provided music for the dance. The dance floor space was rather restricted to size.

In the harbour at Nassau, boys amused the passengers by diving for quarters from the promenade deck. This is a considerable height above the water, yet the boy would hit the water just a second or two after the quarter and it seemed the quarter never sank far in the water before the boy caught it, brought it to the surface, showed it to the passengers, then put it in his mouth and waited for the next quarter to fall.

While at Nassau a party took a car tour of the Island. The Island is not large and the trip didn't take much over two hours. However, their guide made up for this with his animated talk in which he described and told the history of the several places they visited. There is a beautiful old church with stained glass windows, but the limestone caves particularly appealed to the Reeses. So they were told, when Queen Victoria of Britain released the slaves, they were so thankful that they decided to leave an enduring monument in commemoration. A deed and memorization. A deed and memorization. A deed and street butted up against a solid wall of limestone rock. By manual labor they cut through this rock, a passage and stair to the old Fort Fincastle on top of the rock. Reese showed me a picture of this stairway and it must have been quite an undertaking.

Reese concluded by saying that if anyone is contemplating making this trip, he would advise going now. This is the slack season, and they only had 135 passengers, whereas later in the season there will be three and possibly four times as many passengers. Fares are advertized for about $60.00 and up. They paid $134.00 each and had a nice cabin with private lavatory. Tips are expected, and one can add an extra $25.00 or $30.00 for tips and extras for each person. Anyway, he says it is a very enjoyable trip and well worth the money.

CAMERA CLUB

The Camera Club featured two showings of slides on Thursday Jan. 19, Tom Cook showed the balance of the Cooks' travels for 1966 and as the P.S.A. set of slides did not arrive, John Sturgis filled the gap with a very nice set of his slides, "The Four Seasons in New Hampshire". Sturgis not only treated his audience to samples of good photography but he is to be complimented on the arrangement of this set. Starting with the mailing snows of spring he carried his audience on through the summer and fall to the dead of winter with it's accompanying deep snows.

Next Thursday, Jan. 26, Charles French will show color slides of Nassau, Mexico, and Florida. Following immediately, our humorous narrater and photographer, Cliff Cole, will show a selection of slides. 152 persons attended the slide show last Thursday, and by the look of the attractive program lined up for February, we will not be surprised if this attendance is exceeded.

After the entertainment a set of P.S.A. slides will be shown with accompanying tape commentary. These selections from eight camera clubs and anyone interested is invited to stay for the extra 1/2 hour.

Dessert-Card Party Held

Six hostesses entertained 72 invited guests at All Saints Church Hall the afternoon of Jan. 18. Third In National Ocean Breeze can well be proud of our "Jeanie with the light brown hair", for she placed third in the National Shuffleboard Ladies Singles tournament at West Palm Beach, Wednesday, Jan. 18. In spite of frequent light showers the ladies singles was played down to the finals.

In the semi-finals Janet Smith lost to May Hall and Jean Fisher to Audrey Haley. Fisher and Smith then played for third and fourth place which resulted in a win for our Ocean Breeze gal, making Jean the third place winner. Rain prevented any further play so the final game between Hall and Haley was to be played at a later date.

UNSELFISHNESS

There is nothing like putting the shine on another's face to put the shine on our own. Nine-tenths of all loneliness, sensitiveness, despondency, moroseness, are connected with personal interests. Turn more of these selfish interests into unselfish ones, and by so much we change opportunities for disheartenment into their opposite.

SRD Plans Corrections

Corrections of several drainage faults were discussed recently by county engineer Fred L. Bell and Jim Thaxton, district maintenance engineer for the State Road Department, Ft. Pierce.

Listed for change or correction, according to Bell, are:

Double striping on Ocean way at the intersection of Sewall's Point Road will prohibit passing at that intersection.

Drainage work at U.S. 1 and SR 714, where foot-deep water sometimes accumulates due to bad drainage. The water will be discharged through Pine Ave.

Small pipes will be provided on SR 707 north of Commercial Street, Jensen Beach, to permit drainage through a high shoulder the SRD wants to maintain.

Schools Are Up

Martin County schools attendance figures showed an increase of 201 pupils, four per cent, for the end of 1966 over the end of the preceding year.

An increase of 81 was shown at Port Salerno, 76 at Martin County High School and 60 at Stuart Junior High School.

Work kits will be distributed to the area captains and workers, all of whom are donating their time to collect for the fund drive.

The kits will include a copy of the fund drive letter, which will be distributed house to house in Jensen, Rio, Walton and Eden by the scouts of troop 401, Jensen Beach this Saturday; an identification card, a door knob message for homes not occupied by residents at the time of the call by volunteers, a window sticker and a receipt book.

Organizations participating in the United Fund drive include the Jensen Beach Free Ambulance, Jensen Beach Community Center, Jensen Beach and Rio Boy and Girl Scouts, Martin County Crippled Children and Adults, Martin County Retarded Children's Association, Martin County Mental Health Association Pioneer Occupational Center, Martin County Animal Rescue League, Martin County Red Cross, Mars Hill Community Center, and the Jensen Beach-Rio Community Emergency Fund.

Last year the goal for the fund drive was $8,500. The increase of $1,500 was necessitated, according to Bowman, by the "increased needs of our organizations, due to the rapid growth of this area." Bowman said that the drive had grown just as the county had grown, and urged all local citizens to give to the United Fund. He also urged winter visitors and tourists to donate to the United Fund, "for everyone realizes that the facilities of our various participating organizations may, at one time or another, be used by anyone at any time."

The following is a list of the drive chairmen and the areas they will cover:

District One; Mrs. Mardee St. Clair and Mrs. Ellen Chase, co-captains. The district includes the area from Commercial St. to the north county line, east of the F.E.C. Railroad tracks.

District Two; Mrs. Flora Newsam, captain. The district includes the area north of Commercial St. and west of the railroad to Mars Hill.

District Twelve; Mrs. Ruth Bowman captain. This district covers all donating organizations in the area.

CAN I?--Barbara McKinley seems to be wondering if she can go on with her part in the variety show. She did, and performed with vigor and talent a jazz dance number entitled "Steam Heat".

Johnson Blasts "Hodge-Podge" Zoning Of Hutchinson Island

The county commission again tabled Hutchinson Island zoning changes at its meeting Tuesday, in the face of opposition by Stuart Board of Realtors and Martin County Committee of 100, further study of the changes will be made by the board.

Outspoken in his criticism was R. V. Johnson, president of the Board of Realtors, who charged the proposed code was a "hodge-podge" which would lead to "positive, not potential stagnation."

Johnson foresaw one of the "finest potential residential areas in Florida, if progress [illegible] commercial zoning is dropped," and said such "downgrading is a declaration that widespread [illegible] will lead to stagnation."

Johnson expressed the interest in the future of Martin County and stated he was not concerned with selfish property owners of island property.

Ross Philbrick, executive secretary of the Committee of 100, stated, "If you put in the right zoning, you have an opportunity to bring to Florida one of the best developed areas in the state."

Ransom Tilton, Jensen Beach Realtor, flatly disagreed with both Johnson and Philbrick, stating he thought the new plan was excellent.

Commissioner Frank S. Wells asked that the plan be tabled until the March 21 meeting. This was voted by the board.

Seagate Drive, ending as changed from R-2 Residential to R-1-B residential, upgrading for better homes, upon recommendation by the zoning board and vote of the commission.

County Actions

The county commission Tuesday:

GAVE tentative approval to a request for the Fish Camps of Stuart for a dredge and fill permit asked by Perry Boswell and Raymond Fisher, using Indian River bottomlands bought at Hoyt's Inn Motel, Jensen Beach, for a previous owner to create additional land at the motel site. The dredging would create a channel, interesting that of Stuart Boat Co. to run to the Intracoastal Waterway.

APPROVED a plat of Fork River subdivision, where access to the St. Lucie South Fork was in question at a previous meeting.

SET up old request to permit purchase by Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Dept. of a new fire truck for the department, using department funds.

The property includes eight lots at Yacht Club Beach, an old subdivision south of and bordering House of Refuge land on Hutchinson Island.

The commissioners referred the offer to county attorney Dean Tanker and commissioner Frank Wells for a report at a later date.

AGREED to return (less $20.02 in fees) $1,963.22 to attorney Leon Heller, Miami, for overpayment of tax lien sale price in transaction involving St. Lucie Inlet Farms land owned at one time by the Fugal family. The price was over-bid at the sale, according to the county attorney.

TURNED over to Animal Rescue League of Martin County, $2,702 as budgeted for its use in annual budget to eliminate paperwork and hardships under which bills and funds were dealt with one at a time.

POSTPONED action under which three holes at golf course on private property will be "adjusted", until after season is over.

Public Business Is Not Private

Recently, the Martin County Commission ld an almost secret meeting in the office the county attorney. The meeting was dis-vered by newsman Ed Glackler, and the ance discovery led to the disclosure of blic information destined for secrecy, and d to some embarrassed commissioners. Huddling with members of the committee the golf course organization, the com-missioners tried to avoid "too much pub-ity" by meeting quietly. Publicity has ver hurt any public body when that body meeting to make a decision affecting the e of public funds.

Last week the Fort Pierce City Commis-n went into executive session, barring wsmen and the public, to discuss an "un-disclosed topic". Again, the public right to know was injured.

Selected commissioners need not fear the press unless they are planning something that is not according to Hoyle. It is through keeping the public informed that the press does its greatest service to Mankind. The public business of an elected official is not his private concern.

We hope that the elected officials of Mar-tin and St. Lucie Counties do not establish a pattern of "executive sessioned" to exclude publicity on their activities. We fear they will find the members of the press much too inquisitive to be ignored. The people are represented in all meeting of public officials by the press corps.

Make That Goal...$10,000

Next Monday morning the Jensen Beach-Indian United Fund will begin its most am-bitious program. The drive for $10,000 is the highest ever set by the fund, and to reach the goal the drive workers will need the help and all citizens of Jensen Beach, Hutson and Eden.

We wish the fund drive the very best and would like to explain the ground rules for the association to the people.

Not one cent of the donations is paid to any member of the United Fund Drive in the form of salaries. Almost 100% of the dollars collected go to the various charit-able organizations participating in the drive. The fund drive workers are local people, volunteers, who do not receive one cent for their active role in helping twelve needy agencies.

When the United Fund Kickoff Breakfast, being held at the Rio Civic Club this year, is donated, and the only cost to the fund is some printing and minute other miscellaneous items.

As the community grows, so does the need for the various charities. We urge all resi-dents to support the United Fund drive. One for all, and all for one, the UF is a symbol of one drive for many.

And as our citizens give, we urge them to consider the fact that they are giving to twelve different organizations with one gift and ask that they give accordingly.

Wacha Steps Down

When Frank A. Wacha stepped down as chairman of the Martin County Commis-sion recently, he left behind a record of leadership that will long be remembered. His tenure of six years as chairman of the board is one of accomplishment.

Of course, the name of Wacha needed the support and help of his fellow commis-sioners to get the job done, but in many he can his time to single-handedly set up changes that will long be remembered by their effect on the county.

Wacha utilized his talents as a Certified Public Accountant to help the county, and his efforts in reducing the county debt, at this newspaper.

The following is a list of accomplish-ments we have compiled that show the caliber of the man Wacha was during his time. His local, Jensen Beach area achieve-ments are removed, for we want everyone to know how well Wacha worked as a county commissioner.

1) Wacha instituted strict adherence to the agenda in commission meetings and ab-sence to rules of parliamentary proce-dure.

(2) Because of his accounting knowledge, Wacha was able to convince the State Road Department of the feasibility of refinancing the bridge bond issue in a manner which would eliminate the tolls. While the immedi-ate advantage was the completion of the Indian River bridge, which now bears his name, and the removal of the tolls, the county also received a lower interest rate and a fee-payment plan which freed some of the fifti-eth of sixth cents of one mill that has been our current road program. The original issue tied up fifth and sixth cents of six 100's.

(3) Wacha instituted the system of pre-par-ing the annual budget on a need basis rather than on available revenue basis, and planning of capital improvements by saving each year for having funds available to pay for the project rather than borrowing. (Prior budgets were prepared with the thought: If the money could be had, then spend it.)

(4) Wacha compiled facts and figures about Florida Inland Navigation District which led to the review and change in the laws governing FIND, and also to the change in FIND's practice of selling recreational lands. This also enabled the state to get a 50-year lease from FIND for "Long Island".

(5) His personal efforts were responsible for the state dedicating school board lands for the Savanoras for a new state park in Martin County.

(6) Through his personal contacts with Congressman Paul Rogers, Wacha was able to have funds appropriated for the beach ero-sion survey of the St. Lucie Inlet for its improve-ment. Wacha also set up a public hearing in June of 1962 as part of the study which has led to the designation of the St. Lucie Inlet as a Federal project, and he has twice caused the Corps of Engineers to have a dredge in the area to clear the Inlet.

(7) As a member of the Flood Control District's Tri-County Recreational Commit-tee, Wacha had the north side of the St. Lucie Canal at Lake Okeechobee designated as a recreational area and obtained commit-ments for boat ramps at I-22 Canal and under the Turnpike at Phippa Park, the latter projects to be constructed shortly.

(8) Because of an interest in Little League play, developed over a 13-year period as a Little League manager, Wacha promoted and cooperated with other commissioners for the building of ball parks in Indiantown, Hobe Sound, Salerno and Palm City.

(9) Wacha spent many hours in confer-ences and personal contacts with property owners along US 1 through the City of Stu-art and south of there in an effort to se-cure, either by donation or at low cost, enough right-of-way for the widening of US 1 so funds available for purchase would cover.

(10) Wacha made personal contacts with property owners to secure necessary rights-of-way for the widening of East Ocean Blvd.

(11) Wacha spent considerable time at-tending to secure permission for the county to construct rest rooms and cabana facilities at the Coast Guard property on Jupiter Is-land. Although these are publicly-owned lands, Martin County has been unsuccessful in obtaining permission for public use.

(12) He testified before the legislature on the Lake Okeechobee Spill Bill. It was while attending one of these hearings that his plane made a near-tragic landing south of Talla-hassee.

(13) Wacha conferred with officers of Gulfstream Aircraft here and in Pentagon, N.Y., concerning terms of conditions of their lease, which has enabled them to ex-pand facilities here.

(14) He spent many hours in conference with state and local property owners for the establishment of a park south of St. Lucie Inlet.

(15) Wacha's personal efforts were in-strumental in having the flashing walks placed under the Jensen Beach bridge.

(16) Through personal contact by Wacha, Martin County was obtained necessary rights-of-way for paving of Martin Grade (SR 714).

(17) His personal efforts secured some of the rights-of-way and exchanges for con-struction of the high level bridge at Indiantown.

(18) Wacha backed commissioner Jim-mer's efforts to have the Palm City bridge included in the SNPC budget, when the commissioner in that district objected.

(19) Wacha promoted and gained a com-patible working agreement between Martin County and all municipalities within the county, as well as between Martin County, other counties and state agencies.

(20) Wacha worked with commissioner Saunders on the establishment of a voting precinct and voting place at South County Line.

Newly elected commission chairman Jack Saunders now has some mighty big boots to fill, and we are certain that he will try his best to do a good job. We hope that we will be able to honor him for his efforts at the end of his chairmanship, just as we honor Wacha today.

Bee Line Bus Buys

Bee Line Bus Company has been given a temporary permit to operate two dif-ferent bus routes in a five-county area, according to Barnett R. Ehrlich, owner of the one-bus line which has traveled between Jensen Beach and Stuart for many months.

Ehrlich received permis-sion to operate between Mar-tin and Brevard Counties as a service to the Cape Kennedy Missile facility, to connect at the Cape with the NASA tour, and to operate from Indian River to Palm Beach Counties, servicing the West Palm Beach dog track.

The temporary permit will be good only until a deci-sion on Ehrlich's application is made by the commission. It was reported by a repre-sentative of the Public Ser-vice Commission.

Your Florida Constitution

This is the third installment of the complete text of the proposed, new Florida Constitution. This document will provide the political structure under which Florida citizens will live, replacing the outmoded, often-amended document we use today. It is the responsibility of all citizens to study, know and comment upon this constitution.

Section 5. INVESTIGA-TIONS-WITNESSES.- Each house when in session may compel attendance of wit-nesses and production of public and private documents and other evidence upon any matter under investigation before it or any of its com-mittees, and may punish by fine not exceeding one thou-sand dollars or imprison-ment not exceeding ninety days any person not a mem-ber who has been guilty of disorderly or contemptuous conduct in its presence or has refused to obey its law-ful summons or to answer lawful questions. Such pow-ers, except the power to punish, may be conferred upon a designated committee of legislators for a stat-ed period of operation with reference to specific mat-ters. Punishment of con-tempt of an interim legisla-tive committee shall be by judicial proceedings as pre-scribed by law.

If that house is not in session, he shall file them with the secretary of state. If the veto be over-ruled by that house at its next regular or special session, and they shall be entered on its journal.
(c) If such house shall reenact the bill or reinstate a vetoed item of an appro-priation bill by two-thirds vote, the yeas and nays shall be entered on the respec-tive journals, and the bill shall become law or the item reinstated, the veto not-withstanding.

Section 9. EFFECTIVE DATE OF LAWS.- Each law shall take effect on the six-tieth day after adjournment sine die of the session of the legislature in which enacted, unless therein otherwise provided.

Section 10. SPECIAL AND LOCAL LAWS.- No special law or local law shall be passed unless notice of in-tention to seek enactment thereof has been published in the manner provided by law in each county in the area to be affected, not less than thirty days nor more than ninety days prior to in-troduction in the legislature. (Next week, Sections 12 through 18, completing The Legislative Article.)

DISAPPOINTMENT Of my week came when I read in the latest American that rainwater isn't always 'pure'. It seems that the rains and even the dew in Venezuela often contain salt and gypsum until the rainy season "cleans" the air. If they have it there, it's likely that we have it here. Imagine the ocean polluting the air!

Salt spray plays havoc with TV reception near the coast. When damp, salt grounds out the signal, results in snow. Simple test is to note what happens to your TV picture when the dew falls or when it rains. There should be no change in your picture. If there is, and if it clears after several min-utes of hard rain, you've had salt up there. When we lived close to the ocean, we ran a host up our antenna and put a Colorado sprink-ler head on it. When we got snow, (about once a week), we turned on the spigot and washed the antenna, 40 feet up, until our TV picture cleared. It's easier than low-ering and scrubbing. Ralph Mellore at AZ-TV says he's working on a way to pre-vent salt grounding of an-tennas. If he does, he's apt

"The next time you im-patiently wait a few minutes at your gas station, ease your nerves by reflecting on what is involved passing up the car in front of you. You fill out a questionnaire, go to a government office, buy a coupon book, then you go to a government-owned store to trade coupons for gas. At the stations, which are sparse even in larger cities, you'll have to wait in line for a long time. Then you guess how much the car will hold, check the number of coupons, set the pump, start pumping and the hose. All the attendant does is collect the coupons."

The election would be settled in a hurry by a ball of smoke in the Hendaker. EARN $385,000 — $60 thousand, or $143 thousand-it's up to you, according to the U.S. Census Bureau's findings as reported by County School Superintendent Robert W. Fulton.

Coming at a time when Pratt & Whitney is reported to have laid off mostly employees who were "non-skilled" or "assembling" the report is doubly ironic-ing.

Based on the U.S. Census the facts are that the more schooling a person has, the less he is in danger of un-employment,...and the more he earns during his lifetime.

People with 8 years of less schooling have an av-erage estimated LIFETIME earning capacity of $143,000.

People with high school graduation diplomas have an estimated LIFETIME earn-ing capacity of $385,000.

People with 4 years of col-lege have an estimated LIFETIME earning expecta-tion of $585,000.

It's like that billboard in Juno Beach says:

BOY

That's what they will be calling you all your life if you quit school.

For those who like to lean the odds: Note that the Cen-sus Bureau's averages and ex-pectations include no mil-lionaires. Schools don't teach that special sense that folks have who make it BIG. Neither do schools of-fer much to spare us from an occasional big fat finan-cial bust. But schooling does do a lot to get folks further on the way to better times, and a liberal arts background usually gives a security of flexibility that's so helpful to cut short fi-nancial adversity.

"Politicians, from the President down, profess to be concerned about inflation. Moreover, all of them are busy seeking a villain...some-thing to blame for the evil of inflation. Perhaps the lit-tle fellow would be helpful. Webster's unabridged, Law-rence says: 'Inflation: Disprop-ortionate increase in money and sudden increase in the quantity of money, or credit, or both, relative to the amount of business transac-ted. Such increase...usually results in times of financial difficulty by government is-sues of paper money without adequate metallic reserves and without provision for conversion into standard metallic money on demand. In accordance with the law of the scarcity theory of money, inflation always produces a rise in the price level.'"

No Glitter Backstage

In the retarded children's variety show last week, the people in front of the cur-tain saw what was described as one of the most glitter-ing spectacles of local talent ever produced. The glit-ter became wild backstage.

One of the most hilarious and horrifying instances was connected to the Tar-zan leap. It was hilarious to the viewers, and horri-fying to those who had practiced the leap. I used a table and a chair, put my foot in the rope and swung across the stage. The prac-tice went well. I swung a-cross the stage, letting loose at the top of the swing, and falling properly. The sound effects made the crashing sounds.

Not so on stage. If you were in the audience, you saw me swung across, and back, and across again before I let go of the rope. The rea-son was that I was scared to death on the first swing. For the show, we used a six-foot ladder, putting me up several feet higher when I started the swing. What a feeling. Howard Haid, who was supposed to catch me, was doubled up on the floor laughing when he saw the expression on my face as I swung at almost a thousand miles an hour across the stage.

Howard and I had egg on our faces when the show opened on the first night. Emcee Jim Humphrey did-n't know what was going to happen, but was going to make the most of it. He stood on the front row by looking for a seat, finding one, and a-guing together over it to interrupt the performance. Un-fortunately, Humphrey did-n't see us, or hear us, as we moved down the row. By the time we got to the argument part, what sounded like a thousand voices poured out as the chorus sang drown-ing over the argument. The people around us kept say-ing "Shhhhhhh", or "Shut up, you two," for they didn't know what was going on ei-ther. We stumbled backstage and made certain that Hum-phrey waited for us the sec-ond night.

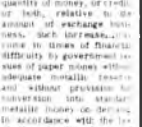
Another almost disaster came when Howard Haid came on stage the second night and started into the "Swami bit". I was en-gaged in a long conversa-tion with Bill Weinbrenner backstage, and almost didn't make it. Howard had to take it until I came out, and Humphrey thought he was going to get a wall-full of red dye.

In the cowboy number, I decided that I would show off a little, and make a few "fast draws" on stage. I practiced the draw one time. You are supposed to take your thumb and take two fast sweeps and draw up and out of the holster. I raked, all right, and the hammer caught on thumb and clicked empty, nothing my thumb. Needless to say, no one saw a "fast draw" in the skit.

The other end of it all was during the golf skit we did. I am a pretty bad golf-er,...this is recognized by all, but I never thought that I would lose a golf ball on stage. Yep, you're right.

Pete Hand, the director of the show, put it in its proper light. Following the last per-formance, Hand walked up to me. I waited for the usual "nice job, Dick." It didn't come. Pete looked at me with a tired and self-satis-fied expression and said, "I wonder what we'll do next year."

I wonder.



Selective Service Test

All male students are re-minded of the next Selective Service College Qualifica-tion Test, scheduled to be held March 31 and April 8. The nearest testing cen-ter is Palm Beach Junior College.

This test is similar to previous tests and to be eligible, a student must be a Selective Service regis-trant who intends to re-quest occupational defer-ment as a student and must not previously have taken the test.

All eligible male students are urged to take the test by obtaining applications from the nearest Selective Service Board, according to a recent news release.

Chamber To Sponsor Outdoor Art Show

An Art Festival will be held March 4 and 5 between the Jensen Beach Bank and the Post Office from 10 a.m. until dusk. The Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce will sponsor the exhibit.

Professional and amateur artists will be given the opportunity to display their work locally. Various art groups from Martin and St. Lucie Counties are expected to participate, displaying a wide variety of 'schools' of paintings, styles, methods, arrangements and mediums.

The Chamber is arranging for the out-of-door auxiliary facilities between Commercial and Ricou Streets, and hopes to make this an annual exhibit.

FUN AT THE LUAU--The Luau, held recently at the Anchorage Yacht Club, was well attended by members and guests. This is just one of the many activities offered by the Club to its members.

Miss Sandra Kay Ambrose, sister of the bride, served as bridesmaid. Miss Jan Zeanah and Mrs. Linda Johnson also attended the bride. Each was attired in a long coat ensemble of lime green ribbed peau de soie with 3/4 sleeves. Empire bodice of lime green velvet and a scoop neckline. The sheath skirt was elegant coat in lime green peau accented by green velvet sleeves enhanced the simplicity of the gowns. They carried fine white arrangements of the spring flowers, ivy and green.

The bride's bouquet consisted of a shower of cream roses, feathered mums and ivy. Her formal princess gown of lace and taffeta had a fitted bodice enriched with exquisite rose-embroidered Alencon lace which sweetened the Empire waist and was highlighted by the long fluted sleeves appliqued with a wide border of Alencon lace. The controlled A-line skirt was enhanced by the graceful detachable chapel train. Her matching lace mantilla added charm to her gown.

Best man was George Blackwood and groomsmen were Aullan Johnson and Duane Lewis, brother of the groom. Ushers were Steve Barrington and Robert Moorehouse.

The new Mrs. Lewis is the daughter of Mrs. Jeane Ambrose, Jensen Beach. She is employed by Pan American World Airways, Inc.

The groom, employed by Radio Corporation of America, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Van Lewis of Martinsville, Virginia, who were also present for the nuptial events.

Other out-of-town guests included Miss Kathy Lewis and Mrs. Aullan Hopkins and family, sisters of the groom.

Waterfront Plundering Continues

Waterfront depredations continued last week with reports of a destroyed fish net, a half-sunk boat, stolen money, and missing crab traps. Martin County Sheriff Roy C. Baker and his law enforcement officers were kept busy with area reports.

J. C. Koman, Pine Lane, Rio, reported 22 crab pots stolen this month from the St. Lucie River. He said his loss was about $220. Lines to the pot buoys had been cut with a sharp knife and the buoys floated ashore along the Rio waterfront.

Koman's 20-foot crab boat was reported half-sunk at Casa Rio Boat Basin. A hose had been pulled from a pump, permitting the flooding, and the canvas boat top had been torn, he reported.

In another incident, Allen Baker reported a 100-yard fish net with which he was fishing in the St. Lucie River, off Martin Memorial Hospital, was destroyed by a Kansas registered boat which ran over it and cut it.

The soft drink machine at Phil's Motor Repair on Manatee Pocket, Port Salerno, was robbed of $20, Phil's is an outboard motor repair facility.

THOMAS D. CHRISTIE--Airman Thomas D. Christie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Christie, 505 Flamingo Ave., Stuart, has been assigned to Lackbourne AFB, Ohio, after completing Air Force basic training. FWF Requests Inlet Registry

Florida Wildlife Federation has adopted a resolution addressed to the National Wildlife Federation in which the assembly of a registry of inlets kept in suitable condition for the use of small craft was asked, according to Robert T. Bair, a FWF director.

The resolution, drawn by Tom Hamont, executive director of FWF, had three purposes, Bair said: Small craft inlets are necessary to recreation; they are important for spawning grounds for fish; and as relief valves for excess fresh water to be drained to the ocean, thereby eliminating a cause of pollution.

These theories apply to St. Lucie Inlet as well as to hundreds of inlets throughout the country, said Bair.

A directors' meeting will be held for FWF April 1 and 2, he said. Thirty-eight attended the Gainesville meeting at which the inlet resolution was adopted.

Words To Make Your Life Better

Is there any human pleasure much keener than the return after absence to a well-loved place? A place long familiar, full of associations of happiness which throw a light of affection even over station platforms -- where, above all, one knows and is known, where welcome is assured, and delight certain? I think not.--I think this is one of the simplest, purest, and deepest pleasures that this world has to give.

A Haid Full Of Sporting Tips

by Howard Lee Haid

This area has long been known for its sport and commercial fishing. The home of the SAIL FISH CAPITOL OF THE WORLD and fishing grounds for one of Florida's largest commercial fleets. Both types of fishing offer attractions to tourist that visit this area. Some come to participate in the fine fishing and some come to "just be around."

Over the years many complaints have been registered by sportsfishermen against the commercial men and vice versa....Most likely some of these complaints have been justified....but.... one thing that certainly cannot be justified is commercial fishing under the guise of a sports fisherman....

If a sports fisherman wants to sell his catch to a local fish outlet, he should be classed in the same manner as a commercial setter.

This item was brought to my attention during the past week and since then I have done some fact finding on my own. I have talked to numerous sport-fishermen that were able to relate cases and claimed amounts earned by the so-called sport fisherman. The amounts earned by this type of fisherman are from as low as 500 dollars up to five hundred dollars monthly. Some have even admitted they have earned enough to live well without relying on their earning of other incomes. Quite a lucrative business when there is no license to buy or other rules to follow....Just for the sake of it.....

When something sticks in the craw, as this does mine, I feel it is time to speak out and to seek help that will be able to solve the problem. The guilt of this illegal enterprise rests with every fisherman and it should be resolved now before it snowballs into larger proportions. The game commission, commercial men and sportsmen alike should make every effort to preserve fishing in its proper prospective, by reporting any and all known violators to proper authority....

TIPS: Plane of Swing.... The plane of a swing is the path the club shaft follows. The arc of the swing is the path that the club head follows. The face of the club is really the reflection of the arc of the swing.

So you really have two influences on the ball mechanically. The angle of the force which reflects the plane and the face angle which reflects the arc.

Mechanically, the ball follows the path the club swings in. What happens at the end of its flight is a reflection of the face angle at impact. If your ball starts left, the plane was outside and in. If the face was open with this swing, the ball would slice back to the right. This same swing with the face closed would produce a left to left shot. If the plane in the hitting area coincides with the line of flight, the ball will start on target. Slice or hook would depend on the face angle. If the plane is inside coming down the ball would be pushed right and again the slice or hook would be the result of the face angle. If the plane is on line and the face angle square, the result is a straight shot.

All of these results hinge on hitting a golf ball solid. The average golfer mis-hits the ball and swings with the club face open so he's a slicer. The first job in learning to swing a golf club is to hit the ball solid, then high, then far, then straight. Straight is the last thing you learn and requires good balance, good plane and a square face angle at impact.

FIRST BALL: County commissioner Frank Wacha rolled out the first ball (and got seven pins) to open the ninth annual Martin County Men's Bowling Association tournament at Jensen Beach Lanes last weekend. Pictured with Wacha was Ed Randhan, secretary-treasurer of the association. The first weekend was devoted to the singles and doubles events. This weekend will be reserved for the team championships.

53 Caught And Released In Sailfish Tournament

A total of 53 sailfish were caught and released during the recently completed four-day Light Tackle Sailfish Tournament sponsored by the Stuart Sailfish Club.

First place winner, S. H. Evert, a Bloomsberg, Penna., building contractor who whipped 11 sailfish to win his first major fishing tournament.

Evert came on vacation just to fish the tournament.

Break-Ins, Fire

Stuart Junior High plagued by a rash of break-ins over the weekend, had double-trouble at 8:30 A.M. Monday when an oil space heater stark in a music classroom started a blaze between the partitions.

A short attempt by school personnel to extinguish the blaze while apparatus from the Stuart Fire Department was en-route, failed. Damage was restricted to one corner of the classroom. The room is now off bounds to separate building facing High School Ave. Smoke damage was heavy.

Classes all over the sprawling campus walked out as in a fire drill, but were slow, in some places, to return. A second recall bell sent them into the cool of the morning again, before they were finally settled down for studies.

Boats Warned Against Anchoring In Channels

Jail Warden Conservation Agent Holland C. Smith has issued a dozen warnings to boaters anchoring in local channels last Thursday and said warnings would turn to arrests after Sunday.

"We're going to issue warnings through Sunday only, then enforce the laws" he said. Byrd's boat and the Department's new floating office boat will be on the job, Byrd said.

Two arrests were recorded for illegal use of fish nets after warnings under a previous, charged were E. Burton Hodges, 30 of Manassas, and Robert Lester son, 31 of Eau Gallie. Both arrests were made near the Ernest Lyons Bridge in the Indian River.

Sailfish Club Entries

A 26 ft. [illegible] fished [illegible] Marion Ave., Jensen Beach, July 19, is a record entry in the Stuart Sailfish Tournament. Operated and was aboard the "Hooked Up" Capt. [illegible]

A [illegible] weighing 13 lbs. was caught July 19 by [illegible] Jensen Beach, and entered in the tourney.

Miami Team Wins Sunfish Regatta

Twenty boats competed in the free-for-all race for Sunfish hosted by Sunrise Sunfish Club of Stuart last Sunday.

Bob Halzman of Miami won individual honors, and the Miami team entry won the team prize at the weekend regatta of the tiny sailing craft.

The races were held in the St. Lucie River off Stuart Youth Center Park where picnic lunches were held both days.

Second in the team races was Palm Beach Lakes club with four wins to Miami's six.

Second in the free-for-all was Paul Lindenberg, West Palm Beach, with Doug Brown, Miami, third.

Walter Johns skippered the committee boat, The Bambino III. Committee members included Bill Chesley, chairman; Dr. David Peterson, Harold Stafford, J. B. Waters, Herman Decker, Clyde Coutant, Cotton Rogers, Max Vickers, and Oscar Pearson.

Anchorage Mobile Park News

by Rene R. Wiggins
287-0116

Many activities are in progress in our park in addition to the art of taking care of our loved gardens.

First of all, we want to report that Ed Hastings is still in Martin Memorial Hospital but convalescing satisfactorily from recent surgery. His sister, Mrs. John DeLuccia from Fairlawn, N.J., arrived Jan. 28, Mae casts joy wherever she goes, and we know now Ed will hurry home and get well soon.

Mrs. Annie K. Liable, that wonderful mother of Edna's, hosted John and Edna Wolf, Don Johnson and Ernie Kluben for cocktails Jan. 23, and the following day she had John, Edna and Don for a luncheon that only Mother Liable can create, as she is an artist in preparing food.

For the past week, Mrs. Thyra Hannus has had house guests, Mrs. Elsa Regli, from New York, and her son, Stig. Mrs. Regli is manager of a well-known cosmetic salon. Stig is an enthusiastic golfer, enjoying our local course. Mrs. Elsa Lindholm, a park resident, and Thyra's sister, has also entertained the Reglis during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Burkholder continue to entertain their many friends and relatives from Riviera Beach and West Palm Beach.

Agnes Trout and friend, Ida Hunter, returned Wednesday from their rainy trip to Miami, but had a lovely time visiting Miss Eleanor Lindley. Saturday, Agnes and Moe Trout were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Burgett of Jensen Beach.

Betty Thorp and Ann McCarron left for Orlando Jan. 27 to attend the Horseman Trotting Assoc. School of Instruction, for the new year, a three-day session and very interesting.

In the past week, Mr. and Mrs. Harry York, John Helmkin and sister Bertha Foster, had a lovely day in West Palm Beach and enjoyed the show "Sound of Music".

During the past week, Stuart and Gladys Anhalt were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wisely, residents of Jensen Trailer Court.

Bob Wasserman, Cleveland, Ohio, who has been visiting his father and sister, Ed and Margery Wasserman, will be leaving shortly to return to the snowbound country. Anyway, he had a fine time fishing every day. He is a fisherman of renown, having followed this sport in many parts of the country.

Harry and Sylvia Eagon, guests of Grace Cordray, continue with the sport of fishing, day and night, and love it.

On Jan 19, George and Ione Gerrie very kindly arranged to have a registered nurse at their home to take blood pressure for a very nominal fee, a service sponsored through Federation of Mobile Home Owners of Fla, Inc. George is treasurer of District 4 of this organization.

George and Ione are convalescing after bad colds, but carrying on with their many projects as usual. They recently visited their dear friends, Jack and Delores Metcalf in Sunshine Mobile Park.

On Saturday, Jan. 28, Mrs. Harry York hosted the women of the Park, and Edna Wolf, for a dessert party. We are organizing monthly meetings of this kind, with the purpose of pursuing a workshop project, possibly to take care of a pet charity. There will be fun, too; birthdays are entering our thoughts. It's all new, and we will let more be known about our doings.

Bill Owens Arrested For Registration Goof

Former Representative William E. Owens was arrested for failure to have a valid boat registration on Jan. 15 was revealed Friday because Owens failed to appear in county court to answer a summons issued in lieu of an appearance bond.

The former legislator was charged by Conservation Officer John Dawna in the Intracoastal Waterway last Sunday, south of Port Salerno.

Dawna made note on the summons that Owens had not had a valid registration on the boat since 1964.

When Owens failed to appear to answer the charge, County Prosecutor William A. Oughterson said he would write Owens a letter.

There were 227 cases on the docket, including four who entered $500 bonds on charges of possession of bolita. They were Eugene Blandville and Alfred S. DeLancey and Charles Elliston all of Mars Hill, Jensen Beach.

Frankie and Elbert Silas in court on the same charges pleaded not guilty. Trial was set for May 22. They were represented by Robert J. Randolph, Attorney.

Hardy and Willie Sutton also charged with possession of lottery tickets, pleaded not guilty, as well. Trial was set for May 22. They were not represented by counsel.

An older and many times continued charge of selling lottery tickets against Jonathan N. Thompson, was once again continued.

$35,100 Grant For Pioneer Center

The Pioneer Occupational Center for the Handicapped, in Fort Salerno, has been notified by U. S. Rep. Paul G. Rogers that its application for a $35,100 grant by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare had been approved for the first of three years.

The first $35,100 of the grant is for the year beginning Feb. 1, and is for additional staff and equipment at the center.

The grant was made contingent on a $4,001 appropriation by the county which was agreed to at the budget session last summer.

The center is making plans to utilize the grant by adding to both the training and clerical staff, according to Rev. Donald R. Schroeder, secretary.

The association board has moved to make immediate application for a federal building grant of $100,000, 40 per cent of which would have to be raised locally. A rough draft of projected facilities is being drafted for suggestions to an architect.

Stuart Chrysler-Plymouth Sponsors Musical High School Safety Show

Music for Modern Americans" an unusual high school assembly program will be staged Feb. 2, at MC High School as part of the Stuart Chrysler Driver Education Program.

"Music for Modern Americans" is a fast paced professional musical Driver Education revue featuring Thurlow Spurr and the Spurrlows, a group of thirty young, talented entertainers.

This highly publicized program uses music and comedy to spotlight the importance of highway safety and Driver Education. Special recognition will be given to Martin County Driver Education instructors, and the State Highway Patrol participants.

The Spurrlows have toured the country on behalf of Driver Education since 1964 performing for two million enthusiastic students in over 1500 different high schools from coast to coast.

Just as audiences have applauded the musical safety show, Senators, Congressmen, Highway Safety officials, parents and educators have praised the country wide Driver Education Program.

Stuart Chrysler takes pride in making this worthwhile program available. With the number of cars on the road increasing rapidly every year, Driver Education has become a matter of vital importance to every member of the community.

'Anchors Aweigh'

THE STODDARDS' "HEILITE" TENT TRAILER--It was a nice, sunny day when I passed the Stoddards' campsite on West End Blvd. Jan. 21. George Stoddard was reclining in a camp chair under their tent awning while his good wife was writing letters in their tent living room. The Stoddards are from Wakefield, Mass. and are old hands at camping, having started some 40 years ago. During this time they have camped in 46 states. They had the present "Heilite" tent trailer just two years. When set up, there are 88 square feet of floor and sleeping space plus 42 square feet under the tent awning. The whole folds to a space of 4,' x 6.6 x 4,0 high, so is no hard on the car and gives good rear-view visability.

Luther Weeks and daughter Mrs. F.T.(Birtie) from Corpus Christie, Texas, were out in the inlet fishing Jan. 23. This was great fun for 'Jackie' and she really enjoyed the thrill of hauling in the fighting blues. After a while the tide changed and with no tide running, the blues quit biting. Luther decided to pull up anchor and move to a spot where they could catch sheep-head. With the change in tide, quite a length of anchor rope had accumulated under the boat. Soon Luther's anchor came up but with another rope attached, being curious, Luther pulled on this rope and an anchor and other ropes came up, then another anchor, more ropes, fish hooks, lines and sinkers all tangled together and two more anchors. As Luther was pulling in all this stuff, Jackie said, "You don't want all these old anchors, Daddy." But Daddy had different ideas and soon had quite an interesting pile of old gear on the bottom of the boat, four anchors with attached ropes all tangled up with hundreds of feet of fish lines, hooks, sinkers, etc. etc.

Another good crowd of 151 attended the meeting Jan. 26. Charles French and Cliff Ogle both showed exceptionally good pictures of their respective travel interests. This took a bit over the hour so it was a decision of the interest people take in these pictures when it remained to watch the slides and listen to the commentary of the P.A.A. travel slides, which was the next-to-last period. These slides represented round-the-world stories from eight newspaper titles including Ocean Breeze.

Next Thursday Feb. 2nd, Jo Schaninger will show slides of his and wife Helen's extensive trip to countries around the Mediterranian. Those always enjoy Jay's travel talks so this should be an evening to look forward to with pleasurable anticipation. Everyone welcome - 7:30 P.M.

Sophie Thompson Injured In Fall

Mrs. Sophie Thompson, who lives at the corner of Strand and Slade had a very unfortunate accident on Jan. 23rd. She had just had a wash through at the Seventh St. laundry and was hanging her clean clothes on the lines in the adjacent drying yard when she caught her toe against a tuft of grass which threw her off balance and she fell flat on her face on the concrete walk. She was able to stagger to the laundry where Martha Miller was also washing, Martha said Mrs. Thompsons glasses had been driven into her face, making a long gash over the eyes. Her face was covered with blood and a towel she held was saturated, and it looked as if her nose was broken as it was so flattened. Harry Hear called the park ambulance and when Mrs. Thompson reached the hospital, Dr. Grissinckle attended her. Seven stitches were necessary to close the cut over the eye.

Mrs. Thompson returned home Jan. 27 and Sunday Jan. 29 she was tending her flowers, altho she was wearing two black eyes and several face bruises.

Mrs. Ted Myers, Mrs. Lil Hawkins and Mrs. R. E. Barrett entertained 24 ladies at a dessert card party on Jan. 26 in the Myers' catana.

'Growing Pains'

This is a story of living conditions in the small town of Rockdale, Wisc. during the period 1900 to 1910 by Mrs. John Ball's sister Frances Niederer, continued from last week.

The electric line did not come to Rockdale until two years before my sister was married. Not until then did we have a bathroom, running water, furnace, electric refrigerator, stove or washer.

The business part of the town was on the east side of the pond. Often times the kids got into arguments about ending to fights - which was the best side to live on.

The mill was a hub around the business to town. It was a common old mill but in good repair, doing custom grinding for the farmers for miles around. In those days grain into unbleached flour, white wheat flour, rye flour, corn meal and cracked corn. The mill stream and pond furnished a good bit of our fun in summer and winter. In the winter, when the water of the stream was not so high we'd play ice hockey there. In back before the dam, as would start rafts and take them to the sidewalk and have races with them. More always used barrels for control of speed. Once in a while when we were sailing, the water got quite deep, I slipped and fell in. My sister Mary Helen pulled me out by the hair.

In early springtime, the ice in the pond would begin to break up and go over the dam, making a fine ice and splash. We would sit on the wall above the dam for hours watching this and often beg the big pieces by pushing them with long fish poles. The heavy water going over the dam caused large piles of ice in the bend. We would use this for an skipped stream on our first classes in our play houses. I can remember the times of fish that they would get and how we would fish until it almost ran out of our bait. Mother's department would not allow such a slaughter.

More next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hackbart and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Osborn attended the Mobile-home Owners Convention at Lakeland Jan. 19 and 20. The convention was held in the civic centre which Mrs. Hackbart says is a beautiful building in a beautiful setting, with grassy lawns and the lake close by.

The following officers were elected for the State Association for 1967; President - Col. Lee Dawson; 1st Vice Pres. Bud Sajor; 2nd Vice Pres. Fred Bohrer; Treasurer Irene Robinson. The nominated secretary, for personal reasons had to refuse the office so the board of directors will appoint a secretary. One new director was elected from our 3 state number four and he was William Gilbert of the Pines Mobile Village in Stuart.

The Blood-bank President Mr. Schaninger, retained his office for another year, Irene Robinson will act as Treasurer.

Leona Myers Writes

We have a letter from Lyrell and Leona Myers, a few weeks ago and they are interested their friends in the park:

Dear Nellie and Tom - we have had great weather since leaving Florida. We left Pensacola where we have had three visitors for a few days, but this morning Mr. Virgil had to go out the front door and shovel snow away from the back door before we could open it. All transportation was asked to keep off the roads and visibility was reduced to 1/4 mile for the first time, because at the same time had three inches of snow and winds up to 60 miles per hour, but temperature was not much below zero.

We had a letter from Hope Sparks. She seems to keep well and gets out some. We enjoyed the Blythe Xmas letter and the few lines from Art Johnson. The ladies pictured in the last Mirror look very natural and we like to see them, so enjoy the Mirror as there is always someone mentioned that we know.

Please remember us to our friends.

Powers To Present Water Plan

County commissioner Timer Powers presented Martin County's recommendations and policies on water matters to the Annual Conference on Water Resources Development of the Department of Conservation in Tallahassee last Tuesday.

Consequently, Powers was not present at the meeting of the county commission. The county's recommendations proposed "improvement and expansion of St. Lucie Inlet protection, the Okeechobee Waterway, the Intracoastal Waterway, and the Martin County plan for water control being prepared by the U.S. Corps of Engineers and Central and Southern Florida Flood Control District."

The latter plan, as presented by the county, held the following ultimate objectives: "Human consumption, agriculture and conservation, and that any surplus to these requirements might ultimately be dispersed to Everglades Park area with minimum dispersal to the sea as may be necessary for the ecology of existing streams."

The county also endorsed the "study" of the Corps of a hurricane or flood control gate at Hoover Dike, Lake Okeechobee, at the western end of St. Lucie Canal.

Proposed for additional study, report and funding in the Outdoor Recreation program were: St. Lucie Park on the northern ends of both Jupiter and Long Islands; the savanna recreation park including lands in St. Lucie and Martin Counties; and endorsement of a park planned on the east shore of Lake Okeechobee, lying north of St. Lucie Canal.

Requested were studies of beach erosion and control at Jensen Beach, Stuart beach, House of Refuge, St. Lucie Park area of proposed public beach, and Jupiter Island beaches.

Requests were repeated for scenic route programs, through the State Road Department to the U.S. Bureau of Roads, asking a Savanna Park scenic route in connection with the Savanna Park, and an Okeechobee Waterway scenic road from Lake Okeechobee to the Canal Locks on the north bank of St. Lucie Canal, thence to St. Lucie Park area along Cove Road.

Attention was called by commissioner Timer Powers to the county's interest in the Citrus Blvd. portion of the scenic road in the Indiantown area, as well as the move to budget secondary road funds for preliminary advertising of the Cove Road end of the overall proposed project.

Board Prepares For Guidelines

Members of the Martin County School Board will attend a "guidelines" session on integration policies at Orlando next Monday. Last Monday's meeting of the board developed new theories on school construction and brought out an expression of Negro feelings toward the use of Murray Junior-Senior High School.

Figures not supplied at the time the board decided to build a four-room addition to Hobe Sound Elementary School indicated a need for an addition at Port Salerno Elementary, and as a result, the board indicated it would delay final action until desegregation policies are firmed.

A two-room addition to each of the two schools was suggested.

The board will attend the Orlando sessions Monday, and has an appointment with John Hogdon, Southeastern U.S. Region guideline representative of the U.S. Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare that night. The board hopes for firm lines along which to make decisions.

Martin County had 4.1 % integration in the 1965-66 year, 14.5 % this year, and may be required to show more gains next year, it was pointed out.

Coordinator Jack Smouse told the board that "choice" documents must be advertised, printed, distributed in the mail and returned, all by mid-April.

Joseph Berrian, president of the Murray Junior-Senior High School PTA, revealed feelings among the county's Negro population in a letter written Monday and read by Supt. of Schools Thomas L. Crook at the work session. The school would become a district junior high school if Martin County High School is made sole high school in the county.

"We're not for segregation. However, it is our feeling that integration was not designed to take away everything that the Negro has," Berrian wrote.

"It seems that the trend in Florida and other southern states is to phase out only the Negro schools. This trend does not have to prevail in this county. Murray is a good school and should be retained for the purpose it was built...a junior-senior high school," he added.

"If Murray is to be phased out as a senior high," he continued, "we ask that you also draw geographic lines designating students, regardless of race, to attend the school in this area."

ARTIST SKETCHES--Jeff Persse begins a series of editorial cartoons on local Martin County subjects this week in The Mirror. He is shading a cartoon as Larry Cain, former Stuart newspaperman, sits in assisting in the promotion of a statewide editorial cartoon campaign.

College Dorm Planned

Present expansion plans at St. Joseph College, Jensen Beach, include construction of a 150-bed dormitory to be ready for occupancy in September, 1967. One section of the two-winged structure will house 75 men; the second will have space for 75 women.

A second residential hall of 150-bed capacity is projected for completion for the fall term, 1968.

Although commuting students will still be accepted, this plan will change the status of St. Joseph College to a co-educational, residential, liberal arts junior college serving qualified youth without restriction as to race, color or creed.

THE WINNER--Top essayist in the Jensen Beach Lions Club International Peace Essay Contest is Miss Marilyn Trowbridge, a Sister student at St. Joseph College. Miss Trowbridge accepted her $50 prize and a plaque from Lion president Al Walker as two of three judges looked on. Judges Ray Mason, former editor of the Chicago Tribune, and George Perkins, retired lawyer, flank Miss Trowbridge and Walker. Not present for the award was the third judge, school supervisor Tom Crook. Second place in the contest went to Mary Ann Benick, and third to Margaret Shaughnessy, two students at St. Joseph College. Miss Trowbridge will have her essay on peace entered in the district contest and could eventually win $25,000 in the International Contest.

United Fund Begins $10,000 Campaign

The Jensen Beach-Rio United Fund Drive got under way this Monday with fifty local workers covering the area, striving to reach a goal of $10,000. The goal is the highest ever attempted in the ten-year history of the drive.

On Tuesday night there was $1,800 collected in reports from six area captains, according to Willard Bowman, drive chairman.

At a kickoff breakfast Monday, attended by fifty workers, former state representative Bill Owens was keynote speaker. Owens told the workers that it is people like them who keep our community growing, and he urged them to make the drive successful.

"It can be done, is good," Owens said, adding, "It is done, is better."

The workers were served a breakfast by the members of the Rio Civic Club. The cost of the breakfast was taken care of by the civic club, with orange juice donated by Lentz Groves.

Mrs. Charles Hall, UF president, introduced the guests at the head table and the many officials of the twelve participating agencies.

Bowman announced that a report would be given to the press next Tuesday on the drive, as the first phase closed. The members of the UF will gather as each area captain reports to the Jensen Beach Community Center to have her collections tabulated on a blackboard. At that time it will be discovered how much is needed to make the goal of the fund drive.

Workers have been canvassing door to door this week, calling on homes and collecting for the fund. Workers are equipped with name tags, letters and door reminders for unoccupied homes, window stickers and receipt books.

Organizations participating in the United Fund drive include the Jensen Beach Free Ambulance, Jensen Beach Community Center, Jensen Beach and Rio Boy and Girl Scouts, Martin County Crippled Children and Adults, Martin County Retarded Children's Association, Martin County Mental Health Association, Pioneer Occupational Center, Martin County Animal Rescue League, Martin County Red Cross, Mars Hill Community Center, and the Jensen Beach-Rio Community Emergency Fund.

Deputy Rescues Man From Jetty

Walter Richards, 27, of 208 Jefferson Ave., Coral Gardens, Stuart was plucked from the end of the jetty at St. Lucie Inlet at dusk Tuesday by Deputy Sheriff Safer Grose in the Sheriff's department boat. Grose was assisted in the rescue by Frank Longo, charter boat skipper, who offered to accompany Grose on the rescue mission.

Richards' boat was pulled in but believed to be beyond repair. Only three months old, he said it was worth $1400. The motor was badly damaged in the sinking.

Richards probably owed his life to Ernest Varvil, an airplane pilot for Mrs. Robert Brown, who spotted him when passing over the Inlet. Varvil saw Richards waving frantically and radioed the airport, which called the Sheriff's department, dispatching Grose.

Richards said his boat went down about 4 p.m., swamped by a swell near the end of the jetty. Varvil and Mrs. Brown spotted him around 5:45 p.m. Assistance reached him about 6 p.m.

The boat was towed to Sandspirit Park, beached and hauled out of the water with the assistance of Bruno Mosker, Sr. and Bruno Mosker, Jr.

Local Cartoon Brings County Editorial Spice

This week The Mirror is starting a new feature, an editorial cartoon with local flavor and local appeal. The artist Jeff Persse, an experienced editorial cartoonist, who is working on an idea to benefit all weekly newspapers in Florida.

Assisting Persse in the promotion of the cartoon in Florida newspapers is Larry Cain, former Stuart newspaperman. Cain will use his years of experience in Martin County to good avail in helping Persse picture the county.

"A picture is worth a thousand words," said Persse, "and the normal weekly newspaper uses cartoons of a national flavor, mainly because it is a very expensive operation to have local cartoons drawn. It costs more to localize the cartoons, but readers like them to pertain to their community, and buy more newspapers because of them."

Editorial cartoons are often used, and will be in The Mirror, without editorial comment. They will carry a message of importance to the public on local problems where they are continuing social, economic and political conditions worthy of such attention.

Mirror editor Dick Campbell welcomed the new feature to The Mirror, saying, "I believe that Mr. Persse has something to say, and the quality of his art work and his treatment of our problems show in our first editorial cartoon this week. The cartoon deals with the problem faced by the local school board and the county in utilizing Murray High School, located in the slums of Port Salerno.

The cartoon will appear each week on page four, The Mirror editorial page.

DISTRIBUTION OF WORKERS' KITS--United Fund workers received kits containing supplies needed for their door to door canvassing this week in their volunteer efforts to reach the $10,000 goal set for the annual all for one, one for all drive. Left to right, above, are Mrs. Ella Priestly, Miss Martha Tschischeck, Willard Bowman, drive chairman, and Mrs. Judy Carroll. In the background is former state representative Bill Owens, guest speaker at the kickoff breakfast held Monday morning.

SERIOUS DISCUSSION--Former Rep. William E. Owens, guest speaker at the Jensen Beach-Rio United Fund kickoff breakfast held Monday, Feb. 6 at Rio Civic Club, joins Mrs. Charles Hall, president of the UF, and Willard Bowman, drive chairman, in a last-minute discussion prior to the canvassing.

BREAKFAST IS SERVED--These accommodating ladies, members of the Rio Civic Club, served breakfast Monday morning to 50 volunteer workers of the Jensen Beach-Rio United Fund. The Club donated the food, in addition to making an individual donation to the drive.

Water Storage Tank Construction Starts

Work started last week on a $55,000 half-million gallon water storage tank at the Town Hall, intersection of Sewall's Point Road and A-1-A, the highway in the beaches.

To be built by Hardin, Inc., of Warren, Pa., and Barton, Fla., the tank is part of the Southern Gulf Utilities, Inc., water distribution system and was first agreed to in the zone tract with the Stuart water department in 1965.

Slow development on Hutchinson Island was cited as the reason for delay. Mortimer Meyer, vice-president of the private utilities firm, said when the need built-up the storage tank would be built.

The move to build the tank was interpreted to mean that a previously unannounced agreement under which Southern Gulf Utilities would supply water to the ocean-to-river mobile home park planned for south of, but in county on Hutchinson Island by Messrs. Kraus and Sugarman, Tennessee developers.

Sites of the development, which will include a combination type campsite park and a mobile home area on the island south of the Martin County line, St. Lucie County line, and far south for Ft. Pierce water supplies, is not known at this time.

Maintenance of project pressure is gains from the new tank required the new Sewall's Point tank, it was pointed out. The mobile home development site is about ten miles from the city's water supply.

Construction of the tank came at a time when the City of Stuart is currently making expansions in its own sewer and water main system.

Joe N. Crowder, city manager, visited Atlanta last week, reporting the Housing and Urban Development $114,700 grant would be ready to use in the Spring. Crowder brought assurance of immediate Federal aid, anticipated to be $400,000, when project including the building of a million-gallon elevated water tank at the end of Dixie Street, the Roosevelt Bridge area, a 12-inch sewer main, an elevated lift station and new water main extensions. The two-million overfills are in advance will be ready for adoption by the city commission at its 1 st, 13 meeting, according to Crowder, and it had been filed in City Hall court immediately after, for legal validation.

Bids which had been received on the sewer main portion of the project probably would have to be re-advertised, he added. No bids had ever been taken on the storage tank portion of the project.

Construction work probably will be done this summer at a time when tourism is slower.

Boy Scout Week

This week the Nation turns to honor the most outstanding and dedicated organizations of young men, the Boy Scouts of America.

During Boy Scout Week there will be many events for the scouts to use to show they have their communities at heart. A great scout parade and show will be held in Fort Pierce. The local scout troops will visit their churches in their own towns as a group and in uniforms.

The beginning of the week was highlighted with the award of an Eagle Badge to Hobart Peck of Stuart. The ceremony brought an insight into scouting that made everyone who attended proud of the organization.

Island Zoning Needs Care

The zoning of Hutchinson Island needs all the care and attention it is possible to give by the county commission. The plan as suggested by the Planning and Zoning Board leaves a lot to be desired. This is evident despite the fact the board spent many months in the planning of a zoning that would be in the best interests of the future development of the island.

We believe that the commissioners were right in not either approving, or sending the plan back to the planning board.

If they had sent the plan back, without study and comment, they would be telling the board members, who labor without pay, that they had no faith in them. If they had approved the plan, they would have approved a plan that could not satisfy the people who are interested in a great future development of the island.

We believe that the commissioners should look at the original plan presented by the board. It had set aside areas for development that gained much support among the people interested in the future growth of the county.

The fact that the Stuart Board of Realtors opposes the plan shows that there is much to be desired for the Realtors are a group dedicated to proper planning for undeveloped land.

The open classification of HC-1A under which the island is to be zoned, if the county accepts the plan, has good and bad points. We feel that the open classification on the entire island will be a detriment to proper growth.

Zoning classifications can, of course, be changed as time and development prove a need, but to begin with a one-class zoning has the potential to create more problems than the zoning would be worth.

This is the time to take the time to plan properly. We should listen to the planners — not the spec builders. We should endeavor to use the intelligence of our neighbors to the north and south, for they have experienced the good and evil of what lies ahead for Martin County.

Hutchinson Island in retrospect, ought to be developed late greatest, of course. The choice is in the hands of the county commissioners.

Time To Think UF

As the Jensen Beach-Rio United Fund gets in full gear and heads for a goal of $10,000 for the participating organizations in Martin County, it is time to begin thinking about a United Fund for Stuart, Palm City and Port Salerno.

The number of drives and collections for various charities (as certain) become a burdensome chore for local citizens. The door-to-door and business-to-business canvas is just too much.

The idea for a successful, once-a-year campaign should be a bright one for all the overworked local organizations of the Stuart area. The idea would certainly bring a smile of relief to local businessmen, who write a check a week to the many worthy causes that solicit supports.

The organization of United Fund is simple. It would be administered by a committee Martin County and worked. The [illegible] it is to do it.

The mechanics of the [illegible] by getting help. At [illegible] the initial steps, we know that the employees would favor the charities and organizations participating there. [illegible] would also be sure their employees [illegible] rather than a bunch of [illegible] few organizations to [illegible].

It will eventually [illegible] Let's [illegible]

'Atlas Shrugged'

According to a news [illegible] Times, civil rights, religious [illegible] ers have joined forces to [illegible] billion "freedom budget for [illegible] The budget will be requested [illegible] the federal government. Its purpose is to provide a guaranteed annual income, increased welfare and social security payments, full employment, a rise in farm income and health, housing and educational opportunities for all persons.

The sponsors of the "freedom budget" explained that this astronomical sum can be raised without higher taxes. They believe it can come from the still unspecified taxes the federal government will collect, known as federal surplus income and will also not [illegible] in the next ten years.

There is little doubt that anyone who dares to question the merits of the "freedom budget" will be branded as a reactionary and defeatist, but that as it may, the Bleeding Hearts still have the right—and the obligation—to continue to point to the fallacies of an affluent welfare state.

Some years ago a book entitled "Atlas Shrugged" described in a fictitious manner the disintegration of a society that sought to obtain the ultimate in equality by stripping the accumulated resources and talents of the nation's most productive people in order that each might receive according to his needs. In the ensuing debate, it was found that men of ability, the creators, the industrialists, the producers gradually disappeared from the scene. Society simply became an infinite, starving mass. Additional [illegible] this was a farfetched analysis.

Great Britain has not yet built a "freedom budget" but it has gone much farther along the road to a welfare state than the United States. Great Britain has nationalized many industries, has been subjected to many and frequent [illegible] and unemployment is rising. It is logical to suggest that there is much similarity between the welfare state and the spiraling [illegible] of the people.

Don't Believe It!

In an age of management specialists, organized [illegible] and mergers it is comforting to be reminded that a man can still start at the bottom, if the builder and work his way to the top. A top official of one of the largest domestic petroleum firms, who started out pumping gas in a service station, gave some advice to a high school graduating class not long ago. "The chief will tell you that the safest thing to do is conform, submerge yourself into the background, don't believe it. The best way to get to the top is to be remembered as the original, the people willing to take the [illegible] of life....It's enough, the crowd will say, to keep your nose clean because everything's run by formula or by machine calculation today. Don't believe it. You count as an individual as a unique person, and even in a corporation, as big as the one for which I work, you'll be judged as an individual."

Harless To Work Near War Zone

Sam Harless will leave for Viet Nam, Guam and Thailand Feb. 19, he said last week.

Harless resigned as Stuart chief of police in 1960, after serving since 1952. He has been operating a service station on US 1 since that time. He recently sold his holdings in the station to Earl Delp, he said.

Harless was hired as a "chief security" through a firm named Pacific Architects and Engineers, a shipping company with installations in the Far East.

"The job is under the auspices of the U.S. Army and involves liaison with the Army," he said.

His wife, Mrs. Ann Harless, a teacher at Warfield School, Indiantown, will remain here. She is working on a master's degree.

Harless said he could not talk about the specific duties to which he has been assigned but said they would take him to many cities in and near the war zone.

Three Nominated For Service Academies

Three local young men have been nominated by Congressman Paul G. Rogers to the U.S. Service Academies.

W. Terry Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Rogers, Hibiscus Park, Stuart, is the local 1967 nominee to the U.S. Military Academy.

Nominee for 1967 to the U.S. Naval Academy is Wm. J. Mathers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. T. W. Mathers, 1230 Parakeet Lane, Stuart.

The total list compiled by Rogers, as a result of competitive examinations, was 44 from the Ninth Congressional District.

Anchorage Mobile Park News

by Rene R. Wiggins
287-0116

Many activities are in progress with the residents of our Park, and we are so thankful for the ideal Florida weather.

Mr. and Mrs. William Flowers had as guests their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Al Ayers, Eau Gallie, Fla., Jan. 29. They took a trip to the West Palm Beach Fair and had a very good time.

On Feb. 1 the Flowers entertained the newly married Mr. and Mrs. Joe (Ellen) Marconi, Columbus, Ohio, who have been spending their honeymoon in Florida. Ellen is Mrs. Flowers' niece.

Mrs. Helen Gaskill, widow of the late Leon Gaskill, former residents of Rio, a close friend of the Flowers, is arriving Feb. 5.

Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. David McAbee entertained their dear friends, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth (Norma Jean) Wright, and their little daughter, Kim. The Wrights are residents of Sunshine Mobile Park. The McAbee's still go on their week-end fishing trips and are very good at this sport.

Ed Wasserman and his daughter, Margery, have as a house guest the son and brother, Wm. A. Wasserman from suburban Cleveland, O. He arrived by plane with 12 of his golfing friends who are all staying at St. Lucie Country Club Villas. Bill and all his friends play that course daily. Margery, who has a full business schedule, does manage some fishing when she has time.

Grace Cordray's brother, Herbert Eagon, spent a week fishing with the other brother, Henry, from Cal., who with his wife, Sylvia, is a guest of Mrs. Cordray's. Herbert, regretfully, had to return to his home in Cincinnatti, Ohio, last Saturday.

George and Ione Gerrie conducted a "hully-gully" dance class at their home Monday evening, Jan. 30, attracting a group of thirteen. They showed their skill in this revue on Saturday at the Club.

Wednesday the following women enjoyed luncheon and a fashion show at a local restaurant: Agnes Trout, Ida Hunter, Edna Hehner, Edna Wolf and Ione Gerrie.

Mrs. Annie K. Liable hosted for luncheon Feb. 4, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin (Betty) Goldberg from Chicago, and her daughter and son-in-law, John and Edna Wr.

Stuart and Gladys Anhalt entertained Feb. 3 for cocktails and dinner. Guests were Mr. & Mrs. Jack (Corrine) Brown, Fort Atkinson, Wis.; Mr. & Mrs. LaVan Barker, Milford, Ill., who are all vacationing. The Browns are accomplished musicians and teachers, Jack teaches accordion, Corrine piano.

The Anhalts, Joseph and Marion Kelleher of Rio, and Harry and Elsie Johnson were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Barth, residents of Pine Trailer Park, after all had played golf at the local course Feb. 4.

Also on Sunday, Feb. 5, the following Park residents enjoyed the boat-a-cade to Peck's Lake: Harry & Martha York, guests on John Helmker's and Bertha Foster's boat; George and Ione Gerrie were hosted by Mr. & Mrs. Robbie Robinson on their boat.

We regret to report it was necessary for Mrs. Thyra Hannus to enter Martin Memorial Hospital for tests on Feb. 4. Ed Hastings is still in the hospital, recuperating nicely and expected home soon. Ed's sister, Mrs. John DeLucia, returned to her home in Fairlawn, N.J., on Sunday.

Feb. 1 the following residents of the Park attended a very interesting business meeting of District 4 of the Federation of Mobile Home Owners held in Fort Pierce: George Gerrie, Harry York and Mr. & Mrs. Harry Wiggins. We hope to have many more attend the next meeting.

Palm Lake Park News

Mr. & Mrs. John J. Gentile entertained her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth DeStefano of New York City for the past two weeks. It was her first trip to Florida. The group visited Miami, relatives in Hollywood, and viewed Jai Alai in West Palm Beach. Several days were spent fishing in the area.

Prior to returning to the north, Mrs. DeStefano was lavish in her praise of Florida and Martin County.

Richard Rice will be stationed at Fort Benning, Ga., with the 1047th Transportation Division of the Florida National Guard.

From Bellemore, Long Island, the John Neilsons arrived at the Lodge on the Green in north Sewall. They have selected a building site on Myrtle Avenue, Jensen Beach, and have let the contract for their home to Frank Forster, builder. Their future plans are to spend the winters in their new home.

Glenn Weltzbarker, Sr., was injured last week in a fall from a box car on the Florida East Coast Railway, where he is employed. Both arms were broken, and he sustained several severe gashes on his forehead. He will be unable to work for at least a month or six weeks.

Mrs. Arthur Link and Mrs. Jake Burford were in South Carolina for several days. Mrs. Link's sister is now visiting her.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bowman, Sunview Road, Jensen Beach, entertained Frank Stuich of Detroit, Mich., for several days recently.

Thank You

May I take this opportunity to thank my many Jensen Beach friends for their letters and cards sent to me while hospitalized in Pennsylvania.

when the water was low in the sea bottom there would be just a trickle of water going over the dam. The space was always covered with a slippery greenslime. At this time, just about going to the bridge to go over to town, and take a short cut, fall across the dam and through the mill. Many a one stepped onto the apron and slipped down onto the rocks and water below. Some how we never got hurt — just frightened. In the winter, the dam would freeze up and we would explore the waterfalls to the bottom.

The sea used to come in the pond. Another exploring place was about two miles from the town where there was an old mound. They called it "Shell Mound". Here they were exploring as in their birthday suits, the girls did not care to be left with us boys seeing as there were pictures of all kinds and sizes there, we often found arrowheads in our tours. One day I was in the water with the boys, by myself, Bernard said he would like to see if I would go outside swimming in the pond with him and I agreed. We went out into the middle in a boat and jumped in. Roland began to kid about feeling for gar to kid about feeling and seeing turtles. I became so frightened I think I would have drowned if I had not been so afraid of being eaten by the turtles. It was the first and last swim in the pond.

My father used to raise geese. There was one crippled gander that used to chase us. The young gosslings were cute in the pen until they were old enough to eat. Certain times of the year we could walk in the pond and be safe from the turkeys. I have seen some of them gallop after me. Father used to never make us eat gosling. Mother just would let her cooking this way it was fat. Sometimes several times we had to go to the pond preparing the gosling for cooking, pulling the feathers,

MC School Board Plans Work Session

School board members returned from an all-day "guidance" session in Orlando Monday with plans for a final work session on the integration set up of Martin County schools next year, a meeting with State and Federal school authorities in Palm Beach County Feb. 27, and an early solid decision by the school board.

Called TAPS, the Feb. 27 meeting, at 10 a.m., is a Technical Assistance Program Session, at which U.S. Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare, the State School Assistance Program, and U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity will have representatives. There, the local plan for the coming year will be presented, checked by higher authorities, accepted or refused.

Board members indicated confusion, saying John Hodgdon, HEW representative was vague and avoided specifics. One said, "HEW officials tell us to go by the rulings of the courts, and the courts tell us to go by the guidelines set up by HEW."

Hodgdon was reported as saying HEW would tend to frown upon any school graduating fewer than 100 students; teachers with two grades to instruct might tend to lead to phasing out of schools in which such conditions applied, and increased integration of teachers, at least two to a school, appeared to be a specific goal.

Appointed

Governor Claude Kirk has appointed the Martin County Kirk for Governor committee as an advisory body.

Local committee chairman John Carey said Tuesday the group would work with the Governor to keep him informed on what was going on at the county level.

Members of the committee are: Carey, George Jones, Dr. Wm. Myers, Fred Meyers, Jim Reardon and Cal O'Brien.

DEMOCRATIC WOMEN INSTALLED--Mrs. Fred Owles, State president of the Democratic Women's Clubs of Florida, left, seated, installed the new officers of the Martin County Democratic Women's Club recently. Sugar Load Stranded

More than 1,000 tons of raw sugar, valued at $100,000, was stranded on a sand bar in the Okeechobee Waterway off Sandsprit Park for almost two hours last Friday afternoon.

The sugar had been loaded on a 195 foot barge "Gregory" at Belle Glade Thursday for transporting to Savannah, Ga., where the raw product will be refined.

A tug "Pauline" with Capt. Luther F. Jones in command, finally freed the barge. Both are owned by Southern Transportation Co. of Norfolk, Va.

Plans call for the barge to make three round trips per month, moving about 36,000 tons a year through here. Contents of the barge are owned by Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of Florida.

The spot where the barge grounded, near Marker 12, has caused trouble for other vessels during the past year. The curve in the channel is sharp and the water is under project depth.

Training Needs Studied

Over 100 questionnaires were mailed last week to business and industrial firms in Martin County by the education committee of Stuart Chamber of Commerce.

The forms are the first step in a survay being made to determine what technical training is necessary to fill the needs of local employers. Results will be used for recommendations to school officials.

Committee members include Allyn Weigel, William R. Burson, Art Melrose, William Stewart, John C. Gray, Thomas L. Crock and Frank DeStefano.

Advisory Board

The Stuart city commission adopted a resolution last week citing last year's members of the Advisory Planning Board for service.

The commission re-appointed to the board William R. Scott, E. H. Gluckler, Jack Bonert and Cotton Rogers; named Carl Turner to the new board, and will ask former Rep. William E. Owens and Dale Hudson to serve.

With bicycle riding fast becoming a popular mode of transportation Martin Park is showing a marked increase in this mode of transportation. Not only is this an ideal way of "to the shopperty" gad-abouting, but participants benefit by the daily exercise as well.

Both young and old are enjoying themselves on bicycles of all makes, sizes, shapes and colors. It's a wonderful sight to see. Also a remarkable change in attire is presently following this new "bike" trend. We can notice new and various styles appearing on the scene as we view the older generation taking to the road.

Two local gentlemen hoped this would perhaps bring back the "knicker" trousers and straw hats.

Chips, Divots And Tips

by Matt Moore

The Buddy Tourney gets under way this week with 26 teams entered for this best ball of two event. Charles Tillman and Jack Perkins are defending champs. All handicaps have been recomputed. All players should check their card before playing their first round match.

The Hills whimsey this week in the best two of four balls event was the team of Kelly Childs, Bill Vohden, Bill Snowden and V. M. Cosgrove with 146. Second place went to the team of Charles Grant, Fred Rhoades, Clara Gibson and Bob Moore.

Following the Buddy Tourney in March will be the Club Championship, and March 15 is our annual pro-am.

For the semi-finals of the President's Cup Tourney, Ted Hearn plays Dave Hardesbeck and Lane Rinker meets Fred Rhoades.

Congrats to Dent Rhodin for his eagle 3 on number 15. He hit a #4 wood for his second and missed making double eagle 2 by only inches.

TIPS & LESSON

A good tip this week with the course getting crowded is on ethics. Think of the players behind you and try to keep moving with the play of the day. Never let the match 'in front get a hole ahead. If you are going to look for balls, let the leader behind go through immediately.

Pace yourself with the tempo of play and everyone will get more pleasure out of the game.

Hataway Gulf, Carl Barker Win Bowling Championship

Hataway Gulf of Indiantown outlasted two other strong finishers on the final shift Sunday night to win the team championship in the ninth annual city tournament of the Martin County Bowling Association at Jensen Beach Lanes.

A quintet of relatively low average keglers, Hataway, near the bottom in the Amity Classic League at Coral Gardens Lanes, piled up a 3,041 handicap total to outdistance 52 other teams as only two 600-plus series were bowled during the weekend.

Coral Gardens was second at 3,002, and Auto Supply of Stuart was third with 2,996. Jensen Beach Bank dropped to fourth with 2,957.

Hataway had scratch team games of 920, 578 and 832 for a 2,330 series. Its contributors, with scratch and handicap series listed in that order, were: Richard Shelter, 212-632; Reggie Shelter, 485-626; Malcolm Rogers, 212-548-617; Dave Gale 214-592; and Reece Hataway, 472-574.

Wes Arrance, who bailiwick of the 600 series, boosted Coral Gardens Lanes into contention with lines of 189-211-215-615 for a 800 handicap total.

Lou Segal had the high scratch team score, a 2,669 as Lefty Passante posted 20-234-597 - 654, and Pete Robertson added 576-630. Robertson had the only other 600 on an earlier shift, a 611 for Florida Loan, which finished well off the pace.

Marty Coulter's 201-203-576 and a 204-564 by Geo. Magris were the best efforts for Jensen Beach Pens. Jim Cushman rolled 545 as Krauss & Crane finished fifth, totaling 2,926.

Other team event scores were: Coral Gardens, 2,885; Ace Exterminators, 2,885; Grumman, 2,884; Dandy Lightweight, 2,883; and Mighty Mums, 2,873.

Apparent all-events winner was Carl Barker, 1,851 handicap. Barker, a 162 averager, posted 541 in doubles, 561 in singles and 516 for team play.

Tigers Win 73-68

Underdog Martin County came from 17 points behind last Tuesday night to down conference leader Boca Raton 73-68.

Although the Boca Indians went into the second half with a 10 point lead, Stuart capitalized on rebounds and saw little opposition as they passed to their taller men.

Bobbie Cullinan led the scoring in the second half with 19 points. High man for the Tigers was Mark Hopkins with 20 points.

The Tigers play Pahokee next Friday, Feb. 10, followed Tuesday, Feb. 14 with a Jupiter game, also away.

The Stuart Jaycees won their game with Boca Raton's Jaycees Tuesday with a 56-37 victory.

Sailfish paced the Tiger Jaycees squad to an 18 point first quarter, and at halftime had scored a total of 24 points. He was high man for the night with 30 points.

A WHALE OF A PICTURE- That she blows, the 30-foot long baby whale, who cruises along beside her 70-foot mother in the shallow water about 200 yards off the beach just north of the Jensen Beach pavilion last Friday morning. Mother and calf were spotted by passengers in the plane and by the 72-foot Sesquarium, captained by Capt. Emil Hanson, in its search for porpoises. The whales moved in to 50-foot off shore, then later in the afternoon, they moved out to deeper water then north.

Park Ramps Under Construction

Work has been started on the boat ramp at Phipps Park, just north of St. Lucie Locks, according to county engineer Fred Bell. Personnel of the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission are doing the work.

The ramp is being built on the bank of Roebuck Creek almost under the high level turnpike bridge over the canal.

After completion of the Phipps Park ramp, construction is expected to start on the C-23 canal ramp, also to be built by the G&FWF commission.

The spoil berm would be removed by the county, Bell said, either used immediately or stockpiled for future uses.

Jensen Post Office Dedication Sunday; Rogers To Be Here

The Jensen Beach Post Office will be dedicated by Congressman Paul Rogers on Sunday, Feb. 19, according to Charlotte Ryan, clerk in charge. The dedication, almost a year after the post office crew moved into the building, was delayed due to the resignation of former postmaster Allen Kendall.

All local and state elected officials have been invited to attend, and the public is invited to the 3:30 p.m. dedication and open house. Tours of the building will be conducted by the post office crew.

Ceremonies for the dedication will be under the direction of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce. Dick Campbell will be master of ceremonies and will introduce guests and visiting dignitaries. Rogers will make the main address and will be introduced by county commissioner Frank Wacha.

The building is located on Ricou Road, one block off Commercial Street in downtown Jensen Beach.

The Martin County High School Band will play for the opening of the dedication. Mrs. Rynski will open the ceremonies and take part in several of the activities during the program. A color guard of the various county veterans organizations will participate.

"Mail business in this area has gone up," Mrs. Rynski noted. "For example, 10 years ago revenue was $19,097, compared with $56,100 today."

Some other facts on the history of the local postal service are as follows:

1. Number of employees today, 14, compared with 7 10 years ago.

2. Names of former Jensen Beach postmasters and the dates they held office: Allen F. Kendall, May 12, 1961 to Sept. 1, 1966; Charles L. Gay, April 17, 1959, to May 12, 1961; William C. Johnson, March 18, 1930, to April 17, 1959.

3. Number of vehicles operated by the postal service in this community today, 3; compared with 1, 10 years ago.

4. Number of postal routes served by the local postal facilities today, 3; compared with 1 ten years ago.

5. Number of mail collection boxes today, 7; compared with 1 ten years ago.

6. Number of machine cancellations today, 860,188 a year compared with 433,958 ten years ago.

William E. Owens

Owens Plans To Run

William E. Owens, 41, of Stuart, who represented Martin County in the House in the 1963 and 1965 sessions, announced his candidacy Tuesday for the newly created House seat recently established by the Federal District Court.

He said he had made the decision after much careful consideration.

"I believe that it would be advantageous to the enlarged district of Palm Beach and Martin Counties to have a resident of Martin County serving in this added House seat. I have lived in Martin County since 1951 and have represented the county in the House of Representatives for two terms, so I feel that I am well acquainted with the needs of its citizens. Also, having been born and educated in Palm Beach County, I feel that I am familiar with many of their needs as well," Owens said.

"During the time I served Martin County in the House of Representatives, I was sponsored by appointment to such committees as Finance and Taxation, Rules and Calendar, and Education--Public Schools. Most recently I served on the Interim Committee of Governmental Reorganization and Efficiency. I was chairman of its subcommittee on Business Regulations which concentrated its efforts on looking into the activities of our various State regulatory boards and agencies," he added.

Owens pledged, "If elected to this newly created House seat in the District of Palm Beach and Martin Counties, I will do my best to represent everyone in a manner which will reflect credit on both counties."

PO Officials Plan Parking Survey

The elevation of the parking lot at the post office in Jensen Beach will be surveyed by the engineering branch of the Post Office Department, according to C. B. Gladden, regional director of the postal service in Atlanta. The announcement was made by Congressman Paul Rogers in a letter to Mirror editor Dick Campbell this week.

Pictures showing the elevation of the parking area at the front of the post office, along with a complaint that the area was too steep for many of the residents of Jensen Beach, were brought to Rogers' office in Washington last fall, at the close of Congress, by Campbell.

In his answer to Rogers' request for an investigation, Gladden said that parking areas had specifications to allow a three-fourths inch per foot slope in the parking areas to allow drainage and a platform of proper height. "This is a 6.25 per cent grade", wrote Gladden.

Gladden then mentioned that the engineering department would make a survey at Jensen Beach "to see if our lessor exceeded the maximum allowable grades in the parking areas."

Mayor Files For Senate

Mayor R. W. Grady of Hocklege has indicated he would file for the Florida Senate in a statement that shows a plan for liaison representation in the five-county 30th Senatorial District he hopes to represent.

The Senate hopeful said he would appoint a representative in Titusville, Centra. Brevard, South Brevard, Vero Beach, Ft. Pierce and Stuart to assist the people in these "far-flung" counties with their legislative needs on a day-to-day basis. Grady said prominent citizens of these communities will be named shortly to initially act as campaign chairmen for him.

Grady, a Republican, if elected to the new senate seat, will represent Brevard, Martin, Indian River, Okeechobee and St. Lucie Counties.

Court Reapportions Florida

Who Will Run?

A very confused Democratic and Republican citizenry found itself in a quandry last Wednesday when three politically appointed Federal judges threw out the reapportionment of Florida's legislature and announced that they would rather do it themselves. They did, and Florida found itself with a 48 senator-119 representative legislature, completely realigned districts, and a legislature that was out of a job.

Martin County, ranked low in population among the 67 counties of the state, and for a long time a political football bounced from one district to another as the reapportionment whims of the various legislatures who tried the job would boot it, came out dribbled between Palm Beach and Brevard Counties.

Martin joins Palm Beach County in a representative district of six seats, with one seat being added to Palm Beach-Martin from the former three held by just Palm Beach. The district is comprised of seats number 76 through 81.

In the senate district numbered 29-30, Martin County bounces up to join St. Lucie, Indian River, Okeechobee and Big Brevard Counties to win two senators.

Local politicians in the many counted Martin-participated districts were still befuddled, and only one Democrat and two Republicans had indicated they would run by Tuesday night. Former Martin County state representative Bill Owens said he would file for the seat in the House, and a Delray Beach insurance man, William G. James, has filed.

The only menio. of a senate candidate is a Rockledge mayor, R. W. Grady, who has announced. No word has been received from Democrat Sen. John McCarty, or Republican Sen. Beth Johnson as to their intentions to run.

Rumors that there will be no Republican candidates for the Senate or the House from Martin County caught most citizens by surprise.

Demo party chief Joel T. Daves of Palm Beach County told The Mirror Tuesday night that the state of candidates for the Democratic party in the new House district would be released this weekend, but that he could not say who was running now.

No word was received from the GOP camp at press time.

Martin County after being elected to serve it. However, the people of Martin County can be assured they can count on me as an ex-officio representative for them as I will always act in the best interests of the county." The Indian River County representative had been elected to serve Martin County last fall. No word was received from Rep. Frank Fee.

With barely a week and a half to the first primary, politicians were scratching their heads to find ways to raise money and votes for a full-fledged election, and voters were scratching their heads over the whole, seemingly-impossible mess left by the federal courts.

UF Hits $5,100; Goal Is $10,000

"I don't know whether to be disappointed or not," said Willard Bowman, fund drive chairman of the Jensen Beach-Rio United Fund, as he reported that the fund was only 10% toward its goal at the end of what was hoped to be a one-week campaign. Bowman said that area capitalns had reported collections in Jensen Beach and Rio of some $5,100 during the week.

"This is cash, not pledges," Bowman said, "We hope that the money to be turned in tomorrow night (Wednesday) will bring us closer to our goal of $10,000." The officers, directors, and workers will turn in their money to UF treasurer Alex Wilson at the Community Center at 7:30 p.m.

Several areas included in the United Fund drive have not yet been contacted due to the press of business of some of the workers, and many pledges are yet to come, according to Bowman. In addition, the special gifts section of the fund drive is waiting to find out how much will be needed to put the drive over the top before contacting prospective donors.

UF workers were saddened this week in learn of the death of Zola Swarthout, one of the founders of and hardest workers for the drive in Jensen Beach and Rio. Some urged that the drive this year be dedicated to Mrs. Swarthout, a past president who held many offices in the organization in the past nine years.

Workers have been canvassing door to door this week, calling on homes and collecting for the fund. Workers are equipped with name tags, letters and door reminders for unoccupied homes, window stickers and receipt books.

Organizations participating in the United Fund drive include the Jensen Beach Free Ambulance, Jensen Beach Community Center, Jensen Beach and Rio Boy and Girl Scouts, Martin County Crippled Children and Adults, Martin County Retarded Children's Association, Martin County Mental Health Association, Pioneer Occupational Center, Martin County Animal Rescue League, Martin County Red Cross, Mars Hill Community Center, and the Jensen Beach-Rio Community Emergency Fund.

51% OF GOAL--The Jensen Beach-Rio United Fund thermometer in front of the Chamber of Commerce office shows 51% of the UF goal reached as of Tuesday. UF officials plan a Wednesday evening fund-gathering session to see how much will be needed to put the All-For-One drive up to the 100% mark.

Zola Swarthout Died Suddenly

Mrs. Zola Clear Swarthout, 60, died at Martin Memorial Hospital Friday after an illness of only a few hours. Her death shocked all Martin county.

She had been found unconscious at her home by her mother, Mrs. Hattie Clear, early Friday, and was taken to the hospital where she died about 11:20 a.m. Her physician said death was due to a cerebral hemmorhage.

A long-time newspaperwoman, Mrs. Swarthout was society editor of the semi-weekly Stuart News at the time of her death. She had been Miami Herald correspondent here for many years. She was the widow of a newspaperman, Gordon Swarthout, who died in 1952.

Mrs. Swarthout was a native of Albion, Ind., and had lived in Jensen Beach about 18 years. Her father, the late Rev. Calhoun Lloyd Clear, was an active minister.

Mrs. Swarthout's brother, Val Clear, died in October, 1966. In addition to her mother, she is survived by her brother, John William Clear of Bangkok, Thailand.

Mrs. Swarthout was active in the Soroptimists of Stuart, Jensen Beach-Rio United Fund, Jensen Beach Women's Association, Martin County Mental Health Association, Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce, Martin County Retarded Children's Association, and Jensen Beach Ambulance Association.

Burial was Tuesday afternoon from Johns Funeral Home, at Fern Hill Memorial Cemeter), with Rev. Allan R. Stuart, First Methodist Church of Stuart, officiating.

• My father's land extended north of our house a long way along the banks of the pond - ending on a high hill. This hill contained white sand that tested ninety eight per cent "bottle glass". It was never used commercially because there were no means for marketing it. We would spend hours digging and building in this white, white sand.

Built into the hill was a large cellar with a low round entrance large enough to walk through. In the days before my time, what was the creamery had been a brewery. They used to store the beer in this cellar to age. This accounted for the name "Beer cellar". All of our pets were buried there. The cellar (or cave) was large with a dome shaped ceiling also made out of stone like the entrance. Later on after some blasting to check the sand, the back end of the cella cellar caved - still leaving a large room at the front. We would build fires in this cellar in the winter time and go in there to get warm when skating on the pond.

We gathered huckleberries, wild gooseberries, blackberries and chokecherries, the latter would cause our mouths to pucker up. We would climb to the top of the steep hill and on heavy paper, slide to the bottom almost into the pond. In the evening into the pond, in the spring we would burn the long, dry grass on the hill. Once the wind was just right and the fire spread very close to a tobacco shed and our home. Most everyone in town turned out with buckets and hoards to stop out the fire.

We had to go to a farm at the edge of the west side of the town for our milk each evening. One evening I went to get the milk on my brother's bike. Coming down the hill, the brakes would not work and I had a nasty spill, hurting my leg. I cried my eyes out - not because I spilled all the milk.

Many had their own cows and in summer would pasture them in large pasture and woods at the south east edge of our town. This pasture also had the banks of the creek for one of its boundaries and we called it the Rockdale Pasture. We all loved to go to this pasture to have picnics along the banks of the creek. We had favorite big oak trees, with large branches which were like huge arms, where we would climb and play tag, we would climb like monkeys but I can't recall a fall or a broken bone.

In this pasture was a marsh with many bogs. In the early spring marshmarigolds would grow there by the hundreds. There was a lot of water, and even ice, when the flowers first began to bloom. We loved to be the first to pick them and often took off our shoes and stockings, and waded out into the cold water and ice to pick them. At night we would have leg aches, "Growing pains" we called them, but we never told our mother we had been wading in the icy water.

Correction, Re Admiral Byrd

In Allison Stone's story which I wrote for last week's Mirror, dated Feb. 9, I quoted Admiral E. Byrd's aunt as saying that her nephew lost his life in 1934. Cliff Ogle called me on the phone and said that this was wrong, so I began digging into the encyclopedia and came up with the following information:

Admiral Richard Evelyn Byrd was born in 1888 and died in 1957. He made the first flight over the North Pole in 1926 and the first flight over the South Pole in 1929. In addition to this he has conducted four Antarctic expeditions and has mapped a million square miles of new territory. On Nov. 2, 1955 President Eisenhower placed Admiral Byrd in charge of all United States activities in the Antarctic region. I have no information of circumstances leading to his death March 21, 1957.

Oldsters Compete In Shuffleboard

The Ocean Breeze competition for men, 75 years or older, got away to a flying start Monday morning, Feb. 5, with 16 entries. One of these entries was yours truly. I seldom enter a competition and if and when I do I get knocked out the first game by such inferior players as Archie Faille, Clyde Redfinger and the like, so when I signed up I fully expected to be counted out the first round, so it was just as much a surprise to me as it was to the audience, when I managed to win my third game against John Wall. After lunch I found I was to play against Matt Hammond. Matt is a good scout and he gave me some advice as to how I might be able to beat him, which I took. Mean of me wasn't it? Matt said. "All you need for this game is a steady hand, a clear head, and lots of luck." I imagine the latter was my strong point for I got two games straight.

Tuesday Vic Sackett and I were to play the final. Vic won the first game but Lady Luck came to me rescue in the second game. By this time the sky was clouding up and rain threatened, so we decided to keep right on and finish, but the weatherman willed otherwise and we quit with the game half finished. Friday afternoon we finished our game. I guess by this time Lady Luck had tired of carrying me so long and had decided to let the best man win, and that is just what happened. Vic got first prize trophy, but do I mind? I'm proud as a peacock of my 111 ole second class trophy and it has the place of honor on top of our television where everyone can see it.

Ernie Breffle Victim Of Pickpockets

Ernie Breffle returned on Feb. 6th. after spending a month at Bayville, L.I. following the burial of his brother. Mrs. Breffle (Doris) had preceeded him by some two weeks or more. Ernie had purchased his train ticket ahead of time but through some misunderstanding he was unable to make connections from Bayville to the Penn station. Time was limited so he had to take a taxi which cost him EIGHTEEN DOLLARS. After boarding the train he went to the dining car and had lunch. He reached into his pocket to pay for the meal and found his wallet was gone with the sixty dollars in it. He had some loose change in his pocket amounting to $4.37 which he could not part with for he might have to put in a long distance phone call, when Ernie told his story the conductor believed him for evidently pick pockets had been spreading in the Penn station and other Pennsylvania terminals. He was given two free meals. Next morning a lady had brought a lunch basket with her and had cold chicken. Consequently he didn't need to take advantage of the Railroads generosity further. Ernie says he still had the $1.37 left when he reached Stuart, but he says he had quite a shock when he discovered all his money was gone.

HITTING THE DUST--Railroad gravel spreader raised quite a dust recently. Mine trailer-they closed their windows.

CLEAN-UP--In addition to the street sweeper, we have a modern garbage truck which both help to keep our park clean and attractive.

While here Mr. & Mrs. Jared and Mr. and Mrs. William Lyon went for a four day cruise on the "Sunward" to the Bahamas. This being the case, your VW dealer can get you every part to fit every year.

Except parts to build you a brand new 1967 Volkswagen. Or a 1957 Volkswagen.

If you only want a front fender, you don't have to dismantle half the car to put it on. Ten bolts do it.

You can replace the entire engine in an hour and a half.

And just to make sure our parts are as great as our whole cars, we put each part through the most rigid factory tests before we ship it out, or put it on our cars.

So if you have a Volkswagen in disrepair, go to your nearest Volkswagen dealer.

Say Pretty Please

The people of Martin County will now have to say "Pretty please" when they want something from the state government, unless something happens to land a local candidate in the Florida Legislature. The new setup sends the power of the House seats to Palm Beach County, and the power of the Senate to Brevard County.

Federal Judges seemed bent upon destroying the political divisions of the State of Florida when they forcibly reapportioned the state last week. The only identity on the state level of any county in Florida is a telephone number we can call if we need help in Tallahassee.

We feel that Martin County should have at least one candidate in each party running for one of the House seats available to us. True, the weight of Palm Beach County's registered voters would probably make chances mighty slim for the candidates, but candidates there should be.

Stranger things have happened, and Martin County should not left at least one seat go begging in this race.

This county should have to say "pretty please" to no one.

Not even with sugar on it.

Zola Was Our Gal

The sudden, untimely and shocking death of Zola Swarthout saddened many, many people in this area last weekend.

"Zola" was a person who touched everyone she knew with excitement and a deep feeling for life. Her passing is a loss to those who knew her, and those who will never come to know her.

The many community activities of Zola Swarthout are legacies of her life, for few projects she attempted failed. Her active, vitrant life dominated the scene in our county.

A newspaperman, a writer, a crusader, a do-gooder....you name it, and if it was in the interests of her community, Zola was for it and promoted it.

At this time, when the United Fund is in the midst of its annual drive, the people of our county can remember that it was Zola Swarthout who was one of the spearheading members of the first drive, and has been active in it every year since its inception.

But more than her civic works was the woman, Zola Swarthout had kindness for her many friends, a fierce loyalty for those who worked with her and lived about her. She was the perfect hostess and talked the same to everyone...straight talk.

We will miss Zola Swarthout, and we know that the town is less in her passing.

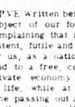
No one ever did so much for a town, and asked so little.

Asking For A Chance?

Conceivably the day may be approaching when it may be good politics, as well as national necessity, to bring federal income and outgo into balance. A late Opinion Research Corporation survey shows that 72 per cent of the people approved a cut in federal spending as an alternative to a further tax increase to help control inflation.

The big question now is will spending cuts be looked upon with favor when they begin to pinch, or will it be the old story all over again of being in favor of government economy so long as it is your next door neighbor who is making the sacrifices? Congressmen trying to keep their constituents happy are pouring billions of dollars down the drain of countless federal projects and programs. This, not the war in Viet Nam, is slowly bankrupting the country. The war in Viet Nam has come on top of a trend that already existed, a trend toward fiscal insolvency. If the people mean what the Opinion Research poll indicates, there may be some hope of bringing federal spending under control. It would not take too much effort nor too much sacrifice.

The tremendous prod activity of our industries and our people can guarantee the financial integrity of the nation if given half a chance. Perhaps the polls and recent elections indicate that we are asking for that chance--before it is too late.



by Ives Cary

The Courier and Ives

PVE Written before on the subject of our foreign aid, complaining that it's inconsistent, futile and expensive for us, as a nation, to pretend to a free, competitive private economy and way of life, while at the same time passing out aid abroad in the best welfare state tradition. Imagine how little our "free enterprise" convinces the people intended to be "aided"...or, just read the voters at the United Nations....that takes no imagination at all.

I am firmly convinced that the best way for us to stop communism from taking our allies, our friends and us, is by energetically spreading our way of life abroad, and the best and biggest part of our way of life is still made possible by free men competing in private enterprise.

For all its present erosion and likely arresting of our free system, the welfare state is not yet the dominant characteristic of our way of life. It's like a mild cancer. The trouble with our foreign aid program is that the government is exporting cancerous welfare state "aid", instead of using abroad, as we could, our free men.

Previously I have urged expansion of our savings and loan association concept, with its guarantees of course, but mostly with its vital ingredient of free men competing. That's what built our great way of life--not social security.

Now, here we have another example of private initiative in action, and it's not my hairbrained proposal, but a working functioning thing operating with federal recognition.

INTERNATIONAL EXECUTIVE SERVICE CORPS

The I.E.S.C. is a private, non-profit organization established by leaders of the U.S. business community in 1964 to assist private enterprise in the developing countries.

It has two objectives:

First, to aid in the vital task of economic development--and more particularly, the building of a strong base of vigorous private enterprise--in the developing nations through direct assistance by the business community in the United States to growing businesses abroad; and

Second, to provide an opportunity for retired American businessmen to continue to put their know-how and experience to the highest use, and to enable younger mid-career executives to broaden their management experience, thus significantly increasing their value to their own companies.

Imagine that! I.E.S.C. even requires the foreign aid companies assisted to pay a part of the cost of the program. Volunteer American executives aid small and medium-size enterprises abroad in every conceivable field of business.

And the best part of it all is that it makes important inroads into the biggest single waste that wasteful Americans make--experience.

The American fetish for retirement is the most wasteful practice that the human race ever perpetrated upon itself.

It's true that an athlete reaches his peak at about age 29, and it's true that men reach their peak of learning at age 45....but it's also true that our highest income years only start at age 45!

Whether it's business executives or skilled craftsmen, what a shame to discard a lifetime of ability under the guise of "compulsory retirement".

What this country needs is a sensible way to make use of all that "retired" talent and ability. The I.E.S.C. seems to me to be a significant step in the right direction.

SCORE FOR HOME FOLKS

Another sensible use of retired talent and ability is going on right here in the good old USA; and it may be available free to any local shop or business for three months or so--it's the Service Corps of Retired Executives who work in conjunction with the federal Small Business Administration.

SCORE has many similarities with I.E.S.C., the one domestic, the other foreign. Both make use of valuable men to aid ailing businesses. SCORE's apt to aid much smaller shops and businesses than I.E.S.C., because local executives are less--often the retired executive can commute to his assignment. Often the parties work out a permanent consulting arrangement as the business builds.

For more about SCORE, see the fine article in the current (February) issue of The Elks Magazine starting at page 6.

There is an SBA office in Miami anxious to aid any local shop or business. Retired executives may want to contact SBA in Miami to work in SCORE as well as volunteering for work in I.E.S.C. I hope so. I hate to see needed talent and ability going to waste, and we have far too much wasting away, here.

"BLACKBALL"

LIVE.... and love it

by Dick Campbell

The Post Office Team

The Jensen Beach Post Office will be dedicated this Sunday afternoon by Congressman Paul Rogers, a little over a year since it was opened. It will be a shame that former postmaster Allen Kendall won't be leading the opening.

The resignation of Kendall, following the opening of the new post office, was due to his health. He had overworked himself getting into the building and was not in any physical condition to handle the job.

So, as in all businesses, the ball was picked up by the employees. Charlotte Hosal was named acting clerk and business went on as usual. Mrs. Hosal, with the help of post office employees, continued the history of fine service of the Jensen Beach Post Office.

It is interesting that the week of the opening of the post office is the week that we finally got an official answer to an inquiry made in the fall of last year as to the high slope of the post office parking lot. Congressman Paul Rogers sent a copy of a letter notifying him that an inquiry will be made into the post office hill that has been the cause of many accidents and fender scrapings here.

It forgets follows through on this, as he has done on every other job Martin County has asked him to do, we can be assured that the problem will be solved. It may take a little bureaucratic time, but it will be done.

During that time, we can be certain that the post office team will do its best to get local mail out as fast as is humanly possible. The two and three day service from other post offices in the county will take some time to work out, for our cities only handles it when it comes in this office.

We wonder if the post office crew, the townspeople and if it forgets will announce the new postmaster this week.

Statewide Employment Survey Continues

The statewide survey to evaluate employment needs of the area is being continued by Edgar F. Norton, cooperative education coordinator of the Martin County School system. The survey is being conducted by Norton for the State Board of Education.

Area businessmen are invited to a meeting Monday at 7 p.m. at the Stuart Chamber of Commerce building, where the Chamber education committee will meet with Norton. He will interview representatives in the field of industry, finance, retailing, horticulture and service trades.

The material will become a part of the 1967-68 Program Planning Guide of the state office of Vocational, Technical and Adult Education and will be used by local and state school officials in determining what courses should be offered to fill the needs.

The Education Committee invites guidance personnel and school principals to meet with them at 8 p.m., Monday, following Norton's interviews, to discuss how best to inform students and parents of career opportunities existing in Martin County.

Election Workers School Set

A school of instruction for poll workers, clerks and inspectors of the election board will be held Feb. 28, Tuesday, at 10 a.m., in the meeting room of the commissioners in the Courthouse, Stuart.

The voting machines have been moved into the newly-completed addition to the Courthouse, according to Mrs. Isabel Evans Smith, Supervisor of Elections.

Your Florida Constitution

This is the fifth installment of the complete text of the proposed, new Florida Constitution. This document will provide the political structure under which Florida citizens will live, replacing the outmoded, often-amended document we use today. It is the responsibility of all citizens to study, know and comment upon this constitution.

A Haid Full Of Sporting Tips

by Howard Lee Haid

Been asked on numerous occasions to tell the correct way to fish so that the novice could be successful and could bring home nice catches like everyone else. Trying to tell the novice the best way to fish is like trying to describe the best way to make a martini.... everyone has his own idea ...and besides, fishing for the different varieties requires a different way of fishing for each. Guess the best thing to do at this point is to try to find some neutral ground and stay there.

Live shrimp in salt water areas is the best bait for the novice to try. If he wants to land some fish. Now, I don't say this is a cure-all, but it provides the first and best method of introducing the novice to fishing. First of all,...live shrimp is a natural bait found in abundance throughout salt water areas. Most all varieties of fish are regular takers of the shrimp, and the chances of catching fish are increased. Snook, trout, blues, snapper, whiting even pompano will hit live shrimp.

If one prefers to try his luck at snapper, whiting or other bottom fish, a weighted bottom rig is the best bet,...however, keep in mind...fish are highly unpredictable and there is no guarantee on anything when it comes to fishing. A floating rig may catch bottom fish and vice versa. The best advice I can give to all who...give it a chance and most likely, should you be a novice, you'll find it a student of the art and a specialist.

Student Loan Fund Established

The John W. Stokes Research Foundation has established a student loan fund for the benefit of Martin County students at Indian River Junior College, to be administered by the college. The Foundation has donated $500 to IRJC, specifying this to be used for loans to students, according to Mrs. John W. Stokes.

Many students, particularly at registration time, are short a few dollars in meeting tuition fees, or have an emergency arise during the year that could be solved by a short term loan, said Charles A. Sawyer, Dean of student personnel, who with President Maxwell L. Rhodes will administer the fund.

The Foundation will receive a five-year annual benefit of loan funds.

Of the 1,000 students, 110 were from Martin County. The Foundation also contributed $700 in the last two years to be applied toward the National Defense Educational Act Loan Fund. This amount, when matched with Federal loans allocated for the purpose to qualified colleges on a nine-to-one ratio, will make available $7,000 for loans to students employed at Indian River Stokes said.

34 YEARS In Martin County...

With a Historical Past and an Even Brighter Future!

We at the First National Bank would rather look to years ahead than the years that have passed. It isn't that these years were not rewarding, because they were.

Our entire bank is geared in operating a far-sighted financial institution. In this way it is possible for us to parallel Martin County growth, thus enabling the bank to cope with the smallest or most complex financial matters or needs.

A strong, safe bank means as much to a growing area such as this as the satisfaction of our customer means to our growth.

We will always look forward to assisting citizens of Martin County so that the r future may be as prosperous as it should be.

Foreclosure Sale Set For March 15th

Under terms of new advertising, March 15 has been set as the date for a foreclosure sale advertised by City National Bank of Clearwater against R. C. Fernon, Consumer Credit Corp. and Fred Koep, all formerly associated in First Mortgage Corp. of Stuart, as well as Tower Credit Corp.

The foreclosure sale, formerly planned for Feb. 8, was not held because of faulty descriptions in the legal advertising.

The property will go to the highest bidder in a sheriff's sale on the courthouse steps. One of the three properties described in the new advertising does not appear on the assessor's lists as it is being advertised.

Bill Murfin Speaks On Lincoln Day For PSL GOP's

In a Lincoln Day dinner speech before over 225 members of Port St. Lucie Republican Club, William F. Murfin, Hobe Sound, chairman of the State Republican Executive Committee, said he would never be able to associate the "good conservative Democrats of Florida with such people as vice-president Humphrey and U.S. Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, even if they insist on remaining Democrats."

Murfin referred to Lincoln's times as an era of "evil agitation, and a time of changing party allegiances, as today."

Referring then to the history of the Republican Party, founded by Abraham Lincoln, he said, "Modern carpetbaggers carry briefcases full of anti-poverty funds to the out, and are, invariably, Democrats."

"The Tom Moss old machine of the other party in Florida is plugging down out of control," he continued, "Claude Pepper and Robert King High are steering to the left and Don Fuqua and Tom Adams are trying to grab the wheel.

"The Republican party in Florida has room at the top for those who are interested in a political future, the party needs candidates, campaign managers, organizers," he said.

Murfin listed high state and federal posts that were in default to the incumbents because of the lack of competition in the past elections. "We now have a prospect for Republican registration who gives you the lie about his Daddy and Grandaddy being Democrats, tells that Mom worrying about Daddy and Grandaddy, and starts worrying about the children and the grandchildren."

Mrs. Frances Lee, president of the sponsoring Port St. Lucie Republican Club, headed the dinner table.

Stuart CAP To Host Spring Exercises

Stuart Squadron, Civil Air Patrol, being rejuvenated under the West Palm Beach Group of the Florida Wing, will host the spring Search and Rescue exercise, according to CAP Capt. Volney P. Bayley, North River Shores, who will be commander.

A composite squadron, the new outfit will be under the Fifth Group. The squadron will carry out the original mission of the CAP, Bayley said, including training of youths in the 13 to 18 age group as CAP cadets, and the usual search and rescue duties the CAP undertakes as an auxiliary of the U.S. Air Force.

He said initially, a J-3 Cub being reconditioned at Ft. Pierce, which he owns, would be offered to the new squadron for $1 a year and that other planes may be available, including one in which he is part owner.

Robert Yoxall, manager of St. Lucie Country Club and mayor of Port St. Lucie, will be asked to be a staff member.

Up to 50 planes will be here in April for the exercises, plus 200 senior officers and a bivouac of dozens of cadets. Seniors will be housed in local motels; the cadets will camp out at the airport.

The U.S. Air Force will assist in setting up search and rescue practice exercises, plant objects to be found.

County commission chairman Jack Saunderson represented the county at a recent luncheon of Wing and new local officers, extending invitations for the exercise.

QUARTER HORSE SHOW--Martin County's first annual Quarter Horse Show was held Sunday at the Fair Grounds. Above is Jack Williamson, Indianto-n, who was the announcer of activities for the day-long affair, and below is Robin Gruber, Indiantown, one of the participants.

STICKERS--The first bright green car-sticker is sold by Mrs. Frank A. Wacha to Richard E. Campbell, editor of The Mirror, as a donor to the 1967 Fireworks Fund. Mrs. Wacha is president of the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department Auxiliary. Stickers are being sold by all members of the Department to raise funds for the July Fourth fireworks display in Jensen Beach.

Shoal Inches Across Inlet

Sandy shoals inched their way southward towards another closure of the route to the sea opened by dredging less than two months ago, even while engineers conferred at Gainesville on the best and safest control methods to test in the new model of St. Lucie Inlet.

A sidecasting dredge, The Merritt, from North Carolina, opened the inlet in December. Market 4-A, which was put down by the U.S. Coast Guard on the north side of the dredge project, and at the southernmost tip of a sand bank left by the dredge, stood tall on Friday, but on the bottom of a dorsal-fin-shaped bar, constant northeasterlies have built to plague navigation.

At high tide, the marker has sufficient clearage over the bar to remain erect in fairly calm water; at low tide, Market 4-A cannot stand straight....strikes the bottom...and the shoal lies at least 50 feet to the south of it, extending in that direction from the jetty.

Co Van de Kreek, project director at the Coastal Engineering Department of the University of Florida, predicted that such a bar either had formed, of some would, according to county engineer Fred L. Bell. Van de Kreek was correct in that it has formed, and has been growing constantly since it was dredged in December.

The inlet is still safe to negotiate, to know how and when to use it, but if the northeasterlies continue, Van de Kreek thinks the channel will close.

Inspection from the air confirmed his prediction.

At the model site Thursday, Dutch Van de Kreek and R. J. Saleh, coastal engineering specialist with the U.S. Corps of Army Engineers, decided on mandatory plans for making St. Lucie Inlet safe.

Three objectives were established by the Feb and the Corps:

(1) Provide a safe inlet for water traffic.

(2) Provide a proper navigation channel from the Okeechobee and Inland Waterway through the inlet.

(3) Provide for beach protection control south of inlet.

The conference developed a plan for testing, using several of the devices now on hand, on all six plans for inlet control, as suggested by the Feb and the Corps.

Testing will begin with the widening of federal Bar Cut through the reef to 400 feet width. After a short test, improvement will be added by extending the existing north jetty southeasterly to the seaward end of the bar cut, after another short test of this control, a mole will be added at the south side of the channel in the vicinity of the west end of the bar cut.

Again the model will be tested and finally, the addition of a south jetty projecting from the shoreline of Jupiter Island easterly to the mole will be tested.

Consideration will be given during these tests, to using a section of the north jetty near the shoreline as a weir, to an impoundment basin. All improvements to the inlet anticipate the ultimate desirability of providing for the transfer of sand from the impoundment basin across the channel of the inlet to replenish beach losses on Jupiter Island.

Bell said oddities in the inlet provided some discussions.

For example, incoming and outgoing tides don't follow the same routes current-wise. Last summer, when the Corps estimated 6,000 cubic feet per second drainage through St. Lucie Locks, 15,000 cubic feet per second were going down the river, probably the addition of C-23 and C-24 volume.

However, there was no accounting for another set of facts: 40,000 cubic feet per second (of water) move in the inlet on flooding tides; only 37,000 cubic feet per second moves out of the inlet on ebbing tides.

It has not been determined whether the balance runs south down the Intracoastal Waterway or north up the Indian River.

Ordinance Adopted By City Commission

Stuart city commission adopted a 30-page-long ordinance setting up a $350,000 revenue certificate issue with which to build sewer and water improvements in the city.

Stuart plans to go through an open validation, but to issue only such totals as needed when and if the promised federal aid arrives. That has been set at $134,700 by the U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development, according to city manager Joe S. Crowder.

"The issue will follow the 1960 $290,000 issue and be paid off the same way," he said. That issue was used for the same purposes.

When the issue is validated, bids will be taken. The bid will be on the rate of interest.

A 90-day extension was granted by the board, through attorney Evans Crary, to Victor Oristano for his Martin County Cable Television Co., to start construction of facilities.

Crary said delays through need to change the location of the proposed tower, which was declared as too near the airport, and others, dictated the need of the extension of the contract which expired Jan. 30.

In other business, the board:

Appointed William Burson, Southern Bell manager, to the planning board to fill a vacancy.

Assured a three-man delegation from the American Legion a street light would be installed outside its headquarters on Stuart on Hibiscus.

Discussed, but took no action, indicating it could take none, Gulf Oil Co. plans to build a service station in Indianatated but the Gulf boundaries zone at intersection of Martin, Broadway and East Ocean Blvd. The building permit may not be stopped, it was ruled.

New zoning for the area, included in the overall zoning changes as suggested by the zoning board, will be advertised in another week. The area would have been returned to residential zoning had the new code been adopted, it was pointed out.

The neighborhood now has a service station.

WINNER--Chosen as winner of the 8th Annual Fine Arts sewing Contest Monday night was Miss James Bartlett who will represent the Stuart Junior Woman's Club at the district contest. Judges were Mrs. Elaine Hudson, Mrs. Martha Norton and Mrs. Grace Donahay.

Plans Approved

The Martin County School Board approved a two year desegregation plan by a unanimous vote Tuesday at the regular board meeting.

The plan calls for the use of two senior high, and three junior high schools to be used in the 1967-68 school year. Students in the schools would have freedom of choice county-wide.

Elementary schools will be divided into three districts, and freedom of choice will be allowed within the districts.

Warfield Junior High will continue to have only two grades again, and Murray and Stuart Junior Highs will have three grades.

The new setup will head the integration policy of the board, outlined recently at an Orlando meeting by Federal officials toward the 1968-69 plan of phasing out of Murray High, having one county high school and three junior high and elementary schools in three districts.

Roads Get Action

The State Road Department plans to ask for bids on the north end of Pratt & Whitney Road, where it drops southward from its junction with SR 76 at SR 76A at once, according to county commission chairman Jack Saunderson at Tuesday's meeting of the commission.

Saunderson also said that a planning contract would soon be let on Cove Road from U.S. 1 eastward to the Intracoastal Waterway south of Rocky Point, and that the contract on the new, so-called Jensen Beach Access Road, through Rio, would be let in March.

The board will visit the Ft. Lauderdale district office of the SRD Feb. 24 to set up the yearly priority system on the primary and secondary road projects in the county.

Palm City Bridge will continue at the head of the list, at present, Ft. Lauderdale is doing the engineering and plans work on the project.

Complaints by Mrs. Ed Chick, Omar Garrison that pull workers at the Levi M. Johnson Agricultural Building were not permitted to use toilet facilities in the building, nor to get drinking water during the November election period, were turned over to the new commissioner in the district for correction.

Mrs. Chick also asked about fishing walks on the Evans Crary and Ernest Lyons Bridges on which discussion, but no action, has taken place, and she also complained about the use of the piers.

Also on her list were complaints that illegal nurseries were being operated in Coral Gardens. She was told the zoning board was investigating the latter.

The board agreed to permit the transfer of $5,000 in the fine and forfeiture fund as administered by the sheriff to "salaries of clerks and deputies."

The board adopted a resolution backing up a similar resolution offered by the Palm Beach County commission in which the U.S. Congress was asked to appropriate $90,000 to conduct a study of the possible widening of the Atlantic Intracoastal Waterway from 100 feet to 125 feet, and to deepen it to 12 feet its entire length.

The control depth now is 10 feet from Ft. Pierce to Miami. The board asked that funds be provided to the State Department of Conservation for use by Florida Inland Navigation District.

B & W Construction Co. for Bocchino and Woodruff) was awarded job making 20 picnic tables for the Jensen Beach Causeway, payment to be made from District A funds.

A request for a portion of the matching funds asked by the Pioneer Occupational Center last year was restated in view of the promised $35,100 yearly Federal grant, by Robert Batterman. The board agreed to take up the division of the $4,000 needed with other commissions and school boards, which had agreed to participate, including boards in St. Lucie and Okeechobee Counties, possibly Indian River County.

First Reapportionment Primary

Fourteen Candidates Face Elimination Tilt Tuesday

Martin County voters will go to the polls on Tuesday to elect candidates they do not know in districts they did not want, through a reapportionment laid down by three Federal court judges in Miami several weeks ago. In a primary election, in which the candidates have had little time to campaign, Republicans and Democrats on Tuesday will select their standard-bearers for the general election just one month from that date.

Qualifiers on the primary ballots in races of concern in Martin County were the following, according to Mrs. Isabel Evans Smith, county supervisor of elections:

State Senator, 29th District: Republican, Elizabeth J. (Beth) Johnson; Democrat, Michael J. Doran, Spessard L. Holland, Jr. and Clyde H. Pirtle.

State Senator, 30th District: Republican, R. W. Grady, C. S. (Cliff) Reiter and Claud M. Sigman; Democrat, John M. McCarty.

The Senatorial districts cover the five counties of Martin, St. Lucie, Indian River, Okeechobee and Brevard.

House: Republican, 76th District, Donald H. Reed, Jr., 77th District, Joseph W. H. Humphrey; 78th District, Jack Poorbaugh; 79th District, Robert C. DeYoung; 80th District, M. Dale Mills and Robert W. Rust; 81st District, William G. James, Neal Maxwell.

House, Democrat, 76th District, Joel T. Daves, III; 77th District, Robert J. Ackerman, Jim Maynor; 78th District, James M. Adams; 79th District, Robert F. Day, C. Errol Hicks; 80th District, Lake Lytal, Jr.; and 81st District, William E. Owens.

Owens is the only candidate from Martin County on the Democratic primary ballot; Mills the only local Republican on the ballot.

Candidates without primary opposition within their own party are automatically declared nominated under Florida statutes and need not appear on either first or second primary ballots.

Martin County's machine ballots were picked up at Tampa Tuesday, according to Mrs. Smith, who said the information required for first primary absentee ballots went immediately to a printer here for a rush job.

The first primary will be held Feb. 28, the general election on March 28.

Martin County has 10,822 registered voters. They are 8,608 Democrats, 2,142 Republicans, and 72 Independents. The 72 Independent voters will not be permitted to vote in this primary.

United Fund Is Planning Appeal For Missing $4,000

The Jensen Beach-Rio United Fund will plan a second fund drive effort at an executive board meeting next week, according to Willard Bowman, fund drive chairman. Bowman asked Jacqueline Hall, president of the fund, to call a meeting of the board when the two-week effort produced only $6,127 of a $10,000 goal.

Bowman said that many of the donations were low this year than the amounts given last year by residents.

"We cannot expect the other guy to do our charity work for us," Bowman said. He pointed to the fact that if the United Fund fails, twelve individual house-to-house and business-to-business drives would be held each year, putting a burden on local volunteer workers interested in the twelve agencies, and providing a nuisance to home and business owners.

"I hope that those who have not given their fair share to the Jensen Beach-Rio United Fund will do so. They can leave their donations, in check or cash, at the Jensen Beach Bank, or mail donations to The United Fund, Jensen Beach, Florida, 33457," Bowman said.

Mrs. Hall, out of town until Wednesday night, was not available for comment.

Pioneer Center To Get $1,000 From St. Lucie

The Pioneer Occupational Center at Port Salerno is designed to help handicapped persons by specialized training so they can become self-sufficient citizens. The center serves four counties, Martin, Indian River, St. Lucie and Okeechobee.

This week St. Lucie County commission agreed informally to contribute $1,000 this year to the Center. The St. Lucie School board informally agreed to contribute $500, making the total from St. Lucie County $1500.

Martin County commissioners and the school board have already agreed on a similar contribution, making a total of $3,000 available, according to chairman Jack Saunderson.

The other two counties probably will be asked for $500 each to complete the "local matching funds" of $4,000 necessary before a federal grant, recently received by the Center, may be used.

Robert Batterman of the Center, reported that federal funds totaling $35,100 a year for three years have been promised, and about $18,000 has already been received.

If the other two counties do not contribute, persons from those counties seeking training at the center will be asked to make a contribution to cover the loss.

It was reported that 20 persons from St. Lucie Co. have been trained at the center during the past 2-1/2 years. Of these, five have been put in jobs and one is now in college.

At present, trainees at the center are boarded in the area. The federal grant contains money for a driver who will drive through each of the four counties each day, picking up the trainees in the morning and returning them when their day is completed.

It was reported that Martin and St. Lucie County commissioners agreed to donate the money this year but think it falls under the heading of education, turning it over to the school board for future years.

Palm City Bridge Tops County List

Palm City Bridge continues at the top of Martin County's primary road list to be presented Feb. 24 to the State Road Department at its Fort Lauderdale District office. At that time, newly appointed Road Board member for this district, Michael J. O'Neil, will meet with the board, the county engineer and county attorney.

The bridge will be built about 80 feet north of the present bridge, according to commissioner Frank A. Wacha. Ball and the engineering firm of Post, Buckley, Moore and Schuh of Miami Springs, which is completing the plans and engineering.

Primary road projects the board has asked the SRD to include in its budget for Martin County, after the Palm City Bridge job, include, not necessarily in order:

SR 76, four-laning from U.S. 1 to Martin County High School, 1.5 miles;

SR 707, resurface eastand north from U.S. 1 at Stuart through Jensen Beach to the St. Lucie County line, 6.5 miles;

SR-76-A, replace Arundel Bridge over St. Lucie Canal;

U.S. 1, provide median strip from Olympia Overpass (FEC RR) south to Palm Beach County line;

Build two rest-rooms, toilet facilities on Indian River Causeway near Ernest Lyons Bridge;

SR 714, widen road and redo bridge over Poppleton Creek, within Stuart city limits, from U.S. 1 to Monterey Road, on Palm City Road;

SR 609 (Allapattah Road) from SR 714 south to existing pavement, 6.5 miles.

SR 714, new construction, extending the so-called Martin Grade from SR 609 west to SR 710, a distance of 12 miles.

First on the secondary road fund list in priority was SR 711, the so-called Pratt & Whitney Access Rd., from SR 708 (Hobe Sound Grade) to SR 76, a distance of three miles, for which $150,000 will be asked.

Second came Jensen Access Rd., not yet designated by number, from SR 707 north at Rio to the south end of Savanna Rd., which runs north and south from SR 707-A; $175,000 asked.

Third on the list was Cove Rd., from A-1-A to Jupiter Island, for preliminary engineering or construction, $150,000.

Fourth was Citrus Blvd. from SR 710 at Indiantown east, $450,000.

Fifth, SR 708, Hobe Sound at U.S. 1, west to SR 76, widen and resurface, $190,000.

Sixth, allotted $390,000 for purchase of undesignated right-of-way and preliminary planning, county wide.

The total was $1,505,000, about $200,000 over available funds.

County commissioner Tiner Powers asked that Citrus Blvd., for which plans are ready, be moved ahead of Cove Road, which has seen no action as yet, but chairman Jack Saunderson said he had worked for six years to get the road which leads from the main highway to the Intracoastal Waterway. It is hoped that eventually a bridge will be built over the waterway, and a state park on the northern end of Jupiter Island.

PROUD MOMENT- U. S. Rep. Paul G. Rogers enthusiastically shakes the hand of Orville L. Wright, Stuart, and expresses interest in Wright's ambition to enter Annapolis. Left to right are Jackson Wright, father; county commissioner Frank Wacha, Wright, Mrs. Jackson Wright, mother; Rep. Rogers and Mrs. Rogers, Wright, stationed at NAS, Key West, Air Control, volunteered August 1966. He is a 1966 graduate of Martin County High School where he was lieutenant governor of the Key Club, and is a member of DeMolay. The occasion was the dedication of Jensen Beach Post Office last Sunday.

Vote Next Tuesday

Florida citizens will be asked to vote s Tuesday on a completely new legis- ure. Unseated by the arbitrary action of three appointed federal judges in Miami weeks ago, the elected legislators of rida found themselves out of a job with apportionment.

Now the election begins again.

The mood of the people changes from one ction to another. The candidates have ed for the positions in the Florida Senate Florida House. Now the people will in go to the polls to vote and elect the publican and Democrat who will face another in each race in the general ction on March 28.

Residents of Martin County have found mselves in a quandry. In this election, sidenly they find themselves voting for six se seats, rather than the two in the pre- us election, or the one in the election vious to that.

ur Martin County citizens also find them- es faced with house representation in rtin and Palm Beach Counties and Senate ts in a district comprised of Martin, Okeechobee, St. Lucie, Indian River and Brevard Counties. They will vote on two senators, rather than the one in the previous election.

Sounds confusing? Absolutely.

We have no analysis of the candidates, for none have campaigned. Only Bill Owens, Democrat, Martin County's former representative, is a name that is familiar. Dale Milita, a newcomer to county politics, has filed for one of the six seats on the Republican slide. He will have a primary battle.

We cannot endorse candidates in this race. We know nothing of them, except for our final men. We will study what they have to say, and, in the next few weeks, try to make an endorsement. If we cannot, we will be honest and say so.

From the Apathy of the people, evidenced in the lack of political discussion by John Q. Citizens, never will so many be elected by so few.

We urge all citizens to discuss the issues, learn about their candidates through their political advertising, and vote intelligently.

Thanks, School Board

he Martin County School Board deserves ote of thanks from the people on the fine of districting Martin County, ac- plished last week. The board members ened to the people, took the guidelines esegregation by the federal government, made up the best plan they could. No could ask more.

he plan as presented will bring the re- ed "freedom of choice" plan into the icts, which will prohibit, to a degree, busing of children from one area to her, for example, from Jensen Beach ort Salerno.

ndling a very difficult problem, the ol board also set up and passed a schedule of desegregation, something the board had only assumed was in effect previously. Under the schedule, Murray High will be phased out in 1968-69 and the county will operate with one high school. There will be three junior high schools in the three districts, made up of Murray, Warfield and Stuart.

The school board has been a part of the Great American move to federally controlled school systems. With only the vaguest guidelines, the board could only search for a proper answer. The answer found meets the requirements of Washington, D.C., and the needs of the people under those requirements. The People can ask no more.

Potent Advice

ernard Baruch was one of those rare viduals whose insight, wisdom and ability communicate with others made him a nd in his own lifetime. His words on as a vital force in the affairs of His advice is still potent today. xample is a statement recently credited r. Baruch in the Senate Falls, Minn- ta, Tribune: "History and tradition tell hat great nations have died as much internal decay as from external blows. e fell not because of the barbarians ed in but because the character of citizens grew soft and their capacity for self-discipline waned. Will future historians come to the same conclusion about us?"

Internal decay comes from public apathy. Relegating to federal agencies the responsibility for the solution of all community and personal problems and the responsibility for vitalizing our economic system is the sure road to lost independence. America will not fall by internal decay if her people jealously guard the economic and political liberties which gave them their representative form of government and personal liberty. But, they must remain the masters of their own destinies.

Begin Teaching

e greatest beneficiaries of the United s free enterprise, free market econ- are the young people who have to get ed in life. They do not realize that out private enterprise and property own- ip there would be no real freedom of e for the individual—he would depend e state for employment.

ange as it may seem, in a nation that pride in boasting of its academic om, little of the free and butter ciples of economics that spell freedom opportunity and the right to profit by own efforts, are taught in our schools colleges.

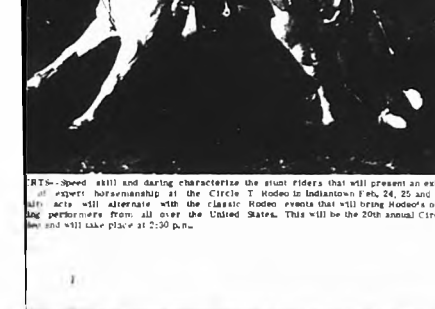
many high school and college students, example, realize that representative ment cannot continue to exist in this ry unless the individual retains the dge of making his living without regard ical considerations?

e man can see that government owner- and domination of industry must be mately resisted, not because industry is sacred, it can be controlled, but because the freedom of the individual is inseparable from the future of private enterprise?

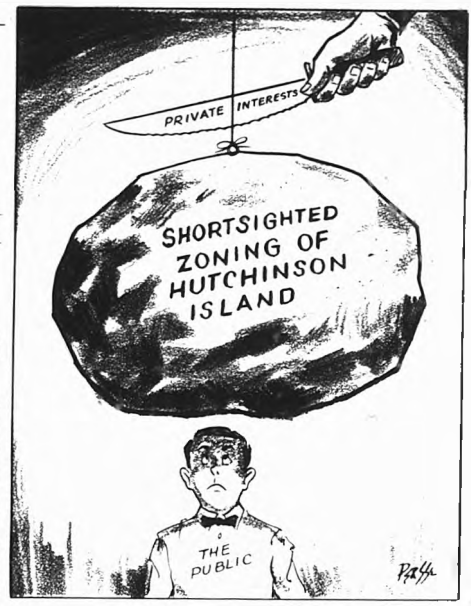
How many realize that so long as representative government is the system desired by U. S. citizens, it is imperative that the people be constantly informed of the part private enterprise and private employment play in maintaining that system?

If the basic principles of economics on which our nation was founded were stressed more in our schools, young people would gain greater respect for, and appreciation of, the privileges and opportunities they enjoy under our representative form of government. They would acquire love for a country that gives them freedom.

Of the billions of dollars in federal tax funds that are being given our schools and colleges, some should be earmarked to teach the principles of economics, which have assured unmatched personal liberty, religious freedom and material prosperity to United States citizens.



RTS--Speed skill and daring characterize the stunt riders that will present an exhi- of expert horsemanship at the Circle T Rodeo in Indiantown Feb. 24, 25 and 26. ch acts will alternate with the classic Rodeo events that will bring Rodeo's out- ding performers from all over the United States. This will be the 20th annual Circle ee and will take place at 2:30 p.m.



WHO COULD BE HURT?

Your Florida Constitution

This is the sixth installment of the complete text of the proposed, new Florida Constitution. This document will provide the political structure under which Florida citizens will live, replacing the outmoded, often-amended document we use today. It is the responsibility of all citizens to study, know and comment upon this constitution.

(c) By order of the governor any municipal officer indicted for crime may be suspended from office until acquitted, and the office filled by appointment for the period of suspension, unless these powers are vested elsewhere by law or the municipal charter.

Section 6. CLEMENCY.--

(b) In cases of treason he may grant reprieves until adjournment of the regular session of the legislature convening next after the conviction, at which session the legislature may grant a pardon or further reprieve; otherwise the sentence shall be executed.

Section 7. SUCCESSION TO OFFICE OF GOVERNOR.--

Further succession as acting governor shall devolve next upon the attorney general and thereafter as prescribed by law. Incapacity to serve as governor may be determined by the supreme court upon due notice after docketing of a written suggestion thereof by four cabinet members, and in such case restoration of capacity shall be similarly determined after docketing of written suggestion thereof by the governor, the legislature or four cabinet members. Incapacity to serve as governor may also be established by certificate filed with the supreme court by the governor declaring his incapacity for physical reasons to serve as governor, and in such case restoration of capacity shall be similarly established.

(c) A cabinet member holding office by executive appointment shall be ineligible to succeed to, or perform the duties of, the office of governor under this section.

(b) The game and fresh-water fish commission shall exercise the non-judicial powers of the state with respect to wild animal life, the other than salt-water aquatic life, except that all license fees for taking such life and penalties for violating regulations of the commission shall be prescribed by specific statute. The legislature may enact laws not inconsistent with such regulations.

(c) The commission shall appoint, to serve at its pleasure, a director who shall have its chief administrative officer.

(d) All funds resulting from the operation of the game and fresh-water fish commission, all gifts to it, and all funds appropriated by it shall be expended by the commission in the management, restoration, conservation and propagation of wild animal life other than salt-water aquatic life. The Commission shall not incur obligations in excess of current revenues. No member of the commission shall be paid any sum in excess of expenses incurred in performing official duties.

LIVE.... and love it By Dick Campbell

You Can't Chew A Cracker

There are different degrees of being a "Cracker". Let me explain that the cracker you chew on isn't the Cracker I am speaking about.

There are "hard road Crackers" and there are "sand road Crackers". The difference is whether you were raised (or, perhaps, I should say "dug up") on a farm with a dirt road, or a country town with a hard road, or highway, going through it.

To be a Cracker you must be from Florida (preferably North Florida, sub), or Georgia, or Alabama or several other states not claimed by those from Florida, Georgia or Alabama.

The Cracker, according to sage Joe Crowder, its manager of Stuart (and the first man who should be wearing a white plantation suit and Panama hat) is the real southern Aristocracy, the person who is born and brought up in Cracker-country.

Joe Greenlees, an engineer who came to Florida when he was two years old, and has lived here for about fifty years, can only claim to being from Kansas City. He said, I'm still not accepted as a Cracker".

We sat at the coffee table talking one morning, and I decided to be funny. I poked Frank Destefano, Stuart's answer to living color, on the arm, and said, "What about all these Crackers, Frank?" and pointed across the table. Even there I found no friend. "My wife is a Cracker," he said, indignantly.

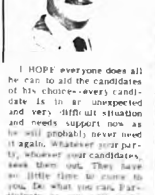
I looked over to Bernard Coker for help, and found he was a fourth-generation Florida Cracker.

No longer funny, I realized that I was in Cracker-Country, and had better hush-mah-mouth.

I turned over to Bill Burson, purveyor of steam-iron key chains that look like girlfriends' telephones, and sought the milk of human kindness. "They already cut me up." Burson explained, refusing to get in the Cracker conversation.

There aren't too many of them, and they are becoming a classic piece of American history, but you can find them around any coffee table. The Cracker, hard-road or dirt-road... (Hand Saiusel)

OUR FLAG- The Color Guard of Veterans' Council of Martin County accepted and raised the new American flag which will wave over the newly dedicated Jensen Beach Post Office. Representatives of the Council, Ray Lorenz and Jack Smouse attach the flag to the staff. "The Star Spangled Banner" was played by members of Martin County High School band, led by LeMoyne Holl, while the flag was slowly raised. The flag had formerly flown over The Capitol, Washington, D.C.



The Courier and Ives

I HOPE everyone does all he can to aid the candidates of his choice--every candidate is in an unexpected and very difficult situation and needs support now as he will probably never need it again. Whatever your party, whatever your candidates, seek them out. They have so little time to come to you. Do what you can. Participate as you will probably never need to participate again.

ESPECIALLY important will be help for the candidates for the "new" offices--the new State Representatives and the new Senator.

WE CAN expect the men who were elected in 1966 to run again. They have had exposure and found acceptance, in Palm Beach County at least. Their work is now in the counties that have been tacked on to the much bigger Palm Beach County. You can work for them here while they work there.

Martin County and Palm Beach County make up one district that will elect six men to the State House of Representatives. No Martin County resident was elected to the House in 1966 while five were elected from Palm Beach County. The fewer sixth candidate will have to start from scratch in both counties--help him, he needs so much from so many so quickly.

If you can bring others to see your favorite candidates as you see them, you are performing one of the most important roles in our democratic system--informing the voters, who are speak of helping the public--of the candidates we mean. Help. The Voters. Only in an informed electorate can judge sensibly, and the time is short for learning.

POSTAL OFFICER--B. G. Maginn, Postal Service Officer of Florida, spoke to the crowd who gathered Sunday for dedication services of the Jensen Beach Post Office. Maginn presented an American flag to Mrs. Charlotte Bynum, clerk-in-charge.

School Attendance Zone Lines Set

Attendance zone lines dividing Martin County into three areas for 1967-68 elementary school grades were set Friday by a sub-committee of the MC Board of Public Instruction.

West zone covered an area bounded by a north-south line which started from the St. Lucie Horsemen's Association training track and running south to the south county line, north to a point one mile south of SR 714 (Martin Grade) from which point it went west to Lake Okeechobee paralleling SR-714 but one mile south of it.

The zone included approximately 208 square miles. Schools in the area are Warfield and Hooker Park.

South zone began at a point in St. Lucie Inlet continuing west to and continuing up Willoughby Creek to a point one-eighth of a mile north of and parallel to Indian Ave., beginning at Little Bruner Bridge and continuing to a point one-eighth of a mile east of SR 76 and continuing west and south and parallel to SR 76 to the east boundary of St. Lucie track.

The area included about 165 square miles, with Port Salerno, Hobe Sound and Dunbar schools in its bounds.

The balance of the county from Okeechobee to the sea was left in North zone, a strip four miles deep running across the western part of the county 18 miles, all of the area around Tropical Farms, Palm City, into Stuart, Jensen Beach, Rio and North River Shores.

Included in it was approximately 184 square miles. (There are 559 square miles in the county.) Schools in North zone are Jensen Beach, Palm City, East Stuart Elementary and J. D. Parker.

Any revision would be announced by prominent notices at least 30 days before any change is effective, according to the board.

Request Tabled

A request was tabled by the Martin County Planning and Zoning Board Thursday night for a change in zoning to permit grazing of cattle on land bordering Jensen Beach Cutoff Road.

Requesting the change was Joseph Kerles, engineer from the Miami office of General Development Corp., developers of Port St. Lucie and St. Lucie County. The land in question is owned by GDC.

Kerles told the board the tract, 10,000 acres of its land, is used about 40 cattle as a protective measure as well as a means of pasturing some cattle while awaiting development.

GDC requested a one-or five year termittal permit. Cooper engineer Fred L. Bell said GDC was in violation of R-2 and R-3A zoning on a 2-1/4 square mile tract bordering both SR 707-A and CR-1 in Martin County. He said he was sympathetic to the use and asked if the terminal permit could be permitted.

The cattle belong to Robert Chandler, Sebastian, according to Kerles, and he leases the land, fenced it, as well.

Frank Fitzberg, Jensen Beach member and builder, said he had received numerous complaints from real estate people, businessmen and individual owners.

He "wondered" about moving the fence back to the 660-foot limit of the R-3-A zoning.

Dean Tooker, county attorney, said any move to use the land for cattle range was a zoning violation. He suggested moving the cattle north of the St. Lucie County line.

On Forsberg's motion, the subject was tabled for study.

In other business, the board:

OUTLINED a new 14-7 mobile home trailer area in Booker Park and set it for a March 16 hearing. Limits of the area of about 12 acres were set at "north of Mangolia to Lincoln; from Eighth St. west 700 feet." Bell said he felt the move had lagged too long, said it was either a case of initiating immediate court action to drive out good, new trailers, or carrying out earlier suggestions to zone for them.

DENIED Mrs. Marjorie Hamlett's plea for a hearing to rezone seven lots for duplex houses in Port Salerno to a single-family zoned area.

BACK STAGE--Mrs. Ivy Wahl, Ed Schmidt and George Mack, chairman, helped in the kitchen with preparations for Sunday's Pancake Day, sponsored by the Jensen Beach Lions Club.

Jupiter Island Offers Beachfront

An offer by representatives of the Town of Jupiter of 123 feet of beachfront property to Martin County was discussed by the representatives, county officials and Hobe Sound residents at a Monday session.

The offer was made by Adm. Richard Tuggle, Jupiter Island town manager, and Nathaniel Reed, member of the town board and representative of the Hobe Sound Co., which would give the land. The county appeared receptive to the offer.

The offer would make a 300-foot beach park at the ocean end of Beach Road. The county owns 177 feet of beach frontage, relatively undeveloped, at the site. The 123 foot gift abuts this to the south.

In return, the Town of Jupiter would be permitted to close to public access, 25 foot Dallarpine Ave., and 50 foot Deconahire Ave., both of which are beach access roads.

The matter will be discussed at the March 8 meeting of the commission. Representing the county were Jack Saunderson, chairman of the county commission, Fred Bell, county engineer, and Dean Tooker, county attorney.

50% Of Graduates Attend College

Fifty per cent of Murray High School's class of 1966 is attending college, and 48.4 per cent of the 1966 graduates of Martin County High School are college students, according to Ernest Varvil, county guidance officer in the school system.

MCHS's record for 1963 was 48.2 per cent; 1964, 59 per cent; and 52 per cent in 1965.

Murray High's record was 1963, 25 per cent; 1964, 48 per cent; and 70 per cent 1965.

"It is relatively easy to obtain information as to the number entering college, taking special training, going into the armed forces, of the world of work, but it is most difficult to follow them on through the years for an indication of success," Varvil said.

MR. AND MRS. SAGE

Mary Kolb's Sister Returns To Hungary

While visiting with Mrs. Mary Kolb on Mango Street one day recently her sister Therese Jelenik came in, and our conversation got around to her visit here, and her impressions of Florida. Therse is from Budapest, Hungary, and says she just loves our state and is enjoying herself very much, she says everything is so pretty and everyone is so friendly. Of course it is very gratifying to hear such nice things, but we wanted very much to hear about her country, so here are some things I thought might be of interest to our readers.

Budapest is a city of two million inhabitants and is divided by the Danube River. Buda, on the west side is built on a terraced plateau while Pest, on the east side of the river stands on a plain. This plain extends as far as the Tisza River and is recognized as one of the most fertile plains in the world. As an example; when Nikita Krushchev was entertaining Mr. Johnson from Hollywood, when on a film exchange mission, he announced that he had a special treat for his guests, He had just received a present from a friend in Budapest of a specially packaged box of Hungarian apples and he personally passed an apple to each, so they could appreciate how delicious they were.

The two cities are linked by its beautiful bridges which replaced those destroyed in the war, these together with it's tree lined boulevards, wide squares, bordered by modern buildings, give it the reputation of being one of the most beautiful capitals in Europe.

Privately owned homes are limited to three rooms, all larger houses and apartments are government owned. Budapest is about the same latitude as Minneapolis Minnesota, but enjoys much shorter and milder winters. The school system is very much the same as ours.

Living conditions are much better than they were, and although they are building many new homes a single person is only allowed one room. Cars, although smaller and fewer than those of the United States, are on the increase. Also, the scarcity of refrigerators oblige many of the housekeepers to shop every day for perishable foods.

Farming is conducted on the co-operative plan and everybody works. Each family is allowed a small acreage per worker for their own use, but they have to give an account of their production.

Prior to the year 896 Hungary was a Pagan country. During this year King Stephen was crowned by the Pope and became Hungary's first Christian Ruler. In 1896 they had a big celebration to commemorate one thousand years of Christianity.

Hungary has been the battlefield for many wars, for it would have been a powerful country as it is very fertile, and the people are very industrious.

Hungarians celebrate the Christian Holidays much the same as we do but Christmas is known as Farsyth Csunga (Pine Tree Holiday) and Easter is Husvet.

Therse will be leaving for her homeland soon so I asked if she had any message for the people she has met here, and she replied, "Yes, come and visit us."

Sages Tour Mexico In Trailer Caravan

Quite a number of us have visited Mexico in the conventional way, by car, with or without a trailer, but not so many have joined a caravan tour. Milton and Bertie Sage went on such a trip early this winter so I persuaded Mrs. Sage (Bertie) to write an account of their impressions of a caravan tour. This, she very kindly did and we trust you'll enjoy it:

"On November 1 1966 we rendezvoused with 120 other Airstream trailers at Tucson, Ariz. Our itinerary included 18 Mexican towns, six weeks of time and covered 2,500 miles.

In 1956 we went to Mexico via the conventional way of travelling, staying in hotels and seeing the country as most tourists do, so we were in for a surprise, because on the caravan, we saw the people at home and at work. The Mexican people were also amazed when they saw the inside of our trailer home with all its conveniences.

The Airstream company presented a 22 foot trailer to the Mexican Tourist Department, Captain Garcia, one of the Green Angels, travelled the entire length of the Caravan with us in this trailer. Whenever any problem arose, caused by the language barrier or otherwise, the Captain was always available. In case you are unfamiliar with the meaning of "The Green Angels", the tourist department of Mexico keeps a fleet of trucks on all the main highways to help tourists with any problem that may arise. It's a wonderful thing since the roads are not too good and it's many miles between towns.

On the early part of our trip the weather was warm but as we neared Mexico City and ascended to the higher elevations, it really became cold in the night time, but we had nice clear warm days which we enjoyed.

On a caravan a group of people are chosen to be on working committees. Milton was chosen as the Treasurer and he was very busy because everywhere we went there was either a bus, train, or boat trip, and he had to sell the tickets.

It was fun though really, as you get acquainted with the other caravaners in this way. Every Sunday there was a Church service at our campsite, so this means a choir. Well that was my job, Choir Director.

In the Los Mochis to Ciud Obrigon area there is extensive farming. Five years ago this western part of Mexico was a vast desert but after the building of the dams, it has become like a Garden of Eden. A large portion of winter tomatoes, that come into the States come from Mexico, also many other winter vegetables. We enjoyed getting acquainted with some of the vegetables that do not find their way into the States and really got very fond of several of them. Fresh pineapples, papayas and bananas were always available and we had them often. Mixed together they make a very tasty fruit compote.

All the caravaners who like fresh shrimp and the beach had a ball at Mazatlan. The temperature was warm and humid and all the vegetation made us think of Florida. One of the outstanding places of our entire trip was Patzcuaro where we spent four days. We took a side trip to see Paracutin, the volcano that came up out of a man's corn field in the 1930's. It completely covered a town and all that is left is a church steeple sticking up through the lava. On another day we went to a barter market where the Indians trade fish for wood, clothes, vegetables and fruit.

On Lake Patzcaro we saw the butterfly net fishermen at work. These twelve foot wide nets are stretched on circular bamboo poles which when out of the water resemble butterfly wings, hence the name. Altogether our stop at Patzcuaro was great and we wouldn't have missed it for anything.

We skipped right by Guadalajara but stayed five days at Mexico City. Of course this is a place where in just five days you just begin to see the many attractions to be found there. We saw the Folklorico Ballet and this should not be missed by anyone visiting Mexico City. We took a day and visited the silver town of Taxco, a quaint small town built on a mountainside. We also went to the fabulous Anthropology Museum, one of the most outstanding of the whole world. Another day we made a trip to the Pyramids.

After Mexico City everyone pulled north again, from here on we were out of the high elevation and the cold nights were always with us, regardless of the cold, our heater we stayed well closed. Mountains and mountains of cactus, many of them unbelievably huge, and the Mexican people. They are happy and friendly and the children are sure cute, very seldom crying and forever smiling.

There were so many other things we saw but time and space will not permit telling of them, but all together we feel it was a trip that will long be remembered."

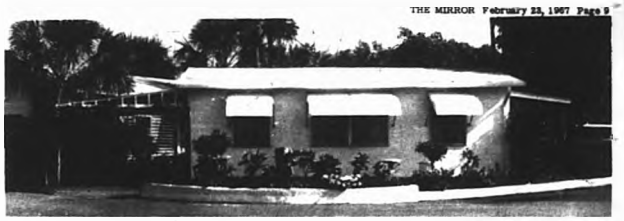
HEAVY CROP--Peggy Dryer on East Almond has a very large variety of flowers and fruit on a very limited area. At the time of photographing this papaya, it held 160 counted papayas. Since then Peggi has picked half of them, beside what the Dryers used and gave away, she sold 17, which weighed 73 pounds; an average of over four pounds each, at ten cents a pound. An estimate would indicate there is close to a quarter ton of fruit on this tree.



NEW LOOK--Jim Dalley's cabana takes on a new look since the large royal poinciana tree has been removed. The tree almost completely covered it.

'Growing Pains'

Cont'd from last week

In the spring we used to go to Moen's Woods, which was just beyond the ministers country home. Blood root was thick there. They were part of our spring flower picking. We would stop at Rev. Halvarson's home and some of their "clan" would join us and then we would continue on into the woods, making a mile and a half of a hike for us from our home. On one of these trips we found a nest of baby rabbits. We all took a rabbit home with us. When Mrs. Tollefson and my mother (who always stuck together about their child problems) saw what we had done they sent us right back to the woods with the babies. It was late afternoon and we fairly had to get to the woods before dark, when we reached the ministers house we expected their children to join us to return their rabbits but to our surprise theirs had been disposed of by dressing. We felt punished to have to take ours back now, but we did, and probably slept better knowing some mother rabbit was happier. It was almost dark when we reached home and we were tired and hungry after our double hike.

As we had two boys during our growing up years. The first was a large brown and white bird dog named Don, who was the right setter for the neighborhood. Wherever we went, Don was sure to be there too. No one could keep us out of us. My mother had to lock Don up before she could punish us. I remember one evening our neighbor Mr. Hoyt came down to Harold and Merle and was rather rough on the boys because they had not responded to his call for them to come home. As he grabbed one of the boys, Don grabbed Mr. Olsen.

The second was just a good mongrel, we called him Duff because of his color. He was more my younger brothers dog. My father made a cart out of the baby buggy and with Duff hitched in it he would pull me all over town, and later was the playground for the evening, for our parents did not allow us to leave home then. I can still hear my father at dusk calling, "Time to come in and go to bed." We felt so abused to be the first ones to be called in. I remember telling him it would not be so bad if he did not tell everyone we had to go to bed so early.

Sackie Olsen, the hatchet-or well driller, lived with his father on the corner across the street from us. All the children loved Sackie and would follow him wherever he was drilling a well. How happy we were when he struck water. It was one of the mysteries of life to us. We had a piece of land at the back of his house where he raised tobacco. As we grew older, he would let us sit on the planter and help him set the plants. We would help him hoe the tobacco, and in the fall, help him harvest it and hang it up in the shed to dry and later to cure. His father was a cross old man and we were all afraid of him. He had a very fine orchard. We would antagonize him by swiping his apples. He would come out yelling and waving his arms and we would run like deer.

Hydroplane Races Planned For Area

Limited hydroplane races, sanctioned by the American Power Boat Association, are being planned by the Stuart Chamber of Commerce.

Chamber president Allyn Weigel and tourist committee chairman Jack Sailer met with representatives of St. Petersburg Yacht Club, sponsors of the Southland Regatta, at the 1967 races Feb. 2 and 3. Films and photos were taken and combined with those taken by waterway committee chairman Herman Reitz at the Orange Bowl Regatta, to be shown last Thursday to Martin County commissioners and city officials.

The racing event would be known as the Sailfish Regatta, and proposed dates are Jan. 20-21, 1968.

Proposed location is the area off Ernest Lyons Causeway.

"Our next step is to take our proposal to all organizations in Martin County for support," said Reitz.

Sailfish Entries

Henry Childers of Stuart caught a 6 lb. 6 oz. sheepshead, which has been entered in the Stuart Sailfish Tournament.

Another recent entry is a 70 lb. 8 oz. amberjack caught by V. Jourdan aboard the 'Seajoy', Capt. Van Jourdan.

MCHS Takes Third

Martin County High School Tigers fooled a lot of people by finishing third in the Western Division of the Suncoast Conference, after Friday's 63-58 victory over Okeechobee.

The Tigers beat every team in the league at least once during the season. The win Friday night gave Martin County an 8-4 conference record, one game behind runnerup Belle Glade.

Boca Raton is champion.

"We're real happy with the team's performance," said Don Wallen, coach of the Tigers, "especially late in the year. The kids are really enthused about basketball here."

This is Wallen's first season as MCHS coach, and the Tigers must rate a chance in the Class AA, Group 14 tournament which they open Thursday night, Feb. 23, at Delray Beach, Seacrest against Belle Glade.

In the Okeechobee game, Bob Matheny was high with 25 points.

TOP TWO--Capturing first and second place in the Martin County Handicap Tournament were Ted Hearn, taking the honors, and Fred Rhoades, placing second. Their match was played this past Sunday with both men firing grass 84's.

Chips, Divots And Tips

by Matt Moore

Golfwise, things happened this week. Appel Holland made a hole in one at #13 using a #4 wood while playing with George Ogg.

Ted Hearn defeated Fred Rhoades 4 and 3 for the President's Cup Championship. This is Ted's first title, so congrats are in order.

In the Buddy Tourney, Fred Rhoades and Al Freihage defeated Kelly Childs and Jean Wilchester, Phil Vary and Ken Sacer defeated Jack Scranton and Paul Thomas. Marty Anderson and Elmer Pond defeated Dick Schnurbush and Ralph Griggs. Ted Hill and Charlie Gipe defeated Dave Brangaccio and Charlie Agnew. Don O'Kelly and Nic Nicholson defeated Red Fleming and Ray Unsel. Charles Thilman and Jack Perkins defeated H. W. Sanders, and F. Lenahan and Lou Papadero and Chet Martin defeated Frank DeStefano and Buddy Wells.

The Blitz winners this week were Charles Grant, Bill Vohden, Elmer Pond and Tom Reed.

Congrats also to Lou Papsidero for his eagle 3 on #14.

Our annual Pro-Am is only 30 days away. Be sure to sign up early if you are eligible to play. We are looking for a large field this year, like 40 teams.

Thanks to the merchants who are contributing to the program for this event.

"The Grip - It's Relation To The Swing"

Holding a golf club is not the most important thing in swinging a golf club. It so happens that you have to start somewhere. It would be antiquish in this day of dynamics to not consider the mechanical principal involved in making a golf swing. Every true swing is the result of the application of centrifugal force. Centrifugal force is a force which tends from the center out. The center of your golf swing is the center of the body. So, the force originates in the midsection and is whirled out from the body to the arms to the hands, through the club to the ball. Thus, the hands play the part of transmitting the power and act as a hinge to speed the club up and time the swing in the hitting area.

Whether you overlap or interlock or use an unlap grip or a baseball grip is of little importance. There are two fundamental grips in golf and every other is a variation of these standards. Either you grip with the left thumb on the shaft or you grip with the left thumb around the shaft. The two basic grips are the Vardon overlapping grip with the left lapping grip or the ture interlocking grip with the left thumb around the shaft. The relationship of the hands to to each other is important.

The first relationship is to hold the club in the palm of the left which is strong and the fingers of the right making it weak. The second is that the palms face each other and the "V's" formed by the thumb and base fingers point to the right shoulder so that the hands will transmit power equally to the club and on the true plane in which the club acts. Such a grip as to the relationship of the hands and the transmission of power and one will certainly improve your golf.

Jackie Hartsell Takes Two

Mrs. Jackie Hartsell was winner of the Martin County Ladies' Golf Association Handicap Tournament played during January and completed last Monday. Runners-up in the 18-hole group was Mrs. Carol Vohden.

In the nine-hole group winner was Janice Clark, with Edna Dare runner-up.

The Championship Tournament played Feb. 14, 15 and 16 saw Jackie Hartsell was tops with a 262. Gen Lore followed with a 267. Twenty-four played in the 18-hole event.

Two golfers took part in the nine-hole competition, with Esther Fenton winning with a 104, second with 121 was Louise Donovan.

A Haid Full Of Sporting Tips

by Howard Lee Haid

IT'S ALL OVER...The trophies have been awarded and the Martin County Golf and Country Club has another new champion...a new club handicap champion, that is.

His name....Ted Hearn.

Hearn won the club championship Sunday by defeating runner-up Fred Rhoades three and two in an 18-hole match. Hearn carries a handicap of 18 and Rhoades carries ten; both carded scores in the Sunday playoff of 84's. Rhoades played the Pound in his average, while Hearn hit a rather hot streak and fired below his normal round. This was the story of the victory...the unpredictable game of golf. Get hot and you got it made!

One highlight I might add here was a reimark I heard made about the match before I left the clubhouse. One fan asked, "Who won" and was told "Ted Hearn". "Hmmmm..." he muttered. "That's the tall man with the remarkable putter...". It seems fame travels fast,. Anyhow, congratulations, Ted.

WHILE ON THE subject of golf, I'll remind anyone interested that the second annual Pro-Am will be held at Martin County Golf and Country Club March 19. There is still time to sign up to play in this tourney, and for anyone not wanting to play, I'd suggest he mark it on his calendar and plan to watch the event. It should prove to be an interesting spectacle.

Another happy note that can be added is...the course is in great shape and it looks as if it will remain in that condition. The new interest stimulated through the recent club-county upheaval and revision seems to have all phases of the operation working for the best interest of the golfing public. All and any changes that have been made have improved conditions, and I think we can plan of seeing this type of operation prevail in the future.

ON THE FISHING SCENE this past week, things were still pretty good. Nice catches of snook were reported, with one night being a traffic-stopper on the Roosevelt Bridge. As one fisherman put it, they were stacked like cord wood. For anyone interested in catching a snook, now is the time. Try the bridges at night on the flood tide or the turn of the tide. It should prove productive.

Also, still good catches of trout and blues being reported. The trout is being taken on the grass flats in early morning and late evening, while the blues are being taken along the Sunpolar area on cut bait. Fresh water fishing is excellent for spacks all around the lake.

GOOD CATCH--Ronald Pray, Keeseville, N.Y., spending a three-week vacation in Jensen Beach, hooked this 38-lb. 2 oz. snook, plus two 14-lb. snook while fishing Sunday night off the St. Lucie Bridges. Pray used a white feather plug and a 30-lb. test line. He has been vacationing here for six years and says he hopes to land a 50-lb. snook before his vacation ends.

Trooper Burnett Sets Firing Record

Trooper Lloyd M. Burnett, East Lansing, Mich., son of Mr. and Mrs. Elwin Burnett of Jensen Beach, completed records in the Michigan State Police pistol shooters two-day investigator match at Fort Benning, Ga.

Burnett fired a record aggregate of 471-100 out of 500, including a rapid fire event mark of 196-100 out of 200. He was previous holder of both police records.

Competing against 135 individuals, Burnett also won the .22 caliber national match course with an almost perfect 299-100 out of 300, though this was not a record.

His three-caliber aggregate of 2636-114X out of 2700 was high for the state police team at Fort Benning and the best he has ever done in this event.

Burnett will visit his family in Jensen Beach prior to competing at the state rifle matches at Tampa in March.

Jackie Hartsell Takes Two

Mrs. Jackie Hartsell was winner of the Martin County Ladies' Golf Association Handicap Tournament played during January and completed last Monday. Runners-up in the 18-hole group was Mrs. Carol Vohden.

In the nine-hole group winner was Janice Clark, with Edna Dare runner-up.

The Championship Tournament played Feb. 14, 15 and 16 saw Jackie Hartsell was tops with a 262. Gen Lore followed with a 267. Twenty-four played in the 18-hole event.

Two golfers took part in the nine-hole competition, with Esther Fenton winning with a 104, second with 121 was Louise Donovan.

Eight For Basketball

Eight elementary schools in Martin County will compete in a basketball tournament at Martin County High School on Tuesday through Friday, Feb. 28 through Mar. 3.

Over 500 Attend Dedication Of New Jensen Beach Post Office Sunday

Five hundred persons who attended Sunday's dedication ceremonies of the Jensen Beach Post Office heard U.S. Rep. Paul G. Rogers say, "It is time for us to pull in the horns of big government, to let them know in Washington the people still are the bosses."

FULL IN HORNS--Congressman Paul Rogers told the 500 meeting citizens that it is time for big government to "pull in its horns", and lauded the efforts of the postal service to provide a modern and fast mail delivery to the people of Martin County in the keynote speech dedicating the Post Office at Jensen Beach last Sunday afternoon.

Rep. Rogers lauded the U. S. Postal Service in his address, but several times digressed to brack at the bureaucrats: "Too many think people can't think for themselves, want to do it for them, and this trend needs a change."

He praised the performing 50 members of Martin County High School band, led by LeMoyne Roll, and invited them to play on the steps of the Capitol.

Rep. Rogers was introduced by Frank A. Wacha, county commissioner from the district, who had been introduced by Richard E. Campbell, editor-publisher of The Jensen Beach Mirror and The Indiantown Press, who was master of ceremonies.

Mrs. Charlotte B. Rynski, clerk-in-charge of the post office during the past year, opened the ceremonies, then introduced Campbell. The invocation was given by Rev. Newton M. Tweedy, as was the benediction.

John W. Keller, MC veteran service officer, led the salute to the flag, and A. C. St. Clair led the detail of veterans in the color guard.

R. G. McGinn postal service officer, South Florida "trouble shooter" for the Post Office Department followed Rep. Rogers with a brief address, asking "100 per cent cooperation in use of zip code numbers".

Rep. Rogers presented Mrs. Rynski with a flag that had flown over both the Capitol and the Post Office building in Washington. It was flown by the color guard of Veterans Council of Martin County, while the band played "Star Spangled Banner".

Ceremonies were sponsored by the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Distinguished guests introduced by Campbell included: all members of the county commission, Jack Saunderson, chairman; Herb Bruner, Timer Powers, Bill Hussey, and Frank Wacha; Dorothy Hanson, county clerk; Hugh Andrews, county tax collector; Jean Tanner, county attorney; Maurice Johnson, county judge; Miss Ethel Frank, county superintendent of elections; Keller; Patrick Ogilvie, overall head; and Albert Talbert, postmaster and Chamber of Commerce.

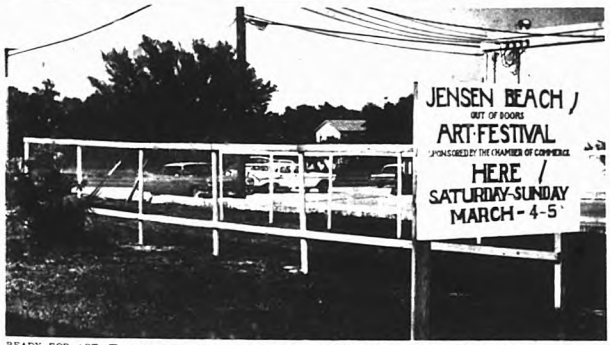
Rivers Action

Florida people will play a prominent part in favoring HR 25, a bill concerning estuaries and conservation, according to Charles E. (Chuck) Kindred, immediate past-president, and Jim Redford, Miami, president, of Florida's association of Izaak Walton League chapters. They will appear in favor of the bill March 8 in Washington.

The bill, "to authorize the secretary of the interior in cooperation with the states to preserve, protect, develop, restore and make accessible estuarine areas of the nation which are valuable for sport and commercial fishing, wildlife conservation, recreation and scenic beauty," was introduced by Rep. John D. Dingell (D) of Michigan.

Dingell and Rep. Paul G. Rogers of this state are members of the House Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries, which has jurisdiction over legislation wildlife, including research, restoration, refuges and conservation as well as all merchant marine matters. The secretary of the interiors would conduct a study to identify estuarine areas which should be protected.



READY FOR ART--These screened fences were erected Monday by members of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the Art Festival to be held next to the bank on Commercial Street this Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. until dusk. They await the hanging of 216 pictures which have been registered by 54 artists.

Outdoor Art Festival Set For This Weekend

Art lovers, viewers and buyers from up and down the coast will enjoy a different and rewarding treat at the Jensen Beach Art Festival being arranged and sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce March 4 and 5, Saturday and Sunday, from 10 a.m. until dusk, according to Albert E. Palmer, president of the Chamber.

The programing is rapidly becoming more than just an out-of-doors gallery of art. It is taking on the dimensions of an exciting variety exhibition. Early entries received by Reg Walker, executive secretary of the Chamber, from a number of well-known artists indicate that in addition to a large array of conventional art in oils, water colors and pastels, there will be portraits, landscapes, still-life, abstracts and collages.

Planned for the two-day exhibition will be sketching of visitors by two well-known artists, actual painting of visionary land and seascapes by another long-experienced artist in oil, and a demonstration of collage, what it is, how it is done and why it is becoming a popular form.

Works will be displayed between Commercial Street and Ricou Street, next to the Jensen Beach Bank, on the newly-erected fences installed Monday.

Fifty-four artists have entered 216 pictures up to press time, according to Walker. The exhibit will include works by both professional and amateur artists.

75 POUNDER- Charlie Smith, bridge tender on the Evans Crary Bridge, Stuart, caught this 75-pound jewfish last Thursday night from the bridge using a steel cable. Jewfish weigh up to 500 pounds and are usually caught on a rope, shark hook and a whole live fish for bait.

Girl Scouts Are Reorganized

Girl Scout Troop #231 is reorganizing in Jensen Beach after being inactive for about two years.

Ten girls attended the first meeting held Monday night at Jensen Beach Community Church, sponsors, according to Mrs. Ransom R. Tilton, leader. She is assisted by Mrs. Charles Hall, and three committee members, Mrs. Judy Carroll, Mrs. Mildred Hightee and Mrs. Lucille Smith.

The meeting, for junior Girl Scouts from grades 4, 5 and 6, was attended by Margaret Hall, Mary Newsome Pamela Hostetter, Vicki Addy, Debbie Landis, Patti Johnson, Pamela Bistany, Paula Meeks, Rhonda Cumpsty, Lynn Navitsky and Joyce Tilton.

"We hope to branch into the cadet age, 7, 8 and 9th grades, next fall," said Mrs. Tilton, "and we hope enough interest will be shown so a Brownie troop can be started." More assistants and troop members are being sought, she added.

Meetings will be held at Jensen Beach Community Church, Skyline Drive, each Monday at 7:30 p.m.

Ransom R. Tilton is institutional representative.

County Thanks Firemen

A letter, received by the Jensen Beach Fire Department from county commission chairman John F. Saunderson, reads:

"On behalf of the Martin County Board of County Commissioners, I want to take this means of congratulating you and the members of the department for your fine work that led to the securing of the monies you gave to the county Feb. 17, 1967, for the purchase of a Dodge 4-M-306 truck.

"The board is indeed grateful for your help both financially and otherwise in keeping not only your area but all of Martin County a finer and safer place in which to reside.

"Thank you and good luck in any future endeavors you may attempt."

Chief Randolph Spinney added: "The fire department would like to thank all the contributors who made this purchase possible. We want the best for your protection."

Application forms will be available March 1 to 3, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.; and March 6 to 9, at the same hours, at the following registration centers:

Port Salerno Elementary for that school; East Stuart Elementary for pre-schoolers planning to go to that school in the Headstart program; Palm City Elementary for that school; Warfield School for that and Booker Park schools; and Hobe Sound Elementary for that school and Dunbar.

Pending final approval and official confirmation from OEO, a tentative staff for the program is being selected.

18% Primary Vote In County Election

A bare eighteen per cent of the ten thousand Martin County voters went to the polls Tuesday to select candidates that will be elected to the Florida Legislature, Martin County's only primary candidate, Dale Milita, carried the county, 316 to his fellow Republican opponent's 278, but Robert Rust clobbered Milita in Palm Beach County, winning 7,888 to 1,950 overall.

The power of the county to the south, shown in numbers reflecting a small turnout there also, showed an eight to one ratio of voters over smaller Martin County.

In the Democratic races, the name of Spessard L. Holland, Jr., carried magic as the son of U.S. Senator Holland won Democratic nomination to the 29th senatorial district 8,106 to 2,833 for Clyde R. Pirtle, and 1,396 for Michael J. Doran. Holland also carried Martin County in this five county race, getting 624 votes.

For house seats, Jim Mayor won 7,618 to 3,904 for Robert J. Ackerman, and Robert F. Day defeated C. Errol Hicks 5,486 to 3,918. Maynor carried Martin County 553 to 463, and Hicks carried this county 433 to 425.

In the Republican Senate race for the 30th district, a runoff will be held between R. W. Grady and C. S. Cliff Reuter. Grady had 2,555, Reuter 2,376, and Claud M. Sigman 714. No candidate had a majority. The runoff will be held March 14. In the county, Grady had 239, Reuter, 349, and Sigman 47 votes.

In the Republican primary for house seat 81, William James had 5,201 for a victory over Mead Maxwell's 3,455. James won Martin County 324 to 251. James will face Martin County's Bill Owens in the general election.

United Fund Push Set

The Jensen Beach-Rio United Fund began a cleanup of the drive this week following a meeting of the executive board at the Jensen Chamber office Monday night. The drive fell $3,500 short in the ten-day effort recently.

Drive chairman Willard Bowman urged all residents of the Jensen Beach and Rio areas to send in contributions to the fund if they have not been contacted. The fund drive thus far has raised a total of $6,500, considerably short of the $10,000 goal.

Special gifts chairman Dick Campbell began canvassing persons who give larger donations to see if the difference can be made up in special gifts as the fund workers clean up the missing parts of the door-to-door canvass.

Campbell received executive committee approval for a "Victory Dance", the annual celebration held at the end of the drive, to be April 7 at Seymour's Inn.

UF OFFICERS- Officers of the Jensen Beach-Rio United Fund, Inc., met Monday night to plan a second fund drive effort to meet the $10,000 goal set by the officers an executive board for 1967. At press time, $6,668.00 has been collected, seated above is president Mrs. Jackie Hall, with Keith Carroll, rear is Albert E. Palmer, last year's president; Mrs. Judy Carroll, secretary; and Willard Bowman, drive chairman.

Grumman Gets $1.8 Millions

An additional appropriation of $1,800,000 has been made by the U.S. Army in its program of modifying the Grumman Mohawks at the Stuart facility of Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corps., according to U. S. Rep. Paul G. Rogers Tuesday.

Art Melrose, facility manager at Grumman, said the appropriation is a follow-on order for 15 aircraft modifications under the program of updating the OV1C's started last year with 31 aircraft.

The appropriation will continue smooth operations at the local facility, since not all of the initial order has been completed, Melrose said.

County Roads Get A Million Dollars

Members of the Martin County commission and county engineer Fred L. Bell attended an annual meeting last week at the Fort Lauderdale office of the State Road Board, to present and discuss the primary road list.

One million dollars has been credited to Martin County, accruing from statutory road tax sources.

Jay Brown, new chairman of the SRB, said he fascied moving out on secondary projects as speedily as possible, a move that would be contrary to policy in recent years.

Palm City Bridge continued as the top project in the primary program; engineering is under way, with work being done by a private concern.

Earmarked for the Jensen-Rio Access Road is $175,000. This road runs north and south from SR-707 at Rio to the south end of Savanna Road, at SR-707A.

Cove Road, from A-1-A to the Intracoastal Waterway, with profiles for a bridge to Jupiter-Long island, has $150,000 earmarked for engineering, plans and construction, including about two miles of road, but not the bridges. All the right-of-way for this project has been obtained except one 50 by 1,200-foot stretch which the owner has promised "when the route decision was made final."

Citrus Blvd. is also on the secondary list, budgeted at $450,000. Plans are ready, were prepared by Greenlees, Montgomery and Arbogast.

Another three miles of Pratt & Whitney Access Rd. will be let in a short while, with $150,000 allotted, the commissioners were told.

Attending the meeting, in addition to the local delegation and Brown, were new District 4 member of the board, Michael J. O'Neill, Miami; Clarence Davidson, District 4 engineer; Robert Johnson, his assistant, and P. W. (Bill) Ekey, new SRD engineer, who replaced Brown when he was made chairman of the board by Gov. Claude Kirk.

UNPACKING--Martin County agricultural agent Levi Johnson and Mrs. Martha B. Norton unpack the ribbons and advertising material received recently in preparation for the annual Martin County Fair to be held March 11 to 18 on the Fair Grounds on south A-1-A, Stuart.

What Of Island Zoning?

What is to happen to Hutchinson Island? This is a question that is causing many to shake heads, scratch heads and use heads to study. The island is a diamond in the rough. The future of Martin County is tied to its future.

Will Hutchinson Island be a swank hotel-row for lush tourist accommodations? Will it be an exclusive home area for the idle and not-so-idle rich? Will it become like Fort Pierce Beach...a mass of improperly developed junk houses devaluating the property and dragging down the possibilities of the beachfront?

These questions will be partially answered this week as the Martin County Commission takes action on the proposed zoning of the island.

There are those who want development now at any cost. These are the short-sighted developers, or speculators. They want to turn a fast buck on the island property they have held for so long. They want, and have investment.

Then there are the planners. They envision a Miami Beach-type development, with the hotels and motels and the swank-type development. They are willing to wait a little longer for a return on their investment.

Then there are the little people. They have no land. They like the beach. They go there to run and to fish and to walk and enjoy the morning, afternoon and night of living in Martin County. They deserve consideration.

There is also the zoning board. It is made up of dedicated citizens trying (for no pay) to help this county grow...and grow in the right way. They have suggested a plan.

The Martin County Land Commission must find the middle ground among these people. The commissioners must decide what would be best for everyone concerned. It will be a difficult decision.

But the decision must be made. The commissioners must decide what plan we are to follow in the development of the island. Their decision will affect land prices, planning of developers, requirements for future development, and a future for the little people who like to bathe, fish, and walk on the beach.

We have suggested that the plans of the zoning board be studied, and that they be given serious consideration. The time for such suggestions is past. The responsibility for the development of the island is now in the hands of the commissioners.

We hope the decision they make will be in the best interests of everyone...and especially of Martin County.

One Final Pull To The Top!

Your Florida Constitution

This is the seventh installment of the complete text of the proposed new Florida Constitution. This document will provide the political structure under which Florida citizens will live, replacing the outmoded, often-amended document we use today. It is the responsibility of all citizens to study, know and comment upon this constitution.

Economic Highlights

Happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual--National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare

Appraising the past and taking a look at the future to the opening months of a new year has always been an absorbing task (particularly) in the realm of economic affairs. With few exceptions, the indices again indicate good times.

Prosperity has continued without interruption for so long that a large portion of the U.S. population has never known economic adversity. Therefore, it is not surprising that an entire new school of thought has evolved which believes that such things as business cycles are a thing of the past, that government manipulation of taxes, spending and subsidies correct any economic disturbance. Typical of the new school is the comment of a reviewer in discussing a recent book by former Chief Presidential Economist Walter Heller: "Frightful as the alleged perils and danger in fiscal federal debts and rising wages---as long as the economy grows faster than the debt, and labor productivity grows faster than labor costs, these alarmist economics has fallen on happy times...and even many ideologies are dead."

If all of this is true, there is little cause for further forecasting of the nation's future prospects. The future is assured and tomorrow is the today of which we dream. Paradoxically, paging on the pessimistic side, would be that political considerations, there is more uncertainty facing business as the new year opens than there has been for some time. And the most conspicuous element in all the forecasting is lack of unanimity. No one seems quite sure whether inflation or recession is just around the corner. In spite of the reassuring certainty of the new economists, the future still appears to embrace a definite element of uncertainty.

Some time ago, the National Industrial Conference Board, Inc., published a pamphlet entitled "Economic Potentials of the United States in the Next Decade" that is up to 1975. The pamphlet steers clear of the shaky ground of business forecasting, but it describes the potentials, based on historical experience, with startling results. By 1975, there should be about 86 million Americans gainfully employed out of a population that may be anywhere from about 219 million to about 230 million. The work week will continue to decline, reflecting the trend toward lengthening vacations and increasing holidays. The annual rate of new fixed investments--the main source of higher employments--in 1975 may approach $118 billion in prices then prevailing. This is almost double the gross investment rate of 1964.

One of the most dramatic potentials of the next decade is in the field of research and development. According to the pamphlet, in the 1960's will attract industry and the government were spending about $6 billion a year for these purposes. In 1975, the figure may well be in the neighborhood of $40 billion. Small wonder is the interest potential. By 1975, fifty per cent of U.S. families will have incomes of $15,000 and over in terms of current dollars. It almost over, altogether, the findings of the board indicate a bright future for the nation, if the assumptions on which the projected potentials prove valid.

For instance, the board assumes the preservation of the conditions that generate private investment and private saving. It assumes that government will pursue policies to foster stable production, consistent growth and reasonable economic freedom. It assumes the same kind of public and private initiative that has shaped the American economy for the last two centuries. With respect to the new economics, the pamphlet has this to say: "A heavy burden of proof seems to rest on those who would argue that all of the profitability in the past is to be ascribed to errors of foresight, monopolistic policy, and that all of the governmental knowledge and tools necessary to avoid these difficulties are now in place. In some fine, this is overstating, although certainly appear to be essential ingredients of a prosperous and economic economy, and are partly responsible for its long-term vigor."

It is a safe bet that there will always be enough uncertainty about the future to provide a fertile field of conjecture for the prognosticators with the arrival of each new year.

by Ives Carr

The Courier and Ives

I never thought I'd question the way our courts operate, but this legislative election they have pulled out of the blue does it! If I remember correctly, it has been almost two years since the Florida legislature set up the districts that were the basis for last year's elections. Still, it wasn't until this January that the Supreme Court got around to tossing out the whole works, including a few million dollars tax cost for holding the 1966 elections--and the comparable sums spent by candidates. Without even questioning the questionable solution, how can a responsible judiciary let such important matters take so long?

Here are the 1966 primaries and elections were to be held, were being held, and had been held.

If the thing had been a new or unusual matter, we are used to such delays--after all, courts are only none than to judge for the whole nation. But this reapportionment case was nothing spectacular. In its difficulty--it had been there before, and there have been plenty of others quite similar since the Supreme Court hooked out the window 170 years of constitutional law, understanding, and acceptance.

I just cannot see why this whole thing wasn't resolved immediately after the Florida legislature worked out its reapportionment in 1965, legislative districts.

If the Congressmen of several states were treated by the federal courts as Florida has been, you can bet your sweet life Congress would tighten up a lot on those high flying courts.

Maybe Florida's Attorney General can bring a claim against the United States for the cost of this election. After all, it was made necessary because of delays in the federal courts. I think all of the State's expenses, and all of the candidates' expenses in 1966 ought to be paid from the current operating budget of the federal courts.

The General Election is March 28. Candidates are all being elected for shorter than two-year terms, even though senators are otherwise elected for four-year terms. All who are now standing election will again stand election in 1968. In these elections, all legislators must stand the expense of the campaign, even those whose districts saw no change by the federal redistricting. If the district wasn't changed, the term was.

The United States Supreme Court has not yet approved this redistricting, either.

Fabulous Future Seen For Island

New owner of large ocean frontage on Hutchinson Island, Homer Hoyt, Washington, D.C., spoke to the Stuart Board of Realtors and guests Thursday night.

Hoyt is a land economist, market analyst, shopping center consultant, and master planner, who sees a "wonderland of the world, advertises like Hawaii or the Riviera are today, on the coastal island that stretches from St. Lucie Inlet to Fort Pierce Inlet.

"This island has all the advantages of an island in the Caribbean. It has the warm waters of the Atlantic Ocean on one side, the transcontinental Waterway on the other," Hoyt pointed out as he enumerated the assets of the area.

"Martin, St. Lucie and Indian River Counties have only 106,000 residents on 600 miles, 1,750 persons per mile, extending from coastline to county line, on the same length as from Miami to Palm Beach, where two million people live today," he stated.

Hoyt pointed out that this area is in the middle of the Miami-Palm Beach resort area, and the Brevard and Volusia Counties market with this location unexploited and not marred by premature subdivisions."

Hoyt turned to the planners and experts to work with care and plan communities "harmoniously linked with ocean resorts."

LIVE.... and love it

Imagine....118

by Jim Campbell

There are many different kinds of quiet status symbols, and I love them all. There is the kind...if you have nerve to wear one. And, the white suit, I enjoy the startled looks they bring. Once worn regularly, they become a part of you and are no longer status.

Last week I got another status symbol, but I am afraid I cannot, in all honesty, wear it without an explanation.

I have a golf hat, and on it is a bright outline of a yellow-orange, the State of Florida in green, and in the center of the state (near Orlando, a orange orange) is emblazoned in the white is "Florida Citrus Open".

If I were 30 years this cap I would be immediately classed as someone who played in the Florida Citrus Open, which isn't until next week. This could be a really great status symbol at Martin County or St. Lucie County Clubs. It can't be, though.

Last week, Howard Haid and I went to the Rio Pinar Golf Club near Orlando to play in the Florida Citrus Open Press Tournament. We arrived on Friday morning, along with 140 other members of the newspaper, radio and television industries, and met the other half of our foursome.

Bill Jones, a Minute Maid vice pres who was seconde speaker at the Chamber of Commerce installation last year in Indiantown, and Rollie Hinton, vice pres of Winter Haven's public relations, were the sharpshooters we were to play.

Like I say, the hat is not a prize, though I treasure it. I was given the hat as we walked to the first. If the hat knows what I was about to shoot, it wouldn't have given it to me.

At the end of a cold, cold eighteen holes, I had amassed the fantastic score of 118. I remember I shot 118 the first time I took up golf. Howard Haid, who shoots in the high 70's and low 80's, had a 90.

That golf course is something again. I have never seen more trees. The fairways looked about as wide as a bowling lane, and I couldn't do anything right. I thought that our hosts, Bill and Rollie, handled themselves with dignity. They didn't scoff or laugh more than a couple of times.

Last week, another pro golfer, Jack Nicklaus, Arnie Palmer, and dozens of other great golfers shoot down those bowling lanes with the millions of trees, think of me, and my 118. I hope they have better luck.

But next week, I'm going to wear the hat. I didn't earn it, nor did I rate it. Maybe I'll explain how I got it, if anyone asks. Go ahead, ask.

Couples Celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Allen L. Wickes were married March 31, 1917, in Towaco, N. J. He is a retired foreman of N.Y.C. The Wickes came to Ocean Breeze in 1949, have two daughters and seven grandchildren.

GOLDEN WEDDINGS--Eleven couples celebrated their 50th wedding anniversaries last Sunday at an open house held at Ocean Breeze Park. The club house was decorated with potted palms and floral arrangements and refreshments were served to 500 guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Huffman were married Nov. 28, 1917, in Indianapolis, Ind. He owned and operated a sales and service heavy equipment shop. The Huffmans, who have one son and four grandchildren, moved to Ocean Breeze in 1945.

Myers' Celebrate

"Virgil and Leona Myers celebrated their "Emerald" 55th Wedding Anniversary at their home at 45 West 10th Street, Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, Canada, Feb. 4. The reception was in the form of a come and go tea, when a goodly number of friends, neighbors and relatives called to wish them well.

A congratulatory telegram of good wishes was received from Rt. Hon. J.G.Diefenbaker and Mrs. Diefenbaker as well as cards and telephone messages from other phone messages from afar.

The happy couple were married at Omaha, Nebraska, Feb. 4, 1908 and came to Canada the first time in 1910. The Myers and their daughter returned to the U.S.A. in 1913 where their son Kenneth, (now deceased) was born in 1918. They returned to Canada in 1922 to take up farming once again.

In 1945 they retired from farming and moved to the city of Prince Albert Sask. They spent nine winters in Ocean Breeze Park, Florida where they celebrated their 50th Wedding Anniversary in the park club-house.

Besides their two children they were blessed with seven grand-children and six great-grand-children."

The fore-going is an extract from the Prince Albert Daily Herald which Virgil enclosed with a letter which we found interesting and parts of which we will pass on to their many friends:

Dear Friends,

We are still having winter 43 below last Friday morning but this morning only 4 below. Of course that isn't what I call summer either. We are really tired of winter this year. We are both feeling fairly good for 'old folks'. Our celebration was not as large as the one at Ocean Breeze but it was lovely. Virgil is interested in reading the shuffleboard news in the Mirror and I like the Community Church news. I see George is still the chef for the church dinners.

The winter ice festival is on. The river is 3 1/2 to 4 feet thick so they have a hundred car parking space on the river where most of the activities take place. The last night Feb. 25, they will have the burning of the Xmas Trees and fireworks. Glad you are enjoying a nice winter.

Yours as ever,
Leona and Virgil

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Baker were married May 10, 1917, in Newport, Penna. He is a retired clerk with P.R.R. The Bakers, who came to Ocean Breeze August 31, 1963, have two sons and six grandchildren.

Our club-house wore a gay look as eleven couples who were married in the year 1917 arrived to take part in the celebration of their 50 the celebration of their 50th Wedding Anniversary. Various tables with refreshments and a guest book table were tastefully arranged and potted palms and floral arrangements added charm and glamor to the stage and room.

This custom of a joint celebration each year was adopted in 1958, and with the full co-operation of the management is fast becoming a tradition.

The eleven couples were seated in a semi-circle near the stage and their attendants, (two to each couple), were at their assigned positions when the doors were opened to the waiting guests. The guests were directed along the line so they had ample opportunity to greet each of the honored celebrants.

The guest books came next one to each couple, and 500 people registered. Then on to the refreshment tables where punch, tea, coffee, cake, etc. were served by a bevy of beautifully attired gals. The guests then gathered in groups to chat while eating the goodies.

Mrs. 'Josie' Daley at the Hammond organ supplied music for the full two hours which was appreciated. Congratulations also are due Mr. and Mrs. Leo Hebert for making the corsages and the beautiful flower arrangements and to all those ladies who worked so hard to make the occasion the success it was.

Last of all the hostesses Minnie Schaefer and Sylvia Sanborn are to be congratulated on their untiring efforts which made the 1967 Golden Wedding another successful occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Tryggestad were married April 2, 1917, in Viroqua, Wis. He was a farmer. The Tryggestads came to Ocean Breeze Park Dec. 1, 1966, and have seven children and 26 grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Innis were married Dec. 5, 1917, in Detroit, Mich. He is a retired builder. The Innis', who have one son, three grandchildren and five great grandchildren, came to Ocean Breeze Nov. 9, 1953.

Club Bids Bohannon Good By

The first half of last Thursday's Camera Club meeting was taken up by the showing of an exceptional set of slides from the Detroit Luthers Camera Club. Many of the slides shown had won awards in various competitions. Doug Blyth, Clyde Redinger and Cliff Ogle read the titles and made brief comments on the strong points of each picture.

Immediately following, a half hour 8 mm movie film was shown with Jay Bohannon doing the commentary. This film was made by Jay Bohannon during his and his wife, Helen's, last summer tour of the Mediterranean countries. Jay's sight is failing fast and he says this will be the last of his picture shootings. He apologized for the quality of his photography this time, in the past it has been very good.

Jay has been an ardent Camera Club enthusiast and last season he held the office of president of the club. The Bohannons are leaving shortly for their home in Richmond, Va., where they intend to stay. As a little token of the club members' affection for this contagiously humorous member of our group, a little party was arranged after the pictures were shown. Coffee was served to the 150 camera club fans present, with home made Ocean Breeze cookies, made by Lila Redinger. As each person approached the refreshment table, Bohannon was there to shake hands with and accept good wishes of his many friends.

A special "Going away cake" was presented to him by the club. The cake was iced with green icing and made in the form of an open book with two or three red roses for decoration, and inscribed, "GOOD LUCK, GOOD BYE, JAY".

...sary to accommodate all of the entries.

There's plenty of time to sign up for the Pro-Am set for the 19th, Sunday. Pros already entered are Matt Moore, Ben Hartig, Bill Girard, Charles Grant, Bill Goldbeck, John Reardon, Joe Tally, Jack Anderson and Joe Thomas. We are expecting 35 to 40 professionals.

If you have been following these articles, the fundamentals of golf go something like this: (1) Grip, (2) Part the Head and Feel Play in the Swing, (3) Two Parts of a Swing, (4) Four Positions of a Swing and (5) Two Pairs of a Swing.

Number six would be the order of Movement of a Golf Swing. An order of movement is a sequence of doing things. It doesn't would go 1, 2, 3, 4 or 5, 6, 2, 3. The four components of a swing (pivot) are hips, shoulders, arms, hands, and this is the order for learning and the order for refined performance.

You could write a book on this subject, but briefly, there is an order for backswing and an order for downswing and they have the same sequence. The body is the prime mover for the whole swing. The base of the body is the hips. Think first hips, then shoulders, arms, and hands. The order of movement for all for backswing is started like this - shift hips to right, turn hips full. Follow its greater turn of shoulder, then arms, then hands, then wrists. The downswing has the same order as the wrists bend back at the top the hips move forward followed by the shoulders, then arms, then wrists.

The question in golf is always of a one piece swing. If the body is the prime mover and carries the arms, hands and club to the right and around and if the body leads in the downswing then it's always in one piece. If you miss the sequence it separates. Learn this order, add a little balance, then you'll have a good swing.

CAC President Seeks Action

Enrollment for Operation Headstart will start within two weeks in the five areas where centers are to be, according to Dr. George H. Bost, retired Presbyterian minister, president of the Community Action Committee in this area. Locations of centers are Port Salerno, Palm City, Indiantown, East Stuart and Hobe Sound.

Dr. Bost said last week he hopes local groups or the local government will create projects of local origin as subprojects for Federal aid under the Economic Opportunity Administration.

He pointed out that little was done here in the two years of Operation Headstart to prepare for the time when these pre-schoolers would be taught in kindergartens. He said he has hopes that Federal funding of the Headstart program will be forthcoming for a third summer period of six weeks.

Under EOA rules, 10 per cent of the proposed $42,000 budget to serve 180 children should be raised locally, he said, but a waiver has been asked because local funds are not available. Applications are in, and Eli Howell has been named director.

Other needs were pointed out by Dr. Bost, including the Child Care Center at Booker Park.

A Federal anti-poverty movement administrative grant will be sought to help initiate projects in cooperation with existing official agencies, including the board of public instruction, welfare and health departments and other agencies, as suggested to CAC directors by Dr. Bost. He estimated the need at $2,000 to $4,000.

STUART KEITH

'African Wilds' To Be Shown

The third wild Life film of the season will be shown March 3 at 8 p.m. at the Woman's Club in Stuart. G. Stuart Keith will present a color-sound film, "Sights & Sounds of the African Wilds."

Keith is a director of the Alberta Wildlife Foundation and secretary of the International Council for Bird Preservation, U.S. Section.

The series is sponsored by the Martin County Audubon Society, and the public is invited.

River Restoration League Re-Elects Robert Bair

Members of the St. Lucie-Indian Rivers Restoration League met last week, expecting to distribute funds on hand in the treasury and to adopt a resolution asking the secretary of state to cancel their charter. After review, they decided that the League, one of the county's oldest conservation organizations, was important to the area and should be continued.

In recent years, the RRL has fought for clean rivers here, increased storage facilities in Lake Okeechobee, a move made by Central and South Florida Flood Control District and U.S. Corps of Engineers long after RRL helped to promote it.

The League was ahead of its time in the Everglades National Park water supply fight, was early in the fight over the Loxahatchee River pollution, and predicted dead oysters in the St. Lucie and Indian Rivers long before they died. (Recent investigations made in the Indian River from the House of Refuge to the north county line showed no live oysters. They were killed by the tremendous discharges through the St. Lucie Canal last summer. However, in recent months, the water in the Indian River, a lagoon, was generally clean.)

League leaders have appeared on behalf of conservationists here in Washington, Tallahassee and Jacksonville, and played active parts in such organizations as Florida Waterways Congress and Florida Wildlife Federation.

Robert T. Bair, who has been president of the League since its inception in 1953, won re-election; Alan named were Johnny Crawford and Ernest Lyons, both also charter members of RRL.

The group also voted to retain control of the library book money until such time as the public library carried out the intent of the special fund in purchasing books on conservation for a special shelf.

Fellowship Dinner Planned

Sunday, March 5, will be Fellowship Sunday at First Presbyterian Church, North River Shores. All members and visitors are invited and are asked to bring a covered dish and table service.

Dinner will immediately follow the 11 a.m. service and will be followed by a hymn sing.

Rev. A. Sidney Lowrie will be guest preacher at both services March 5.

Experts Discuss 'Clean Waters'

No decision was reached but many ideas were expounded by fishing experts who pondered the question, "How you want clean waters, and if so, how do we get them when they're dirty now?"

The meeting was sponsored by Martin County Audubon Society, Speaker included Stuart's city manager, - representative of the League of Women Voters, county agricultural agent, and a national vice-president of the Izaak Walton League of America.

It was pointed out that at least two, possibly four, varied agencies are working on (early), preliminary plans to ring the big Lake Okeechobee water supply for Eastern Martin County before heavier populated areas to the north and south of Martin make a power grab to boost their dwindling water supplies.

Newsworth on the state level was said to be at least five bills are expected to be introduced into the Legislative session outlining the backbone, jurisdiction and personnel roster of the state Board of Health. Fred Bell, county engineer, urged support of the State Board of Health. "We've got the best surface organization to do the job," he said.

"It takes only one pound of DDT in 125 million gallons of water to kill shrimp and fish fry in two days," said John Metzger.

Levi M. Johnson, county agricultural agent, said, "The Martin County Farm Bureau has been working on possible use of the Lake as water by tapping the St. Lucie Canal with a viable C."

Others representing principal interests were Herbert Hoover Dike engineer; Col. Ralph Haines, engineer with the State Board of Health; Jewel Bronaugh, state representative; Mrs. Rose Hendricks, League of Women Voters; Joe Cooper, Stuart Chamber of Commerce manager; Jack Hatton, Stuart Rotary Club president; Tom Lowry, county commissioner; and various interested citizens.

Building Destroyed By Fire

A two-story frame building, owned by Mrs. G. Stanley Burt, at 1025 Riverside Drive, Stuart, was destroyed Friday night by fire believed started by a short circuit.

Loss was estimated by fire chief Milton Griffin to be $8,000. The building housed a two-car garage on the ground floor and an art studio on the second floor.

Two cars, estimated at $2,500, were destroyed.

Beach Brooks, Stafford Drive, who said he was driving nearby, reported two blinding blue flashes and an explosion, followed by a mass of flames which enveloped the front of the building, which flared like a huge torch.

Mrs. Burt, who lives in the home next to the burned building during the winter season, resides with two sons.

While firemen fought the blaze, the second floor caved in. Other explosions followed the first big one.

The noise and reflection of the blaze brought cars and pedestrians from a wide area.

ANNING MEET--Members of the various civic groups Martin County met last Tuesday morning in Stuart to uss planning for the three-day beach erosion symdium to be held here in April. Some of the participants are, left to right, John Hughes, Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce; Ross Philbrick, Martin County Committee of 100; county engineer Fred Bell and his secretary, Joan Linn.

Owens Wins First IR Label Battle

Motions to dismiss an injunctive action initiated by former State Rep. William E. Owens in circuit court here were lost Tuesday by Florida Citrus Commission and Indian River Citrus League.

Action against FCC was filed by Owens Jan. 28, asking that the court prohibit FCC's denying his right to use the Indian River Citrus label on fruit grown and shipped from the Indiantown grove he leases from his father.

Judge C. Pfeiffer Trowbridge heard arguments on the dismissal motions for over an hour, ruled on specific points as made by attorneys for both sides. Indian River Citrus League was permitted to intervene as an additional defendant at a P. Pierce hearing on Monday.

E. Shaw Martin, Lakeland, represented Owens; William P. Tomasello of Bartow, for FCC; Counts Johnson, Tampa, for IRCL.

Co-counsel for Owens was former county judge Evans Crary, Jr., W. A. Oughterson, county prosecutor, listed with Sheriff Roy C. Baker as one of the defendants in the injunctive action, were also on hand.

Owens' plea for a temporary injunction was deferred at the suggestion of his counsel after Judge Trowbridge denied motions by Tomasello and Johnson.

In effect, the status quo is maintained until March 30 at 9:30 a.m. when the issue over a permanent injunction, which would prohibit the FCC, IRCL, Oughterson or Baker from moving against Owens should he continue to ship fruit under the Indian River Citrus label he maintained had been used at Owens Groves since 1952.

Trowbridge ruled that the state Commissioner of Agriculture, since he has no jurisdiction to make arrests, would have to make them through the sheriff or a constable and the county prosecutor.

Judge Trowbridge cited an argument by Tomasello that Owens did not present information concerning an alleged lease between himself and his father, had no bearing on Owens' property rights in the business. "The suit is not on the lease, but on the business," he said.

Tomasello had cited Federal Marketing Orders as a reason for dismissal. Martin had claimed the orders concerned shipment to market, but not labels or brands.

"There appears to be no information supplied that there is a Federal marketing order on labeling," Trowbridge said. "Since the plaintiff cannot sue the Florida Citrus Commission for damages for alleged business losses, property may be protected in this manner," he concluded.

Judge Trowbridge gave FCC counsel 20 days in which to file answers. The motion to drop the action for a temporary injunction was made by Martin, who suggested instead the trial be held March 30, a date set by the judge after Tomasello asked that trial not be held in April or May.

Trowbridge pointed out that his rulings were not on the merits of the case but on the ability of the attorney who drew the complaint, on the legal matter of sufficiency.

Delay Erosion Meet

The symposium on beach erosion control, originally planned for March 15-17, has been re-scheduled for April 19-20-21, according to county engineer Fred L. Bell, host engineer for the sponsoring Florida Shore and Beach Preservation Association.

The April dates were arranged at a meeting of representatives of Jensen Beach and Stuart Chambers of Commerce, the Committee of 100, Retail Merchants Association, Stuart Board of Realtors, and businessmen.

About 500 persons are expected to attend the symposium including engineers from all over the state, erosion experts, county officials and representatives.

The local symposium is part of a planned statewide effort to define the problem of beach erosion and to consider the solutions thru effective engineering, legislation, administration and fiscal support.

Transcripts of the symposium sessions will be provided to the state legislature.

Attending Tuesday's planning session were Ross Philbrick, executive director of Committee of 100; Jack Sellar, chairman of the tourism committee of Stuart Chamber; Allen Wygel, its president; Mrs. Rosaleen Murray, its manager; Roland Lueder, representing board of Realtors; Walter Crowell, active in conservation; Walt Parson, Merchants Association; John Hughes, Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce.

In addition to the business sessions, luncheons, banquets, fashion show, tours and other attractions are planned.

WORKERS--Don Wilkie handles the post-hole digger for the uprights used to support the frames and screening for the display fencing erected last Thursday morning. Ernie Baker, left, assists Wilkie, while Elmer Bisher works in the background. Reg Walker, executive secretary of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce, is at right, arranging for this weekend's art festival on Commercial Street.

Request Permit

Boswell also applied for an "after the fact" permit to dredge and fill in Indian River at Lot A, an island in Archibald subdivision near the southeast tip of Sewall's Point.

Boswell filled Lot A by dredging to a depth of about 10 feet below mean low water in an area adjacent to the island.

The proposed bridge would be about 120 feet long to give clearance of about 15 feet between the water levels and a vertical clearance of about five feet above mean high water.

Rowell Resigns; MC Ambulance Limited

James Kelly Rowell resigned as president of the Central Martin County Ambulance Association this week, citing "press of business" as his reason, and the association named John Santarsiero, Sr., the vice-president, as acting president.

Rowell said he would remain with the association as a volunteer.

The resignation of Rowell was coupled with an announcement that the ambulance service would only handle "emergency service" due to the shortage of daytime volunteers to handle the two ambulances.

The volunteer association has labored with a minimum of help since its founding in June, and has had personnel problems in getting enough people to handle the volume of service necessary emergencies and patient transfers that have arisen.

In the matter of patient transfers, an ambulance service spokesman announced that any non-emergency cases would, if made at all, be done at the convenience of the association.

The spokesman added, "The people of Martin County can remedy our lack of volunteers by donating part of a day a week, or several days a week, to the ambulance association. On duty shifts, ranging from one hour to a full twelve-hour shift, the association can arrange times to fit the schedule of the volunteers.

We will provide the training. We hope that people will call 287-2424 to volunteer some time so that we can keep the association going.

TRANSFER--County commission chairman Jack Saunderson signs resolution to the State Road Board transferring rights-of-way for the Jensen Beach Access Road to the State Road Department, as county engineer Fred L. Bell looks on. Acceptance of the rights-of-way and approval of the resolution freed the SRB to advertise for bids for a March 27 letting of the one and one-half mile extention of Savanna Road from Jensen Beach to Rte.

Fishermen Plan To Protest Illegal Nets

Jensen Beach fishermen are organizing a "knock-down, drag-out" battle to protest the use of illegal methods of netting in the waters of the Indian River. "We will get one thousand signatures on our petitions," said one.

The fishermen have been complaining about the illegal methods used by some netters in the river for several years. The issue has been coming to a head for the past three months. Recently, a fisherman appeared before the county commission and requested action to stop violations of the law by both sports fishermen and netters.

Conservation Department officer "Boots" Byrd has complained of too much area to cover, and has cited that the entire state has too few conservation officers to handle the job of enforcing the law in Florida. This is backed by the few arrests and citations made for law violations.

The local fishermen plan to attend the general meeting of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce on March 20 to seek the support of the Chamber in their battle. Chamber president Al Palmer said, "We have lost a considerable amount of business this year from fishermen who were disgusted with the fishing conditions here. I don't blame them. I do believe that the law violators should be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law."

Among the complaints of the fishermen are that netters are taking illegal fish, that they are netting right up to the bridges, that they are killing many fish that would be bait, and that they are netting too close to the shore and to the beach.

The law specifies that netters cannot ply their trade within 500 feet of the bridges, and specifies the size of fish that can be taken.

Fund Up To$7400

The Jensen Beach-Rio United Fund was boosted to $7,400 this week by a donation of $500 by Ralph Elstrude.

Other donations added almost $400 to the fund as workers moved to clear up the deficit of the fund drive goal of $10,000.

Drive chairman Willard Bowman reported that the contacting of business organizations and motels would wrap up the drive. At that time the executive committee would be able to assess the need for additional monies to reach the goal.

Bowman urged all local residents who were not contacted by fund drive workers to send their "fair share" donation to the United Fund, Jensen Beach, Fla.

The victory dance of the fund drive will be held on Friday, April 7, according to chairman Dick Campbell. The party will be at Sayonara's Inn and will start at 9 p.m.

'First Come' On Tickets For Hospital Benefit Ball

The Martin Memorial Hospital Ball, rated as the social event of the season, was found itself limited on ticket availability, according to Mrs. Vaughn Monroe, chairman, "It is first come, first served," said Mrs. Monroe.

The reason for the limited ticket supplies can afford the ball, planned for March 30, at St. Lucie Country Club, is that there are only 320 tables, and the decorations for the $3 per plate tickets do not [illegible] seating.

"A color scheme of yellow and green will be used in our printing, our decorations and our table settings," Mrs. Monroe said, adding, "I know that some of the ladies would like to know this if they desire to wear shade their appearance.

"We are very pleased that the ball has caught the fancy of the people. Something special, such as a hospital ball, is the ideal to help the hospital, and we want to make this a star-studded night of entertainment for the people of our area."

3,000 See Art Show In Jensen

The Silver Jensen Beach Art Festival, held outdoors and inside, March 4 and 5, on Commercial Street, was pronounced a great success by the sponsoring Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Records kept by Reg Ware, executive secretary of the Chamber, listed 3,000 local artists exhibiting about 300 paintings.

Thirty-three of the paintings were sold, with orders for more paintings ordered.

The idea for the outdoor art festival originated with Dr. and Mrs. Carleton Whitney, Ocean Breeze Park, who approached the Chamber of Commerce. The subject was brought up at the last general membership meeting at which time enough interest was shown to warrant the sponsorship of the event by the Chamber.

Members of the Chamber, J. Ernest Baker, Don Willkie and Elmer Bieber, under the direction of Walker, erected frames and fences on the grounds next to the Jensen Beach Bank, and the grass was cut and area was cleared. Assistance was also accepted from Porter Lumber Co. and Indian River Sales.

It is estimated that about 3,000 persons attended the art festival during the two-days exhibit, held under canvas shows.

Participating artists included: Mrs. Mark B. Aldrich, Stuart; Mrs. Roxanne Anderson, Jupiter; Laura B. Ahnaf, Jensen Beach; Mrs. Marcia Baker, Jensen Beach; Marguerite D. Bak-

Officers of the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department Auxiliary were re-elected at Monday night's meeting held at the firehouse.

Mrs. Frank Wachs was re-elected president; Mrs. Bill Varillo will again be vice-president, and Mrs. Randolph Spinney was re-elected secretary.

Newly elected treasurer is Mrs. Morgan Sprott.

ARTIST AT WORK--About 3,000 persons visited the Art Festival held last weekend on Commercial Street, Jensen Beach. Mrs. Marguerite Duston, Jensen Beach, exhibited several of her paintings and continued with her work, to the delight of the spectators. The two-day outdoor art exhibition at which about 300 paintings were shown, was adjudged a tremendous success by artists and visitors.

County Loses Suit On Beach Frontage

Mrs. Florence M. Barnes, Chicago theatre ticket agency owner, was awarded clear title to a disputed stretch of Hutchinson Island beach road last week in a clear-title trial before Circuit Court Judge C. Pfeiffer Trowbridge.

Martin County had claimed the road both by default of a swap deal and through initial ownership. At stake was a stretch of 16-foot wide sand road 538 feet long.

In his decision, the judge noted "It was a touchy subject since it was a problem of right-of-way on an ocean beach," and the decision was not in actual land but in the clearing of a title clouded by a claim made by the county that it had owned the right-of-way since 1926 and had maintained it for over four years since a swap arranged by the county for A-1-A right-of-way, was not completed.

Mrs. Barnes thought she had gained the stretch in a swap which gave the state a right of SR A-1-A right-of-way in 1956 or 1957. "I really do not give it to the public or take it away. All I do is determine if the county commission, through its actions, and the property owner, by her actions, have gone or taken it from the public," said Judge Trowbridge, his ruling was based on testimony given by Tax... county attorney at the time right-of-way swaps were made. Trowbridge also considered documentary as presented by attorneys for Mrs. Barnes, Thomas Thurlow, Sr., and Thurlow, Jr. There was little doubt that Mrs. Barnes was entitled to a clear title, withheld from her by failure of the county attorney of the time to deliver what was promised.

County attorney Dean Tooker maintained that since no swap was consummated, and since the county had maintained the sand, marl and some hard-surface road for the years since the swap was voided in effect, that statutes gave the road back was voided in effect, that statutes gave the road back to the county for its maintaining it.

Judge Trowbridge disagreed with this reasoning, then pointed to the lack of evidence locating the road by description other than "it was between Destitute Tom's and Elliott Museum", a descripti... he said was hardly defendable in court.

Martin County lost a right-of-way length of the same road to Rand Interests on Sailfish Point in a Federal court case for the same reason several years ago.

The county apparently lost a total alleged title to about 2,400 feet of road, including that which will be quitclaimed to Mrs. Barnes; 1,471 feet to Stuart Properties, Inc.; 287 feet to La-Posada, and 89 feet to Hoyt Murphy.

Tooker said he was considering an appeal in the Barnes case.

Local Church Changes Name

In the future, Gethsemane Christian Church will be known as Jensen Beach Christian Church. "It was the feeling of the congregation that the name of the church should reflect upon its locality for the sake of clarity," explained Robert Greenwood, minister.

The local church of Christian Church held its annual congregational meeting on Thursday, Feb. 23, marking the third anniversary of the purchase of the present church building.

Come To The Fair

There is nothing more exciting than a fair, and the Martin County Fair is grown into one of the most exciting things to happen in South Florida. It has been work and civic effort, but the county fair in this county has made it...and made it big.

The fair is a complete, well-rounded show every facet of Martin County life. It is agriculture, industry, and tourism. The fair holds with candy apple on their faces, and girls in tights. It is displays and ribbons and horses and riders. It is singing and riding the ferris-wheel.

The fair is everything to everyone, and something different to each person who pays.

Leon Johnson, ramrod of the fair and one of the hardest workers in the Agriculture Building, has something of which he can be proud. He has an active, vibrant committee handling details of the fair, and he has the people of Martin County.

Each and every fair during the past ten years has surpassed the previous one. Attendance at the fairs has mounted into the tens of thousands. The fairs have been financial successes, for each year some new building or display area is added to the fairgrounds to further enhance the showability of our county.

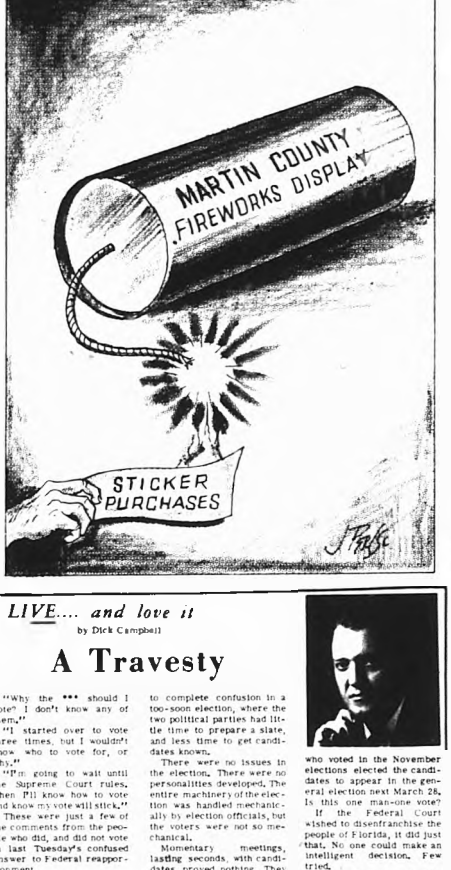
The people do not look behind the scenes, nor do they think of the many hours of work and planning that went into preparing the 1967 Martin County Fair. The people go to see, and to enjoy themselves.

That is what the fair is...a place to go and see and enjoy oneself.

Hi-Ho, Come To The Fair is this year's theme.

— The fair opens Saturday, March 11. We'll be there. Hi-Ho.....

Light The Fuse



Underground Wiring Requires Research

Americans are a restless people, always expanding, always searching for something better. Some have thought this searching restlessness was a curse. Others deem it a blessing. But good or bad, it has been a national trait since the first boatload of immigrants stepped ashore at Plymouth Rock.

As time is measured, it was only a short while ago that people cheered the magic of the electric light. The singing power lines that appeared almost overnight became symbols of progress. That was yesterday. Today, our environment-conscious people want to look at the power lines as another advance. They want them underground.

The underground they are destined to go, but it will be a costly process, and one which embodies problems for which there as yet no complete answers.

The news release tells of the $17 million research project on high-voltage underground transmission of electric power, which is to be conducted under the sponsorship of various segments of the electric utility industry. The work of the project is to be directed by the Electric Research Council, and its first and most urgent objective is the production and testing of 500,000-volt cables. It is estimated that the immediate research program will extend over a five-year period with portions becoming part of a longer-range program which might require 11 years and $35 million to complete. Agreed deal of costly behind-the-scenes work must precede the disappearance of above-ground transmission lines, but one day they will go the way of the horse and buggy. Perhaps there will even be some who will miss them. In the meantime, those who are inclined to be impatient at the slowness of progress toward beautifying the countryside should know that science and industry are working on the technology and economics of the problem.

Basis Of Freedom

A prominent businessman compares the strength and well-being of various nations to illustrate the limitations of education: "For example, if geodowment with natural resources were the sole criterion, Japan and Norway would be poor, which they are not, while Brazil and Indonesia would be rich, which they are not. If, as some of the opponents of foreign investment allege, 'colonial exploitation' were the stumbling block to progress, Siam and Abyssinia would be rich, which they are not, while Canada and Australia would be poor, which they are not. If lack of heavy industry is the landscape, Denmark and New Zealand, where agriculture predominates, would be poor, which they are not. If high population density drags down living standards, the Netherlands and Japan should be poor, which they are not. If capital for investment is the required ingredient, then Kuwait and Venezuela would be rich, which they are not."

Then this businessman asks, rhetorically, "Could a male factor be a high level of education spread widely over the population?" It is, the United States should be very rich, which it is; Western Europe should be fairly rich, which it is; Latin America should be fairly poor, which it is; and Africa should be very poor, which it is."

This is an impressive argument in behalf of unqualified support of education.

Preview Of Next Century

One of the most publicized innovations in travel was the opening of a heliport on top of the Pan Am Building in midtown Manhattan, New York City. As a visitor watched, the big helicopters of New York Airways came and go with clockline regularity carrying passengers and baggage to metropolitan terminals, he has the feeling that he is witnessing a preview of the twenty-first century--which in truth he is.

As the world-forming jets fly higher and faster, their speed and utility will attract a patronage of millions of our earth-bound population. The day is not far distant when thousands of persons will disembark from a three or four intercontinental flights, in the course of a twenty-four hour period, a number of people arriving and departing at terminals will be the equivalent of the population of whole cities, and some way must be found to move them speedily and with a minimum of confusion from the airline terminals to their ultimate downtown destinations. Vertical lift aircraft such as helicopters operating out of central areas are becoming an absolute necessity.

The 1970's will see the supersonic transport in operation. It will fly London to New York in 2½ hours. But at present air taxes at least an hour to get to the airport at each end of the flight. Supersonic transport passengers would be spending 44 per cent of their total elapsed time on ground transportation. Obviously, this will be unacceptable to the travelers. The Pan Am Building Heliport is the first transportation terminal to take full advantage of the air space around it. But this is just the beginning. Studies are going ahead on 500 mile-per-hour vertical take-off and landing planes, which will operate from rooftop areas. These aircraft will carry close to 100 passengers. They will soon become as much a part of our daily lives as the high-speed train, the expressways and other innovations in travel that will be taken for granted in the very near future.

A Travesty

"Why the  should I vote? I don't know any of them."

"I started over to vote three times, but I wouldn't know who to vote for, or why."

"I'm going to wait until the Supreme Court rules. Then I'll know how to vote and know my vote will stick."

These were just a few of the comments from the people who did, and did not vote in last Tuesday's confused answer to Federal reapportionment.

I received at least ten calls from frustrated voters, all asking the same question: Whom shall I vote for?

I couldn't answer.

The turnout of voters was not due to apathy on the part of the electorate. It was due to confusion in a too-soon election, where the two political parties had little time to prepare a slate, and less time to get candidates known.

There were no issues in the election. There were no personalities developed. The entire machinery of the election was handled mechanically by election officials, but the voters were not so mechanical.

Momentary meetings, lasting seconds, with candidates proved nothing. They were embarrassing for both this editor and the candidate, for he had to run to another momentary appointment, and I had to let him.

The election was unfair to the candidates, the people and to the offices at stake.

One-quarter of the people who voted in the November elections elected the candidates to appear in the general election next March 28. Is this one man-one vote?

If the Federal Court wished to disenfranchise the people of Florida, it did just that. No one could make an intelligent decision. Few tried.

The election of the Florida Legislature in 1967 will go down in history as the greatest travesty of justice ever perpetrated upon a people.

The four-week period to the general election will at least leave the candidates time for a quickie campaign, not much time, but a little. We doubt that the vote in that election will do more than double what has happened on that black Tuesday.

At any rate, the people will have their say. If the people do not want one-quarter of the registered population selecting their legislators, they must make themselves aware of the candidates and make a choice.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To The Editor:

It has come to my attention that various charges were made at a County Commission Meeting held March 2, 1967, with respect to work performed by Langford Marine Construction, Inc., for Martin County, which implied that some impropriety might exist because of County Commissioner Frank A. Wacha having been an officer of the corporation at one time.

In order to clarify this matter, I wish to state that when the corporation was originally formed in May, 1958, Mr. Wacha signed the corporation papers as a matter of convenience because he was going to do the accounting for the corporation and at that time he was named as treasurer of the corporation. There were one hundred shares of stock issued and one share was issued in the name of Mr. Wacha, but shortly after the incorporation he transferred his share back to the corporation as he had no financial interest whatsoever.

Mr. Wacha, who is a registered certified public accountant, audits the books of the corporation and audits its income tax returns, the same as he does for many other businesses and companies in the County, and he receives compensation for that service and nothing else in connection with Langford Marine Construction, Inc.

I am also informed that the corporation was dissolved for failure to pay its annual corporate tax, which was a matter that I did not know about, however, I have arranged to pay the back tax and to have the corporation reinstated which is being done immediately.

James V. Langford
President
Langford Marine Construction, Inc.

Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce received the following letter Tuesday morning, following the Art Festival held March 4 and 5:

"Gentlemen:

On this morning after the two perfect days of the Art Festival, I feel impressed to write you a letter of thanks and appreciation for your part in the success of this first art show---I hope it will not be the last.

The organization of arrangements was wonderful, down to such important details as tags, pom-poms, pins, hooks for the pictures, the fence, the nicely mowed lawn, even spray for the ant-hills. A lot of folks contributed ideas and work in the preparation. It was well-managed, and I for one (but not the only one) wish you to know how much we appreciate the pre-show efforts of the Chamber off, omni-ers. Mr. Kotts did a big portion in presenting the project to the Martin County Art Associates; Dr. Whitney in sparking the idea of the outdoor exhibit, and pushing hard til his enthusiasm rubbed off on others. I'm sure Mr. Walker did a lot of phoning and answering 'phone calls relative to the show. To all of these, we are grateful. Someone must have had a lot of influence with the weather-man for we had perfect weather, except for a few gusts of wind, but that just made things interesting, no real harm done.

We hope Jensen Beach will have another Festival next year. I even heard folks say they thought there could be two a year.

There really are ARTISTS in this area, and they came out from behind every bush and palm tree. Sixty registered exhibitors, with about 340-350 paintings displayed--and there are many more who were too timid this time.

Let me suggest that a concession for cold drinks and wrapped sandwiches would be a welcome addition. Many folks spent the whole day--both days on the grounds, which, by the way is a very suitable place, with ample room for enlargement.

It was nice to have a few chairs, too.

The whole affair was a brilliant success, equal to many outdoor exhibits up north where the idea has been spreading.

Again, Gentlemen, I thank you--we all do.

THANK YOU!

Sincerely,
(Mrs.) Esther M. Penick

Investors Hopes Are Dim

A California corporation, believed by stockholders in Tower Credit Corp. to be "gold bond" turned out to be a quarter-million dollar liability instead of asset, dousing hopes by local investors in First Mortgage Corp. of Stuart, in bankruptcy, for any material return on losses.

The corporation, a subsidiary of Tower Credit, is Mercury International Sales & Service, Evidence was unveiled in Middle District Federal Court at Tampa on Friday.

Mercury owed two big airports in California more than a quarter-million dollars and were about to lose the franchises they held for lockers and other services because of it.

At 114 Lauderdale, J. Edward Houston, referee in bankruptcy, authorized Douglas E. Wendel, trustee of First Mortgage Corp. of Stuart, to sell 26 parcels of property on which payments to First Mortgage had been defaulted by titleholders.

Seven parcels, which are in Indian River County, will be sold from the courthouse steps at Vero Beach March 20 at 1:30 p.m.

A foreclosure sale advertised by the National Bank of Clearwater, which Jupiter Island property is held by H.C. Ferson will be held March 15. The sale will be held on the courthouse steps at 1:30 p.m. Property is assessed at about $75,000.

Since First Mortgage holds 140,000 shares of Tower common stock, local stockholders in the former were disheartened by the action feeling that its sale price would drop by the mere removal. Tower sold at less than $1 per share when it was removed. It's high had been $14, and was bought by Perino at 96 at the time of the First Mortgage purchases.

Your Florida Constitution

This is the eighth installment of the complete text of the proposed new Florida Constitution. This document will provide the political structure under which Florida citizens will live, replacing the outmoded, often-amended document we use today. It is the responsibility of all citizens to study, know and comment upon this constitution.

Section 11. ELIGIBILITY. A justice or judge shall be a citizen of the state and a resident within the territorial jurisdiction of his court. A justice of the supreme court or judge of a district court of appeal must have been a member of the bar of Florida for ten years. A judge of a circuit court must have been a member of the bar of Florida for five years. A judge of a county court or magistrate court must be a member of the bar of provided by law.

Section 12. VACANCIES.

(a) The governor shall fill each vacancy in judicial office by appointing one of not fewer than three persons nominated by a judicial nominating commission established by law. If the governor fails to make the appointment within thirty days after the nominations have been certified to him, the supreme court shall make the appointment from those so nominated. Each appointment under this section shall be for a term ending on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in January following the next general election after the appointee has served twelve months in office.

(b) There shall be separate judicial nominating commissions for the supreme court, each district court of appeal, and each judicial circuit. The nominating commission for the supreme court and the nominating commission for each district court of appeal shall make nominations for each vacancy in the office of justice or judge of such court, and the commission for each judicial circuit shall make nominations for each vacancy occurring in the office of judge of a court having territorial jurisdiction exclusively within that judicial circuit.

(c) The composition of the nominating commissions, their operating procedures, the terms of the members, which shall be staggered, and the conditions of service thereon shall be prescribed by law. No member shall hold office in a political party, or be eligible to succeed himself after having served a full term, or be nominated to judicial office by a commission during or within one year after service thereon.

Section 13. ELECTIONS--TERMS.

(a) Justices and judges shall be elected in nonpartisan elections as provided by law.

(b) The terms of all justices of the supreme court, judges of district courts of appeal and circuit judges shall be for six years. The terms of judges of county courts and magistrates courts shall be prescribed by law. The terms of justices of the supreme court and judges of the district courts of appeal shall be appropriately staggered.

Section 14. DISCIPLINE--RETIREMENT--REMOVAL.

(a) There shall be a judicial qualifications commission composed of:

(1) Two judges of district courts of appeal, two judges of circuit courts, one judge of a county court, and one judge of a magistrates court, selected by the judges of the respective categories of courts;

(2) Two electors who have resided in, and been members of the bar of, the state for eight years, appointed by the governing body of the bar of Florida; and

(3) Three electors who have resided in the state for five years and have never held judicial office or been members of the bar, appointed by the governor.

(b) The members of the judicial qualifications commission shall serve appropriately staggered terms fixed by law. No member of the commission shall hold office or a political party, or, except as provided above, in public office. The commission may elect one of its members as its chairman.

(c) The supreme court shall adopt rules regulating proceedings by the commission and the temporary replacement of disqualified or incapacitated members. After recommendation of removal of any justice or judge, the proceedings of the commission relating thereto shall be made public.

(d) Upon recommendation of the judicial qualifications commission, concurred in by two-thirds of its members, the supreme court may order that any justice of judge, except judges of municipal courts and of courts of chartered counties, may be disciplined by private reprimand, removed from office, or, with termination of compensation, for wilful or persistent failure to perform his duties or for other conduct unbecoming a member of the judiciary; or involuntarily retired for any disability which seriously interferes with the performance of his duties and appears, or is likely to become permanent.

(e) A justice or judge shall not serve after attaining the age of seventy years except to complete a term half of which he has served.

(f) A justice or judge involuntarily retired for disability after ten years of judicial service shall thereafter receive retirement pay as fixed by law not less than two-thirds his compensation at time of retirement.

(g) This section shall be considered as the power of impeachment.

(h) A justice or judge removed from office shall be subject to discipline as an attorney for professional misconduct prior to or during his tenure in office.

Conservationists Enter Competition

The Martin Soil & Water Conservation District has entered the 21st annual Goodyear competition to select the nation's top 50 conservation districts, according to Walter M. Hupfel, district chairman, of Stuart.

Activities of the district will be weighed against the performance of other districts in the state in determining the outstanding district in the event sponsored annually by the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company.

Key agricultural leaders will serve as judges and will select the state winner, soil conservation efforts from January 1, 1967, through December 31, 1967, will be considered.

Grand award in the 50 districts selected nationally will be an expense-paid, work-study trip for selected in December, 1968, for one member of the district governing body and the outstanding farmer-cooperator in each winning district. The 100 men selected will be guests at Goodyear Farms, a 14,000-acre general farm operation near Phoenix.

This will be the first year that the Martin Soil & Water Conservation District has taken part in the competition. The district's supervisors are Walter Hupfel and Carl Sasser of Stuart, James Foster of Palm City, Paul Heisel and Thomas Clements of Indiantown.

Chairman Hupfel said the district's outstanding cooperator will be selected from over the 157 farm operators enrolled in the Martin district's program. Nationally, over two million farmers in over 2,950 districts have signed cooperative agreements with soil and water conservation districts; hundreds of these districts are competing in the Goodyear contests.

The area bounded on the north by the Okeechobee Road, on the south by the St. Lucie County line, on the west by the Florida East Coast Railway and on the east with the Intracoastal Waterway.

All property owners and interested persons in the above area are invited to attend the meeting. Sorrell is asking all property owners to contribute to the drainage problem in the area.

Lions Eye Eye Bank For County

The Stuart and Jensen Beach Lions Clubs have their eyes set on establishing an eye bank in Martin County, and have been working on this for the past year, according to Bob Campbell, local chairman of the bank drive. The eye bank will come into being at an official ceremony at 7 p.m. on March 22.

At the meeting will be Roger G. Heim, president of the Florida Lions' Eye Bank, Inc., of Miami, who will set up the substation at Martin Memorial Hospital.

The dinner event will be attended by Guy Cromwell, MMH administrator, doctors and surgeons, members of the state highway patrol, Martin County Sheriff Roy Baker, area morticians and members of the press, as well as the members of the Stuart and Jensen Beach Lions Clubs.

Campbell said that the eye bank is designed to bring sight to those living by those who pass away and leave their eyes to the eye bank, through an operation known as a "corneal grafting". Poor eyesight is improved, and many who could see only with clouded vision are given sight.

The 3,904 eye donor cards received by the Florida Lions Eye Bank in 1966 were just one per cent of the need, according to Campbell. One hundred fifty-four eyes were used in corneal transplants last year.

Speed is vital in the use of eyes. For this reason, all arrangements are made when the eye bank is set up and donors are signed up. Eyes must be available within a few hours after the death of the donor.

The steps in the transplant are as follows: Eyes are removed as quickly as possible and brought to the eye bank; A list of physicians who have patients awaiting corneal transplants is given a priority; The physician is contacted, the eyes are moved to the operation point; The operation is completed.

The full cooperation of hospitals, police, state police, airlines, physicians and morticians is necessary for the success of the operation.

Three coordinators will be appointed at the dinner meeting to handle the local eye bank sub-station.

Club Was Formed 12 Years Ago

The Jensen Beach club was formed twelve years ago, and many of the founding members are members today. The sponsoring club at that time was Stuart. There are 35 members, all local residents, and meet each week at Seymour's Inn for dinner and fellowship.

The president this year is Al Walker, one of the founders. Previous presidents include Elmer DeWitt, Wallace Fletcher, Harry Heritage, James Dean, Bill Weiss, Ed Schmidt, Joe Swec, Frank Wachs, Harry Jennings, Tom Crook, Chester Homan and James Lovorn.

When Easter comes, the Lions provide eggs and organization for the annual Easter egg hunt. School patrols at Jensen Elementary School are wearing day-glo vests provided by the Lions. A floor drill press was donated to the Pioneer Occupational School by the Lions of Jensen Beach, as well as newspapers for the school's handicap project. The club also donates to the Jensen Beach-Rio United Fund.

Former Lion president Harry Heritage represents the Lions Club in being Santa Claus for some 10 organizations, groups and schools, and was in demand from Vero Beach to West Palm Beach during the holiday season.

The Lions' Peace Poster Contest found the local members working to attract and judge essays and give prizes to local winners, as well as entering the top essayist in the international contest.

Service To Jensen Is Lions History

The Jensen Beach Lions Club is noted as being a fun-loving group, and their many and varied service activities gain attention of the local residents and when they happen to be seen in a newspaper article, or when they are walking down the street with brooms in hand, selling to aid the blind.

Soon the Lions will, with the cooperation of the Stuart Lions, start an eye bank substation right here in Martin County. The eye bank will make it possible for corneal transplants to be made in the county, and possibly bring sight to many who cannot see now.

Other projects, of a continuing nature, are sponsorship of a Little League team, working in the school carnival each year and donating prizes for it, and sponsoring a bowling team.

Over 650 persons came to eat pancakes morning and afternoon at the Jensen Beach Community Center recently. Proceeds from the pancake sale will help the Lions in the many projects they put on each year.

All children who need eyeglasses, and who cannot afford them, are given the glasses through the Lions' eyeglass fund. The annual broom sale helps the Florida Council and Industry for the Blind.

Pancakes like Lions always make

These are some of the happy Jensen Beach Lions.

Economic Survey Begins To Assess Local Needs

An economic survey of Martin County, conducted by an independent research institute through The Mirror, began last week with the distribution of "household questionnaires" to a representative selection of The Mirror's subscribers.

The survey is designed to discover the buying patterns of the people of Martin County.

Most polls in the economic vein on a national basis operate on a one-person-to-ten thousand population. The economic survey of Martin County will operate on ten percent of the population, which will give the most complete and exhaustive report ever compiled on the business community of the county.

All surveys will be returned to The Mirror in business reply, postage paid envelopes, and will remain unopened until the survey institute team picks them up for analysis.

600,000 computations of the answers in the questionaires will be necessary to complete the report. The research group will need two months to finish the report.

When the report is complete, all questionnaires in the hands of the institute will be destroyed.

The materia. gained in the survey will be invaluable to local businessmen, according to Mirror publisher Dick Campbell.

U. S. Department of Commerce figures show that the people of Martin County have spent over $50,000,000 in the past year for the necessities of life. Of that amount, only $25,000,000 was spent in Martin County.

"We want to know why, said Campbell, and we want to find out what we can do to encourage a greater amount of local dollars to be spent in local stores.

For years, Campbell added, we have been saying that our greatest untapped wealth lies in the people who are spending money in other towns for merchandise that is available at comparable prices right here in Martin County.

"We want to get that $25 millions we are missing each year, he added.

Deadline for return of the envelopes is next weekend, at that time 23 envelopes will be drawn from the returns by Stuart Chamber of Commerce president Allan Alegel. He will open the winning envelopes to check the names only, and then reseal the envelope for shipment to the research organization.

The winners of the $150 in prizes being awarded by The Mirror to encourage readers to participate in the survey, will be notified by mail and through The Mirror of the date and time they can pick up prize money checks.

Campbell emphasized that all questionaires will be confidential and will not be used by any merchant or business man for phone calls of sales solicitations.

Future Of School To Be Discussed

School board members Joe Greenlees and Mrs. Barbara Britton will be present at the March 20 meeting of the Jensen Beach Elementary School PTA.

The subject to be discussed at this informative and educational meeting will be "What Is The Future of the Jensen Beach School?"

The program, which starts at 8 p.m., will include questions and answers period.

Mrs. Barbara Grossnickle and Al Walker are in charge of arrangements.

The PTA program is being offered at this meeting because of interest expressed at last month's meeting regarding increased communication between the School Board and the community as to the status and plans for this district.

The public is invited.

'Best Fair Ever' In Final Days

by Dick Campbell

The Martin County Fair, already heralded as the finest show in the history of Martin County extravaganzas, will wrap up in a blaze of activities for visitors and local residents alike.

Every night at 8:30 p.m., an acrobat will climb the thin, swaying pole in the center of the fairgrounds arena and do handstands and acrobatics as onlookers gasp. The free show will also be given Friday and Saturday at 4:30 p.m.

Wednesday night (tonight) will be "Old Fashioned Country Fair Night". The now-famous pie-eating contest will be held, followed by a so-called "sympathy auction".

After that, county commissioner Bill Hussey and Sheriff Roy Baker will compete in a cow-milking contest. We won't say who we think will have the most pull in that contest, but it should be interesting.

Vance Howard and his square dance band will round out the night with old time dancing. Bill and Jo Ann Watts are the chairmen of the night.

On Thursday at 7:30 p.m. there will be a repeat performance of the Spanish night held recently by the school children, as the night moves off to allow the young people of the Stuart Junior High School to perform. At 8 p.m. a program entitled "Youth In Song" will be given.

Friday has developed into a night of many and varied activities. There will be a cat show at 3 p.m., with ribbons given to the blackest, fattest, longest-tailed, most calico, most unusual breed, longest-haired, four white-footed cats in the county... plus a ribbon to the cutest kitten.

Also, Friday night the "World of Young America" will feature singing and dancing for the young people. School children will be admitted free, and a rock and roll band will be on hand to compete with the carnival sounds and atmosphere of the Fair.

On Saturday, the final day of the Fair, there will be a dog show at 2:30 p.m. (see accompanying article).

The Fair opens daily at 2 p.m. and closes at 11 p.m.

Last Saturday, county commission chairman Jack Saunderson opened the Fair with a cutting of the ribbon, and a new rest area park, named for the late H.H. Higgens, former Fair Association president, was dedicated. The park has a pool, waterfall, and at night, a bright flame in the middle of the pool.

Jack Bonert is Fair Association president this year.

The first year, the Fair was held in tents; now five permanent buildings and the agricultural building are used for displays, and the spaces between buildings as well as an arena area with bleachers have been added.

Daggeller Amusements, which winter at the fair grounds, has its top rides and shows, 75 of them, drawing the carnival goers.

New features this year include a whole school classroom with participating students from all the schools and an opening day horse show which was well attended.

INDIAN WAR DANCE--The Indian dancers of Fort Pierce came to the Martin County Fair last Sunday night to entertain with dances and war whoops. In a Boy scout program, local troops and parents watched as the dancers performed. The scouts make their own costumies and spend hours practicing their dances. The scout above is explaining the program to the audience.

LP Albums Will Favor Tables At Hospital Ball

Long-play recordings of Frances Langford and Vaughn Monroe will be the table favors for the ladies at the 1967 Martin Memorial Hospital Ball, it was announced by Mrs. Vaughn Monroe, chairman of the benefit social event.

"We are thrilled to have the albums, and now each lady will get two beautiful recordings, one from each recording star," said the wife of the famous bandleader singer, now the "Voice of RCA". The albums were donated by Miss Langford, her husband, Ralph Evinrude, and Vaughn Monroe.

Entertainment at the ball, the social highlight of Martin County's winter season, will be furnished in a show by Vaughn Monroe and Frances Langford, and Outrigger entertainers Tony Romano and Johnny Cuzzins, with dancing to the music of Lou Feldman's Orchestra. Show time has been set at 10:30 p.m., with dancing in the Great Hall of St. Lucie Country Club from 9 p.m. to 1

The ball, which will be held March 30, is designed to aid the hospital, laboring under a deficit in operation each year. Monies raised to the benefit supplement the budget at the hospital and assist in the purchase of equipment that has made Martin Memorial one of the finest small hospitals in Florida.

Patron tickets for the ball, handled by Mrs. Daniel Morrell and Mrs. Roland Morrell, have been "going well", according to Mrs. Monroe. A $100 "patron" donation gives two tickets to the show. "The response to our initial telephone campaign has been excellent," she said, adding, "and we may sell out of tickets to the many patrons desiring them."

Asked about a $50 ticket sale, Mrs. Monroe said, "Last year we gave tickets to patrons who did not want to be patrons, and sold them for $50 a pair. We will probably do it again, but I think that our patrons deserve first call. Our seating at the ball is limited to 200 couples, and if ticket sales to patrons continue as they have, I am afraid we will be out of seats in the country club."

The seating arrangements will be made from a master plan of the country club as the checks are received. Checks from donors are to be mailed to Mrs. Douglas Kennedy, Sewall's Point, Jensen Beach.

HOW ABOUT THIS--Fishermen proudly display their Monday night catch of snook which were tempted by the live shrimp bait offered by Tom Clancy, Port Austin, Mich., and Dale Butler, Boswell, Indiana, winter residents of Ocean Breeze Park. The fish, weighing up to 37 and 30 pounds, were caught off the Evans Crary Bridge.

PENNY'S CORNER

Corned beef and cabbage has a large following and no wonder! It's hearty, nourishing and delicious. But here's how you can move corned beef into La Grande Classe. Stop thinking of it as plain old corned beef and cabbage. Give it the elegant treatment. Serve it on your prettiest platter or silver tray surrounded with as many root vegetables as you can. Rutabaga, turnips, parsnips, carrots, tiny whole onions and new potatoes have a delicious flavor when simmered in the pot juices with the corned beef and cabbage.

When ready to serve, slice the beef and lay it in overlapping slices down the center of the platter. Drain the vegetables carefully and arrange them attractively in clumps around the meat, placing the bright carrots next to the white turnips, the green cabbage next to the orange rutabaga and so on. Use tiny whole beets wherever you need a bright color note and as the final touch to this pot-pie platter, use lots and lots of crisp fresh parsley.

An assortment of interesting dark bread such as pumpernickle and rye in your prettiest bread basket is perfect to serve with your corned beef dinner.

Here is a tip to remember when cooking corned beef. It should be submerged in cold water, never hot water, then allowed to come slowly to quiet boil. If submerged in hot water and allowed to boil rapidly, the fibers will toughen.

The Mirror Recommends

William E. Owens For House Seat 81

The Mirror steps out of precedent this week to recommend to the voters of Martin and Palm Beach Counties, both Republican and Democrat, William E. "Bill" Owens for House seat 81.

Usually, and in all other cases in this election coming up on March 28, the Mirror waits until the last week of the election campaign to recommend candidates.

se we must speak out, that the people ve the opportunity to decide.

has, in the past, served the county h an enviable record in the House sentatives of the Florida Legisla- served two terms, and had no n in his second effort. His decision us in the mal-reapportioned legisl- tied Martin to Okeechobee e and Indian River Counties was rimarily on business, and on the volved in representing four diffitical areas. We feel that his decision was also based upon his respect for s fellow (and senior) representative, Art Karst, who also served his constituents well. However, Owens never mentioned this.

During the legislative sessions, we found Owens readily available for suggestions, comments and opinions on bills affecting the people of his county. We feel that he will represent the people of Martin County and Palm Beach County equally well, for his is a history tied to the two.

Owens was born and was schooled in Palm Beach County. He has served his county well and has a University of Florida degree. He is active in many things, including his Church. More than that, he is a man who will do things for his area, and can be counted on to listen to reason when the din dies down.

If Martin County is to have representation on the Florida Legislature's floor, it should be Bill Owens, Republican and Democrat should become bi-partisan in their support of this candidate who has his business in Martin County, and the roots of understanding in Palm Beach County.

We recommend William E. "Bill" Owens to the people of Martin and Palm Beach Counties. His experience alone makes him qualified for this all-important office.

ounty Fair Is Best Ever

u do you do for an encore?" seems e question asked each year of the County Fair committee, and each committee show it can improve on vious year with an encore performetter than the last.

long it can go on, and how much betan be is another matter, but the 1967 of Martin County showcase is the ever produced. It leaves little to , but we are sure they will again with the impossible again next year. air has grown out of its buildings, and look forward to a warranted expanram next year.

he fair is still on, and the people to flock through the entrance to wonders of Martin County display, and exhibits. There are a few days still time to see the many and varied exhibitions that have visitors and residents alike excited as can be.

About the only place lacking in quantity is the livestock and agricultural divisions. The only problem is where they could be put if there were more. As it is, the exhibits are a complete cross-section of Western Martin County in quality, if not quantity.

It is a good fair, and is an outstanding fair. Look at the happy smiles of the youngsters trooping out the gate from the fair. Everyone becomes young at a county fair, and these youngsters are in the two to one-hundred year range.

We salute the county fair committee and their [illegible] Parish [illegible] on this, the biggest and best Martin County Fair of all time.

s The Ambulance Dying?

Central Martin County Ambulance tion on its way out of business? a question asked quietly by inest week when the association presi- lly Rowell, resigned due to "press ness", and the ambulance associa- tailed its service from handling all handling just "emergencies".

volunteer association has received ip from the people that has stood Few have come forward to serve telephone answering volunteers, sociation operates on donations and ges for ambulance trips to the hos- ew donations come in, and the unpaid r trips to the hospital mount each ambulance service is an unwanted, essary organization. No one needs ulance until he or she needs one; and then they need one fast. Recently the ambulance went out on a false alarm, the second ambulance was called out to an accident, and the highway patrol had to get an ambulance from West Palm Beach to handle a third accident on the turnpike, someone might have died through that false alarm. Luckily, no one did.

Volunteers had to man those ambulances. And a volunteer was needed at the telephone while the ambulances were out.

We urge all residents of Stuart and Port Salerno to volunteer a few hours a week to the Central Martin County Ambulance Association. Training is available. It is little to ask for life saving.

Overworked businessmen volunteers need the help of others, and the help of our retired citizens who can do the little that could mean so much.

Happy Birthday!

s good to hear that Jensen Beach n have a Girl Scout Troop.

those who are about to throw in the and join the cynics who see little r the future, this week of March 12 may come as a reminder that youth, d high ideals are ever-present. These March days are officially designated Scout Week. The theme of the Girl 55th birthday is: "Values to Hold— to Explore". The values are still nstilled by the founder of the Girl Juliette Gordon Low. The young of the Scouts now, as then, espre highest ideals of character, conatriotism and service. The worlds they explore involve the home, community, nation, other cultures and other lands.

In this day when skepticism and materialism are rampant and many young people are rebelling against restraint of any kind, the importance of such organizations as the Girl Scouts takes on a new meaning. The three million Girl Scouts represent a mighty force among American youth--a constructive force that may come up with some meaningful answers to today's problems for all young people.

The new Jensen Beach 1rl Scout Troop and Girl Scout Week deserve the unqualified endorsement and support of every adult citizen.

Nature's Smiling Face

LIVE.... and love it

by Dick Campbell

Angry Fishermen

Local fishermen are finally getting around to finding out who they should fight in their battle to improve fishing conditions in the Indian River. They have, in the past, been riding the wrong group of people.

Previously, the fishermen have blamed the "netters" for netting too close to the bridges, on the beaches and for doing just about everything that breaks every law on the books pertaining to fishing. This is wrong.

It is not the netters.... it is the law-breakers that net in the river that the fishermen are fighting.

There are many honest commercial netters who pay their trade in the river and ocean without breaking laws. They fish with nets, sell their catch, and live honest lives.

There are a few netters who break many laws and seem to delight in the fact that there are no law enforcement agents around to stop them.

These are the men who will bring about law enforcement, and if fishermen are successful in a planned campaign, may force the end of netting for fish in Martin County. The fishermen are tired of seeing a few boats netting right up to the bridges in the Indian River. They are also tired of seeing the law-breaking netters (not the honest ones) setting nets right up on the edge of the beach, fouling the lines of surf fishermen, and taking everything from the beach.

They are also especially tired of seeing the great number of trash and baby fish that are being killed by the law-breakers.

The Martin County Commission would do well to pay attention to these fishermen. They have something to say. If the Conservation Department cannot enforce the laws here, then Sheriff Roy Baker should get his deputies to begin a campaign of enforcement with the Martin County Navy checking the catches and checking the locations of the boats of law violators. They must be caught in the water. They are there.

Bait stores should also be checked to see that they do not buy illegal fish from these law violators. The length of fish is written in the law, and the bait shop operators know what they can or can't buy.

It will take a concerted campaign to stop the law violators. The subject is not netting, or sport fishing, one against the other. The subject is law violators and enforcement of the laws already on the books.

Once we clean up the violations in the netting trade, it will be time for a clean-up of the so-called sports fishing racket, where a few more law-violators will be found.

Kirk To Push Island Park

Gov. Claude Kirk, at a recent Martin County conference, said he had seen the north end of Jupiter and Long Island many times and would press to make the ocean-to-intracoastal waterway pristine island property a state park.

"I can't say how soon, but I am optimistic," Kirk said.

This was one of the topics he discussed while in Martin County last week at the home of Nathaniel Reed of Jupiter Island. Reed is Kirk's advisor in conservation affairs and industry recruitment.

The governor's party included William F. Murfin, Hobe Sound, chairman of the Republican State Committee, and Tom Ferguson, his administrative aide.

Chamber Is Thanked

The following letter was received by the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce in appreciation of the Art Festival held March 4 and 5:

"To the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce:

I wish for my part to thank you gentlemen for the excellent way in which you managed the Art Exhibit of last Saturday and Sunday.

I have attended, and hung paintings in, many shows in the north and south--and can truly say I have never seen one with better organization and so little confusion.

May this be the first of many such. It is a fine step forward in the art culture of our area.

Sincerely,
Marguerite D. Baker"

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To The Editor:

We are regular readers of your paper. This is the first time we've taken the privilege to express our thoughts. We have interested our friends in buying homes and property in this county, and we enjoy living here.

Recently, newspaper headlines scored jail conditions. We believe in all aspects of the law, but consider the taxpayer. This is the sunshine state, the state of retirement living. How does a fixed income fit into the ever-increasing taxes here? Do we want a welfare state like others?

Sure, we want to be one of the finest counties in the state. But with taxes up 38% to 40%, it makes a permanent resident wonder.

Just a thought to the Isaac Walton League: where are the taxpayers? Don't they enjoy good county government and representatives?

How about our native citizens? Are they satisfied?

What we would like to see, and hear more of, is a permanent sewage and water control board; not septic tanks or wells, but permanent sewage and water systems.

Your Florida Constitution

This is the ninth installment of the complete text of the proposed new Florida Constitution. This document will provide the political structure under which Florida citizens will live, replacing the outmoded, often-amended document we use today. It is the responsibility of all citizens to study, know and comment upon this constitution.

ARTICLE VI
SUFFRAGE & ELECTIONS

Section 1. REGULATION OF ELECTIONS.--All elections by the people shall be by direct and secret vote. General elections shall be determined by a plurality of votes cast. Registration and elections shall, and political party functions may, be regulated by law.

Section 2. ELECTORS.--Every citizen of the United States who is at least eighteen years of age and who has been a permanent resident for one year in the state and six months in a county shall, upon registering as provided by law, be an elector of that county at all elections. Provisions may be made by law for other bona fide residents of the state who are at least eighteen years of age to register and vote in elections of presidential electors.

Section 3. OATH.- Each eligible citizen upon registering shall subscribe the following: "I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will protect and defend the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of the State of Florida, and that I am qualified to vote under the Constitution and laws of the State of Florida."

Section 4. DISQUALIFICATIONS.--No person convicted of a felony or adjudicated in this or any other state to be mentally incompetent shall be qualified to vote or hold office until restoration of civil rights or removal of disability.

Section 5. GENERAL AND SPECIAL ELECTIONS.--A general election shall be held in each county on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November of each even-numbered year to choose a successor to each elective state and county officer, other than justices and judges, whose term will expire before the next general election and, except as provided herein, to fill each vacancy in elective office for the unexpired portion of the term. Elections to choose justices and judges, special elections, and referenda shall be held as provided by law.

Section 6. MUNICIPAL & DISTRICT ELECTIONS.--Registration and elections in municipalities shall, and in other governmental entities created by statute may, be provided for by law.

ARTICLE VII
LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Section 1. COUNTIES.--

(a) Political subdivisions. The state shall be divided by law into political subdivisions called counties. Counties may be created, abolished or changed by law, with provision for payment or apportionment of the public debt. In each county there shall be a county seat, which shall not be moved except as provided by general law.

(b) Government. Pursuant to general or special law a county government may be established by charter which shall be adopted, amended or repealed only upon vote of the electors of the county in a special election called for that purpose.

(c) Powers and duties. The powers, duties, qualifications and terms of county officers, except as provided in a county charter, shall be as prescribed by law. The care and custody of all county funds and property, and disbursing and paying out all such funds shall be provided for by law.

(d) Commissioners, except when otherwise provided by county charter, the governing body of each county shall be a board of county commissioners composed of five members. After each decennial census the board of county commissioners shall divide the county into districts of contiguous territory as nearly equal in population as practicable. One commissioner from each district shall be elected by the qualified electors of the county.

(e) Non-charter government. Counties shall have the power of self-government except as otherwise provided by general or special law. The board of county commissioners of a county not operating under a charter may enact, in a manner prescribed by law, county ordinances not inconsistent with law, but an ordinance in conflict with a municipal ordinance shall not be effective within the municipality to the extent of such conflict.

(f) Charter government. Counties operating under county charters shall have all powers of local self-government not inconsistent with general law. The legislative body of a county operating under a charter may enact county ordinances not inconsistent with general law. The charter shall provide which shall prevail in the event of conflict between county and municipal ordinances.

Arundel Bridge Situation Is Bad

Arundel Bridge over the St. Lucie Canal, out of commission for two weeks, continued out of use while local authorities awaited the long-promised arrival of a bridge engineer from the State Road Department, Tallahassee.

A stumper's truck hit it and completed its downfall, chiefly at the north side pilings.

Citrus growers southwest of the area are using SR-714, Martin Grade, to the north, to reach SR-710 and access to West Coast concentrate plants an processors, and Zarella Farms is sending cabbager on a long, circuitous route to normal markets.

A plan, discussed with the Central and Southern Florida Flood Control District, to bridge, with culverts, one wide canal to permit driving along the north bank of the canal to Indiantown, failed when FCD inspectors said the crossing would require a full-fledged bridge, not a culvert.

To repair the bridge is almost impossible, according to county engineer Fred Bell, and a new one on the state road would cost more than $500,000.

Use of the Palm City bridge, restricted to about five tons, was refused to both citrus growers and the farm firm, as "too apt to put it out of use, too."

Heavy trucks from other areas continue to use it, however.

If the Palm City bridge becomes disabled, boats will be the probable transportation for residents between Palm City and Stuart, it was pointed out.

Years ago, Palm City was serviced by a ferry, before four billion gallons of flow from St. Lucie Canal each summer created multiple sand bars in the South Fork of the St. Lucie River.

Anchorage Mobile Park News

by Rose R. Wiggins

A very interesting business meeting was held March 8 in the First National Bank Building, by District 4 of the Federation of Mobile Homes Association. The meeting was addressed mainly by the President of District 4, Maurice F. Perkins, who told of the granting of charters to mobile home parks. We are rather proud to report the first charter was awarded the Anchorage Mobile Park and was given to Edna Wolf, owner.

The writer of this column, who is also president of the Anchorage Mobile Park, received an achievement award for volunteer work, at the Federation meeting. There is so much more work to be done throughout the entire county, we earnestly hope more people will attend future meetings.

Grumman Scholarship

Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corporation has announced it will award a $1,000 annual scholarship to encourage a Martin County graduate to pursue a career in engineering or a supporting field.

Art Melrose, manager of Grumman's Stuart facility, said the scholarship is being awarded to promote individual development toward a career in engineering and the aerospace sciences. Because of this factor, eligibility is limited to high school male seniors ranking in the upper half of their class.

Details of the scholarship program have been worked out with MartinCounty school officials, Melrose said, and the award will be based solely on ability and not on financial need.

An applicant may choose to specialize in either aeronautical, mechanical, civil, electrical engineering or other suitable courses including physics and mathematics, providing his primary interest will contribute to the aerospace effort.

Candidates will make application through the school principal and final selection of the scholarship winner will be made by a Grumman Scholarship Committee.

Specific details will be made available to students within the next few weeks.

Inlet Dredging To Be Repeated

Dredging in the St. Lucie Inlet will begin again as soon as funds are available, according to Col. H. P. Tabb, district engineer, Jacksonville, U.S. Corps of Engineers. He spoke to about 125 persons who attended the annual meeting of the Martin County Taxpayers' Association Friday night.

He complimented the county for supporting the inlet model study being done through the University of Florida, and said he hoped it would result in a "cheaper solution than the $3.25 million Corps plan suggested two years ago."

Shoaling Of Inlet Brings Plea For Help

U. S. Rep. Paul G. Rogers is again being contacted to seek the means of getting a dredge to St. Lucie Inlet, where shoaling is occurring due to northeasterly prevailing winds.

In December the Sidecasting Dredge Merritt swept the unstable inlet to a depth of six foot or more. The new trouble was revealed by correspondence sent by Oscar G. Rawls, chief of the Project and Engineering Branch of the Engineering Division of the Jacksonville District, U. S. Corps of Army Engineers last week to Dr. R. G. Dean, chairman of the Department of Coastal Engineering at the University of Florida.

Rawls wrote Dr. Dean, sent him a chart of the inlet made after a Feb. 28, previously un-reported survey, showing depths as shallow as three feet in the project channel.

Local observers, particularly charter boatmen and commercial fishermen, said the shoaling is more severe than ever, south of the two markers set by the U.S. Coast Guard to mark the best route. The slightly crooked channel is south of the prescribed Federal project.

Commercial fishermen who use the inlet frequently advise mariners to observe water conditions rather than markers.

OCEAN BREEZE NEWS

Camera Club Has Annual Dinner

The Ocean Breeze Camera Club is one of the oldest clubs in the park having been organized Feb. 18, 1952 with 18 members. In the early years of the club it was decided the membership fee should be one dollar per person good for as long as the person was a resident of Ocean Breeze. The Camera Club meetings are held every Thursday and any resident of Ocean Breeze is welcome to attend, as a matter of fact it is not unusual for as many as 150 persons to attend. However the Annual Dinner is one time that is restricted to members only. Thursday March 9 was the dinner date this year. Lila Redinger was chairman of the refreshmen committee. By 5:30 P.M. four long tables decorated with vases of flowers and the gaily decorated head table were in place and the food table was so full of goodies to eat that two extra card tables had to be put to use.

At 6 P.M. sharp, master of ceremonies, Clyde Redinger, asked Ralph Halderman to offer the blessing, after which the 84 members filed to the refreshment tables and heaped their plates.

The eats being dispensed with Henrietta Mikasell led the Community sing with her accordeon. Then Redinger introduced the man of the refreshment committee, his good wife, Lila, who spoke briefly, thanking the ladies who helped decorate the tables and who helped her in other ways also the guest for bringing such a grand variety of food.

Next, the retiring president, Doug Blyth, was introduced. He spoke of the past year's activities and how the club had provided entertainment for people in the park during the past season.

The new second Vice President was then introduced and the first Vice president, Tom Cook who each responded briefly. Redinger, then introduced the new president, Leon Eastman who talked of his plans for the coming season.

Lastly, the master of ceremonies introduced the club secretary, Nellie Cook, who agreed to serve another year, which will make her seventh year as secretary. Clyde introduced her as the hardest working member of the executive committee.

While chairs and tables were being re-arranged for the picture show, Henrietta Mikasell again obliged with piano music in her very agreeable manner.

Cliff Ogle then amused the audience with a half hour of movies. Cliff had purchased one of the new super eight minimeter movie cameras and projector to go with it and demonstrated just what this camera and projector could do and probably some of the things it should not do, to the continuous amusement of his audience. This culminated the evenings entertainment.

CERAMICS--Mrs. Tomlin is a first-year ceramic student. She made this nativity set in gold and the Christmas tree trimmed in gold.

JEWELRY--Mabel Mast displays her hand-made jewelry.

EXHIBITING--Many ladies were interested in Mrs. Howe's hobby class exhibits.

SCENES OF ART- Mrs. Frank Lillie shows some of her late husband's handicraft. Frank was working on the center box when he had the fatal heart attack.

Art Class Holds 9th Annual Dinner

The ninth Art Class annual dinner was held in the clubhouse March 7 at 5 P.M. with between 90 and 100 present. The first annual dinner was held on the street at the intersection of Sixth and Skipper, opposite Don Houchin's trailer, to celebrate the completion of the first year's instruction by Don Houchin who had arrived in the park the previous fall of 1965.

At 5 P.M. Al Winegard offered the blessing and the art class students and their spouses wound their way to the ever loaded refreshment table. So many and such a variety of calorias made it difficult to decide which to take.

At the conclusion of a delicious meal, Marty Koltzach, chairman, introduced Ralph Ortt and Bessie Theilig who led the community singing. Ortt at the uniks and Bessie at the piano. Everyone enjoyed the singing especially with such capable leaders.

Koltzach then spoke in praise of Don Houchin followed by Fred Schneider who wished Mr. and Mrs. Houchin a safe journey to their home in Canada and a happy return in the fall. He then on behalf of the Art Class, presented Don with a purse in appreciation of his untiring efforts to make artists out of them. A gift of a sequin trimmed sweater was also presented to Mrs. Houchin on behalf of the club by Florence Mausert.

Marty Koltzach then called on several speakers. Russel Speck, one of the speakers, while squeezing between two ladies got his belt buckle caught in a ladies hair net. This was very embarrassing to the parties involved but very amusing to the audience.

Gordy Gill, when his turn to speak came, said he was a very poor student but he had one picture that he would very much like the audience to see. When Koltzach gave permission, he held up a picture frame with nothing but blank cardboard inside. There was a considerable pause, then Andy Shirkey came forward and asked what the picture was supposed to be.

Gill said, "It is a cow eating grass."

Andy looked at the picture again and said, "I don't see any grass."

To which Gill replied, "The cow must have eaten all the grass."

Andy scratched his head and with a half smile said, "There's no cow either."

"Well," says Gill, "You don't suppose the cow will stay when the grass is all gone."

ART CLASS DINNER--The Art Class met for dinner March 7. Seated at the head table were: William and Florence Mausert, Agnes and Don Houchin, Marty and Emily Koltzach and Carl and Bessie Theilig.

Hobbycraft Exhibition Attracts Good Crowd

The Ocean Breeze Hobbycraft Exhibitation officially opened to the public Friday March 10. There were not so many exhibits as usual but what there were, attracted a lot of attention. Some of these exhibits are illustrated but we over-looked the mosaic display by Al and Millie Klavana's mosaic class. There were many articles in this display and the Klavana's demonstrated how the work was done. With the exception of one picture entered by Ken Garrity, Tom Cook was the only exhibitor for the camera club. They hope to do better next year.

The art exhibits were up to the usual standard. Naturally some first year students work was intermingled with that of the more experienced ones, which to me seems a pity. Some students are turning out beautiful work and fast becoming real artists. All three walls of the clubhouse were covered with paintings and water-colors representing many, many hours of patient work and I am sure - pleasure.

I came back three times to look them over and I am sure many others did. One improvement this year was to have the hobby display tables further from the walls. This enabled the art viewers a better opportunity to appraise and enjoy the pictures at a more proper distance. We would like to congratulate all exhibitors for their efforts and say, "Keep up the good work."

Winnipeg Trailerites

Mr. & Mrs. Ken Laing are another couple from Winnipeg, Manitoba. They have been coming to Florida for two or three months each winter since 1949 but this is the first time they have tried the East Coast. They are quite pleased with this locality and think it is the nicest part of the state. Laing has a grain and feed business in Winnipeg and being his own boss, takes off to go hunting and fishing when he feels like it. To follow this hobby he finds it necessary to travel considerable distances. For instance, he finds South Dakota is the best for pheasant shooting. Both the Laings can handle a gun. In fact Ken says Mrs. Laing is the better shot of the two. For geese, mallard ducks and Hungarian partridge, they prefer Alberta. For fishing they usually spot their trailer in the Lac Du Bonnet area and fish the small lakes around about there. Lac Du Bonnet is roughly a hundred miles north east from Winnipeg. Laing says they find the trailer ideal for hunting and fishing. Game and fishing licenses are quite expensive. He says a pheasant license in South Dakota cost per person.

Laing informed us that this is Manitoba's one hundredth year since confederation. To celebrate the Centennial, Winnipeg is hosting the Pan American Games from July 22 to Aug. 7, when 3,000 athletes from various parts of the western hemisphere are expected to compete. This he claims, is the biggest sports and games spectacle ever staged on the North American Continent. I asked if he didn't think Manitoba's Sports spectacle would interfere with the World Fair at Montreal. Laing thought not. He was of the opinion that one would help the other as an extra inducement to visit Canada.

The Laings will be leaving towards the end of March and have arranged to meet their daughter, Barbara, and family at Gaylord, Mich. before proceeding to their home in Winnipeg.

Stuart Club Is Shuffleboard Champ

Ocean Breeze Park Shuffleboard Club, Jensen Beach, winner of 16 of the Indian River League's previous competitions, again was high in percentage points in the weekly matches, edging Stuart Shuffleboard Club by half a game.

However, the Stuart Club was declared Indian River League champion Monday due to a previous decision that the champion would be determined by the number of individual matches won. This system gave Stuart a 20-victory margin.

Stuart players scored 185 match wins, although Stuart team won only seven of its ten matches during the season. Following in order were Whispering Creek, Fort Pierce, Vero Beach and Port St. Lucie.

New officers will be chosen at the league's annual meeting scheduled for Wednesday, Dr. Thomas Moore, Jensen Beach, is outgoing president.

Burnett Wins Pistol Match

Trooper Elwyn Merle Burnett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elwyn Burnett, Jensen Beach, won the Miami pistol match last week.

The Michigan State Trooper was matched against the best marksmen in the nation in the competition.

He stopped in Jensen Beach to visit his parents on his way to a match in Tampa.

A Haid Full Of Sporting Tips

by Roward Lee Haid

The week that was....or rather, the week that is.... either way it has been rather confusing as I completely full of activity.

Mrs. JoAnn Gunderson, US Women's Open Champ, played an eighteen-hole exhibition here Tuesday and then held a short instructional period following the match. Comments from those attending said she was quite helpful with her suggestions and was really something to see in action.

Speaking of action.....there will be plenty of the local links over the weekend.... Sunday, to be exact. The 2nd annual Pro-Am will be held at the club with some 160 participating. The top pros and amateurs will be competing for prizes in the 18-hole tourney. As a special inducement to spectators, the event will feature Vaughn Monroe holding down the job as official starter, and Perry Como and Tony Penna will be playing as participants. Foursomes will begin teeing off at 11:00 a.m.

ON THE FISHING SCENE, the action has been spotty to good, with the good catches coming in early morning and late evening. Plenty of trout around....hitting top water popping plugs and live shrimp quite readily. Snook action is spotty with a few from the bridges and in the Sun Parlor area. Blues are on the fair side with cut bait still the best bet. Fresh water specks are still tearing the lake apart and those traveling to the lake area should stop at a local bait dealer for hot-spot information. Bass action along the canals and ponds is good in early morning and late evening. Mid-afternoon not recommended here as the critters are taking to the deep water and bottom.

Incidentally, had a couple of takers of last week's suggestion of Popping the Cork and they reported good catches of trout with the method.

Will have some suggestions on the best plugs in the coming weeks and how to work them.....

Safe Boating School Scheduled

The second "Safe Boating" School of 1967, sponsored by Stuart's Flotilla 59, U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, will start March 21 for local boatmen and boatwomen, according to Flotilla Training Officer Eugene Hull.

The course covers ten lessons, held at 8 p.m. each Tuesday and Friday night, through April 21.

All classes will be held at the Flotilla's Clubhouse on the St. Lucie River just east of the railroad bridge.

The course is free, with a small charge for textbook and equipment.

These schools are a national mission of the C.G. Auxiliary, assigned by direction of the U.S. Congress, Flotilla Commander Cyrus P. Trowbridge pointed out.

The local Flotilla schedules three schools annually and in the last 21 years has graduated over 1600.

The full course covers: March 21, general introduction and registration; 24th, seamanship, part 1; 27th, seamanship, part 2; 31st, aids to navigation; April 3, charts and compass; 7th, rules of the road; 10th, motorboat regulations and safety; 14th, examination; 17th, special on the St. Lucie Inlet; 21st, graduation and refreshments.

Information may be obtained by calling 287-5076 or 287-0982.

Attendance is invited to the Flotilla's exhibit at the Martin County Fair when local members are on duty.

87-Pound Amber Jack Is Caught

Ivan Mattix of Lake Park caught an 87-lb. amber jack aboard the Royal Flush with Capt. W. H. Locke, recently. The fish was entered in the Stuart Sailfish Tourney.

Another recent entry was a 30-lb. jack crevalle, caught by B. L. Vincent of Jensen Beach, aboard the Fran L. with Capt. Pete Robinson.

Weigel Chairman Of Power Boat Races

Stuart Chamber of Commerce president Allyn Weigel was elected general chairman of the power boat races being planned for January, 1968. Officers and directors of the Chamber will assume major responsibility for the first year, asking assistance of all organizations in Martin County, according to Weigel.

A course off Ernest Lyons Causeway will be surveyed and marked for approval of the American Power Boat Association. Dates, also recommended by APBA, will then be announced to drivers.

A planned tour map, and a map including boat launching sites, will be included in the next issue of the Resort & Fishing Guide.

Smouse And Varvil Fly To Gainesville

Jack Smouse, general coordinator of Martin County schools, and Ernest Varvil, former principal of Jensen Beach School, now guidance coordinator of Martin County schools, returned Wednesday from a three-day conference at Gainesville. Authorities there from southeastern states discussed the use of Federal funds in Title I projects.

The meeting was designed to provide answers from Florida, George and Alabama school leaders concerning the impact of Federal money on the child in the educational programs, as requested by Congress.

Martin County receives about $60,000 annually from the program, which is used for teaching aides, the reading program and assists to low-income groups.

"Dade County gets $3.7 million in the program and used computers to feed answers sought by Congress," said Smouse.

Varvil piloted a borrowed plane to fly to and from the conference.

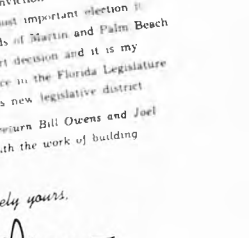
To The Voters of Martin County



I think it is imperative that Martin County have a resident member of the Florida legislature in the upcoming Legislative Session.

For this reason, I am proud to be a part of the same ticket with your very able candidate Bill Owens of Stuart.

Both Bill Owens and I share the conviction that the general election on March 28 will be the most important election in Florida's history. The political bonds of Martin and Palm Beach counties have been forged by Court decision and it is my earnest desire to resume my service in the Florida Legislature representing all the people of this new legislative district.

Won't you vote on March 28 to return Bill Owens and Joel Daves to Tallahassee to get on with the work of building a greater Florida?

Sincerely yours,

JOEL T. DAVES

Pro-Am Will Field 160 Players Sun.

Final plans for the second annual Pro-Am to be held this Sunday at Martin County Golf and Country Club are being readied this week. A field of 160 of the state's top professional and amateur golfers will compete in this year's tourney, according to Charlie Grant, chairman of the event.

Final team pairings of one pro and three amateurs will not be completed until later in the week and will be posted at the club house at that time.

Matt Moore, local host-pro, said Jim McCoy, West Palm Beach, winner of last year's tournament, will return to defend his title against some of the best, and this year's play should be thrilling.

Some of the top local amateurs included in the field will be Kelly Childs, Dr. Dennis Rinaldi, Paul Hardwick, Lane Rinker, John Jochem and Jack Williams.

Approximately eight teams will have an early starting time of 8:30 with the remaining teams scheduled to tee off from 11:00 a.m. on.

A special feature of this year's event lists Vaughn Monroe as official starter for the day, and as an extra attraction, Perry Como and Tony Penna are expected to team up and pit their skills against the field.

Residents and visitors should have a very enjoyable day, and an open house invitation is extended to all wishing to attend, according to the entire tournament committee.

TWO HEADS ARE--Matt Moore, left, and Charlie Grant, right, discuss final plans in pairings for the second annual Pro-Am Tourney to be held at the Martin County Country Club Sunday, March 19.

You wouldn't believe it but it happened again. Apple Holland made another eagle this week, and this time it was against me on the sixth hole. He used a 6 iron for his second shot. In a period of two months, Apple has had a hole in one and five eagles. The age was inside on #13. The eagles on #5, 2, 4, 5, 6 and 8. Quite a record for anyone. Would you believe on top of that he's a southpaw golfer.

Our big Pro-Am is this Sunday with about 40 teams entered. If you like a good show, come out Sunday and spectate.

Fundamentals of Golf

It's a natural law that the ball follows the path of the club and starts out in the direction in which the force is applied. So the plane of the swing plays a key role in aiming a golf ball. Open and closed stances in aiming a golf ball are variations from standard or square stance. If you close to the ball to aim right, the plane has to tilt from outside and in to bring the ball on target. If you open to the hole or aim left, the plane has to come from the inside to put the ball on target. From a square stance the plane has to be on line for the ball to start on target.

The reason most players play with a closed stance is to accommodate their error which is an outside and in swing. If you have an outside and in swing, open up to the left when practicing, then you will have to swing from the inside and out to start the ball on target. It's always better to work against your error on the practice tee and swing away and do your best on the course.

Car Burns

A 1966 Plymouth sedan was a total loss Tuesday at noon when it caught fire and burned.

Owner, Carl Gundlich of The Bronx, New York, was sunning on the public beach at Jensen Beach when his car apparently shorted. The interior was gutted, motor was damaged and tires destroyed.

Two trucks and four volunteers from Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department doused the coals. Clothing and other items in the back of the car and trunk were saved by the firemen and taken to the fire house.

Rio Civic Club Celebrates 17th Anniversary

ORIGINAL CLUBHOUSE-- It was early in 1952, following a cornerstone laying in October, 1951, that the Rio Civic Club building took form. The building has been remodeled and expanded to handle the community activities of Rio. Now, a modern, up to date building houses club activities.

A 17th birthday celebration was held Thursday, March 9, by members of the Rio Civic Club.

The club was organized July 8, 1950, with Howard McCormick as the first president.

The cornerstone of the Rio Club building was laid October 14, 1951 by Seymour Gideon on ground deeded to the club house by Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Ward. All work on the building was done by members except the concrete blocklaying.

First vice-president was Gerald Enzag, treasurer and corresponding secretary, Mrs. William Diers, and recording secretary Mrs. George DeWitt.

Dr. H. M. Voris was elected a one-year director; James Nevins and Jack Shomer, two-year directors, and John Wolfe, three-year director. Installation of officers and directors was held Dec. 7, 1951.

Charter members attending last Thursday's 17th anniversary party were Mrs. George DeWitt, Mr. and Mrs. Al Walker, and Jack Shomer.

The committee in charge included Mesdames Henry Spencer, Helen Bragg, Joseph Fuller and Edith Curran. Mrs. Wien showed pictures of Alaska.

BEAUTIFICATION CONTINUES--One of the projects of the Garden Club of Stuart is the beautification of Martin Memorial Hospital grounds. Last Thursday two trees were planted by members of the club in observance of the 75th anniversary of the founding of the National Council of State Garden Clubs, in a nation-wide planting program. Left to right, above are Guy E. Cromwell, administrator of the hospital; Mrs. Harry Swinglehurst, Mrs. W. A. Gesner, president of the local club; and Mrs. John W. Hussey.

"We will start next week with a policy calling for strictly emergency service," Humphrey said, asking for more volunteers to man the two ambulances in day-time hours.

work session on the zoning of Hutchinson Island will held March 21 at 7:30 p. by the county commissioners. The session will be open to the public.

Commissioners indicated their regular meeting on Tuesday that action might be taken at the continued meeting March 28, but only all interests reached some conclusions at the work session on Tuesday.

In a meeting which lasted only 40 minutes, the commission:

AGREED to prepare advertising for local legislation to permit use of county funds to help support Central Martin County Ambulance Association on a county-wide basis, if necessary;

GAVE Norman Golden reasonable permission to build a marble chip distribution depot on a county right-of-way beside the railroad tracks at Golden Gate;

GAVE Fred Bell, county engineer, permission to buy small tools, materials not to cost over $900 for reroofing the Hunsinger building, with county employees, rather than pay an estimated $3,500 for the job by an outside bidder from private business; REFERRED a complaint of Crane's Fish Market, Port Salerno, was operating in violation to the county zoning code. The subject, after investigation for several months, was referred to Bell and county attorney Dean Tooker and the zoning board for investigation.

DECIDED to buy 20 units at $22.50 per unit, picnic benches for Sandsprit Park.

TRANSFERRED $15,000 from each of three banks with savings accounts, to checking account in fourth county bank to build up sagging account used for county payments. Commissioner Frank Wachs said the account had dropped to $105,000, not enough to run the county for the coming month.

DEEDED to Onejem, Inc. right-of-way it had contributed at Kansas Ave. for use on northern end of Pratt & Whitney Road, in return for new donation of right-of-way from the same company at SR-76-A junction of the same road under altered plans for route.

END OF THE BUMPS--Mayor E. C. Wareheim of Sewall's Point poised, with pen in hand, to sign the contract to widen and pave Sewall's Point Road, as town officers looked on, equally happy.

Rescue 3

Robert Baker and his two sons, Jeffrey, 12, and Chris, 10, were rescued at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday night after two of the boys in a sailboat got into a gulf squall while in the Baker's gulf front home at Rudd's Yacht Basin.

Coastguardsmen aboard Martine Corporation's 40-foot motor lifeboat answered three calls in less than two hours on the rescue.

Baker said the boys were in the water at 6 p.m. when their sailboat capsized in the squall. He said they were wearing life preservers and were not injured.

The boys were found in the water about a mile and a half from the Baker home. Coastguardsmen Gene Gallagher and Tim Gallagher, brothers from the Virgin Islands, found the boys in the water.

Baker turned the rescue over to the Sheriff's department. The boys were taken to the Hutchinson Island Coastguard station where Lt. Commander Richard Hutsell [illegible] Jensen Beach.

An Invitation for You

To Meet Joel DAVES

IS THIS ANY KIND OF RECORD TO RUN ON? WE HOPE YOU THINK SO!

Miami Herald (11-5-66)

Joel Daves (Democrat), a West Palm Beach attorney and former county solicitor was a refreshing new voice during the 1965 Legislature.

On the floor of the House he openly bucked a Pork Chop plan to locate the state's new mental hospital in the home county of powerful Senate President James E. Connor. His courage earned him a nomination as outstanding freshman state representative.

Daves' leadership in preservation of the county's resources and within his party underscores his usefulness to both the county and the state. We strongly recommend his reelection to the House of Representatives.

P. B. Post-Times (5-9-65)

Don't be surprised if Rep. Joel Daves is voted outstanding freshman legislator in the House. Twice he stood up against the power clique when he knew the odds were against him. His attack on procedures used by Speaker E. C. Rivers and Senate President Nick Connor in grabbing a mental hospital for Brooksville was logical, factual and honest. When Daves was accused of "attacking the integrity of this great organization" by Rep. Charles Usher of St. Johns County, he quickly gained a supporter. Veteran Rep. William L. Wadsworth of Flagler County took the floor and "praised this young man for speaking his feelings. I think he's a refreshing addition to this chamber of the legislature." Incidentally, in commending Daves for the freshman award,

The press has admired Daves' penchant for speaking his views in committees.

Veterans were surprised and proud that freshman Rep. Daves stood up to the powerful president of the Senate.

TALLAHASSEE — (AP-NI) — Rep. Joel T. Daves, slim ex-county solicitor from Palm Beach County, may have the inside track for the outstanding freshman legislator award given each session of the Florida Legislature.

Daves has numerous boosters, including newspapermen and Rep. William Wadsworth of Flagler County, chairman of the important House of Representatives Judiciary B Committee, who is campaigning for him.

"He is one of the sharpest freshmen legislators I've ever seen," Wadsworth says. "I would love to see him get the award and I'm lobbying to see he does."

The Mirror Recommends

In recommending candidates, The Mirror makes no claim to telling the voters how to vote. The selections represented here are the result of a searching analysis of each candidate by a non-biased board of citizens throughout Martin County who are basically interested in the growth and proper development of the county.

Spessard L. Holland, Jr.
State Senator (29th Dist.)

This particular race pits two unknown quantities against each other. Holland's opponent is a neophyte senator, elected in the November sweep, who claims to bring a housewife attitude to the Florida Senate. Holland has a heritage of service in his background through his father, U. S. Senator Spessard Holland. We believe that he would do a good job, if given a chance.

John M. McCarty
State Senator (30th Dist.)

John McCarty has served his state well in the past, and will give the people of Martin County a strong, knowledgable voice in the Florida Senate. His record is one of years of service, and his ties to Martin County are strong. John McCarty is far and away the candidate for voters in this county.

Donald H. Reed, Jr.
For House Seat 76

As the minority leader of the House of Representatives, Donald Reed has served as a state well and deserves the support of Martin County's strong, knowledge

It's that time of year when our good friends and neighbors start that homeward bound trek. Morris and Agnes Trout, well known and loved residents of our Park, left early last Wednesday for their home and business in Point Pleasant, N.J., taking with them Aggie's mother, Mrs. Farnell, a winter resident ofHolidayTrailerPark. We sure miss them and hope they have a prosperous season up North.

We also regretted to say "farewell" to Henry and Sylvia Eagon who left March 13 for their home in Oroville, Calif. They had spent several months here visiting Henry's sister, Mrs. Grace Cordray.

The "Thorp Clan" is still going strong, doing things and enjoying every bit of it. Ruth Thorp, Al's wife, arrived from Detroit early in the week, which completes the family circle, consisting of Jack & Peg Thorp, Eagon from Canada, Chuck & Jackie Thorp Hall, well-known local residents; brother Al & Ruth Thorp, and Betty Thorp, resident in our Park.

On March 13, Betty, Al & Ruth, and the Orgons went to Vero Beach intent on going on a fishing trip, but changed plans, took an interesting tour thru the Piper Company plant, and later attended the baseball game enjoying the Atlanta Braves play the Tokyo Giants.

Wed., March 15, all the Thorp women and Ann McCarron, enjoyed a luncheon and fashion show at a local restaurant.

March 17 was Betty Thorp's birthday and the entire forementioned crew celebrated at the Club, dining and dancing.

Other residents from the Park, who celebrated St. Patrick's at the Club were Stuart & Gladys Anhalt and George & Ione Gerrie.

Brother and sister, John Helmken and Bertha Foster, entertained at luncheon March 16. Their guests, Mr. & Mrs. Ernest Homer, of Paterson, N.J., are vacationing in Deerfield Beach, Fla.

Mrs. Grace Cordray entertained for the weekend of March 18, Mr. & Mrs. Jerry Groah of Titusville, Fla.

George and Ione Gerrie attended a "Pot Luck" dinner March 15. Other guests included Maurice Perkins of Vero Beach, president of District 4 of the Federation of Mobile Owners of Florida, Inc., and William Gilbert, state director of the Federation. George Gerrie is treasurer of District 4, of this organization.

March 17, the Gerries very graciously opened their home for the blood pressure reading, for a nominal sum, done by the competent registered nurse, Judy. This service is a benefit offered by the Federation.

Camera Club Meet Draws Large Crowd

99 persons attended the Camera Club meeting on Thursday March 16th. The attendance is dropping off as is customary this late in the season. T.Cook gave the illustrated "Mini-talk" on how to choose the better format - horizontal or vertical. Following this, the Ocean Breeze Camera Clubs set of slides, entitled "Florida Holiday" was run through with accompanying commentary. This set of slides is getting around the country and the next stop is Montana, then Texas. After Texas the slides are to go to India. Dr. L.M.Roberts wound up the evenings entertainment with a showing of slides of the Maritime provinces of Canada. Very interesting.

Next Thursday Luther and Clara Mason will show pictures of an Alaskan trip they made over the early rough roads of years ago.

The new president of the Camera Club, Leon Eastman, called the first executive meeting together Monday March 13. The officers for the 1967-8 season were all present; Leon Eastman, president; Tom Cook, Vice president; Cliff Ogle, second Vice president; Nellie D. Cook, Secretary-Treasurer.

Several matters were discussed, mainly in relation to plans for the coming season. The secretary offered the information that the camera club had provided entertainment for attendances totalling 2,637 persons this past winter, which was considered very satisfactory.

President Eastman then announced that Doug Blyth will take full charge of the work shop periods. He also named the program managers for 1967-8, Cliff Ogle, November; Tom Cook, December; Ted Sorenson, January; Ken (Red) Garrity, February; L.M.Roberts, for March.

OCEAN BREEZE NEWS

by Tom Cook Phone 287-5312

nake Has Car Ride

h 11th was a nice spring day, in the low so George Henle of ond proceeded to do of fishing and at the time enjoy the cool water, he parked his the river bank near rth end of the park property, put on his waders and waded out into the river and started casting. Fishing wasn't so good so George quit and went back to the car. As he opened the door to get into the drivers seat a snake that was coiled up on the floor decided it was time to get out and met George at the door. George's sudden jump scared the snake so he doubled back and disappeared under the dash somewhere. Search as he would George couldn't find the snake so drove home.

Claud Wright and Ben Yowler then helped to find the snake. By means of a garden hose and insecticide spray he was chased out from his hiding place under the engine but refused to come out into the open, so Claud drove to the Gulf Station in Jensen. Evidently the engine got too hot for the Snake, for when the hood was lifted he had taken refuge beside the battery. A tap on the head dislodged him and he dropped to the ground where he was quickly dispatched.

The snake turned out to be a coach whip snake, quite harmless but 5 feet 10 inches long and quite capable of giving a person a scare.

BEAUTY- March is amaryills time. Many groups of these flowers are to be seen around the Park.

Reporter Visits Fair

Our visit to the Martin County Fair the afternoon of March 16 was well worth while. A very stong wind was blowing but the exhibits were all in good buildings and the midways had not gotten into action yet, so it didn't interfere with anything. Although no Ocean Breeze exhibitors in the art show received a prize, we were gratified to notice we had five representatives there; Lola Speck, Werner Pohle, Robert Morrow, C. F. Whitney and Allan Winegard. Ofcourse we thought they were tops, but then we weren't judges.

The livestock building was well filled and there were some beautiful horses and some very cute pets. The baby bunnies and bantam chicks were the kiddies favorites.

We thought the school exhibits were truly wonderful. Some very well made skirt and blouse sets made by 11 and 12 year old 4-H Girls and there are some very promising artists coming along, just to mention a few.

The tropical flower display sponsored by the fair association was another eyestopper again this year. Mrs. Isabel Williams was the chairman in charge of the exhibit and incidentally, she was awarded first prize for the most ornamental fern. Mrs. Margaret Hill is to be congratulated on her magnificent garden arrangement and Mrs. J.G.Allen for the waterfall, which put the finishing touch to this beautiful setting.

Thieves Rob Car

Mr. & Mrs. Theodor Landgraf of Lilibit Lane were at the beach March 7. Their car was parked by the roadside just above the county line, Ted was busy surf fishing and Mrs. Landgraf was enjoying the surf bathing with Ted's sister-in-law. When the party returned to the car they found it had been broken into and theives had made off with the sister-in-laws pocket book. The pocket book was on the back seat hidden under a sweater. A camera in the glove compartment was not taken nor anything else except the pocket book which contained valuable papers besides $70, in cash. Ted said it was bad enough to lose the money but thought the theives could at least have left the wallet as the papers were of no use to anyone but the owner.

The theives gained entrance to the car by jimmying the small side window, smashing it in the effort and making two bad dents in the body which will be very hard to straighten out. The sister-in-law seldom carries much money but this time had just obtained the $70, from the bank to pay for her plane trip home.

People have been warned not to take valuables to the beach

Local Residents At Passion Play

Howard Jactheimer loves to drive his car, especially when he has a load of congenial people with him, and that is the way it was last Thursday March 16, when he took Mr. and Mrs. John Merrill, Mrs. Ruth Rounds and Mrs. Hazel Wilson and her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Mc Cullough, to the passion play at Lake Wales. It was unfortunate that they chose that particular day as the temperature dropped sharply to about 40 degrees that night, and concrete seats are not the warmest things to sit on for a 2 1/2 hour show. Fortunate were the people who had the foresight to bring blankets with them. The party stayed at a motel overnight and took in the Busch Gardens at Tampa the next day. They had lunch at the Chalet and took the monorail to see the animals, which they say, gave them a good opportunity to view the animals from the higher vantage point. All agreed the two day trip was quite enjoyable and was a welcome break.

THE FULTONS--We are glad to see Clarence Fulton home again after a three-weeks' stay in the hospital following a heart attack. This picture was taken when the Fultons' son and his wife and family were visiting prior to his illness. The grandchildren, Jackie, Ricky and Susan, took quite a fancy to their grandma's tricycle.

Rices Visit Nassau

Jim and Eva Rice enjoyed the company of their daughter and son-in-law when they spent their ten days vacation with them. While they were here the four of them went to Nassau on the Bahama Star. Eva said the boat trip was very enjoyable. The food, accommodation and entertainment were very good. They also enjoyed watching the divers. Some of the boys would dive off the top deck after a coin, disappear for a few seconds and then up they would pop, their white eyes showing up so vividly against their black faces. The boy while treading water would hold the coin aloft to show he had got it and then would pop it in his couth ready for the next coin to fall.

The Rices took the boat trip around the island. This they enjoyed and Jim said he was able to take some good pictures. However, he doesn't recommend the Paradise Island Trip. He considers it was just a waste of time, as there was nothing to see. There are many interesting things to see, but one has to get away from the main thorofare.

Sunday was one of the days they were there so they attended Church of England service. They say that although the congregation was not large, they enjoyed the service and particularly the choir singing. There was 19, all colored, boys choir and they had such lovely voices.

Non-Attendance Stalls Water Board Meetings

Martin County Water Management Board, in an attempt to act on behalf of many owners of land bordering on the Seaboard Airline Railroad tracks from Indiantown to the Okeechobee County line, all but gave up its attempt after two unsuccessful meetings.

Failure of the owners of some eight miles of land bordering the railroad right-of-way, led to the temporary abandonment of the cooperative project, according to county engineer Fred Bell.

Railroad officials who had promised to attend the two meetings also failed to show, Bell said.

Board members, Jack Norris, Johnnie Crawford, Charles Kindred and George Oliver, attended the last meeting, as did 20 property owners.

The SAL is improving its roadbed in a project which includes better ditching and railbed stabilization, but cannot do much of the project within Martin County unless owners permit digging a bordering ditch from which to get the materials to rebuild the right-of-way.

The ditching project lies mainly in Okeechobee County but has been moved in early stages about two miles into Martin County, to the Florida East Coast Railway crossing with the SAL.

The project drains into Lake Okeechobee at Lettuce Creek and over seven miles long in Okeechobee County.

Most of the owners want to cooperate, Bell pointed out, but are barred because of missing links in the right-of-way needed.

Gets Federal Grant

Stuart city commission, in a special meeting attended by all members last week, adopted Resolution 836 accepting a $134,700 grant from the U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development.

City manager Joe N. Crowder told the board Federal field services in connection with the grant would amount to $1,300 and would be deducted.

T. T. Oughterson, city attorney, told the commissioners the validation hearing on the $350,000 bond issue would be held in circuit court before Judge Wallace Sample April 14 at 2 p.m.

Rosenfeld Granted $142,245.41

A $110,000 judgment was granted Hyman L. Rosenfeld, who had been an interested party in Port Mayaca Groves, Inc., by Judge Ben F. Overton in Pinellas circuit court, according to papers filed in Martin County last week.

Judge Overton also gave Rosenfeld $13,254.99 in interest; $2,990.42 in costs; plus $15,000 for an attorney's fee, for a total of $142,245.41.

The decision was rendered in February but only implemented early this month.

Defendants were the Groves corporation plus Ann Gray, Toronto, and Michael Kenez, another of the owners.

A garnisheed account in First National Bank of St. Petersburg was withheld from the defendant to a total of $1,954.41, and the bank was granted costs of $100 plus a $10 attorney's fee.

An attachment by Rosenfeld against property of Ann Gray in Pinellas County was permitted to stand.

Port Mayaca Groves is one of the county's oldest producing orange groves.

Palm City Areas Are Re-Zoned

The Martin County Zoning and Planning Board upgraded or changed the zoning of most of Palm City and areas of the community as far west as the turnpike, at its meeting Thursday night.

West of the Palm City School, formerly in other zoning categories, everything was zoned A-1, agricultural, to fit present usage.

The community was rezoned from the north line of Hanson Grant to the county line on a south-north line.

R-T trailer zoning for an area in Booker Park was tabled by the board when there were objections from the owner of the tract chosen for such zoning.

However, the board agreed to seek a type of residential trailer zoning which could be applied to the Booker Park area and other depressed areas, with such zoning being at the option of the zoning board. Sixty days was set as the tabling period.

Two spot zoning requests were refused, one for a salvage yard on SR 710 west of Indiantown, the other for a small area sought as an addition to a fish farm. All members of the board attended the meeting.

'Reminiscents' Distribute Funds

"The Reminiscents", a choral group headed by Mrs. Clair Tabl, director, and managed by R. Speck, recently presented a musical program.

Proceeds from the show, held Feb. 14 at Stuart Youth Center, were distributed as follows:

Central Martin County Ambulance, $170; Jensen Beach Samaritans, $85. This left a balance of $5.51 in the Reminiscents' account.

This will be used to purchase music needed for other hoped-for appearances, according to Hazel Heritage, one of the participants.

The Reminiscents had also donated $100 toward the purchase of a piano presently in use in the Jensen Beach Community Center.

Crosby Joins Highway Patrol

Joe Crosby, now a member of the Stuart police force, will soon join the Florida Highway Patrol. He will be working out of Cocoa, connected with the Orlando division of the FHP.

Crosby will go directly into active duty in Brevard County area, bypassing the usual training period.

Luncheon Planned To Honor Officers

A luncheon honoring the outgoing and incoming officers of St. Joseph Guild will be held at St. Lucie Country Club Wednesday, April 12, at 12:30 p.m. Attending guests may play cards or use the Club pool. No tickets will be sold after April 10.

The Guild will meet April 3.

Many residents and guests attended the Guild card party held March 16 at First National Bank community room.

Prizes were won by Mesdames T. W. Cook, P. W. Angell, Elfreda Cherrier, C. Cottrell, Lillian Haskins, I. C. Hanson, John Doyle, Walter Bootmann, Charlotte Fairweather, Jean Spencer, Catherine Schuman, George Fritz, Catherine Cottrell, Joseph Wurz, Alice Fitzsimons, May Dirkinson.

A Haid Full Of Sporting Tips

by Howard Lee Haid

There is a song that has the words to describe the weather conditions at the second annual program held at the Martin County Golf and Country Club this past Sunday. It says... With the Wind and the Rain in your Hair... Of course this doesn't apply to me, for I don't belong to the comb-toting breed... but I must admit that I was a bit damp around the edge throughout the entire day. Even without a hair problem the elements managed to harrass me in other ways. The ever present moisture kept the club handle quite slippery and each time I swung I wondered which would go farthest... the club or the ball?? Incidentally, while speaking of slippery handles, I noticed one enterprising golfer used some of the sap from the pine trees to improve his grip. He said, it's the devil to get off, but it sure helped... Another thing I found rather disturbing was that when concentrating on hitting a shot a very cold trickle of water would pour from my hat, down the middle of my back, and at about the same time when silence is rather golden, one could hear the gentle sloshing of water as someone wiggled their toes in their shoes.

The wind added its part to making the day... There is nothing ill a knowing you have hit the perfect shot...watching it arc towards the pin and then suddenly realizing it was just an illusion as the wind pushes the ball back to whence it came.

Putting on the greens was a sight to behold, speedwise it could not have produced better rooster-tails than did the golfballs. It produced some rather interesting putts and when someone did manage to get one, a resounding cheer from that group of players could be heard over the entire course. One amusing thing that happened to one player on the green went something like this... "I had about a one footer... a real sure thing. I lined it up... stroked it firmly and watched it actually float across the cup and come to rest on the opposite side... how lucky can you be?"

Regardless of the weather, I'll tip my hat to the boys responsible for promoting a real fine event. The day turned out quite successful for everyone and spirits were high. Plans to make it a two day event next year are now in making and if this years turn-out is indicative of what next year will produce then I plan to attend and play again... In the meantime I'll disregard the remarks made to me this week about fanatics and think... "Only The Brave"

Martin County Ties Boca Raton 2-2

Martin County High School and Boca Raton High battled to a 2-2 tie baseball game Friday afternoon at Sailfish Park, Stuart. The game was called after nine innings because of darkness.

Boca was winner, and MC runner up in the Suncoast Conference Western Division last season.

A foul ball off the bat of Boca pitcher Mike Enders in the second inning smashed the windshield of a station wagon which belongs to the athletic department of the host school, acquired less than a month ago. It was parked outside the field behind first base.

Keith Lambie, centerfielder, drove in both MC runs with a two-out triple in the second. Boca got its pair in the third on two hits, two walks and a sacrifice fly by batter Bob Bonome.

Play was called with a 3-2 count on the Tigers' Bill Cunningham with one out and no one on in the last of the 10th.

Each team now has a 1-2-1 over-all record and each is 1-0-1 in division games.

Wells And Cooper Earn Two Firsts

Bruce Wells and Earl Cooper won firsts for Martin County in a four-team track meet held in Pahokee last Wednesday.

Wells cleared 9 feet, 3 inches in the pole vault. Cooper tossed the discus with a heave of 115 feet, 3 inches.

Pahokee won the meet with 93-2/3 pts., Belle Glade was second with 74-1/2; Clewiston, 49; and Martin County 37.

Shooting Range Is Planned

A proposed rifle and pistol range is being planned for county property west of U.S. 1, south of Port Salerno, it was announced last week. Preliminary plans are being prepared by Col. Charles [redacted] Gilchrist, state quartermaster of the Florida National Guard.

Attending a recent meeting with Col. Gilchrist were Fred L. Bell, county engineer; county commissioner Elmer Powers; George Grimm, assistant to Bell; Lt. Col. Robert deMarcellus, Batallion Commander of 160th Transport Bn(THK) FNG, of West Palm Beach.

Also attending were Capt. A. V. D'Alessandro, staff administrative assistant of 160th, and chief warrant officer Charles R. Thomas, ADF supervisor F-56.

The group went over the property recently acquired by the county.

DeMarcellus is interested in providing a rifle and pistol range on the property for use of the National Guard, according to Powers. He said he has discussed this with the county commissioners which has indicated wholehearted support, because the facilities would be available for use in local shooting organizations.

National Guard forces from the Fort will transport unit vehicles from New Smyrna, Jacksonville and Fort Gadsden and that the participation of the state forces, as part of the project, would help the outfit build a rifle range in Martin County, the unit would be able to qualify its members, thereby saving the state a great deal in travel expenses, Col. Patterson explained.

The Balances of A Golf Swing

When you speak of balance in a golf swing, it's not golf straight up in the first lesson but continues throughout the last. My first mention of balance was in the second article of this series where I was explained the part the head and feet play in a golf swing.

There are two balances in a golf swing, namely posture and shoe. To side balance. There are two balance points in a swing, namely, 1) Head and Feet.

1. POSTURE - Good posture in a swing is your central balance. The head is up and back with your weight on the balls and heels of the feet. After bending there is no change in the middle of the body at the hips. Bend forward only as much as is needed without destroying the ball and heel balance. Then bend left a tilting the hips to accommodate the rest of getting down to the ball. Tilting the hips to the left does two things. It raises the right side and puts your weight on the left leg which is the starting point for your side to side balance.

The barometer of balance is the head which balances the upper part of your body and creates posture. Your head shouldn't turn, bob up and down or tilt during the swing. Your feet balance the lower part of your body and create side to side balance.

Remember that true balance is a moving one. The only way to acquire it is through practice. If you don't find success by yourself, what is needed is supervision. Your Golf Professional is qualified to do this job so hire his services and start on the right track.

40 Teams Complete Pro-Am Tourney Despite Heavy Rain

Teams headed by pros Ron Bakich, Lords Valley, Pa., and George Valuck, West Palm Beach, shared first place in the second annual Martin County pro-amateur golf tournament held on a wet turf during last Sunday's rainstorm.

Each foursome had a best-ball 59, a dozen strokes under par 71 at the 6,497-yard Martin County Country Club.

Forty teams completed the day's round, 13 more than last year. More than $2,000 in cash and merchandise was distributed.

Bakich, representing a new club in the Poconos, had a 78 on his own ball. Valuck carded 72.

Low pro was Bob Manne, West Palm Beach, with 69.

At 80 were pro John Morgan, Vero Beach, with Bill Howder, Bill Cleveland and Lou Papsidero, Stuart; and Vic Bass, Lake Worth, and amateurs Duncan Cash, Ralph Fletcher and Gene Burgett.

Chuck Ankrom, Fort St. Lucie, and Ed Fickers, Tequesta, headed two teams at 81. Ankrom's partners were Bob Yoxall, Dr. Ray Grunt and Curt Whitaker. Fickers was teamed with Howard Haid, Ken Schmidt, Hugh Leighton.

Dr. Dennis Rinaldi, president of the host club, headed a team of four amateurs which just missed, posting a best-ball 63. A two-handicapper, Dr. Rinaldi played scratch as the "pro" and had a 72 on his own ball. His partners were Art Clum, Kelly Childs and Dr. Paul Thomas.

Tentative plans are being made to stage a two-day tournament next year.

Water Problems To Be Discussed

A public hearing will be held April 11 at 2 p.m. at the Levi M. Johnson Agricultural Building, Stuart, on "improvements for flood control, water control and related purposes," in conjunction with the proposed U.S. Corps of Engineers' updated plans, according to notices issued Saturday.

The Corps had been authorized by the Public Works Committee of the U.S. Senate and directed to "review the report on Central and Southern Florida Flood Control District (plans) with a view to determining the feasibility of any modification" of previous recommendations.

When the C&SFFCD project was prepared in 1947, the works in Martin County were not considered warranted, the Corps pointed out in its hearing notice.

"Since that time, there has been considerable urban and agricultural development on lands subject to periodic flooding. The district engineer has analyzed several plans of protection for the area," the notice said.

Col R. P. Tabb, district engineer, who spoke here March 10, pointed out that until water supply and demand analyses now being made in connection with Everglades National Park needs are completed, use of Lake Okeechobee water as noted in the plan would be deferred. That portion of the plan reads, "and provide facilities for supplying irrigation water from Lake Okeechobee to 590 square miles of St. Lucie and Martin Counties."

Interested parties are invited to be heard and are asked to provide written reports in quadruplicate since records of the hearing will be forwarded for consideration at the Department of the Army.

Keaton Injured

Martin County Civil Defense Director Al Keaton, 41, was in John F. Kennedy Memorial Hospital, Lake Worth, over the weekend where he was reported in good condition following a Saturday accident.

Keaton apparently was touching a 26-year-old woman, whom authorities said is his niece, to drive, when she lost control of the car.

Mrs. Ute Ammons, West Palm Beach, was northbound on Jog Rd., Lake Worth, when the small car went off the highway, overturned three times and was demolished, according to Florida Highway Patrol Trooper O. B. Sword.

Mrs. Ammons skidded 100 feet on her back and head along the roadway. She is reported by the hospital to be in paraplegic condition.

Keaton suffered several broken ribs and head cuts. Both will be charged with motor vehicle law violations, Sword said.

SCHOOL SITE WANTED

The Board of Public Instruction of Martin County, Florida, is desirous of acquiring a suitable site for construction of a new school in the portion of the county lying northerly and easterly of the St. Lucie River. The size of the site should be from fifteen (15) to twenty (20) acres, or more, if available. Accessability to one or more public roads is desirable.

Those interested in offering such property to the Board for cash or in exchange for the present site of the Jensen Beach Elementary School are requested to submit their offer stating the legal description of the property, the size thereof, and the price asked, in writing, to the Board in an envelope marked on the outside thereof: "Offer to sell property." Offers should be mailed to the Board at P. O. Box 1045, Stuart, Florida, or delivered to the office of the Superintendent at the Martin County Courthouse, Stuart, Florida, so as to arrive not later than 10 a.m., 14 April, 1967.

The Board reserves the right to reject any and all offers.

SCHOOL SITE FOR SALE

The Board of Public Instruction of Martin County, Florida, is desirous of selling for cash or exchanging the present site of the Jensen Beach Elementary School, together with all permanent buildings thereon, for a suitable site of sufficient size for construction of a new school to serve the part of Martin County lying north of the St. Lucie River.

Those interested in submitting bids ready for acceptance are requested to submit sealed bids on or before 10 a.m., 14 April 1967, to the Board, P. O. Box 1045, Stuart, Florida, or to the office of the Superintendent, Martin County Courthouse, Stuart, Florida. All bids should be plainly marked on the outside of the envelope, "Bid for purchase of Jensen Beach Elementary School Site."

Delivery of possession of the present school site would be delayed for a period of time sufficient to allow completion of construction of adequate new facilities.

The Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids or offers.

PRISONER- County agricultural agent Levi Johnson was captured and arrested on the old-time night by Sheriff Roy Baker. Johnson was handcuffed to the fence in the fairgrounds, and then a "sympathy auction" was held to free him.

Area Menaced By Broken Gas Pumps

A man and a woman were injured and the Port Salerno area was menaced when one of two cars involved in a crash plowed down gas pumps at the filling station at U.S. 1 and S. Dixie Blvd.

Injured were Mrs. Sadie Simmons, driver of one of the cars, and John Epps, 28, Hobe Sound, passenger in the other car, driven by Phillip Cook, 20, of Gomez.

The Simmons car was struck by the Cook car when the former failed to stop at the intersection, according to Florida Highway Patrolman George Emerson. Both cars were estimated total losses.

Two Port Salerno fire Department trucks stood by at the pumps in a fire alert.

MC Band Rated 'Excellent'

The Martin County High School band was rated "excellent" by three out-of-town judges at the District Concert Contest held March 14 in the school gymnatorium.

Pam Luce, senior French hornish, received a "superior" rating as student conductor of the band.

Judges were Oliver Hobbs, Tallahassee; Dean Mann, of Perry; and Bud Hill, Fernandina Beach.

The overall "excellent" rating awarded in Concert kept the band from qualifying for State Contest held in May, according to LeMoyne E. Roll, director, who said, "we will all have to work harder next year."

The band expects to move into the new bandroom shortly.

Sandells Entertain

Mr. and Mrs. Al Sandell, Jensen Beach, are entertaining his sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. John Humphrey, Ewen, Mich., until the end of March.

Fishermen Organize

Another chapter of the Organized Fishermen of Florida (OFF) was formed in Port Salerno Friday afternoon when about 50 commercial fishermen met at the firehouse.

Mrs. Jimmy Robinson, wife and daughter of fishermen, Everglades City, provided the spark which led to unanimous agreement to organize the chapter as one of many in the new OFF.

Mrs. Robinson, who has been traveling through south Florida organizing chapters, conducted the meetings. She has initiated groups in her home area, in Naples, Key West and other south Florida cities and towns.

Hubert Stiller was elected president of the new Port Salerno group, Bobby Crane is vice-president, Donald Rose, treasurer, and Freddie Joe Stiller, secretary.

A chapter was also organized Friday in Sebastian, Florida, where commercial fishermen met at Legion Hall.

Sabotage Suspected

Alleged sabotage of the Florida East Coast Railway tracks south of Fruita, Florida, was revealed by H. L. Thornton, FEC president, Saturday night.

For the second time in 18 months, about three dozen spikes and a pair of metal fasteners were removed from the tracks.

Sheriff Roy C. Baker said he didn't know if the FEC was in on it, but Deputy Sheriff James Holt and railroad detectives watched the spot where the alleged sabotage was supposed to have taken place after the spikes were replaced.

Repairs were made Friday, according to Holt.

In August, 1965, almost exactly the same number of spikes were removed from the same place. Although sabotage was blamed, railroad officials said the removal would not have caused a train wreck.

Bridge Repaired

Emergency repairs have been made over the weekend by State Road Department bridge personnel to the Arundel Bridge, Tropical Farms.

The bridge had been out of commission for two weeks.

Bailey bridge sections and SRD heavy equipment arrived Friday from Ocala, and by Saturday noon they were being put in place over a 30-foot span already cut away by welders' torches. The crew worked hard and long over the weekend, keeping on the job until 10 p.m.

Joe Fernandez, Orlando, of the SRD bridge division, declined comment on the hour when the bridge would be reopened to heavy fruit and vegetable truck traffic, but indicated earlier estimates of a week to ten days would be cut.

1,120 Adults Enrolled In Education Courses

Director of adult education in Martin County schools, E. B. Horton, told the school board last week that 1,120 people were enrolled in the 1966-67 adult education courses.

Forty-three are in the adult credit courses, 48 in the adult basic education; 57 in GED equivalency programs; 130 took courses in the adult distributive field; 635 took special interest courses and 207 were, or had taken, Civil Defense courses in the school year, according to Horton.

Adult credit courses, especially designed for dropouts, were established here in 1965, and since then have provided credit courses which resulted in diplomas to 17 in 1965, 18 in 1966, and 21 for this year. Sciences, social studies, mathematics, English, bookkeeping, shop and typing are offered.

GED courses have led to equivalency diplomas totaling 307 since 1958, when the courses were started to prepare adults 20 years and older for taking state examinations. Through the end of this school year, Horton estimated an added 51 would be listed and by the end of the year, the total would be 365.

Adult basic education, a Federal-local fund set up, was initiated in 1966 and provides elementary education for adults with emphasis on reading, writing and arithmetic. Horton said 48 adults are involved.

Special interest courses were set up in the 1958-59 school year for enrichment for adults in many areas, including ABC shorthand, real estate, the languages, sewing, typing, library services and others. While participation may be only in one course for a few hours, 635 people enrollment was deemed significant.

Adult distributive education courses including "distribution of goods and services," have been given for hotel, motel, restaurant, service station, grocery establishments, insurance, real estate and other positions. The courses were set up in 1966. Demand for "graduates" has been high in businesses basic to tourism.

The Civil Defense courses, which is coordinated between the CD and Adult Education departments, use, in the main, school teachers on such subjects as personal survival, medical self-help, radiological monitoring, shelter management and others. The courses are paid for by Federal funds, are coordinated, reported and combined with regular adult education classes for the first time in 1966.

"The public school is an acceptable and inexpensive facility for all adults. It is estimated that one-half of the total adult population of the nation could be provided sufficient educational opportunities using just three per cent of the total expenditures for schools today. In Florida, just a little over one per cent of all funds spent for education is going for general adult education" Horton said.

"The public school is, first of all, publicly supported by the same adults who require its service. The public school has the existing plant and personnel to teach and administer the adult program," he added.

County Cattle Testing Gets Under Way

Four veterinarians have been assigned to six county area divisions to carry out the testing of most female cattle and all breeding bulls for Bangs disease, under State-Federal brucellosis control program, according to Levi M. Johnson, county agent.

The program has already started in Martin County. Dr. Robert Campbell, U. S. Department of Agriculture veterinarian, assigned to the coastal strip area, has already completed two small herds, Johnson reported.

Dr. Robert Kuhn has been assigned to the central-north district; Dr. John Hyatt, the central-south, both being local veterinarians. Dr. Robert Paulson, State veterinarian, has been assigned to the central-west district.

The tests are made to detect Bangs disease which can cause undulant fever in humans through consumption of milk. The disease cannot be contacted by consumption of meat, but the USDA requires the testing of any beef cattle which can help reproduce itself.

Martin County will remain under quarantine until the tests are completed, a period expected to take about four months.

Frances Langford Will Receive USO Citation

Singing star Frances Langford, Jensen Beach, who has entertained America's fighting men in three wars, will receive the special USO Certificate of Appreciation Thursday night, March 30, at the USO annual dinner which will also honor General William C. Westmoreland in Chicago.

The announcement of the award came as a "complete surprise" to Miss Langford, who was planning to be a part of the Martin Memorial Hospital Ball when on the same night, Ralph Evinrude, chairman of Outboard Marine Corporation, and husband of the star, said, "Fran couldn't refuse to be present to receive this honor, and she feels very sad that she cannot take part in the ball."

Miss Langford, "the sweetheart of the fighting fronts" during World War Two, traveled more than a million miles with Bob Hope under the USO banner, appearing before 1,300,000 troops at battlefronts and hospitals overseas.

Again in the Korean War, Miss Langford gave unselfishly of her time, entertaining at remote military bases overseas, often under hazardous conditions.

Late in 1966, Miss Langford visited Viet Nam, in a troupe with Tony Romano, Johnny Cuz ins and dancer Patti Thomas, performing in harbor camps, in the Philippines and other parts of Southeast Asia on a two-month tour.

At the dinner in Chicago, Irving Kupcinet, Chicago columnist will be master of ceremonies, and Bob Considine, nationally known columnist and commentator, will make the principal address.

Ball To Feature Fabulous Show

Memories and modern music will be the theme of a fabulous floor show at the St. Lucie Country Club on Thursday, March 30, when Martin County's social event of the season, the Martin Memorial Hospital Ball, gets under way at 9 p.m.

Headliner Vaughn Monroe will present a show, backed by Lou Feldman's Orchestra, and featuring famed guitarists Tony Romano and Johnny Cuzzins.

Few night clubs in the nation have seen the stellar show that will be featured, for the hospital fund drive. Monroe, now a resident of Sewall's Point, the voice of RCA on radio and television, will put on the show. Frances Langford, popular vocalist and wife of outboard Marine Corporation chairman Ralph Evinrude, was originally slated to appear but will be unable to attend due to a sudden USO citation to be presented in Chicago on Thursday on behalf of all USO entertainers.

Chairman of the ball is Mrs. Monroe, wife of the famed vocalist, and she is looking forward to the evening when, in a blaze of yellow and green, the color scheme of the ball, 200 couples will dance and be entertained during the event. For two months, Mrs. Monroe has been directing the activities of twenty committee members, community leaders interested in the success of the hospital fund drive.

With the seating of the Great Hall of St. Lucie Country Club limited to 200 couples, patron chairmen Mrs. Daniel Morell and Mrs. Roland Merrell have been busy calling the list of patrons who donate $100 or more to the hospital for two tickets to the ball. The Morrell-Merrell team is assisted by Roland Merrell, in charge of special gifts, and committee members Dr. Hazedale Hipson, Mrs. Fred Schrock, Jr., Dr. William Robinson, John McGuigg, Dr. James Kelly, William Matheson, Mrs. Harry M. Wooten, Mrs. Patricia Murphey Kiernan, Mrs. John Menninger, Mrs. Walter Hupfel, Mrs. C. B. Arbogast, Jr., Evans Crary, Jr., Jack Harriman, and Mrs. Douglas Kenneds. Publicity for the event is handled by a committee of Dick Campbell, Mrs. Orrin Sherman and Les Combs.

Favors at the ball will be albums donated by Frances Langford, her husband, Ralph Evinrude, and Vaughn Monroe. Each lady attending the ball will receive one album by each of the vocalists.

Fishermen Should Unite

We believe that the fishermen who took part in a discussion at the Spring meeting of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce were interested in information. They came to fight each other, and stayed to listen, ripe a little bit, and go away with much more information than they had before.

The facts and figures of the Department of Conservation marine biologist seemed to indicate strongly that it was not the net fishermen ruining the river fishing for sportsmen....It seems to be the dredge and fill operations in the river, and the "slow cycle" for fish migrations.

A careful analysis of the comments at the meeting showed that the overwhelming consensus of opinion lay in the violations of the law by sports fishermen and netters. Sports fishermen illegally selling fish, and killing fish on bridges, and netters breaking the law by fishing too close to bridges and with too long nets, were the most prominent complaints.

We believe that the commercial and sport fishermen can get along. There will always be a competition between them, but they can get along. They should unite to fight the lawbreakers.

The Department of Conservation is now cracking down on the law violators. Four arrests have been made in netting violations in the past two weeks. Others will follow. A new attitude by the county judge has brought stiffer fines for violations of sports and net fishermen.

It won't take long to make people realize that the law must be obeyed. Then, and only then, will our fishermen enjoy their sport and the commercial catches.

After that, we can get to the core of the problem, dredge and fill, to see that the river stays as nature intended it to be.

Jensen Beach Needs Markers

The reef just offshore from the public beach at Jensen Beach has been creating a rip tide, and the current developing there has been dangerous to bathers. There is a need for markers along the beach to set off the safe swimming area.

Unfortunately, it would be necessary to dynamite the reef loose in order to make the beach totally safe. Blasting would be dangerous and could only be handled by the corps of engineers. For this reason, we suggest that buoys and markers be placed by the county to show where the safe swimming area is located.

Investigation has shown that the markers could be anchored to the reef, and would hold all swimmers to the proper area, making the job of local life guards easier.

The county should take a look at all the facilities along the beach and begin planning for the next budget year to come along. This far the county has done a fine job in bringing along each recreation area, doing as much as possible each year, within budget limitations. We hope that the work continues.

In the meantime, with a busy summer for the beach coming up, we urge the county to install markers along the safe part of the swimming beach to safeguard the swimmers.

When People Can't Do It

We have always said that the only time government is necessary is when the people fail to do, or cannot handle a job. That is when the government should step in and handle the job.

Last week the Central Martin County Ambulance Association asked the county commission for enabling legislation to permit establishment of a county-wide ambulance service for the people of Martin County. The association seems to have problems that are unsurmountable.

Jim Humphrey, president of the volunteer group, has made it known that he believes that the government would not have to step in if the people of this county would step up and volunteer for daytime service with the ambulance corps.

We remember when the people of Jupiter refused to support their local firemen. The group decided to disband and got a tax district for fire protection passed. Under a volunteer system, the budget of the volunteer firemen for the year was around $9,000. Under the tax setup, the budget the first year went to $81,000. That is the cost of letting the county do it.

What concerns us most, though, is the fact that no one seems to be worried about losing ambulance service for the central part of the county. No civic clubs are stepping forward and volunteering men, nor are they asking what they can do to help. If they ignore it long enough, it probably will go away. . . the service, we mean.

The ambulance service is now advertising for help. If the help doesn't come, look for the ambulance group to dump the problem in the lap of the county and disband.

Why We Get Rich

Recently, the local boy scouts wanted to celebrate Boy Scout Week and asked the cooperation of The Mirror in promoting the week. We agreed to do anything we might to help. I showed a full-page of advertisements to the scoutmaster, Gene Kasper, and said that if he wanted to promote the week he could sell the advertisements on the page at our cost ....and that would be our contribution , plus some publicity for the troop.

As it ended up, Kasper was a good salesman, or, at least, the people wanted the bargain of a half-price advertisement and wanted to support the scouts. He sold two of the pages. I hadn't thought of the fact that there was already one-third of the page in supporting copy. At any rate, the wrapup was that The Mirror cost about $35 on each page we printed.

Kasper told me later that one merchant, in turning him down, said, "The only one who benefits from this is the newspaper." I would hate to benefit to the tune of a loss of $35 a page on all our advertising.

All this was brought to mind when I was given a copy of a note from the Mackinaw Valley News, of Minier, Ill. It tells why editors get rich.

When a child is born, the physician gets about $100, the hospital gets another $200, and the editor of the local paper gives the loudmouthed baby and its happy parents a journalistic sendoff and gets $0. At the christening, the minister gets $10, the editor takes a picture, runs a story and gets $0.

When the child grows up and gets married, the editor gets three another long-winded story and tells a dozen lies about the beautiful and accomplished bride. The minister gets $25, the dress shop gets $200, the jewelry store gets $500 and the editor gets $0.

As each child is born, the same process, mending is repeated, and finally, at the time of death, the doctor gets $100, the undertaker $500 to $???, and the editor publishes a death notice and obituary and gets $0.

No wonder so many editors are rich.

Philbrick Manager Of Holiday Out

Ross Philbrick, former executive director of the Martin County Committee of 100, is the new general manager for Holiday Out, a travel-trailer condominium project on Hutchinson Island, St. Lucie County.

Located three-tenths of a mile north of the Martin County line, the project might have been a Martin County development but for Hutchinson Island zoning laws.

William R. Scott, Stuart attorney, is secretary of the development corporation.

Water will be obtained from a M.C. utility firm, telephones from the Stuart exchange, and power from Florida Power & Light Co. at Stuart. It was pointed out.

Hazen Kreis, Knoxville, Tenn., one of the principals in the firm, made the announcement about Philbrick, who resigned to take the new position. Another principal, Robert Epperson, also of Knoxville, a contractor, and Kreis have a facility similar to Holiday Out, about 60 miles outside Knoxville. It is called "Tanst", Seminole for "summer hunting and fishing ground."

Both sides of A-1-A have been cleared for the project, as has a 680-foot stretch of oceanfront. This area will include recreational facilities, a heated pool, tennis and shuffleboard courts, meeting hall, and a restaurant.

On the Indian River, some 8,000 feet of bulkheading will be done, with no change in the shore line contours, said Philbrick. The project will cover about 90 acres when completed.

On the river side, 400 camp sites will be readied in the first phase, to sell for $4,000 each. The first 100 customers will get lease rights for five years on a second lot, said Kreis; after that time, the second lots will revert to the parent firm.

When not in use, the camp sites will be rented by the firm, for the owners, at $4 per day, taking $2 for administrative costs, giving $2 to the owners.

Thirty lots have already been sold, many of them to owners of sites at Tanst.

Kreis also said a December 1 target date has been set for opening. The last phase will include an area for mobile homes.

CONGRATULATIONS!- Hazen Kreis, left, announced last week that Ross Philbrick, right, was the new general manager of Holiday Out, a new travel-trailer condominium project on Hutchinson Island, just north of the Martin County line. Here, Kreis congratulates Philbrick.

Section 3. BOARD OF REGENTS. -- The governor shall appoint a board of nine regents for staggered terms of nine years, one term beginning on the first day of each year, who shall have the qualifications and the powers, duties and jurisdiction over institutions of higher learning prescribed by law.

Section 4. SCHOOL DISTRICTS- SCHOOL BOARDS (a) Two or more contiguous counties may be combined by law into a school district. The board may be repealed, subject to referendum in the county or school district, only after it has been in effect for three years. The qualifications, powers and duties of the superintendent of schools shall be prescribed by law.

Section 6. PUBLIC SCHOOL FUND.- In each county and school district there shall be established a public school fund consisting of the proceeds of such ad valorem taxes on the taxable tangible property in the county or school district as may be provided by law, any state appropriations distributed to it, and any revenue derived from any other source for the support and maintenance of free public schools. The school board shall disburse the public school fund solely for the support and maintenance of free public schools as prescribed by general law. No law shall be enacted authorizing the diversion or lending of the fund or the use of any part of it for support of any sectarian school.

Section 7. STATE SCHOOL FUND.--The state school fund shall remain inviolate and interest derived from investment thereof shall be applied exclusively to the support of free public schools. This interest shall be apportioned among school districts as provided by law.

Rodeo Future Uncertain

G. C. Troup said last week he had not yet made up his mind whether there would be another Circle T Ranch Rodeo. The 20th annual rodeo was held three days the end of February, which turned out to be the coldest days of the season. The February affair was a lower, according to Troup, owner of the Circle T, Indiantown.

Local rumors that business and organizations changes at the Circle T Ranch and associated companies would put an end to the Circle T Ranch Rodeo were denied by Troup, who said, "I've heard that before."

There will be no summer rodeo, however. Last year's Fourth of July weekend rodeo was a loser, too, he said.

Recent agreements to transfer rights-of-way for Citrus Blvd. to the State Road Department, revealed there were changes to the Troup interests at Indiantown.

W. J. Troup, G.C.'s brother, Miami, spoke for the local group when promises to deliver the deeds were made.

Local Troup interests which had been almost entirely G.C.'s in recent years, stemmed from Troup Construction Co. of Miami, owned by three Troup brothers during the Florida boom.

As the cattle ranch in the family gradually withdrew from Indiantown interests, G.C. increased his holdings there, including the Circle T Ranch which at one time covered some 20 square miles of land devoted to cattle and horse raising.

Much of the big ranch was sold to Minute Maid and Calkins Grove interests in recent years, but G.C. held the Air Field, the rodeo bowl, which was built about seven years ago to replace the original wooden stands built in the early years of the rodeo, probably the largest in Florida. The ranch now consists of about 40 square miles.

Big Chief Construction Co. was formed several years ago by G.C. It is mostly dormant now, much of his subsequent ideas at the office and yard on Warfield Blvd.

Under the new corporate set-up, the Miland Troup brothers will return to take an active interest in the organization in Indiantown, it was indicated by members of the family.

EASTER SUNDAY MORNING--All who attended sunrise services at Jensen Beach Easter Sunday morning watched the sky lighten, turn pink, rose, and yellow, as the sun came up over the ocean. The ball of fire warmed the air as the group took part in services conducted by Rev. Neil M. Gunsalus, pastor of Trinity Methodist church.

Anchorage Mobile Park News

by Rene R. Wiggins
287-0316

We lost another Park resident during the past week, not to return for about six months. Hetty Thorp and Ann McCarron left March 23 for a business assignment in Lebanon, Ohio. Hurry back, girls, we miss you.

Yes, we have a number of fishermen in the Park, but about the luckiest person at this sport is Margery Wasserman, that gal apparently has a system. Anyway, she is always coming home with good catches, many snook which is something everyone wants to catch.

The golfers, mainly Stuart and Gladys Arnall, spent practically all their time at the Martin County course.

Mrs. Thyra Rannus has as house guest, the young son of her friend, Mrs. Elsa Hegli, from New York City. Stig, the son, is a golf enthusiast and each morning Thyra drives him to the course, where he plays all day.

Brother and sister, John Heinken, and Bertha Baxter, spent the Easter weekend with friends who live in the Sebastian River area of Sebastian.

Dad Wasserman and his daughter, Margery, hosted several friends in the Park at an Easter dinner at their home.

George Serrie has been busy assisting Maurice Weeks in organizational work for the Federation of Mobile Home Owners. Perkins is president of District 8J, which includes Indian River, St. Lucie and Martin Counties. There is a concentration of this group in Miami, to which Tom intends to go for conventions.

Hattie Clear Moves To Ind.

Mrs. H. E. Clear, mother of the Lake Sherwood Road and Indian River Drive Mobile Home Park manager, the Vetterlein Manor in Martin County, left Monday for Indianapolis, Ind., where she will make her home with her daughter-in-law, Mrs. John Clear and family. Mr. Clear, Hattie, who has been employed by the Park management for the past two years, returned to Thailand.

Mrs. H. E. Clear's other children, sister of Mrs. Hattie Clear, has spent the winter in Jensen Beach. Her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. & Mrs. D. H. Tull of St. Clair Shores, Mich., arrived Sunday to accompany Mrs. Holderman to her home in Deerfield Beach, Fla., pre-paratory to Canada.

Mrs. Hattie Clear was so glad to hear from her many friends, she said.

Flaskeposten fra Danmark blev fundet ved Jensen Beach, af en dansk-amerikaner. Her viser Arne Jensen budskabet fra Fredriksen, Tomsgardsvej i København

Flaskepost til Jensen

Frederiksen fra Tomsgardsvej postede 17. maj 1966 et flaskepost-brev i Sundet. Det tog 4 år, før det kom til Jensen.

Sendet er nu ikke særlig stor, idet flasken valgte at slå stedet af hvor i land på Jensen's Beach på østkysten af Florida ca. 100 km nord for Miami.

Og så alle skrifttyperne var det hr. Arne Jensen, der samlede den op.

Desværre var flaskepost-brevet blevet en del beskadiget undervejs. Af specielt dele, har det skullet kæmpe meget, der på stændefod var i stand til at læse, hvad der stod skrevet. Hr. Arne Jensen er nemlig født i Hvidkilde, Han er fra Karla som til Stateren i 1929.

Karla og Arne Jensen har et lyst-hvidt Bagskiden bedtom af Skov- til Frederiksen, Tomsgardsvej, at man har modtaget hans brev.

--Vi var både på stranden for at fiske, skriver Arne Jensen, da vi kom se flaskepost. Men seddelen (eller brevet) var sad og meget vanskelig at få ud af flasken.

Arne Jensen skriver videre i sit brev, at han har arbejdet for staten i et årstrinnal, hvor han reparerede arkeamateriel -- som blev sendt til Danmark! Nåer han pensioneret og han og hans kone rejser USA rundt i campingvogn.

Det er jo så stationeret ved Jensen's Beach, hvorfra man bad Bagskiden formidle en tak for sidsemen til Frederiksen på Tomsgardsvej.

Hattie Clear Moves To Ind.

OCEAN BREEZE NEWS

by Tom Cook Phone 287-5312

EASTER LILIES--Mrs. Myrt Armitt has the first Easter Lilies. Easter came too early for most Easter lillies in the park this year. There is one exception. Myrt Armitt has a lovely display of Easter lillies in full bloom in front of her trailer. Here are a few of these gorgeous blooms.

Easter At Lilbit Lane

The residents of Lilbit Lane went all out to celebrate Easter Sunday. Twenty adults and seven children across at 6 a.m. and went to the beach to take part in the sunrise service, sponsored by the local Methodist Church. When they returned Mrs. Edith Pread had hot coffee, rolls, etc. all ready for the gang. In the afternoon Edith and Red Pread organized an Easter Egg hunt which kept the kids busy for a time. To finish the day, Mrs. Pread suggested showing some movies of their recent travels. Mr. Tomlin furnished the projector. Everyone seemed to have deck chairs and two hours of movies were enjoyed by the gathering. The Lilbit Lane residents wish to express their appreciation of Mr. and Mrs. Pread's entertainment and hope they can all get together for another enjoyable winter next year.

FAMILY GET-TOGETHER--Mrs. Sharon Haag with sons, Tony and Timmy, are visiting Mrs. Haag's parents, Gilbert and Dorcas Mercer on Mango St. Mrs. Mercer's parents are Bill and Fern Rowe, so we included them in the picture to represent four generations. In front, great-grandsons Tony and Timmy Haag. Rear, great-grandparents Bill and Fern Rowe, Dorcas Mercer, grandmother; Sharon Haag, mother; and Gilbert Mercer, grandfather.

Shuffleboard Club Dinner

The Ocean Breeze Shuffleboard Club held their annual dinner at the Trade Winds Restaurant in Fort Pierce last Tues. March 21. Max Smith gave the invocation and a good meal was partaken of by the 67 representatives from the park. After the dinner Dr. Thomas Moore addressed the gathering. He said he very much regretted that the trophies had not arrived. However he said they would be here very shortly and they would be presented at a specially announced meeting. He was very gratified to announce that Ocean Breeze players had won $5 trophies during the past season, and as Dr. Moore called each name, the trophy winner was asked to stand. This dinner marks the conclusion of another seasons activities.

Camera Club Meets

Last Thursday, March 23 Clara Mason told the story of a trip Luther and she made to Alaska almost 20 years ago. The talk was well illustrated by slides which showed the condition of the roads in those early days and the many sharp stones which were responsible for so many tire casualties. The Masons had a tent camper as were not heavily loaded and got away with the loss of only one tire. They left the black topped roads at Edmonton and saw no more till they returned. The road westward from Fairbanks took them to Skahnaref which is on the Bering Straight and about 30 miles south of the Arctic Circle. At midnight they were able to follow the path of the sun although it was just below the horizon for about 35 minutes. The Masons were able to obtain some very good shots of Mount McKinley and other scenic spots.

Next Thursday, March 30 will conclude the camera club meetings for this season. Milton and Bertis Sage will entertain us with some more of their very good photography by means of color slides.

Personals

Do you ever wonder what your friends at Ocean Breeze are doing and what is doing at Jensen Beach when you are away from here in the summer time? We can assure you of a "Letter from Home" every week all summer if you subscribe to the Jensen Beach Mirror. It costs you only $2.50 for six months or $4.00 for the whole year and Tom Cook will be glad to take your subscription. Dial 287-5312 and he will call on you.

Ted Chilson, who's travel trailer was spotted near the Seventh St. laundry, wrote to Bun Miller that they arrived at Brookston, Ind. without any trouble but there was too much snow in their yard, March 19, to pull their trailer in.

The sum of moneys donated by neighbors and friends to the Dorothy Kinker Memorial Fund, sponsored by Mrs. Clara Mason, was given to the book fund of the All Saints Episcopal Church library.

Elsie and Arthur Haynes who formerly were on Almond St. have bought the 12 x 45 Dixie trailer in the S.W. corner of the "South Tent" addition. This is the last lot available and now the South Tent is fully occupied.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron Schumann left with their travel trailer for their home in Madison, Wisc. March 24. Show is still hanging around in Wisconsin so they will spend a week at Lake Worth, Miami and St. Petersburg where they have friends, before leaving for the north.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Klair had the pleasure of a visit over Easter from their two grandchildren, Mary Ann Lippe who is attending college and Lea Ann Bungard who is in grade school. Both are from Akron, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Redinger's friends, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Lassiter, from Seattle, Wash. had their camper in the park for five days last week. The Redingers and the Lassiters camped together in Washington last summer. Before retiring, the Lassiters ran a hatchery for 20 years during which time they produced twenty million broiler chicks.

Frank and Alma Shotwell spent five days visiting sister-in-law at Nokomis on March 14 to 18. Alma says it is five years since they were to the West Coast and they noticed a great many changes.

Frenches' Complete 90th Coin Auction

Charles and Arline French completed their 90th coin auction last Saturday, March 18th. This was a mail order sale and the Frenches received 354 letters with bids on the large assortment of coins they have catalogued. Some bidders bid on as many as 300 different pieces. In addition the Frenches received 30 long distance telephone calls, some from as far away as New York and California. This made a terrific amount of paper work but the Frenches have worked out a system which Charles demonstrated to your reporter as being not only accurate but a wonderful labor saver. The Jensen Beach Postoffice employees were kept busy for a time mailing out the 250 packages of coins after the auction. "All in all," French said, "It was another successful auction."

Wednesday, March 22, was one of those days when the Ocean was smooth and calm like a lake. Lester Warnes was one of those boat owners who took advantage of this condition to venture 'outside' and do a bit of bottom fishing. This time I didn't have to rely on a fish story for I personally saw a whole bushel can full of bottom fish unloaded, snappers, sheepheads, just about every kind was represented.

Van Fears writes to Doug and Rose Blyth, "Sure enjoyed your pictures in the Mirror . . . . I love all the Ocean Breeze news. As soon as the paper arrives I drop everything and read the Ocean Breeze Page."

"Say Hello to all my friends."

Mr. and Mrs. John Tognetti's grand-daughter, Donna Jean, after spending a month with her grandparents, returned to plane to Greenfield, Mass. Before she left, the Tognetti's took her for a trip around the state taking in Cypress Gardens and other attractions. Mrs. Tognetti said that her grand-daughter left Greenfield a month ago in a blizzard and a blizzard was raging when she returned.

'Growing Pains'

Due to lack of space, we found it necessary to suspend this series by Francaq Niederer, sister of Mrs. John Wall. "Growing Pains" is a story of Mrs. Niederer's growing-up-days in a small Wisconsin town during the years 1900 to 1916. It will now be continued.

(Frances Niederer's memories of growing up in a small Wisconsin town in the years of 1900 to 1916.)

The school house was on a hill on the east side of town. It was a two-story house building made of thick stone walls with deep window sills. The first four grades were in the room on the ground floor and the fifth through the eighth grade were on the upper floor. It had two entrances, and stairs on either side of the front, the right entrance was for boys and the left for the girls, each had a hall with hooks for our wraps and shelves for our dinner pails. In the school rooms the seats and desks were nailed to the floor in rows. The big blackboards were at the front of the room and between the side windows. It was heated by wood-burning pot-bellied stoves encased in a round metal shield to protect the furniture and walls from the heat. On cold days we were often allowed to sit benches near the stove to study while we were getting warm or drying our feet.

A pail of water on a shelf in the corner at the back of the room supplied our drinking water. A dipper hung on the wall on a hook beside it and we all used it. At recess or noon the boys would refill the pail at a pump on the farm across the street.

The school grounds had no grass; only sand and gravel and mud when it rained. The toilets were out in back, the girls in on the left side, the boys on the right. They were made of brick and, I believe, the only two left standing after Halloween. Some of the older fathers fell upon the idea of brick construction after years of setting up the outhouses after Halloween in time for business the next morning. The wood shed was out in back on the left sidefilled with chunks of wood. We used to play "Ante High Over" over the roof of this shed. Sometimes the ball would go wrong and break a school window.

We had no play ground equipment or supervised play at recess or noon. We had to plan our own fun. Spring and fall we would play tag, tin cans off, run and good sheep run, hide and seek, prisoner's base, and tug of war, and, of course, base ball- boys and girls. Also, we would play "horses" up and down the road, one child would be the horse and the other the driver. We then would have races. I was usually chosen for the horse because I could run so fast.

In winter we would bring our sleds to school and slide down the road, way into down town. We would build snow forts and have snow fights, and build snow men.

We loved to carry our lunch to school and sometimes in very bad weather our mothers would let us do this. Trading parts of our lunch with someone else was part of the fun. I remember how the water pail would be full of crumbs after the lunch hour.

Haid Full Of Sporting Tips

...n a sunny day, or I ...say, evening last Sep... when a small lad ...probably before me, ...ing a large spotted ...out he just had the ...ortune to land, it was ...er by anyone's standard would bring a look ...tisfaction to even the ...ccomplished fisher... As I busied myself ...to focus the camera, ...ed to the youngster's ...tell how he had made ...y land the fish un... I heard about the ...pressions during the ...between boy and fish, ...e sometimes fright, ...mes help, sometimes ...and so on. Well, by the time I finally managed to get a picture of the boy and his fish and write down a few details about the catch, I finally realized that the father was really the one who was excited...he did all the talking, while the youngster told the entire story by the expression on his face.

The scene was not an uncommon one. It happens quite often in a father-son fishing relationship, and I would venture to guess that it is practically a daily occurrence around the great fishing state of Florida. It does exemplify the point that teaching a boy to fish can be a very rewarding experience... for the teacher it is the opportunity to brag and boast, to tell and retell the events of that momentous moment...for the student, it is the right to quietly show the catch, to have a proud look and the right to be anxious for the next time. Best of all it's the making of a sportsman...a true sportsman.

One of the highlights and the reason for the above story is the following ending. I have just received copies of the 1966 winners in the 58th Field and Stream Fishing Contest. Under the Junior Division, for spotted sea trout, is listed the name of the young lad I have just told about. First place, Mark F. Sambrook, Stuart, Florida. An 11-lb. 4 oz. sea trout, caught Sept. 10, using cut mullet for bait.

Also interesting to note that two local men scored well on sea trout in the adult division.....Vincent Stewart, 12-lb. 8 oz.; and Ernest Webster with 14-lb. 1 oz.

Congratulations to all of you.

TIMING AND TONE OF A GOLF SWING

Timing and tone, like tempo and rhythm, are terms used in relation to a golf swing, but are often misunderstood.

Your timing is naturally off if you miss-hit a golf ball. However, poor timing is more of a result than a cause. First, if your swing is tied together properly and moves in one piece, your timing will always be good. Second, timing can be handled in the backswing. For example, if you close the club face going back it will hit closed. If open going back, it will hit open. For better timing a slicer would close going back and a hooker would open going back for better results. Third, you can time the club face with the proper wrist action in the hitting area. Leave the turning of the wrist out and you'll slice. Turn the wrist too much and the result will be a hook. Halfway between hook and slice is straight.

The tone of a swing reflects in a person's wrist action. Stiff wrists reflect one tone. Live wrists reflect another tone. Wrist action is a result, not a cause and reflects the body action and balance of a golf swing. If you have good wrist action you know that your body action is good and as a result your timing and tone will be good.

The wrists play a big part in the timing of your swing and reflect in the tone of your swing. The wrists bend backwards throughout the entire back swing and reverse, themselves throughout the entire down swing to the finish. Live wrists reflect good timing and good tone.

Chop Trees

Two Florida holly trees, one of the Ilicus family, plus another tree, were cut down recently at the Port Salerno Civic Center, according to a report at the Sheriff's department.

Charles Bachelier, one of the directors of the center, and chairman of the landscaping committee, reported the trees were cut down as a result of a feud among directors.

He planted the trees about five years ago, he said, and they belong to the county which owns the civic center and the land on which it stands on Lincoln St. at A-1-A.

Bachelier, who said he has resigned as director of the center, has also been active in conservation work.

Florida Wing CAP To Meet

Florida Wing Civil Air Patrol seniors and cadets will conduct search and rescue tests from the CAP hangar near the East 10th St. entrance to Witham Field, Stuart, from April 14 to 16, according to Capt. Volney Bayley of the local squadron and base commander in the test.

A CAP retreat review will be held at the field Saturday April 15, at 5:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

After the review, senior members will attend a buffet dinner and social gathering. Cadets will have a similar affair at the Bivouac area at Witham Field.

Friday, April 14 will be devoted to registration of arriving personnel, briefings and staff meetings. On Saturday, all personnel will be active from 6:30 a.m. on mission briefings and missions, followed by a mission critique at 4:30 p.m.

Information has been sent to CAP squadrons from Key West to Pensacola concerning the coming encampment.

Data sent out on the big state operation was signed by Lt. Col. Edwin K. Johnson, operations officer, and Dr. S. H. Cohen, Lt. Col., emergency services officer.

CAP has only recently been reactivated here and has a hangar and operations office at Witham Field.

Scores

The Ladies Golf Association of Martin County Country Club qualified for the Louise Biggs Tournament to be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday, March 31, April 1 and 2, at the local course.

About 20 participants will tee off each day at 9 a.m.

Low putt was the play for the day when members met on Tuesday.

Class A, of the 18-holers, was Etta DeStefano, winner with a low of 31. Gladys Arbolt was second with 33 and in Class C, Helen Hansen and Flora Stafford tied with a 34.

In the nine-hole group, Frances King and Ben Todt tied with 16.

Franchise Sought For County Dump

Details of franchise arrangements for a county dump will be sought by county engineer Fred Bell and county attorney Dean Tooker, as requested by the county commission committee on dumps, after a special committee meeting Friday.

Members of the committee, named by commission chairman Jack Saunderson, also include commissioners J. W. Hussey and Elmer Powers.

The county would save $10,000 in salaries, gas, oil and repairs now being spent at the county-maintained, city-owned dump off Monterey Rd., Bell said. Also, a dragline and a bulldozer, worth about $40,000 would be relieved for duties in the Mosquito Control program. He said they have been tied up at the dump but would be released if the franchise is arranged.

Possibilities of a franchise looked good.

The savings of $10,000 to the county would revert to the Mosquito Control budget, where it will be spent in the future, less any work at the Hobe Sound dump.

Bidding will be advertised although the only prospective dump owner and operator apparently available is Henry Grise, who has offered to operate one of over 300 acres, four miles west of the turnpike and one mile north of Martin Grade (SR-714) at rates to be arranged if a franchise plan can be produced.

A five-year term was discussed. The county will improve a 15-foot right-of-way it holds for access to the land, Bell said.

City Accepts New Zoning Code

Stuart city commission unanimously accepted the new zoning code as prepared by the city's zoning and planning board, at Monday night's meeting.

Minor corrections or adjustments were made in the code as originated prior to the acceptance. In the main, changes were made to overcome minor errors in the legal advertising of the code and the zone map which was published with it.

The only major change was in the Flagler Ave. area south of East Ocean Blvd., where the zoning board had suggested a general business zone. The commission kept the area in its former industrial status.

The commission, in other business, heard complaints from residents that they were bothered by noisy motorcycles.

Complaints were also made about garbage, trash, rubbish, and "messes" at the rear of stores on the north side of Stuart Shopping Center. These complaints have been made for about a year.

City manager Joe Crowder reported he expected sewer and water mains in the city's $350,000 project to be constructed in June, July and August, and completed by September.

Capsized Boat Found In Gulfstream

Circumstances surrounding discovery of a 16-foot outboard fiberglass boat, found drifting stern down in the Gulfstream Sunday, are being investigated, according to the U.S. Coast Guard Station, Ft. Pierce.

The boat was first reported to the Coast Guard Sunday by Herbert Hildenbrand of Orlando, aboard his 28-foot cruiser Grace II.

Hildenbrand told of finding the small white boat about eight miles east of the inlet in rough seas. He broke two lines, trying to tow it in, as the boat attempted to dive while under tow. The small boat was reported to have carried the registration of PA-7314B or PA-7314B-A.

The Ft. Pierce station's 40-foot utility boat put out at 11:25 a.m., and returned at 4:30 p.m. when it failed to locate the sunken craft.

Later the craft was sighted by W. H. Wall, Thusville, aboard his Tar-Heel; and by another 26-footer, Susie-Q, traveling with the Tar-Heel. They reported the capsized boat was six miles east-northeast of Ft. Pierce Inlet. The craft was also seen by a plane out of Vero Beach.

Search was suspended Monday, but a watch was kept for the craft.

Zoning To Be Re-Vamped

Members of the Martin County Planning and Zoning Board will continue to study zoning on Hutchinson Island, according to a move made at Tuesday's meeting of the county commission.

New situations and information developed at a recent work session of the commission last week indicated a need for more work on the plan, according to Howard Hald, chairman of the zoning board. He said he expects to resubmit the plan to the commission in two to three months.

Dean Tooker, county attorney, suggested that new hearings should have new public advertising, to which the commission agreed.

In other zoning matters, county zoning director Fred Bell asked that Palm City zoning changes be advertised for a hearing; the commission set April 25 as the hearing date.

A request for approval of re-subdivided lots in All Saints' Cemetery was accepted with the provision that only unsold lots should be changed in size, permitting approval also by live owners of lots.

A public hearing on a 78-page updated resolution version of the county zoning code will be held April 25, at Bell's request. The document will be in the hands of the commission by the end of the week, Bell said, as it has been in typing preparation since its adoption by the zoning board.

Changes in the old code were not major, Bell said.

Tables for further discussion was Tooker's suggestion that an attorney be retained at $35 a night as counsel for the zoning board of adjustment.

In other business, the board:

AGREED to transfer funds to Town of Sewall's Point, $15,000, for county share of Sewall's Point Rd. reconstruction project and to Coastal Engineering Dept. of Univ. of Fla., $10,000 for second payment on St. Lucie Inlet project, also, $5,000 from contingencies to deputy sheriffs' salaries in fine and forfeiture fund.

AGREED to swap rights-of-way to Fox Brown Rd. at its northern end for a new road to be deeded to the county and built by D. H. Braman, providing road standards were specified in the agreement.

AUTHORIZED Bell to draw plans for a new bridge on West Farm Rd., Indiantown, to cost an estimated $8,000.

AUTHORIZED advertising for bids for a new fire truck to be paid for by District D, South County line area, where 26 members of a new volunteer fire department have been given permission to take on fire protection task vacated by Jupiter Fire District under new district taxing methods. Bids will be received April 25.

County commissioner Timer Powers said a new 500-gallon truck will be housed by Roy Rood in the area, which has depended upon the Jupiter fire district for coverage in the past.

AWARDED contracts for five road projects to Dickerson, Inc., for solej bids of $10,201.75, which Bell said was reasonable.

AUTHORIZED re-execution of SR-609 rights-of-way deeds and resolutions because they were initially submitted to the State Road Dept. on different dates contrary to rule.

AGREED to place county equipment insurance at 52 cents per $100 of coverage with Utica Mutual as recommended by county insurance committee.

HEARD reports from Roy Dickinson regarding history of Jupiter Island beach road closing.

HEARD complaint from James Dubberly, Golden Gate, that the only car he had on his well-mowed lot was a 1965 active model, not junk, as he was accused in a lot-clearing order, sent by mistake.

ASKED county commissioner J. H. Bruner and Bell to discuss offer by several of six area residents to pay for difference between the planned low level bridge on Britt Road, and a higher level, six-foot bridge. Report to be made later.

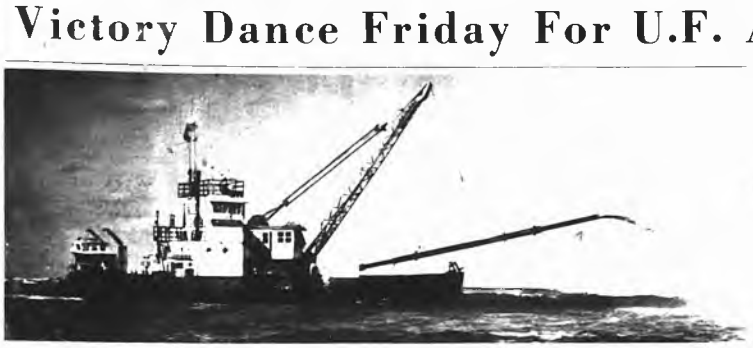
Victory Dance Friday For U.F. At Seymours



HERE WE GO AGAIN--Sand from the St. Lucie Inlet is thrown by the Sidecasting Dredge Merritt, on station this week, working on the St. Lucie Inlet dredging project. On loan to the Jacksonville District of the U.S. Corps of Engineers to clear the inlet of sand, the dredge was casting sand well to the south of the channel.

The Jensen Beach-Rio United Fund will celebrate the conclusion of its 1967 drive with a victory dance at Seymour's Inn in Jensen Beach Friday night. Teams of U.F. workers are distributing $1 donation tickets in the Jensen Beach-Rio area for admission to the dance, according to Mrs. Jacqueline Hall, U.F. president.

The fund drive lies some $1,700 short of its goal, and officials of the United Fund have privately mentioned that the drive will be lucky to make the goal of last year, $8,500. Many have said that the goal of $10,000 might have been a little too much for the area to handle.

At any rate, the agencies participating in the United Fund Drive, some twelve individual agencies, will receive about the same amount as was awarded them last year under the United Fund budget.

A sparkling floor show is planned by area entertainers, according to party chairman Dick Campbell.

Campbell said that the floor show would be short and that there will be dancing and games. There are no public appeals for funds planned for the party, he added. Donations would be accepted, "we just want to recognize the many people who participated in the drive," Campbell said, adding, "and we are out for a good time."

Tickets are on sale at Seymour's Inn, Palmer's Variety Store, The Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce, and Commercial Cooling in Rio.

The tickets will make up some of the difference in the drive total of $8,247 and the revised goal of $8,500.

The list of entertainers for the floor show was not available at press time, Campbell said, due to several who have not yet committed themselves to the show which will start at 10:30 p.m.

Dancing to the music of The Freeman Trio will begin at 9 p.m.

Judge To Rule On Fruit Label

An injunction asked by William E. Owens to prevent the Florida Citrus commission from prohibiting his use of the Indian River citrus label went to trial last Thursday morning before Circuit Court Judge C. Pfeiffer Treadbridge.

Both sides were given 10 days in which to submit briefs to the judge, after Wm. F. Tomasello asked that the case be dismissed.

Owens' representative, L. Stow Martin of Lakeland, and Frank Clark, Jr., local attorney, agreed to the delay and to submit briefs on that point.

No witnesses were put on the stand on behalf of the FCC or the Brds., represented by Counts Johnson, Tampa attorney, for the latter.

Most of the morning Owens testified on his grove business, other testimony was given by Wm. J. Jones of Orlando, vice-president and director of grove operations for Minute Maid Co., the owner of 8,100 acres of Martin Co. groves. His testimony centered around their use of Indian River label through premium prices for both oranges and grapefruit.

Jones told of recent suits against Martin County land owners by Minute Maid on the basis of their re-stamping of the Indian River label on the area. The company lost its suit last year but has since joined with other grove owners in the area in an appeal to the Second Appellate court.

Owens testified that he had leased the 60-acre grove from his parents for some 17 years and that he had sold, advertised and shipped fruit under the Indian River label during the entire period.

The grove produced between eight and ten thousand boxes of oranges, grapefruit and tangerines a year, he said, adding details to demonstrate the desirabilities of the label and the reasons for it, both in varieties, fruit stocks, soil preparation, and treatment and irrigation methods.

His fruit brought premium prices when sold to Palm Beach Fruit packing companies over the Highlands fruit, he said, adding that the concentrate product was better in fruit juice-testing house channels.

Motion for dismissal was passed on three contentions, according to Tomasello, 1st, Owens failed to prove financial losses would come about through loss of the use of the label; 2nd, failure to prove that the FCC was doing anything illegal or abusive in ordering Owens to cease using the label; 3rd, general failure to prove allegations as to general grounds in the suit.

Judge Treadbridge said he would give a written decision based on the trial and briefs to be submitted by both sides, but indicated the case would probably go to an appeals court.

Present water depth in several places is only six feet instead of eight feet, additional surveys of the waterway are underway now in order to pinpoint shoals to be dredged, he said. Army engineers will direct removal of the shoals on a 24-hour a day basis until work is completed.

About $21,500 was netted for the Hospital from the Ball, which Mrs. Monroe termed "very successful."

Local Bills Fill Hopper

At least 11 local legislative bills were discussed by the County Commission at a special afternoon session Tuesday, after being discussed by the County's delegation to the House and Senate last week.

The board agreed that the following topics should be acted upon:

Railroad speed regulations to permit the commission to set such speed in county areas if it were deemed necessary because of vehicular traffic or other conditions.

Grade crossings on the railroad, the county to have the right to say where and what type of warning signals to be used, cost to be on a 50-50 basis.

The right to regulate the speed and hours of traffic on the beaches by beach buggies and other heavy wheeled vehicles, with the sheriff to have the power to enforce such regulations.

Permission to establish the office of medical examiner and to pay one, to replace the justices of the peace as coroners and to be available for 24 hour a day use customarily in unattended, violent or other accidental deaths, with the facilities of the local hospital to be used for autopsies and other pathological acts.

Group hospitalization insurance plan, including the present coverage such employees now have.

Welfare benefits, to apply to welfare taxes where officers are unable or refuse to contribute to the support of cases supported by the county welfare facilities.

Tax clearing bill, which would allow the tax collector which the county acts now to ensure constitutionality.

Ambulance service subsidization or other method of supporting the present ambulance services in the county to provide their continuation, but with public tax fund support.

Snailing bill to permit granting of a garbage collection or disposal franchise.

Amendment of a millage bill to permit the county to raise hospital funds for indigents through a levy of from one-quarter to a ten mills.

Airport 1 indianmud, to gain permissive legislation which would allow the county to lease land from a private owner for the development of such a facility.

Golf course lease to permit Jensalne present Martin County Golf and Country Club to the club for up to twenty years with possible provisions to lease city clubs, both to be included as "recreation" purposes.

Beach property purchase, either through lease-purchase or other means, to permit the county to obtain public beach, either specific or indefinite through long-term lease financing rather than outright purchase in one year.

A new feature of The Mirror beginning this week is the listing of building permits, notices of commencement and warranty deeds filed with the county clerk.

Garvey Gives Assist To Island Zoning

Earles A. Garvey, executive vice-president of First Federal Savings & Loan Association of Martin County, who has been asked to form a work committee to assist the Martin County zoning and planning board with Hutchinson Island zoning, told The Mirror Monday he expects to name a committee sometime next week.

Garvey said he is giving the matter serious thought and is seeking persons genuinely interested in the future of Hutchinson Island and this area.

Howard Hald, chairman of the zoning board, had the zoning problem returned to the board, at his request, by the county commission last week. The board will work on it for another two or three months, with assistance from Garvey and representatives from chambers of commerce, Stuart Board of Realtors and Martin County Taxpayers Association, Hald said.

Some have said that uncertainty about the future zoning of the relatively undeveloped island is inhibiting development.

Frank A. Wacha, county commissioner, in whose district the island lies took another point of view.

"If first Island owners wanted bridges, then they wanted bridges without tolls, promising they were needed to start development of the Island. Nothing happened. Then they said water mains were needed, and they got them. They've said each time what they needed would get the Island started, but there's still only a handful of single-family houses over there, not much development," Wacha said at a recent work session.

orida's Most Broken Law

ne law of the road in Florida that en most seems to be the driving turning into a main thoroughfare. rticular law is one of common sense, reat number of drivers, and we see very day, seem to ignore the rule, or take a chance by not knowing what obiles pulled out into the main stream ic are required to stay in the nearest traffic. This means that in a left to a two-lane highway, the turning st stay in the inside, or middle lane is safe to pull over.

wonder how many drivers, cruising t the speed limit, have seen a per- n his car left in front of them, cut ver to the right-hand lane, and make vers stand on their brakes to avoid dent. It happens every day on U.S. 1 Martin County, at just about every intersection.

How many times has a driver pulled out in a right turn, in front of on-coming traffic, and then jerked out to the middle, or inside lane just as the car approaching from the rear moves to the inside lane to pass.

The law being broken is a common sense law. Yet, people seem intent upon endangering all approaching traffic, and curse the driver who blows a horn to warn them of a near accident.

Too many people are dying from too many stupid mistakes.

Pulling out into traffic without waiting for the traffic to clear; figuring they can beat the oncoming truck, then discovering their engine stalls; trying to ease into a tight spot from an intersection turn; these are just a few of the violations. People just will not take the extra minute to get where they are going. Many of them don't get there.

When The Spirit Dies

rians tell of a great Indian Chief who with his tribe in the Wallowa mountain- northeast Oregon. He was leader of Perce Indians and was known as oseph. As the white men moved into ved land, he resisted their encroach- ith a skill and a stubbornness born of ition that gained him the admiration of nd foe alike. He was finally placed eservation where he died in 1904. ite, there has been some question he actually died in 1904 or at some is. To one historian, the question is t because Chief Joseph, "From the was incarcerated...and not permitted rn to Wallowa after the defeat of the rces by the U.S. Army)...he was just existing, his spirit had gone. The great man we tell of in history had died." In short, when Chief Joseph was deprived of his freedom, he no longer desired to live.

The artificial security of the reservation, where he was guaranteed three meals a day, was no substitute for freedom. Is there not a lesson in the story of Chief Joseph for all of us? We place a high value on material security- so high that we are permitting ourselves to be enmeshed in an intricate web of restrictions, taxes and welfare programs that one day may make us all inmates of a vast reservation. Can our spirit accept incarceration any more than that of the Indian Chief, who could not live without freedom?

Russians Are Learning

who hail profit as intrinsically evil th that we would be a much happier If the profit motive died in 1904 ted from human nature will find little tion in late news reports from Soviet

To put it bluntly, Russia is con- its industry on capitalist profit -apparently as rapidly as the change made. So far 653 companies--repre- 12 per cent of Russia's total pro- have already made the change-over operation of these companies, market forces determine production, prices and profits. The result is a marked production increase. In the words of Newsweek magazine, "Total conversion of industry is scheduled for the end of 1968..." Perhaps it might be a good idea after all to import some of the ideas into the American educational system which for years has been failing to teach our young people that the capitalistic habit of working for a profit is inseparable from material abundance and personal liberty.

No Substitute For 'In Person' his modern age when more and more s are dealt with as numbers rather human beings, the individual still place the mechanical brain cannot menting on the importance of main- individual relationships in business. T. Person, president of the Public e Company of Colorado, warns of some the soulless electronic devices cannot r says: "As our technology advances, ust never be blinded by the glamour phisticated computers...and the count- ther wonders which may soon be com- plicated. Our business will be--as it always has been--based on the principle of people serving people. Indeed, this concept will become more important. Even today there are indications that people, in an increasingly mechanistic world, are placing higher and higher value on being treated as individuals--as human beings--not as a sequence of numbers in some vast computer memory."

In dealing with customers and employees, no mechanical device can take the place of the "in person" approach--appreciation friendship and understanding.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor:

ere are seldom any e fighting spirit can pare with that of ne and there is no outside world comparable e United States Marine s. There is no other rans' organization with greater comraderie than the Marine Corps League for these posts are organized to help others, especially other Marines in need.

And it is high time that someone took the initiative and made an attempt to organize a Marine Corps League Post in this area. There doesn't seem to be one within a radius of a hundred miles or more.

A Marine veteran, a former Adjutant-Paymaster of the Trenton, New Jersey Post- is doing exactly that and he wants to locate other honorably discharged ex-Marines of any U.S. war or action, young or old, regardless of their present affiliations, now living in this area.

Those interested and eligible may write S. L. Margolies, Box 1817, Stuart, Fla. 33494.

Marshmallows And Eggs

It was the nonchalant attitude of the boys that got me. There were a thousand such incidents. The greatest, however, was the tenderfoot, passing his second class cooking requirement. He had to prepare a meal of meat and potatoes without utensils.

He had a piece of steak, cut in small pieces, on a stick, holding it over a fire, with a piece of potato in a piece of silver paper in the hot coals of the fire. Finally, pulling the seared, not even half-done steak from the flames, and digging the less-than-half-done potato from the coals, he then took a bite of earth and looking up at the scoutmaster, said, "Boy, my mother never served me anything as good as this." "Don't tell your mother that," was the scoutmaster's reply.

No matter how bad things are, it is the frame of mind that counts. A rainy day can be turned into a grey sunshine, if the outlook is right.

For example, one boy scout at the camporee last weekend at Phipps Park held a frying pan in his hand. The pan had a metal handle (you know, the old mess kit frying pan). He was cooking breakfast, and whistling happily.

The boy began with bacon. He squatted down, holding the pan over the fire. As the pan (and the handle) got warm, he began shifting the pan from hand to hand. The bacon half-done, he set the hot handle down, and broke two eggs into the pan, on top of the bacon, still whistling.

The sunny eyes of the eggs looked up at him as he continued to fry and heat the pan (and the handle). The switching from hand to hand began again.

He took a fork and tried to move the eggs. The yolk of one egg broke.

Without a break in his happy chore, the scout said, "Well, that's the way I like them", and began violently stirring, making them scrambled, he continued until the most horrible mess in the world was completed.

Then, without looking up, he stopped whistling and said, philosophically, "Now, if we had some brandy we could pour it over the top and light it," and went on to his best to eat.

Some of the combinations of meals were startling, such as marshmallows and eggs. One accident was taken with a smile by a boy. He put a can of sweet potatoes into a fire to heat for dinner. Of course, the can exploded, spraying sweet potatoes all over. The boy looked around at the "sweet-potatoed friends" giving him impatient looks, and said, "Well, I guess the potatoes are done."

To The Editor:

As President of the Republican Club of Martin County and Chairman of precinct No. 1, Jensen Beach, which is the largest voting precinct in Martin County, I wish to express my sincere THANKS to all of the workers and to every voter that supported our Republican candidates last Tuesday at the polls here in Jensen Beach.

Fifty-one per cent of our registered voters went to the polls on Commercial St. and cast their ballot. This is normally not considered a real good turnout but in view of the time element for campaigning before this election, it was actually a wonderful turnout and a credit to the voting public of our area.

Renamed To Library Board

James S. Gaines, executive vice president of First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Martin County, has been recommissioned as a member of the Library Board of Martin County, according to an announcement made by secretary of state Tom Adams.

Hutchinson, a resident of Port Sewall, has captured on canvas the vanishing Seminoles of Florida.

Marie Miller Entertains

'Growing Pains'

One of the summer jobs which we kids did often was to clean our barn and that of our neighbors, the Tellsmans. The gang would sweep and clean until the place fairly shone. Our barn had three levels, the first was the stable which was built into the side of the hill, the second was the ground floor where the buggy and the surrey were kept, and the third was the hay mow. After cleaning was finished, we would have what we called a dance, when we would all jump about like Indians - and yell.

We would also spend time cleaning the mill. My father owned the mill cleaner than most mills, by the time the gang finished it was the cleanest mill around. One day when we were cleaning the office, we found a plug of Horse-shoe chewing tobacco in a drawer. We all took a good bite and then went to the windows at the back of the mill and spit into the creek. As far as I can remember we did not get sick.

Every summer the patent medicine man came to town with his house-like wagon pulled by one horse. He would park the wagon some place in town and start making friends by telling about the cures he was putting on that evening. We children were interested in this and our parents usually took us to hear it. The show was lighted by lanterns hung on either side of the wagon. The back of the wagon was let down and formed a sort of stage. The medicine man would then do sleight-of-hand tricks, play some instrument, sing songs and tell jokes, giving out many good laughs. Then he would tell us the wonders of his wares, how one would feel like a new person after taking his medicine and of the healing power of his salves. He would then go into high gear selling at one dollar a bottle - and you should see the gullible people buy. The next few days you would hear the people tell of how much better they felt - and they would even get up at the next meeting and swear to it. My mother said it was probably just liquid epsom salts, and all the people needed was a good cleaning out. The medicine man stayed several days.

Another summertime excitement was when the gypsies came to town. They would come most every year in their wagons - with many horses, for they were horse traders. They would set up camp down by the old creamery. They were dark-skinned people and the women wore bright skirts and blouses and long earrings and much jewelry. They wore their hair in two long, dark braids hanging down from each side of the head. We thought they were very pretty. They always had many children and we became friends with them. They were travelers and could tell many interesting stories. We played their games and they played ours. I remember one of the games they taught us was called "Sticks". They would stay a week or more, trading horses with anyone who has a horse to trade. We always hated to see them leave.

One year after the gypsies left, we decided to play gypsy. We took Tellefson's light wagon and built sides on it, stretching a blanket over the top to make a covered wagon. We would then divide into two groups, one group would ride while the others would pull and push to make the wagon go. We would take turns riding up and down the road. We often brought lunches to eat in the wagon. One day we found a sick dove. We took it into the wagon with us, it was not long before we felt something crawling on us and discovered the dove was being eaten up with lice - and we were, too. That ended the gypsy playing for a time.

Dickinson's Trailer Home

From Rhode Island To South Sixth

Jim and Hilda Dickinson of South Sixth came from Pawtucket, R.I., where they were married 52 years ago. Jim was born in Quebec, Canada and Hilda was born in England and immigrated to Canada when she was 9 years of age. Jim was in the iron foundry business and became part owner of the Fairmont Foundry at Woonsocket, R.I. He retired from active business in 1953 and following the example of his brother and sister-in-law, Arthur and Elsie Marland, he and his wife Hilda bought a trailer and located on the spot on South Sixth where they are now. Like many of us, after several years of trailer living, the Dickinsons felt the need for more room. They bought the largest trailer that was made at that time, a 10 x 50 foot Vagabond, in order to accommodate this large a trailer it was necessary to use two lots. The Dickinsons thereby gained the distinction of having a trailer that connected with two streets. This change over took place in 1966 but the Dickinsons appear to be quite happy with their home.

STRAWBERRIES - When Harry Hoks makes the announcement, "A man is here with some delicious, big, fresh, red, juicy strawberries. If you want some you'd better come a-trottin'," folks grab a pot or a pan and lose no time getting there. Ocean Breezers must love strawberries for this is about the 20th time the 'Strawberry man' has called.

Sages Describe High Sierra Hike

Last Thursday night, Mar. 30, Milton and Bertie Sage showed color slides of the Great West, some of which were taken on a hike to the Yosemite High Country. This particularly appealed to us so we asked them to tell us more about it. Here are some of the highlights of this interesting trip:

The trip they describe was made in the summer of 1957. These hikes are arranged for the month of August and are under the auspices of the Yosemite Park and Curry Co. Owing to the large number of applications it is advisable to make reservations a year in advance. A person taking this hike has to be in good physical condition for it is expected the 75 mile hike will be completed in seven days. There are camps located at suitable spots or at a average of about ten miles apart. These camps have just tents or shack-tents and a few have permanent buildings. Some have pot-bellied wood-burning stoves and some have no heating arrangements. At these high altitudes, the days are hot and the nights are very cold. There is a married couple at each camp who act as caretakers. One who do the cooking for the hikers. They pack a lunch for each person to take with them for the noon meal.

In order to get used to the high altitude, the Sages spent a week in their tent at Forrester Lodge in Tuolumne Meadows. Here they practiced daily hikes to get in condition for the coming trip. Hikers are assigned to the camps as their packs were mainly ward clothing for night time, fishing tackle and a spare pair of shoes. After completing Milton's pack weighed 26 pounds and Bertie's weighed 17 pounds. They were fortunate, even after rain during their trip. The route they followed was more or less circular. The Sages joined their trailer at Happy Isles where it back of Half Dome and a box took them to the spot where their hiking trail began near the road, near Porcupine Flat, on the Tiago Road.

The first night out was spent at the High Sierra camp at May Lake. The next day's hike took them past the 10,875 ft. Tuolumne Peak and then descended to the Glen Aulin camp that night. This spot is noted for its wonderful trout fishing and there was no sign to see that they stayed at Glen Aulin for another day and night. The fourth night found them at Tuolumne Meadows where the foot trail crosses the Tiago Road. The elevation at that point is 8,595 ft. The fifth day's hike took them closer to the 10,500 ft. Johnson Peak and they made their overnight stop at Ingelsing in the Tuolumne Pass. The is all very wild country with snow-capped mountains all around. The next day they passed close to another one 10,500 peak the 11,511 ft. Vogelsang Peak and spent the night at the High Sierra camp at Merced Lake. The seventh and last day was a long and strenuous hike of fifteen miles following the Merced River trail all the way down past the beautiful Nevada and Vernal Falls into the valley at Happy Isles where they had left their car.

Contrary to what one would expect, the Sages found that going downhill was much more strenuous than going uphill as it seems you are continually holding back, which brings muscles into play which are seldom used. They say that one has no idea how many things of interest there are to see in a mountain wilderness like this until one takes up hiking. They admit there are hardships to be endured such as hiking with a pack at these high altitudes. This they overcame by taking short steps and going slow. At this slow pace they found it was not necessary to stop to rest and they could keep going. Also some of the camping places were very cold and it seemed impossible to pile enough blankets on to be comfortable. In spite of these discomforts, the Sages say it is truly a wonderful experience and they wouldn't have missed it for anything.

Northerners Find Fun In Florida

Anna and Gus LaRoda were thrilled to have the company of their oldest daughter and husband, Harold and Norma Geer, over Easter. The Geers hail from Lebanon, Ohio, where they have a large dairy farm and mills 60 cows. They also have a large family, of seven children. The older ones are now big enough and quite capable of taking over the operation of the farm while their parents are away, so the Geers feel they can relax and enjoy their holiday to the full.

"And such a holiday," Mrs. Geer said, "just to think of us waking up to the sight and sound of the ocean, while back home there is snow on the ground." Last Thursday Mrs. Geer phoned home to see how the family were doing and she was told that in Lebanon it was also raining, with 11 inches of fresh snow on top of five inches of the old snow and the temperature was about zero. Mrs. Geer said she could hardly believe it possible that such a place as this could exist in the United States.

The LaRodas have spent the last 4 or 5 winters here on Key Lime. They have a home at Lebanon and will be spending the summers there.

Rainfall

The following precipitation was recorded by Arthur Johnson, Fifth Ave., Ocean Breeze, in inches:

March 7th, .70; 9th, .21; 18th, .13; 19th, 1.70; 20th, .10; 28th, .05; 29th, .30; 30th, .80; 31st, .20.

Total for March was 4.06 inches. Total since Jan. 1, 8.39 inches. Total for the three-month period last year was 15.80 inches.

Travelers

Many Ocean Breeze residents had visitors over the Easter weekend. Mr. Hulme and family (relative of Lucille Bun on Easter Sunday, from Daytona. She had to return the next day as I took two to the Tampa bus depot to catch the 2:17 bus north. Sue were half an hour early for the bus as an hour late and full. So we waited for the next one, only to find it packed full. The third bus swung into the depot, the people, just when we had decided to go home and forget about buses for the day, a special bus came along and picked up all the waiting passengers. After a few tries, four hour wait, our relative was on her way.

It seems to me there should be a moral to the story. How about this, "If at first, you don't succeed, you must roam, remember the old saying, "There's no place like home".

Legislation Sought For Ambulance Service

Special legislation to assist the Central Martin County Ambulance Association will head the list presented to the new delegation representing Martin County in Tallahassee. This was the word from county commission chairman Jack Saunderson late last week. W. K. Scott, representing the board of directors for the ambulance association, last month requested the commissioners to prepare for this session of the Legislature a special enabling act for Martin County which would enable the county to provide the ambulance service or raise the present service tax to be discontinued.

County attorney Dean Tucker has been studying several such bills from other counties in an attempt to find one that would answer the needs of Martin County. He and several of the commissioners will meet with representatives of the ambulance association soon to finalize the bill. It will be presented to the commission for their consideration at the next meeting.

The ambulance association is seeking volunteers during daytime hours.

Tiger Nine Leads In Suncoast Western

Martin County High School is in first place in the Suncoast Conference Western Division baseball competition, beating Jupiter 2-1 Saturday night.

Lack of lights at Sailfish Park, Stuart, could eventually cost the Tigers the championship. Two home games have been called by darkness, including a 10 inning 2-2 match with Okeechobee Friday. The games stand and are not replayed.

Last year, Martin County finished with an 11-1 record, Boca Raton missing by a half game at 10-1-1. The same thing might happen this season. The Tigers and Boca also tied 2-2 last month.

Martin County has a 4-1-2 division record; Jupiter is 4-2; Boca Raton 3-2-1.

Jim Dragseth got the win Saturday, hurling a one-hitter, striking out 11 and walking two.

Mike Snipes led off the sixth with a single, moved on a stolen base, error and passed ball for the Tigers' first run. Ken Elliott walked and scored moments later following singles by Lance Kahle, Bill Cunningham and Thad Howard.

A Haid Full Of Sporting Tips

by Howard Lee Haid

Old ideas are not necessarily bad ideas, it's just that they've been around for a long while.

Safety pins, for example, are indispensable. In addition to solving apparel repair problems, they are fine for keeping swivels, hooks, rings and ball sinkers clipped together in neat, orderly fashion.

When fish are finicky, tie on a trailer hook with a small bait behind your favorite plug. This tasty morsel following the regular, "attention-getter" often provides that extra strike-provoking incentive.

Don't always shy away from weeks. If fishing in a water lily-covered, bass-laden pond, deliberately cast a light surface lure onto the pads. Gently twitch the plug to make the vegetation move pads. Gently twitch the plug to make the vegetation move as if a frog or other creature is slipping around on top. After a few minutes of teasing, topple the plug off into the water, and get set for a strike.

Don't cast bread upon fishing waters. Instead, get several day-old unsliced loaves, hollow out a cavity and toss the loaves in a field. In the morning, you can harvest a crop of captive crickets that'll be far more effective with the fish.

When fishing with worms, place the bait in a container that can be kept in an inverted position, such as a coffee can with a snap-on plastic lid. Worms gravitate to the bottom, so if the removable top is on the bottom, the worms will be on top when the can is upright-ed.

One of the sneakiest ways to tempt game fish is to place several live minnows in a clean glass gallon jug and then lower it to the bottom. You may want to use several of these devices. Drop a single minnow on a hook among the "decoys" for sure-fire action.

Old ideas? Yes, but not outdated. Stow these tips away for now, but revive them when the need arises.

Thus far we have discussed the fundamentals of golf physically and added a w terms such as tempo, ction, timing and tone,
ords used in golf but often misunderstood.

There are three sides to olf: Physical, mechanical nd mental. Physical 8%, echanical 2% and mental
0%. The 2% seems of little importance until you understand the principals involved. The mechanical forces involved are leverage and centrifugal force. Every successful golf shot that has any accuracy or force employs these forces whether you realize it or not.

The dynamics of a golf swing is the science which deals with the mechanical side of golf and the forces involved in its execution. Centrifugal force is a force which tends from the center out. In relation to golf swing the center of the body is the center of the swing. Manipulating the swing with the body is not an easy task, but if the order of movement written about in previous articles is followed, it happens.

To understand leverage, you have to know only the difference between a claw hammer and a crow bar. The longer the lever the greater the force applied. To understand application of leverage to a golf swing you have only to know that the hand measures so much. Add the length of the arm; the force multiplies. Then add the big muscles from the shoulder down the back to the hips and you have maximum leverage.

Think about these two forces and what you have to use to apply them in your golf swing and you will be on the path to success with your golf game.

Shark Tourney Is Announced

The Esquire Club, a young men's sport club in Martin County, will sponsor a shark fishing tournament from this through May 31, it was announced last week.

All catches must be made from the beaches of Hutchinson Island on rod and reel and witnessed by at least one person other than the angler.

Headquarters will be at Jensen Beach pavilion.

Prizes will be awarded for the largest and smallest fish and for the most pounds-age; the latter will consist of the combined weights of all fish caught by each angler.

A second tournament for boys under 16 is planned for late June.

Tennis Teams Place Second

Martin County High School athletes really had a time last week with victories all down the line.

Both tennis teams fared well in the Suncoast Conference Western Division Tournament held Thursday, March 30, with the boys tieing for first place in the boys' competition with Pahokee. However, the Blue Devils were awarded the championship due to a prior agreement among the coaches that, to take part a tie, the team with the most individual champions would win.

Pahokee won three bracket championships, the number 1 and 4 singles, and the number 1 doubles. Martin County Tigers won only one, the number 2 singles. Both teams had a total of 8 points, one point being awarded for each singles or doubles match win.

The Tigerettes placed second in their tournament at Belle Glade, racking up 30 points and capturing three bracket championships.

Winners in singles were Cathy Johnson and Mary Sutton; doubles, Joann Prince and Cathy Johnson; and Dinky Raphel and Mary Sutton.

Winners for the boys' team were, singles: Edwin Hollister, Baking three, Jim Goodbury 1, Johnny Gifford 1, and Terry Penick 2.

Doubles winners were Tigers Goodburn and Hollister, 1, John Merrifield and Gifford 1.

Tiger Tracksters Take Two Firsts

The Martin County Tigers included 3rd place to Bruce Wells, 10 ft. pole vault; Geoff Langbehn, 4th, for the mile run; 4th, Ken Elliott, 180-yd. low hurdles; and Langbehn, 5th in the 2-mile run.

Relay competition included Cooper, Wells, Tom Wyatt, Mike Roebuck, Mike Paul, Phillip Langebehn, Frank Holt, Jim Clark and Bruce Stiller.

The Tigers will meet Jensen Wednesday, April 5.

Honors to other Martin County Tigers included 3rd place to Bruce Wells, 10 ft. pole vault; Geoff Langbehn, 4th, for the mile run; 4th, Ken Elliott, 180-yd. low hurdles; and Langbehn, 5th in the 2-mile run.

Relay competition included Cooper, Wells, Tom Wyatt, Mike Roebuck, Mike Paul, Phillip Langebehn, Frank Holt, Jim Clark and Bruce Stiller.

The Tigers will meet Jensen Wednesday, April 5.

Florida teams in the division were from Ft. Pierce and Miami, Pinellas County and Ft. Lauderdale.

Clean Waters Mandate Is Set

Nathaniel Reed, administrative assistant to the governor on conservation matters, outlined the mandate to clean up public waters given the Water Quality Control board which he heads, at last Saturday's banquet of the Florida Wildlife Federation directors' conference.

Reed's speech highlighted the two-day meeting held under the local planning of area directors on the FWF board, Robert T. Bair, Robert Routs, Hill Newsom and Hubert Mehling.

Reed explained that the State board would classify all water bodies in the state and pointed out that Lake Apopka will be used as the pilot over-fertilized lake study. The lake, he said, is one of many in Florida going downhill for the past 20 years "because of fertilizers, pesticides, nemacides and a not very well thought out control program of hyacinth control."

P-W Road Link Set

The full mile of the Pratt & Whitney Road lying in Palm Beach County will be built, County Commission chairman Jack Saunderson said Friday. The State Road Department has the right-of-way for the "last mile," a gift of John D. MacArthur, Palm Beach County financier.

The county commission put almost a half-million dollars of the county's secondary road funds to build a 7.3 mile road to the Palm Beach County line.

The road, nearing completion by Dickerson, Inc., starts at SR 708 west of Hobe Sound, runs southerly to the Martin County line, where it dead-ends at a pine tree.

Between the pine tree and SR 706, which runs east and west out of Jupiter to connect with Beeline Highway, SR-710, linking West Palm Beach and Okeechobee, via Indiantown, there is a "missing mile" made up of a couple of minor cypress hammocks, a couple of small ponds, and mud.

Palm Beach County fathers once had promised to see that last mile built with secondary road funds, but reneged.

About three years ago, Lake Lytal, county commission chairman, sent a letter to the Martin County commission, making the promise.

Later on, Palm Beach Co. officials became irked over the Lake Okeechobee division bill and returned rights-of-way they had obtained for the mile of road so badly needed.

Last year's board also completely removed the stretch from the county's fiscal year's road priorities.

About a year ago Martin County went to John D MacArthur and got the right-of-way needed, it was given at once to the State Road Department which holds it, deeds at Palm Beach courthouse show.

Palm Beach officials didn't know that on March 1, R. V. Johnson, vice-president of Ninejam, Inc., which gave much of the right-of-way on the road so far constructed, turned over a check for $10,000 to the county commission "toward the cost of the road, with no strings attached." Another $5,000, he promised, would be turned over to the county when the project was completed.

Saunderson said Friday it was hoped that bids could be taken on the mile-project soon, using the $10,000 and possibly some added funds, if necessary, to get down some sort of a connecting link.

The 7.3 miles nearing completion has cost an average of $65,000 per mile to build up to top coating.

"We know we can't build that at present," Saunderson said. "We hope to be able to get in the base work and make a passable way until more funds are available."

While easy access for Martin County residents working at Pratt & Whitney's Palm Beach County plant was the "reason" for the road back in 1956, for the past few years "getting citrus to market" in West Palm Beach has been the biggest reason given.

Six Selected For Girls State

Six local girls were chosen by members of American Legion Post #126 Auxiliary, Jensen Beach, to attend Girls' State in Tallahassee.

Three of the girls will make the trip in June to make the trip, while three have been named as alternates.

Sue Crook, Marie Yankovich and Kathy Martin, all 16, juniors at Martin County High School, and all from Jensen Beach, were named last week as regulars to attend the one-week session at Florida State University.

Named as alternates were Karen Dalley, Helen Kay Smith and Linda Bailey, also 16, juniors at MCHS and residents of Jensen Beach.

Chosen on the basis of leadership, character, courage, honesty, scholarship, cooperativeness and physical fitness, the girls will study city, county and state government and American-ism. Each girl will be assigned to a mythical city where a form of government will be set up.

The group, comprised of about 250 from all over the state, will be assisted by government officials in Tallahassee.

Each girl will nominate herself for a mythical office, giving her qualifications, and campaigning actively. The group is divided into two parties, the "Nationalists" and the "Federalists" and the officials are assigned to a party upon arriving at Girls' State.

Sue Crook is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Crook. She is a cheerleader, member of the Beta Club, Student council representative, and baby-sits for spending money. Her hobbies are sewing and cooking.

Marie Yankovich is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Virginia Yankovich. She is also a member of the Beta Club, Student Council, and baby-sits for spending money. She enjoys bowling, cooking, swimming, surfing, and the beach.

Kathy Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Martin, is a cheerleader, member of National Honor Society, FTA, MCHS golf team, treasurer of Student Council, and an advisor of the Rainbow Girls. She baby-sits for spending money.

Helen Kay Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Smith, is a Rainbow Girl, and a member of FTA. She enjoys the beach and school and works part time in a dress shop.

Karen Dalley, daughter of Mrs. Wilda Dalley, has lived in Jensen Beach 12 years. She is a Rainbow Girl and says she enjoys shopping and cycling, the beach, bowling and sewing. She works part-time at The Mirror.

Linda Bailey is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Bailey and has lived in Jensen 14 years. She is a member of the Beta Club. Her special interests are the beach, reading and cooking. She works part-time in a variety store.

GIRLS' STATE- These three lovelies have been chosen to attend Girls' State at Florida State University, Tallahassee, for a week in June. Sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary #126, Jensen Beach, they are, left to right, Sue Crook, Marie Yankovich and Kathy Martin. All are 16, juniors at Martin County High School, and live in Jensen Beach.

Agrees To Swap.....If

Martin County commissioners agreed in principal Tuesday to effect a land swap involving the Hobe Sound Co., the Town of Jupiter Island and the county, to provide for an enlarged public beach at the end of Beach Rd., Jupiter Island.

The actual adoption of the resolution setting up the swap was left for action at the next meeting.

As agreed upon at the one and a half-hour hearing, the moves involved the closing of two street ends, Dalesplne Trail and Devonshire Lane, totaling 75 feet of beach access, in return for 123 feet of beachfrontage to add to the 182 feet already owned by the county at Bridge Road.

Side issues included acceptance of a $7,500 gift from the Town to aid to the improvements needed at the 123-foot addition; a $3,000 rebate from the Town to the county for money spent in building a new street exit at Dalesplne Trail.

Also mentioned were possible additions of State or Federal funds to help develop a beach site, and release of former restrictions at Beach Road to permit the construction of a beach house, with water and toilet facilities, these to be provided through the $7,500 gift.

The hearing was marked by differences of opinion by proponents and opponents of the swap, which had been in the making for several years.

Dr. Albert Falk, Carl Hazen and R. C. Lindsey led the opposition; Clyde McGee aided by Andy Tsimas, led the proponents. McGee presented the board with a petition favoring the swap signed by 194 persons he said were property owners in the community of Hobe Sound.

At the close of the hearing the board generally agreed to adopt the resolution, but tabled the action until the April 25 meeting.

ALTERNATES- Named as alternates to attend Girls' State are, left to right, Linda Bailey, Helen Kay Smith and Karen Dalley. Those participating in the program will study city, county and state government and will visit the House and Senate in Tallahassee.

NEW PHONE BOOKS- Bill Burson, manager of Southern Bell's Stuart office, presented a new telephone directory to John M. Lee, manager of the Florida Power and Light district, as new 1967 phone books were mailed throughout the county this week. The front page of the new directory shows a picture of Florida, in color, on a blue background.

School Actions

Members of the Martin County School Board had a busy day on Tuesday, meeting for two and a half hours in the morning, and two and three-quarter hours at night.

The board:

Failed to make up its collective minds about the suspension of Mrs. Emily Karris, Martin County High School French teacher;

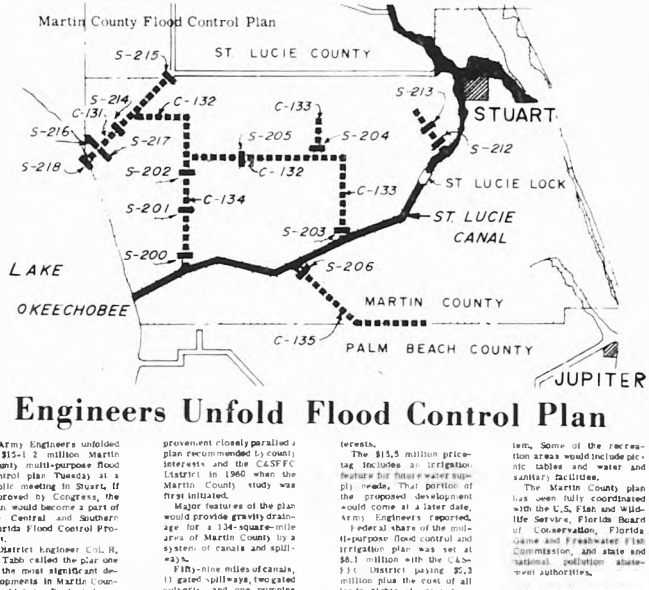
Appointed Mrs. Bette Reed to teach French and some Latin;

Refused to approve bills from architects amounting to $44,000, because of inadequate time to study them;

Granted architect Pryor a requested 15-days extension for the completion of the band suite at MCHS;

Saw preliminary plans for two additions to local schools, presented by architect Armstrong;

And heard Donald McIntosh, Tampa architect with McLane, Hanon, McIntosh & Bernardo, ask to be considered in future building projects here. McIntosh said his firm has built $10 million in schools in 13 years. They are the architects for the new Rio Baptist Church to be built on west Commercial St., Jensen Beach.



Engineers Unfold Flood Control Plan

Army Engineers unfolded a $15-1 2 million Martin County multi-purpose flood control plan Tuesday at a public meeting in Stuart. If approved by Congress, the plan would become a part of the Central and Southern Florida Flood Control Project.

District Engineer Col. R. P. Tabb called the plan one of the most significant developments in Martin County's history. Projected as a 50-year plan which would prevent the most serious flood conditions which could be expected to occur once every 30 years, the details were unfolded by professional engineers from Col. Tabb's planning staff.

The Corps' plan of improvement closely parallels a plan recommended by county interests and the C&SFFC District in 1960 when the Martin County study was first initiated.

Major features of the plan would provide gravity drainage for a 134-square-mile area of Martin County by a system of canals and spillways.

Fifty-nine miles of canals, 11 gated spillways, two gated culverts, and one pumping station were described by the Army Engineers in a public presentation. It was emphasized that the flood control system proposed by the Army Engineers would be fully effective only when secondary drainage systems are provided by local interests.

The $15.5 million price-tag includes an irrigation feature for future water supply needs. That portion of the proposed development would come at a later date, Army Engineers reported.

Federal share of the multi-purpose flood control and irrigation plan was set at $8.1 million with the C&SFFC District paying $5.3 million plus the cost of all lands, rights-of-way and lands, rights-of-way and relocation costs.

Public recreation areas at four of the spillways, which would include boat ramps on the upstream and downstream sides, would provide boating access to 49 miles of the canal system. Some of the recreation areas would include picnic tables and water and sanitary facilities.

The Martin County plan has been fully coordinated with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Florida Board of Conservation, Florida Game and Freshwater Fish Commission, and state and national pollution abatement authorities.

Aiding the presentation for the Corps of Engineers, in addition to Col. Tabb, were Joe J. Koperski, chief of the Corps' Engineering Division; Oscar G. Rawls, chief of the planning and reports branch; and Joe Goode, one of the designers of the multi-purpose plan.

lies just south of that which the county sought in a recent court case, now under appeal by county attorney Dean Tooker. That parcel is owned by Florence M. Barnes, Chicago.

Seller of the 300-foot plot was LaPosada, Inc., in care of W. F. Seagle, Memphis, Tenn.

In another transaction, Landpact, Inc., has purchased the deer farm on U.S. #1, south of Stuart, defunct for about two years, according to a warranty deed filed recently. No names were revealed in the purchasing corporation, which apparently paid $29,400 for the land west of U.S. #1. Charles Thomas of Ashtabula, Ohio, was the principal seller.

LEADERS INVESTED--Leaders of the Junior Girl Scout Troop #231 were invested Monday night, April 3, by Mrs. C. A. Louis, second from left, of Port Salerno, where she has been active in scout work for 20 years. Leaders of the local troup are, left to right, Mrs. Jackie Hall, Mrs. Judie Carroll, Mrs. Dorothy Addy, and Mrs. Lavaughn Tilton. Ceremonies were held at the Jensen Beach Community Church, sponsors of the 20-girl group.

Arundel Corporation Sold

The famed dredging corporation, The Arundel Corp., located on the St. Lucie Canal, Tropical Farms, Stuart, has been sold, State transfer stamps on a simple warranty deed revealed that $10,000 was paid by Great Lakes Dredge & Drydock Co., of Chicago, to Arundel Corp., of Baltimore, Md., for 8.63 acres of yard land and facilities on St. Lucie Canal.

Frontage on the canal is 600 feet, and the price was far below assessed valuation of the inactive yard.

Arundel Corp., which dug St. Lucie Canal in the mid-twenties, and many other canals from Lake Okeechobee to the ocean, was sold for $6 million, further investigation revealed.

Great Lake Dredge and Drydock, believed to be a fully-owned subsidiary of the University of Illinois, bought the local facility, the top-shape hydraulic dredges Admiral and General, and the old Hallandale, in poor repair.

Orchid Society To Meet Thurs.

Dr. D. D. Peterson, Stuart, will speak at the meeting of the Orchid Society on Thursday, April 13, at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Room, 1st National Bank.

Dr. Peterson will show slides of orchids, and anyone interested is invited to bring orchid plants.

Bingo Against The Law?

now the state has decided to stand nd be counted. Bingo has fallen the f Governor Kirk's War on Crime. Right- too.

e the Florida Legislature will be forced ognize that the law outlawing Bingo is nly not popular, but also unworkable. like the law saying that a friendly game is illegal while millions are gambled on horses in plush Dade County tracks.

There is no reason to keep the Bingo game righteous by making it just for "charitable" causes. Bingo should be as it has been; carried on in hundreds of mobile home parks, civic and social clubs and fraternal organizations.

There is no such thing as righteous. Bending the law to keep churches or other so-called charitable organizations happy, or to soothe the blue-nose population, is wrong.

We hope that sense prevails in the legislature when the new Bingo law is passed, and pass it will. Florida without Bingo just wouldn't be Florida. And any law pertaining to Bingo that doesn't recognize the present status quo couldn't be fair to anyone.

They will keep twelve different groups from seeking funds door to door in the coming year. Local businessmen, harassed throughout the year by "collections", will at least be spared the campaign funding of these agencies.

The success again of the United Fund drive will again point to the possibility of a United Fund drive for Stuart and the central Martin County area. It is still a good idea, though it is a hard one to sell. If just the people working for the various charities would get together and combine forces, they would have a small UF drive going among themselves.

We salute the United Fund of Jensen Beach and Rio, and thank them for their efforts on behalf of twelve agencies that can use the money.

hat's what I call putting ida First -- all of it, not just the profession-believe I am considered ducators to be a 'great off' of education and ed- ors. I think I already here, may part company.

INCENTIVE PAY FOR TEACHERS

- I propose that teach- have a suitable, but not acular, base pay.

- I propose that each her be paid each year ile than the 'base pay' a ratio that the teach- students showed im- vement during the pre- ing year when under the cher's care. No improve- nt - no raise; some im- provement - some raise; great improvement - great raise.

3 - I propose that auto- matic increases be discon- tinued because increases in teaching ability have not al- ways proved to be equal to the automatic raises...in schools or anywhere else.

4 - Administrators, spe- cial teachers, etc., who are not directly 'in charge' of subjects tested cannot be rated as I've suggested in Item 2 above. I propose that they be paid over their re- spective base pay rates by an average ratio that the teach- ers under them attained by student testing, fall and spring.

PROFIT SYSTEM IN TEACHING

Simply put, the above means: Teachers who teach ought to have very substan- tial salaries. Teachers and staff who help teachers teach ought also to have substan- tial salaries.

Teachers who work at it but cannot or do not teach ought not be taking as much of the previous scarce pub- lic money's. "No teacher-- no money". Same for the staff, administrators, su- pervisors, coordinators, su- perintendents, and et cetera and cetera and cetera. It seems like the ceteras out- number the Indians....the good Indians and the good ceteras ought to be paid more, the others less, ac- cording to their ability to produce good students.

That's the thing teaching and education is all about...

EARN BY PRODUCING GOOD STUDENTS

If this were done, I think dedicated teachers would still be dedicated, and I think that those who are teaching for a living would set about learning and practicing their trade.

As teaching results vary, satisfaction and the next year's income would vary-- but always there would be at least the 'base pay' for security. This would give hope for the next year, like it folks in business know. After the security job hold- ers quit, this would produce more good teachers and, as a result, more good students.

TESTING IS LONG ESTABLISHED

Every Fall and every Spring every student takes 'achievement tests' pre- pared, judged and scored by Princeton or other non-bi- ased distant academic sour- ces. The teachers them- selves do not grade these. Comparing the student's grade in the Fall with his grade in the Spring shows his progress. It's a meas- urable thing.

Comparing a class or a school or a county of stu- dents by their scores in the Fall and again in the Spring shows what progress the particular teacher, principal and superintendent has made during any given year.

School administrators have been making such com- parisons for years. I've seen them often. However, they lack strength to enforce the obvious lesson from these tests- will twist and squirm to avoid it. After all, they have to live and work with these teachers, and the cete- ras too, and it is not too much to say that possibly, in some cases at least, may- be, some administrators, teachers and ceteras got in- to teaching to escape the hard realities of private bus- iness where one must actu- ally earn what one is paid (small business rule, not applicable universally any- more).

In fairness, the Spring tests ought to set the high- est grade possible for each student for each subject for the term or year.

I propose that teachers' top salaries be raised to a higher level than the high- er state...for teachers and ceteras whose students' testings prove they have earned it. They would all share in a state-wide fund. Local districts would set and pay only the base pay.

I believe this would work out--at first--to be a very substantial lowering of the actual dollars spent for teachers' pay, because-- with all the ceteras sharing in the pool--I think adminis- trators would find a lot less need for ceteras, and a lot more need for just plain old learning. How do you like that? A BIG pay raise that turns itself into an economy measure? Well, that's what you get some- times- when you think.

Post Election Quarterback

Well, it's over, and the wailing and weeping and the cheering and congratulations are ended. The election of 1967 of the Florida Legislature, in which one-man-one-vote reapportionment of Florida's Legislature by Federal Courts allowed less than 50% of the voters to select senators and representatives for 100% of the people, is history.

The Republican Party swept into office, and the Democratic Party again went down to defeat.

Why?

If one word could describe the reason for the election turnout, it would be "organization".

Republican candidates had organization. They had unity. They had a fresh approach, and a spirit of "can do" that swept any who came into contact with them into the mainstream of the election. The voters identified with the spirit and voice of the Republican Party.

I must say that they didn't buy some of the so-called issues of the candidates. There were few issues. The issues were "will you vote for me?", and, "will you help me?" Republican candidates ran on a "we were elected in November and thrown out in February. We just want a chance to do something."

The entire Republican program was positive. The entire program of the Democrats was negative.

The office of The Mirror saw several visits by each Republican candidate during the short campaign asking questions and asking if we wanted to ask questions. They searched for the information they would need to serve the people of this area. Other newspapers saw the same thing.

To our knowledge, only one candidate for the Democrats appeared at The Mirror office. He was Joel Daves, of Palm Beach County. It was a shame they were so rushed that they couldn't ask what the people of Martin County needed and what they might like to have the people know about them.

The negative attitude of the Democrats even went into Palm Beach County. Few Democratic candidates went to see the newspaper publishers of Palm Beach County, while the Republicans were there again and again. I heard this time and time again from newspaper publishers and editors in the south of Martin County.

Democrats were working through old-line organizations, while the Republican opponents were reaching out to the unaligned, making new contacts and setting up a fantastic organization that reached from the young to the senior citizen.

In Boca Raton we know that the Democrats wrote that territory off as "Republican", and didn't work there. The same was true in other south Palm Beach County towns, as well as in northern Palm Beach County towns.

Everyone knows that the only people who come to the political "coffees", or political "meet-your-candidate" parties are those who are already sold on the party (have you ever gone to one, and seen all the elected officials there)...and never more than a few of the thousands of voters are exposed to the candidates through the five-minute-speech and door-to-door circuit. The only way to reach the voters, both non-committed and committed, is through mass-media; newspaper, radio and television.

In an effort to be fair to both parties in the election, and in trying an experiment in political news, The Mirror ran the announcement statements of all candidates who filed (if they sent us one), a story of the election week itself, and a wrap-up of the election. We left it up to the candidates themselves to say what they wanted to say about themselves in the pages of The Mirror. This put the burden of selling their platform and candidacy up to the candidates and parties.

The Republicans said plenty, and the Democrats said next to nothing.

Last fall, when the Republicans swept the election from the Democrats, The Mirror wrapped it up with a column about the organization of the Democratic Committee in Martin County. The closing line was, "We are not going to suggest that the Democratic Committee...do anything. We are just pointing to the fact that there aren't many marbles left in the ring."

With the exception of local county offices, all the marbles are gone. This is intended as constructive criticism, not as a slap at one who is down. We have called for the reorganization of the archaic Democratic Committee in this county for four years.

We might even suggest that a new leader of a new movement to revitalize the party be selected by a meeting of top party officials. Someone must pick up the pieces and put them together.

GRASSROOTS OPINION

"Young people particularly should realize that the foundation of all financial provisions for retirement security is a sound dollar. They should demand, as should all Americans, that the Social Security system be properly managed so that one day the working public will not rebel against the system. Even under present benefits the combined tax on employees and employers will rise to 11.3 per cent within a few years. Social Security benefits should be adequate but they should not be vulnerable to political influences. It might be wise to make a careful appraisal of the system, which is not three decades old, to see if it provides real security."

Thermopolis, Wyo., Record

"A couple of news items which appeared the same day recently must have caused readers to blink and think. One was about a couple of guys who stood in court with smirks on their faces as a reluctant judge had to dismiss murder charges against them because their voluntary confessions had been made without benefit of attorneys to inform them of their rights. The other item was the solemn warning by the secretary of the U.S. Treasury that unless Congress boosted the government's debt limit by $7 billion within 30 days, it might be just too bad for elderly citizens who depend on Social Security, veterans' pensions and retirement pay. There just might be no money for such things."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To The Editor:

May I commend you for your fine editorial "Florida's Most Broken Law." I am delighted to read that other people are cognizant of the many traffic violations in this area. In Stuart in particular. Stop signs are completely ignored. There seems to be an utter lack of courtesy here,- people are in too much of a hurry. I hope many people will read your fine editorial and take heed.

Very truly yours,

Your Florida Constitution

This is the thirteenth installment of the complete text of the proposed new Florida Constitution. This document will provide the political structure under which Florida citizens will live, replacing the outmoded, often-amended document we use today. It is the responsibility of all citizens to study, know and comment upon this constitution.

Section 4. CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION.-- The power to consider a revision of the entire constitution is reserved to the people. It may be invoked by filing with the secretary of state a petition, containing a declaration that a constitutional convention is desired, signed by a number of electors in each of one half of the congressional districts of the state, and of the state as a whole, equal to fifteen per cent of the votes cast in each such district respectively and in the state as a whole in the last preceding election of presidential electors.

At the next general election held more than ninety days after the filing of such petition there shall be submitted to the electors of the state the question: "Shall a constitutional convention be held?" If a majority voting on the question vote in the affirmative, at the next succeeding general election there shall be elected from each representative district a member of a constitutional convention. On the twenty-first day following that election, the convention shall sit at the capital, elect officers, adopt rules of procedure, judge the election of its membership, and fix a time and place for its future meetings. Not later than ninety days before the next succeeding general election, the convention shall cause to be filed with the secretary of state any revision of this constitution proposed by it.

Section 5. AMENDMENT OR REVISION ELECTION.

(a) A proposed amendment to or revision of this constitution, or any part of it, shall be submitted to the electors at the next general election held more than ninety days after the joint resolution, initiative petition or report of revision commission or constitutional convention proposing it is filed with the secretary of state, unless, pursuant to law enacted by the affirmative vote of three-fourths of the membership of each house of the legislature and limited to a single amendment or revision, it is submitted at an earlier special election held more than ninety days after such filing.

(b) Once in the tenth week and once in the sixth week immediately preceding the week in which the election is held, the proposed amendment or revision, with notice of the date of election at which it will be submitted to the electors, shall be published in one newspaper in each county in which a newspaper is published.

(c) If the proposed amendment or revision is approved by vote of the electors, it shall be effective as an amendment to or revision of the constitution of the state on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in January following the election, or on such other date as may be specified in the amendment or revision.

Bills Will Be Heard April 22

April 22, Friday, has been tentatively set as the date on which proposed legislation from Martin County will be given a public hearing at the courthouse, according to State Rep. Robert W. Rust of Palm Beach.

"All local bills, whether originated by municipalities or the county boards, or by private citizens, will be heard," he said. Bills must be advertised 30 days, Rust said, indicating that a hearing after that date would be "too late."

Bills to be heard would include the river-netting-banning bill sought by some local anglers.

Second Conservation Agent Hired For MC

The State Department of Conservation will assign a second salt water conservation agent to Martin County this week, according to Randolph Hodges, director.

Roland O. (Boots) Byrd, who has been the MC agent for many years will remain to make up the new two-man team on full-time duty here.

The enforcement of netting laws and turtle laws, plus increased boating responsibilities in the area, dictated the need of doubling the force.

"The national debt will... rise to $336 billion, or more, from the present maximum of $330 billion. The average taxpayer may not be aware of the fact he is already paying fourteen cents of every interest on this debt. Instead of being increased in these good times, the debt should be slowly decreased....Until we end the war, it will be prudent to limit social, domestic programs. We simply can't afford both at the same time."

Thayer, Mo., News

"Everyone complains about the welfare expense and the way people abuse it but how many of you have complained to your lawmakers?"

Star-Gazette

why minor law infractions cannot be ignored

Some people believe that minor infractions of the law are nothing to be concerned about, that only the big ones matter. This is dangerous reasoning. In America human rights are protected by law, and are secure just so long as the law is upheld. Infractions large or small breed disrespect, and without respect, the law loses its force, and the rights it protects are endangered. Human rights, once forfeited, are difficult to regain. This is one reason why we observe Law Day U.S.A. on May 1.

SPEAKERS- Speakers at the A.A.R.P. meeting on April 6 included Hugo Varaby, Bill Krowera, Gerda Gili and Dr. Robert Cambron.

AARP Has Record Meet

The officers of the local chapter of the A.A.R.P. are to be congratulated for arranging another very successful meeting where matters explained and discussed.

President Bill Krowera introduced the first speaker, Gerda Gill, who spoke at some length on funeral and burial arrangements. Gill was in the undertaking business so he was quite capable of explaining the many items involved in what he called "A complete funeral." Prices vary according to the individual needs, but he said the price from state to state is very much the same. He stressed the importance of making complete funeral arrangements before it is too late. If burial is desired out-of-state, arrangements should be made with the home undertaker as well as the Florida local funeral parlor. One person asked about cremation and the cost of same, Gill described in detail the steps involved in this manner of disposing of the remains. Apparently there would be no less expense involved, or very little, in closing. Gill said, "Your funeral director has a special "Prearrangement Form" which you should complete with him. Do not put this in the bank vault. Keep it handy, also give a copy for your very closest friend to keep. Scarf should also be carried in the person's wallet giving the name and address of your undertaker." Gill concluded with advice to friends of a deceased person, in a few well chosen words.

Dr. Robert Cambron then spoke on behalf of the Lion's Club who are sponsoring the Eye Bank. The doctor drew a rough sketch which helped to simplify the explanation as to how the eye transplant is performed. The cornea is the only part of the eye used. Sometimes this part of a donor's eye is damaged, any eye can be used regardless of age of the donor. He described, what to us seemed a very delicate operation, but the way Dr. Cambron described it, a quite simple one of suturing the new patch to the window cut in the old cornea, thus enabling the subject to see again.

Bringing the eye materials to those in need of a sight restoring operation requires great care, also timing is of great importance. The Lion's Club works with the undertakers, the doctors, the hospitals, the aberrit department and the State Highway Patrol to speed the transfer in every way possible. There are distributing centers scattered throughout the United State, our nearest are Miami, Gainsville, Atlanta and Washington, D.C. All of these centers will have a list of patients requiring a transplant. A would be donor should contact the nearest Lions Club representative and we have one here in Jensen Beach- Mr. Campbell who the speaker then introduced to the meeting. Mr. Campbell added that before a doctor can do anything, he has to have permission from the next of kin, so in case he or she should be some distance away, some prearrangement should be made.

The meeting started with all seats being filled and by the time Mr. Varaby rose to speak these seats were beginning to feel pretty hard, however, very few left the room- adjusted themselves and settles down to listen to the last speaker. Mr. Hugo J. Varaby is the Florida state manager of the underwriters handling policies for the A.A.R.P. members. He began by saying that two of the largest automobile insurance companies have left Florida in the past year also four other major insurance companies have increased their auto insurance rates in the past three months, particularly in the case of older drivers. Several complaints on insurance policies had been cancelled due to age and had been made. Varaby considered this practice to be grossly unfair as many of our older citizens are better drivers than the younger ones. He cited one case. A man of 92 years of age was considered too much of a risk, so his auto insurance was about to be cancelled when he arrived at a meeting with a party of people he had flown to in his private jet plane. His insurance was renewal. Statistics also show that as a person gets older he or she drives a car less and this should be taken into consideration. Varaby said that his company, the American Maturity Insurance Company will be glad to accept applications from any member of the A.A.R.P. regardless of age providing their doctor will declare them physically capable of operating an automobile. He did not want anyone to cancel the policy they are now holding but the American Insurance Company will accept an application to take effect immediately their present policy expires.

John Malcolm (Mac) and Gladys McLarty were married in Petersburg, Va, Feb. 2, 1927. Mac, as all his friends and associates call him, was in the road building contracting business. The next year the McLartys spent the winter in Florida and continues to spend their winters here, staying in cottages or motels. In 1937 they bought a Vagabond trailer and took up trailer living. Then in 1938 they heard about Hokee trailer camp at Jensen Beach and stayed here for a short time. This camp was very primitive and was in the process of having the brush removed. The McLartys were looking for a good fishing spot and they found this place ideal, so from then on they made Ocean Breeze their winter home. The first trailer was spotted just south of it's present site, in the middle of what is now Hibiscus Lane. There were 11 trailers here at that time, two of which were the Griffiths and the Middletons. In 1942 Mac retired from business, built a portable cabana on their trailer and made this their permanent home. This was one of the first cabanas to be built in this trailer park. It sufficed until 1956 when the McLartys had the present permanent cabana built. Part of the trailer was sacrificed in the process. Through all the years, Gladys McLarty has been very active in park affairs and in church work also. Both have enjoyed very good health and we trust it will continue that way.

The McLarty Home

'Growing Pains'

In the fall of the year the farmers would bring their sugar cane to the sorghum mill. As their loads came in they were stacked and marked to save each farmer's turn for juicing and boiling cane. We would spend hours playing "hide and seek" about these stacks. We could watch the men press the juice out of the cane and then go into the mill and watch them boil this juice in a slow process in a series of long troughs over pits of log fires. We would make spoons of sticks and eat the drained sorghum at the end of the boiling line. We would also jump on the crushed stalks which were discarded over the bank of the creek. One night these crushed stalks caught fire lighting up the whole town. We all ran down to the dam to see it better as the sorghum mill was located way down the creek on the east side of town. My father made the remark, "My, I thought the world was coming to an end." I can't tell you how these words affected me as a child. I worried about the awfulness of the world coming to an end. For a long time I could not sleep and was so afraid. My parents had quite a time straightening out my frightened mind.

Near the sorghum mill was the tobacco warehouse. After the first damp fog in the fall, the farmers would take the tobacco out of the sheds into the stripping houses. The fog would dampen the dry leaves and the farmers would strip the leaves from the stalks and pack them into bundles. These were then ready for marketing and they would get their pay for the summer's work and care of the tobacco. These bundles would be brought into the ware house where most everyone in town, not working, would sort the damp leaves as to size and pack them to be delivered to the tobacco companies. This always gave the men and women extra work money at a welcome time before Christmas.

The Tellelson children and our family belonged to the Presbyterian Church in Cambridge, two and a half miles north of Rockdale. We drove to church and Sunday school every Sunday and most every Sunday to Junior Endeavor, when we became old enough.

When winter set in we would go to the Norwegian Lutheran church in Rockdale when the sermons were in English. The men would sit on the right side of the church and the women and children on the left. We children would also go to Sunday school there in the winter.

My sister and I used to sing duets when we were quite young. We were asked to sing for the Christmas program at the church. I still remember some of the words of the song because of the heartache I suffered. They were," Just a little

Conservation Officer Cites Views On Illegal Fishing

by Howard Lee Haid

This is the first of several articles that will be carried by The Mirror during the coming weeks. The articles will deal with facts and views by various governmental agencies and individuals directly connected with both commercial and sport fishing in the area. All the articles will be written around interviews held by the writer with the agency or individual, and their answers to questions pertaining to illegal fishing as they know it, or believe it to be. The aim of this series will be to enlighten and inform the public on all the aspects of illegal fishing, be it commercial or sportsfishing. It is my hope that it will also serve to point out that, if anything, is detrimental and a potential danger to the fine fishing for which Martin County is noted.

The first interview was contacted with Lt. Ronald D. Purdom, officer in charge of this district for the board of salt water conservation. Also present at the interview was Roland C. "Hoots" Byrd, local agent, the man responsible for enforcing the law in this area.

Before presenting the readers with some of their viewpoints, it is interesting to note that both men tend to agree with the board's marine biologist, Kenneth Woodburn, that commercial fishing as done in this area cannot be considered harmful to all-around fishing conditions. Purdom referred to Woodburn's statement at a recent meeting in Jensen Beach where Woodburn cited fish cycles and particularly land fill as being the prime reasons for poor fishing. Fish cycles, however, is a temporary condition, but land fill over the spawning grounds is the real menace. This has been scientifically substantiated in various areas of the state—Lake Worth is one of the nearby prime examples.

Purse seining is another thing to be considered when speaking of harmful fishing methods, Purdom said. This type of fishing is a catch-all method and nothing within the limits of the net escapes. It is a total kill. The local commercial fishermen are now forming an organization to outlaw this brand of fishing because they know it is harmful. If they succeed, they will have done a service to be commended by all fishermen.

Concerning illegal fishing, both men stated they were well aware of many violations that went unnoticed. Purdom said that the problem of enforcing the law is entirely up to one man, the local agent. As one man, he can cover only so much area and many violations are bound to be missed. "We have the same problem as all law enforcement agencies, only shorthanded," he said. In my present district, from Palm Beach to Indian River Counties, I have only five men. There is so much of salt water area to be covered, especially when it should be patrolled day and night. For example, during the turtle season, these men are patrolling almost around the clock. They have their regular daily routine of checking bait and tackle stores, commercial fishhouses, commercial docks, and the waterfront, then they check the beaches all night for potential turtle poachers. Many officers certainly could help in enforcing everyday violations," Purdom said.

A special note at this point is that the Salt Water Commission is adding another agent for Martin County, he will be stationed at Fort Pierce and will begin duty on April 16.

Continuing his comments on illegal fishing, Purdom stated that both the commercial and sports fishermen were guilty of violations. The most common are a person's not having a valid license, or not having the proper size mesh in his net. Hard to close to a bridge, and tying a net to shore.

"We watch the commercial men a lot closer than we do the sports fishermen because they are fishing every day and we know who they are and where they are. Checking them is part of our regular daily routine," said Purdom.

"The most common violations among sports fishermen are undersized fish, anchoring in a channel, and boat safety. The undersized fish violation, incidentally, is almost unheard of among the commercial men. The size nets they use will not catch the small, undersized fish," Purdom continued.

"The laws we have now are basically good ones, and with a few revisions they could be completely adequate for any situation that might arise, be it against commercial men or sportsmen. There will always be violations of the fishing laws, the same way there are violations of motor vehicle laws. Citizens can help in enforcing the laws by reporting violations when they occur. I'll guarantee my department will appreciate and act to the fullest upon immediately any reported violation. It certainly won't be the answer to stopping illegal fishing, but it will help in a better job and will possibly serve as a deterrent to those who may try to break the law," Purdom concluded.

A Haid Full Of Sporting Tips

by Howard Lee Haid

There are Bay Days, and then there are Bay Days, and it's safe to say that the latter was the case for the Martin County Golf and Country Club this past Saturday, and I bet if enough guys have called it an early morning, I can't count how many I have seen make positive statements about their golfing, during the afternoon of the game and play just for fun.

Tee-off time was 12:30 for some 20 foursomes, all starting from different tees at the sound of the shotgun. Bang, bang, bang....balls filled the air.....Carts began to roll, and to see scrambling for teachers of the course, the appearance is of a mixture of harried-acting ants running to mind.

The usual reflections and generally quiet mood that prevails on the golf course was not to be....probably the strangest all - played tee-hooting I think around the course lodged within me that morning. Just swing at the ball, get it into hit a good one, call it out and let everyone else know about it.

Amazing is the word, too, like one foursome that was standing on a tee awaiting their turn, heather foursome coming in the opposite fairway hit a ball that came to the tee, turned that the ball was given. Which did they do? "Oh" and "Ah" and "Oh" and "Ah" and "Oh" and "Ah" and

Adopts New Zoning Code

Ordinance 414, Stuart's new zoning code and attendant map, was adopted on second reading by the city commission at its meeting Monday night.

The code will be posted for 30 days before becoming final, but no additional changes are anticipated by the commission.

One change was made in the overall code. Joe Gerry won a spot change in his lot on Palm City Rd. at Poppleton Creek, from R-1-A to R-3 in a unanimous decision.

In general, the new code upgrades in most areas, provides for generally centralized business districts, and sets up a new "public facilities" category for all property owned by the city or county.

In other business, the commission:

Received a copy of an ordinance obtained by Earl D. Ricou and given to the commission, covering legal actions against city officials and employees, turned it over to Joe N. Crowder, city manager, and T. T. Oughterson, city attorney, for study;

And heard Crowder say the circuit court bond validation suit for the sewer and water main revenue issue would be held Friday at 2 p.m. He also said that plans for the construction had been submitted to the State Board of Health by Black, Crow & Eidness, city's consulting engineers.

Kanarek Heads Key Club

Paul Kanarek, senior at Martin County High School, was elected president of the Key Club at its meeting last week. Other officers include Carlos Hudson, vice-president; Ralph Hartman, secretary; Rufus Brown, treasurer.

Seven Key Club members recently attended a convention in Jacksonville. Those attending were Tom Philbrick, Paul Kanarek, Tommy Wyatt, Carlos Hudson, Phil Featherstone, Rufus Brown and Joe McCoy.

Richard Mikuska accompanied the group on the trip.

Bruner To Head Student Council

Jeff Bruner was elected president of the 1967 Student Council at Martin County High School last week. Other newly-elected officials include Vance Thomas, vice-president; Marlene Broome, secretary; and Kathy Martin, treasurer.

CHAMPS--Proudly displaying trophies presented to them as bowling champions are these members of the Jensen Beach Coffee League, "The Sneezy Four", left to right, Ellen Pauly, high individual game of 213 and high individual series of 512; Dess Jackson, Emma Wernsberg, Minnie Schaster, and Sylvia Sanborn. Presentation was made April 6 at a luncheon.

PRACTICE AND MORE PRACTICE--The season is fast approaching and plenty of practice faces the youngsters as they prepare the nucleus of players for the baseball teams that will soon be competing all over the county.

Fishing News

Pompano fishing keeps improving, with the past few months being the best season in years.

Bluefish more plentiful in the surf on the weekend than for boat fishermen, although bottom fishermen did well in the inner reaches of the inlet.

Spanish mackerel schools covering acres are moving along the coast. Local anglers got all they wanted or could carry Saturday at St. Lucie Inlet.

Offshore skippers, stalled by rough ocean for a few days, find dolphin plentiful, sails as well, 'cuda around and some big jacks, too.

CG Reports

The U.S. Coast Guard district office at Miami reported the following notices to mariners last week.

Okeechobee Waterway: The following aids have been moved as indicated to mark best water: Note--distances and bearings from St. Lucie River Light 13 (LLNR 6570), St. Lucie Day River Daybeacon 10, 105 yards, 120 degrees; St. Lucie River Daybeacon 12, 285 yards, 352 degrees.

The notice regarding the April 15, or about, St. Lucie Inlet Entrance Range Front Daybeacon and Rear Daybeacon, issued a week earlier, were repeated in the new bulletin.

49 Pints Donated To Blood Bank

Forty-nine pints of blood were donated to various organizations and churches recently, when the Palm Beach Bloodmobile was stationed at the Woman's Club in Stuart, according to Mrs. Sara Tinnon, chairman of the Martin County Blood Bank.

Refreshments for the donors were provided by Jensen Beach Garden Club, Martin County Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, and First National Bank of Stuart. Medicinal liquor was donated by Seymour's Inn, the Elks Club and Triangle Lounge.

Mrs. Tinnon extended thanks to Mrs. Martha Spinney, nurse on duty, to the hospital for providing beds, and to those who served refreshments, Mrs. Stanton Maxey and Mrs. Bob Collins.

Stuart High School To Host Educators

Stuart Junior High School will be host to five principals representing Dade County junior high schools, on April 13. These representatives are interested in overseeing the registration, scheduling and report card system used in the local school, according to Joseph A. McCoy, local principal.

The school data process, as experienced by the guidance director, Miss Helen Carter, school secretary, Mrs. Sara DuBose, and the staff, has proven "successful and efficient," said McCoy.

The process, known as the "Easyset system," reduces and simplifies the paperwork required to register, program, record and report the activities of an increasing number of enrolled pupils.

The meeting was held with the idea that the system could be used here as well as in Dade County schools.

Legion Nominates Officers

The nominating committee of the American Legion #126 Auxiliary, Jensen Beach, presented a slate of officers at Monday night's meeting held at Legion Hall.

The committee included Mrs. Adah Belle Ruse, Mrs. Emma McCue and Mrs. Lorraine Middleton. Election of officers will be held at the April 24 meeting.

Three local girls will be sent to Girls' State at the University of Florida, Tallahassee. They are Marie Yankovich, Sue Crook and Kathy Martin.

Two guests attended the meeting, Mrs. Viola Gale, past president of the Gold Star Mothers from Rhodeland, and Mrs. Irene Zimmerman, past president, from West Virginia.

Hostesses who served refreshments were Mrs. Dottie Smouse, Mrs. Catherine Robertson, Mrs. Florence Combs and Mrs. Honey Friend.

Gulick Awarded

Gilbert Gulick, 18, senior at Martin County High School, has been notified that he has been awarded a Naval ROTC full scholarship.

Gulick, who lives with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Gilbert, Pines Mobile Village, Stuart, also received word he has been accepted by Georgia Tech to enter the fall term.

Gulick scored extremely well in physics, chemistry, and biology state-wide achievement tests, as well as other state tests, according to school officials.

Gulick, a native of Somers Point, N.J., has been active in the Beta and Science Clubs during his three years at the local high school.

River Water Quality Is Studied In Tallahassee

Water quality criteria for the Indian and St. Lucie Rivers under the Federal-state water quality control act were recommended to the State water quality control Advisory committee, headed by Nathaniel Reed of Hobe Sound, will be settled at the committee's meeting Friday at 10 a.m. in Tallahassee at the Capitol building.

The levels of rivers from Jacksonville south to Martin County was reached last week.

The rivers of the entire state must be classified before June 30, in the priority areas of the Federal act. After the rivers are classified the state will continue from year to year, of water in the state under guidelines established by the Federal water pollution control act.

The need for the water quality standards, Thomas O. Pheiffer, chief of the Federal water pollution control administration's southeastern region, told the committee, is to provide a yardstick for measuring progress toward cleaning up polluted waters, using this as a basis."

Reed said the conservationists are pleased with the overall standards set by the state board of health and has listened to conservation groups and organizations in the committee meetings.

Reed listed the categories with specific criteria, water for recreation, for shellfish harvesting, for propagation of fish and wildlife, for agriculture and industrial water supply, and for navigation, utility and industrial use.

Each grade has been given specific technical data of a wide variety of points, some of which are highly technical, and often overlapped.

Local conservationists have recommended "public water supply" for the St. Lucie Canal; recreation for St. Lucie North and South forks and the lower estuary and the west side of Indian river, plus the Loxahatchee River, and shellfish for the east side of the Indian River along Hutchinson Island.

The St. Lucie Canal request was probably unrealistic, Reed said Saturday, but suggested that those who wanted to continue the request, get the Board of Health to explain the category fully. He suggested "recreation" for the canal.

Reed said conservation director Randolph Hodges had ordered "another look" at the east side of the Indian River to determine whether the shellfish category could be justified there.

"Shellfish and recreation categories are high, but shellfish or contaminated easily, while recreation are open to those of some violators," he said.

Local interests in south county areas seek a "shellfish" labeling to the Loxahatchee River.

Reed suggested conservationists of Martin county seeking changes should be present for the Tallahassee meeting, Friday, at 10 a.m. in Tallahassee at the capitol building.

Reed pointed out that the representatives, sheriffs and public water supply agencies will eliminate wastes with task in Florida.

The Federal Water Pollution Control Administration will establish standards of purity for waters in the various states, either of abandoned public or private sources, and including sewage, garbage, refuse, industrial wastes or other matter in any form or condition, or any radioactive substance, or heat, in the waters flowing in interstate waters.

Reed said Florida; and to set up "immediate goals for clean-

Silverholdt, 1st vice-president; Mrs. Larry Ankrum, recording secretary; Mrs. J. D. Bartlett, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Robert Taylor, treasurer. Mrs. Neal Browning was chairman.

Record Microfilm

Microfilming of Martin County records started this week in the new first floor facility at the courthouse.

Working on the long-planned project will be done during the daytime hours by Carl Turner, while James Hipps will work at a night time shift.

Bids on equipment were accepted in December by the county commission at which time Eastman Kodak was the bidder at about $6,000. Auxiliary equipment manufactured by other firms was included in the initial purchases.

Records dating back to 1871 were among the first 80 pages copied in the new process.

Present plans are to run all past records of the county as soon as possible, then keep up with current recordings.

County Actions

The county commission meeting this week was among the longest of the year, and adjourned at 12 noon after many other actions, including votes to:

AUDIT- to Gov. Claude Kirk expressing opposition to change of laws which would permit purse seining, as asked by Hubert Stiller, president of the Martin Co. Chapter of the Organization of Florida Fishermen (OFF) with support from sports fishermen.

TRANSFER funds necessary to carry on county business to at least two accounts depleted by deposits in savings accounts, including $5,000 to the Capital Outlay and Reserve Fund, from which $7,497.47 had to be removed from the voucher list because it was too short to pay bills, and a proposed $15,000 deposit or transfer to the General Fund, which will be depleted by April 16 because of-of-investments from so-called surplus funds.

County attorney Dean Tucker warned that the overzealous search for interest apparently was leading to the transfer of funds or surplus for the county.

NAMED a 60-foot right-of-way from the 707A to the Savannas State Park facility in northeast Martin County for Neil Bristol, Jensen Beach, because of her designation of land to the county for that area.

HEARD by letter, that Mrs. Kirk had named Saunderson to represent Florida, with others, in a delegation led by Randolph Hodges, director of the Dept. of Conservation, to the May 30-June 2, 54th annual convention of the National Rivers and Harbors Conference at Washington.

Teachers Demand Six-Point Program

Demands for a six-point salary increase program were presented by members of Martin County Classroom Teachers Association at a work session of the school board last week.

The following six items were included in the demands:

1. A minimum starting base pay of $6,000, an increase from the $5,000 base pay adopted last June, which was a $200 per year increase across the board.

The increase was estimated at $278,000 in the coming fiscal year, an increase of about 1-1-2 mills on the tax rate, according to F. M. Boatright, schools' finance officer. Under present rules, he said, $128,000 would be borne by the ad valorem taxpayers, $150,000 under the Minimum Foundation by the state.

An increase of $100 in the basic pay schedule adopted last year would result in a $33,000 increase. But in the budget, he said, and no increase in base pay would result in a $1,000 increase, overall.

2. A new hospital-life insurance program with the school department paying $3, at an estimated cost of $7 per month per teacher.

Boatright estimated the plan would cost the taxpayers $30,600 a year, with 235 teachers and 130 non-teaching personnel involved.

3. A new arrangement on payment of full-salary instead of half-pay on sick leave allowances at retirement, limited to teachers a year retire.

4. A new plan for elementary school teachers to relieve them of lunchtime responsibilities. Cost of aides or baby sitters would run to about $20,000 for the taxpayers.

5. A program for sabbatical leave under which teachers would be paid fully for their seventh year while at study, but would contract to continue teaching here for three additional years.

6. Payments of salary checks twice in September. The teacher group said September was a difficult month and most teachers were broke, needed checks at the year's onset.

Chairman Joe Greenlees pointed out that the board omitted other needs of the school system last year in order to provide the $200 raise, $5,000 minimum figure in setting up a schedule which was to be tied to an index providing regular increases over the years for all teachers.

Greenlees said the $5,000 minimum placed this county high in the rolls of salary schedules among the state's 67 counties.

Other board members requested that CTA police its ranks, evaluate its incompetents, upgrade its standards through competency ratings.

James C. Woodall, who appeared on behalf of the principals, said no massive demands would be made by them, that the state-level policy by Florida Education Association would be deemed sufficient.

However, he urged the elimination of most, if not all, teaching principals in the elementary schools. Cindy J. D. Parker has a full-time, non-teaching principal, it was pointed out.

"Interruption sheets" have been kept by several of the principals, Woodall said, to point out that arrangements are not fair to teacher or pupil.

Governor Will Keynote

Many Will Attend Beach Erosion Symposium Here

One of the largest meetings of its kind in Florida history is being held in Stuart this week as the engineering symposium for beach erosion control gets under way today (Wednesday). Engineers and specialists on beach erosion and its many aspects are gathering to discuss ways to stop the ever-increasing erosion of Florida's east coast.

Eleven counties on the east coast of Florida are affected by the erosion. Fred Bell, Martin County engineer and spearhead of the county-sponsored event, said that the ultimate goal of the symposium would be a four or five-point program to combat beach erosion.

"We have the engineering know-how, but no one is doing anything about it. There is no money. Just half a million dollars appropriated in the last legislature, and of it only $200,000 went to projects. It is too little dribbled away. We need a plan, and we will hold committee meetings to draft a plan of action for the legislature," Bell said.

The meeting will be keynoted by Governor Claude Kirk on Thursday, following a Wednesday night "beach erosion party". Then the delegates attending will be subjected to speeches and panels on all aspects of erosion, including economic impact, coastal construction, management and finance, public and private beach utilization, structure design, research, surveys, coordination recreation and revenue and taxes.

Eighteen speakers are lined up for the two days of meetings on erosion.

Entertainment for the ladies attending with their husbands has been scheduled to include a fashion show, a field tour of homes and gardens on Jupiter Island and a field trip to the beaches and flower farms of Martin County.

Anglers Ask Netting Ban

A newly organized Martin County Anglers' Club has requested state legislators to take any necessary legal action to ban netting in the inland waters of Martin County, according to a statement released Tuesday by the club. The Anglers' Club claims to represent more than 1,000 petitioners.

The statement said the request was based on the following points:

1. Fish are a state resource; we are entitled as much to these fish as the netters; the efficiency of the nets enable the commercial fishermen to catch more than club members.

2. Netters claim they catch up to 100,000 pounds monthly from inland waters in this area, cite this to prove the importance of the business; the club cites tourists and residents who came here for the fishing, which is now deplorably poor.

3. Agreement that siltation, dredging, bulkheading are primary causes of poor fishing, but the contention that "while we have a very thick pallet" we should not draw more blood from that patient by unlimited netting of fish."

4. All other counties to the south of Martin ban inland netting.

5. They question the argument advanced by netters that they improve fishing when they drag nets on the bottom.

6. Netters still snook, possibly unintentionally, a fish that tolerates fresh water conditions.

7. Nets endanger boaters as well as fishing.

8. Netters often place nets in front of piers and channels to private boat moorings and defy private property owners desiring water access to their properties.

The club asked a bill but agreed to a referendum to be held, it was asked, between Nov. 1 and April 1.

The older conservation clubs and groups in the county, including the Izaak Walton League, have spoken on the side of the commercial fishermen, as has the Department of Conservation, through Ken Woodburn, specialist and biologist, department of fish management.

OFF To Elect Officers

The Organized Fishermen of Florida, newly organized, will meet April 29 at Everglades, Florida, in the high school auditorium, to elect officers and approve bylaws, according to Mrs. Jimmie Robinson of Everglades on Monday. Mrs. Robinson is OFF's representative.

The OFF members will meet with Gov. Claude Kirk and the cabinet April 25 in Tallahassee, when a delegation, including OFF's attorney, William J. Pruitt of Miami, will enter objections to purse seining along Florida coasts.

OFF has over 400 members from Key West to Port Salerno on the east coast, and from Everglades City to Cedar Key on the west coast. All are active commercial fishermen.

Hubert Stiller is president of the chapter established in Port Salerno.

In a purely local move, this chapter initiated action Monday aimed at written, as well as oral, opposition to a bill asked by a group of sports fishermen which would halt all commercial operations in the rivers.

Calling itself "Anglers Club," the new group is also opposed by other sports fishing groups in the county.

The proposed bill to outlaw gillnetting in the river is expected to be on the agenda of Saturday's legislative hearings here.

Crowder Elected CM Head

Joe S. Crowder, Stuart city manager, has been selected president of the Florida City Managers Association. The meeting was held at Winter Park Tuesday.

Crowder reiterated his 10th anniversary as city manager in Stuart several months ago.

Garvey Names Committee

James Garvey, executive vice-president of First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Martin County, who had been asked by Howard Hall, chairman of the county planning and zoning board, to name a selected committee of citizens to work with the board relative to Hutchinson Island zoning, announced the committee on Monday night.

Garvey, as requested, will serve, as will Lester M. Combs, radio station owner and Island resident; E. C. Wareheim, Jensen Beach banker; H. V. Johnson, president of Stuart Board of Realtors, and John M. Law, district manager for Florida Power & Light Co.

Hall said he, with Frank Forsberg, zoning board member in whose district Hutchinson Island lies, will meet with the committee informally at an early date. After the initial meeting, a series of work sessions of both the full zoning board and the new committee will concentrate on the problem until a decision is reached.

CONSERVATION OFFICER--John Peters is the new addition to the Department of Conservation. He will be stationed in the Jensen Beach area. Born in Gainesville, Peters who is unmarried, spent six years in the Navy. He has been with the department for six months, bringing Area 10's complement to seven conservation agents, according to Lt. Ronald R. Purdom. Boots Byrd will continue as the other Martin County conservation officer.

Water Situation Is Now Critical

Heavy and apparently unreasonable withdrawals of fresh water by some grove owners and nurseries in Martin County in the past week have raised a near-critical water situation in canals of the Central and Southern Florida Flood Control District, it reported to The Mirror on Monday. In the past week the gap opened between three and four feet and continued excessive withdrawals may exhaust supplies, Robert W. Padrick, FL Pierce, member of the FCD board has warned. Voluntary cooperation of all grove owners in limiting withdrawals to 12" upstream is required, Padrick said.

As of Friday the water level in Canal 23 (Bessie Creek Canal) along the Martin-St. Lucie County line stood at 16.7' above sea-level. This compares to a normal stage of 22' upstream of spillway 97. Water in Canal 24 rim ditch in St. Lucie County has receded to 18.3', compared to a normal of 20'. In Canal 25, Bessiner Canal, west of FL Pierce, stages had dropped to 16.5' upstream of spillway 99. This compares to a normal of 21'.

The cutoff point when no more water can be provided by the FCD is a stage of 14' in all these canals.

Rainfall has not been far below normal, the FCD noted. In February, rainfall of 2.59" was above normal. In March the actual rainfall of 2.19" was 1.3" below normal, but this alone would not cause any near-critical condition.

It appears that some citrus owners have been gripped by an apparent "hysteria" and have withdrawn excessive amounts of water. Padrick says. Ironically, the loss of fresh water by evaporation has been worsened by those grove owners who have water standing in grove ditches at all times, he said. Such conservationist unreasonable use can a critical condition be avoided until there is more rain.

On a hopeful note, Joel L. Grant, director of operations for FCD, indicated that if withdrawals are held to a minimum and excess water is put back into FCD canals for storage, it is possible that a shutoff of supply will be averted until mid-June rain falls.

A plan to augment water supplies in Martin-St. Lucie County canals by pumping water from Lake Okeechobee was unveiled this past week by the Army Corps of Engineers in a public hearing

Dozen Offered

Consider Jensen Sites

About a dozen parcels of land in the general area of Jensen Beach were offered the Martin County school board as possible sites for a new Jensen Beach school.

The offers were received in answer to advertisements placed by the board recently.

The State Board of Education survey team recommended construction of a new school between the Jensen Beach Elementary School and J. D. Parker School in Stuart.

Offered acreage ran from $1,090 per acre to $1,800 an acre. One offer was for a land swap and cash difference for the present Jensen Beach School, scheduled for abandonment under present plans.

All offers were made thru two realtors, W. B. Tilton of Jensen Beach and C. B. Arlington, Stuart.

Parcels ran from 20 to 80 acres. Most were located west and north of the U.S. Dixie Highway (441) railroad tracks, west of Jensen, and north of Ritch Street (Indian) or had access to both Savanna Rd., the street to be built as the S.R. 713, between U.S. 707 and the present south end of South Sewall's Pt., under a low bid made by the State Road Department for the project, Inc., for $129,149.24.

The Town of Ocean Breeze Park offered 25 acres of land, 1500' south of Legion Heights, and $40,000 cash for the present school site. The school land would be used for about 12 more months.

The offer from officials of Ocean Breeze Park was the only one received for the school plant, also advertised.

All offers will be studied, by other business, the board.

SET a special meeting to be followed by a work session for April 21, starting at 10 a.m.

APPROVED payment of $43,000 in bills;

APPOINTED Tyler Phillips teacher-principal of Hobe Sound; Robert Chancey teacher-principal at Palm City, both on annual contracts;

ach Erosion Comes First week a cottage on the beach fell ocean, victim of erosion. The loss ottage came at a most propitious for this weekend the top brass of corps of agencies interested in rosion will be meeting in Martin o discuss ways to combat erosion. come these leaders and offer their pleasures of meeting in this wonunty, We also charge them with the bility of getting the solving of beach problems off the ground and out of ical talk stage they have been in for group meeting here will be ofof the Florida Division of Beaches es, the Florida Beaches and Shores ation Agency, the Board of Conserhe Trustees of the Internal Improvend, the Outdoor Recreation Committe Industrial Commission. The numgencies indicates the magnitude of lems facing us today in beach and ion.

tate agency, probably the Division es and Shores, should be empowered on our problems in Florida. There y projects ready to be handled. For on a priority list should be eas, and the agency should get some oblems solved.

ering techniques are available. The blem is money. We hope that the f this meeting will be a mandate committee to begin taking the money for combating erosion and spending it on solving problems by priority, not dribbling the money away trying to keep all 11 counties on the coast of Florida happy.

The beaches are a $100 billion asset to Florida. They are why tourists come here. Thus far there has been little action and much talk about erosion. A new philosophy of erosion financing should be developed at this meeting.

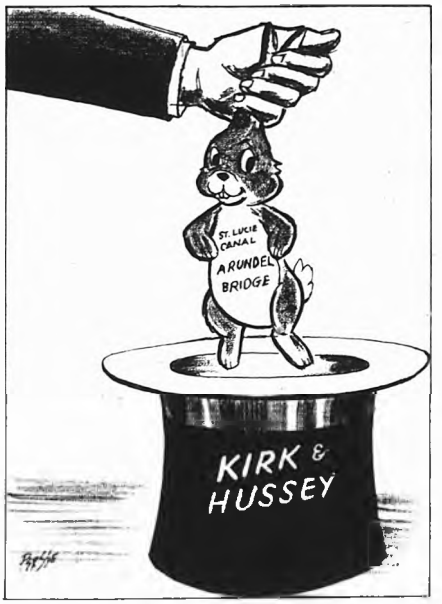
Last year a half million dollars was appropriated by the state for erosion; $200,000 of it got to the counties. Eleven counties competed for this money and Martin County got $2,800 for Bridge Road in Hobe Sound, $17,000 for a study in Jupiter, and $11,000 for the St. Lucie Inlet.

Not federal funds were expended here for erosion.

Only St. Lucie County has taken the bull by the horns and set up a local tax to pay for beach erosion projects. They have a good idea in getting a job done through local financing, similar to the old St. Lucie Inlet Taxing District here.

We welcome the engineers and the officials of state agencies to this Martin County meeting. We are proud that the event was sponsored and handled by our local county commission and through county engineer Fred Bell. But we cannot forget that the many who come should go away with a plan of action... something that will do a job.

We wish them ever, success in their deliberations.



Magic Act

IFICATION CHECK- Mrs. Julia Gessner, representing the Stuart Garden Club, pre a check for $1,000 to Martin County commissioner Jack Saunderson as Fred irman of the county beautification committee, smiled his appreciation. The city was ree for Bell, and on of the many unveilfish acts by the Garden Club in its beauti program.

The Cost Of Beauty

week the Stuart Garden Club put hey where its heart is...right into tification of Martin County. The of the garden club donated $1,000 Martin County beautification. Proid in doing so foreestablished a very precedent.

ladies of the Stuart Garden Club did gift that the money must be spent fic...they specified that the county should spend it as the law fix. This h gesture is sure to expand into a l cooperation between the many comup and down the length of Martin gesture was made in the interests of beautification, not in the interests of g one group of any one town.

That is what makes the gift of the Garden Club one of immeasurable nce. The ladies probably didn't even al their name "Stuart Garden Club" meant that they had to do all their beautification in Stuart.

We remember when the ladies of the same club donated and oversaw the planting of orchid trees in the median strip of U.S. 1, south of Hobe Sound, near the Martin-Palm Beach County line. They led the planting for beautification, not for any provincial reasons.

The lesson of the ladies of the Stuart Garden Club is one that will give all organizations in all counties "the pause to a reflection on their own policies in the future. The good of Martin County should come first, not just, and a spirit of forgetfulness and mutual help should prevail over the affronts heard lately between Stuart and Jensen, Jensen and Stuart, Palm City and Salerno, Salerno and Hobe Sound, Indiantown and whatever...

We salute the unselfish, dedicated ladies of the Stuart Garden Club. They are great.

GRASSROOTS OPINION

"We read, just the other day, of a retail store in the East which carried the following thought-provoking sign: 'This store does not advertise. This savings goes to my customers'. This kind of inverted thinking drops advertising is a form of personal charity. That, you may be sure, is not the reason that the giants of American industry spend millions of dollars every year in advertising. The only good involved as they see it, is theirs. These big and successful companies are not philanthropic agencies. When they spend money they insist on getting a good return for it. And they know that they get it through newspaper advertising."

Grafton, N.C., Record

"There is no reasonable answer in trying to understand why young people, many from very fine families, go out and break and destroy property that belongs to other people....The fantastic costs to individuals and the public alike for the destruction wrought by vandals amounts each year. All levels of government are seeking solutions and the answers to combating the problem....There will be no easy or pat answers to the complex world of our young where destruction of property seems to be a pattern of action that is unfathomable to an adult. But the vandal and his actions are a challenge to society and one that must be solved for his sake and that of this very nation."

Star Review
Whittier, Cal.

"We want our young people to be able to think for themselves and to be active participants in community life, but we also want them to realize that freedom and justice are secured by law and order; that lasting rights and privileges are possible only by acceptance of responsibilities and obligations."

Cannelton, Ind., News

"While the business and professional man has become a popular whipping boy for all who care to throw stones...the taxes produced by these so-called 'bad guys' form the backbone of our community."

Fishermen Are Being Suckered

"Dear SIr; I cannot renew my subscription because of your attitude toward the 700-1000 people that were (sic) opposed to the netting in the rivers."

The move to outlaw the commercial netting from Martin County rivers is not dead. It is just beginning.

I have never opposed, nor has The Mirror opposed, the ban of net fishing; neither have I, or The Mirror, supported it. I want more information before I make up my mind.

Unfortunately, some sport fishermen do not need such information. They are ready to ban netting without knowing what they are banning, or why. When the sport fishermen signed petitions, they became a part of what is turning out to be a strong political action committee, one I think destroying the net fishing in the rivers without benefit of hearing of views of the individuals.

The leader of the group seems to be Captain Reed, who says he was a financial editor of a newspaper up north. He holds secret meetings with his friends, where they list and plot against the netters. It is easy to name the netters, nonsports, when they cannot defend themselves, and it is easy to organize whatever you want as long as the press is not there to ask questions.

In a telephone conversation with Wood, I heard the following comments that made me very wary of this group and its plans. Wood said things like "We are going to smash them (the netters) with a sledgehammer," and "If the politicians don't support this bill we will defeat them," and "We are going to run from the netters out of Martin County." He added that his group had the full support of the Republican candidates for office, and he had been assured that they would introduce a bill to outlaw netting.

At that time (just before the election) I asked if Wood had contacted the Democratic Party for support. "Wood, I have a call in now for Bill Owens," he said, "Hey," I said, "I mean the Democratic Committee." He then told me that he didn't have time to get all the ways to train Reed to see the committee chairman.

"We are in Martin County, Mr. Wood," I said. "There is a Democratic Committee here."

"Oh, is there?" he said. "Who is the chairman?"

I said, "Ed Murray."

Murray was contacted by Wood later, being asked for support in the anti-netting battle. Murray said he could not take action without more information. Wood promised more information, but never contacted the Democratic chairman again.

The support of the Republican Party, according to Martin County GOP chairman Dr. William G. Myers, was based first on a more strict enforcement of the laws governing netting in the rivers. Then, if enforcement cannot be, a banning of netting through a referendum. Even then, Myers said that the referendum should be based not on emotion, but on facts. Wood seems to avoid facts.

"First, there should be more eye-ball to eye-ball meetings between the netters and the sport fishermen," Myers said. "They should try to work out their differences."

Wood has avoided public meetings with the press present, and even denied The Mirror the right to sit in on a meeting. He has done his petitioning and planning under cover of secret meetings with his supporters. It is difficult for those supporters to be properly informed without having serious information on both sides of the subject.

Wood has the answers to the opposition, though.

In a two-and telephone conversation with Wood, I mentioned that the conservation department studies indicated, one of the most highly respected scientists in Florida, had said that netting does little to deplete the fish in the rivers. Wood thought and said it was dredging and filling and added that we are presently in the process of doing it. Wood said that the netters can do as much damage as they want as long as the press is not there to ask questions.

Wood said that the netters can do as much damage as they want as long as the press is not there to ask questions.

But what was in that bill he talked about? Wood would not say. No one had the facts.

I mentioned that Chuck Kindred, one of Florida's most outstanding conservationalists, and former state president of the Izaak Walton League, opposed the abolishment of netting. Wood gave Kindred's reason for opposing it as, "Well, he sells to the netters. You can't expect him to take food out of his mouth." Kindred probably sells 90% of his sports equipment to sports fishermen, and more than in Martin County has been a stronger supporter of sports fishing and conservation of the rivers and waterways.

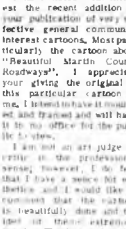
I could go on with more examples of why the committee directing this effort to abolish netting is dangerous. It is operating on emotion, not on facts. Words and reasons are twisted until there are no honest opinions left. Facts are distorted, or twisted.

Wood and his committee are making suckers out of the sports fishermen, for the fishermen are backing a move on the basis of emotion, not fact. They are making a political action committee that resorts to threats and economic pressure to bring people into line.

The press of Martin County is watching Mr. Wood and his committee, ready to correct any misleading information that leaks out of secret meetings, and ready to trade sensible negotiation for mass-hypnotic emotionalism.

If Mr. Wood will line up his facts, substantiate them with scientific information, and then appeal to the people for support, he will find the press ready to support his moves. If it is in the best interests of the people.

Truth is a fearful weapon in the hands of the people. We will use it.



LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To The Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank you and your staff for the assistance that you provided us in our drive to obtain more volunteer workers.

The advertisement that was placed in your paper, free of charge, was most helpful. Several of those volunteers who are taking training in our first aid course, passed the association as a result of the ad.

Your paper and your staff have been most helpful to us during this drive, and all efforts in the past.

The volunteer situation of the Central Martin County Ambulance Association, Inc., has not been solved, but conditions are a little better than they were when the drive started. Several of our daytime shifts are still understanded, and without the proper personnel, it becomes increasingly difficult to provide the type of service desired by members of the association. If the people of central Martin County will lend their support, I feel sure the problem can be met and overcome.

Special legislation from Martin County will be offered in this session of the legislature that will enable the county to provide this service if the volunteer associations are unable to do so. With this service turned over to the county, an increase in taxes would follow. It is the desire of the board of directors of the central Martin County Ambulance Association, Inc. that the residents of this area provide this much needed service for themselves. This is possible by joining and participating in one of the volunteer ambulance service in the county Jensen, Ocean Breeze, Hobe Sound, Indiantown or Central Martin County. All need the support of residents in their area.

Once again, thanks to you and your staff for the wonderful cooperation and support that you gave in our recent drive for workers.

Sincerely yours,
Jim Humphrey
President, Central
Martin County Ambulance Assn., Inc.

To The Editor:

I have noted with interest the recent addition to your publication of very effective general community interest cartoons, Most particularly the cartoon about "Beautiful Martin County Roadways", I appreciate your giving the original of this particular cartoon to me. I intend to have it mounted and framed and will hang it in my office for the public to view.

I am not an art judge or critic in the professional sense, however I do feel that I have a sence bit esthetics and I would like to express that the cartoon is beautifully done and the idea is extremely timely. Thank you for this gift.

Very truly yours,
Frederick L. Bell, C.E.

To The Editor:

Please put the following in your paper:

"Stop the "Leaks" of spawning fish."

The time has come when it is necessary to eliminate the man-made netting from the Indian River and the Rivers in Martin County. It is very apparent they can not be controlled by law, and for the good of the motels, restaurants, sporting goods stores, gas stations and all other merchants the action should be taken at once. If not, at least in order to give hundred of us regular winter visitors to your area will not return.

As one who fishes the fishing this past season was not up to par. Why let every fish be strained from your rivers before it is too late?

Also put a stop to all tourists selling fish except the ones that have licensed casting nets.

A Northern Sports Fisherman

To The Editor:

I cannot renew my subscription because of your attitude toward the 700-1000 people that were opposed to the netting in the rivers.

That many people surely can't be wrong. I believe that most of those people were not aware of the netting when they wrote to your paper as the majority were from Jensen Beach area.

Dick, with your help or without your help we are going to stop the netting in the rivers. 4,000 out-of-state residents to your county, a county that offers little more than fishing and sunshine, people that own some kind of property most likely, people that buy groceries, clothing, gasoline, fishing tackle, boats and many other items and merchants have to offer should be catered to much more than about 20 netters.

Please get off the fence and join the many people that support your paper and county by helping us stop the netting.

Glen Skidmore

P.S. I talked to several people that said they were not coming back next year because of the poor fishing and netting.

To The Editor:

It is my pleasure to thank you on behalf of St. Joseph Catholic Church, and myself as publicity chairman, for your many kindnesses and generosity of news space for the numerous announcements necessary to the success of our various activities, religious and secular.

Thank you also, for using that magic wand to make an amateur's "copy" professional.

Sincerely,
(Mrs.) Evelyn Stumpf

why minor law infractions cannot be ignored

Some people believe that minor infractions of the law are nothing to be concerned about that only the big ones matter. This is dangerous reasoning in America. human rights are protected by law, and are secure just so long as the law is upheld. Infractions, large or small, breed on disrespect. Without respect, the law loses its force, and the rights of protects are endangered. Human rights once forfeited are difficult to regain. This is one reason why we observe Law Day U.S.A. on May 1.

Travel Trailers Gather In Lilbit Lane

Our park management had a great idea when after filling the marina in front of the park office, they decided to use it for travel trailers only. Lilbit Lane, as it is now called, has undergone a miraculous transformation in the past six months. The marina had scarcely been used for boats since the 1965 hurricane had damaged it, so last fall the work of filling began. Many hundreds of loads of sand were hauled from across the tracks to fill this big hole. After the fill reached the proper level, electric wiring, water pipes and sewerage had to be installed to. Concrete slabs for patios were laid, then top soil and grass seeded, also some trees and shrubs were planted.

Almost before it was ready, trailers began to arrive and by about Christmas time, it was full and soon became the most popular place in the park. Travel trailer dwellers have much in common and very soon this latest addition to our park became a friendly, sociable, little community.

Thursday April 13, was another bright sunny day when I called on residents of Lilbit Lane. Some were absorbing our Florida sun while others preferred the shade of their patio awning. Mr. and Mrs. Alex Baldwin are two Canadians who regret the approaching end to their Florida vacation. Baldwin has a job with the Department of National Defense at Ottawa, and he said, "I may be out of a job if I don't get away from here soon." The pictures this week were all taken April 13, in Lilbit Lane.

HANDWORK—Flora Schultz and Frances Anderson are enjoying the sun while making sea-shell "flowerpots".

PROLONGED VISITORS- Mr. and Mrs. Curwin, one of the first trailers on Lilbit Lane, came for two weeks but are still here. Note their flower garden. They also love to feed the chicks.

COLLECTION—Al Schultz displays shells, most of which he picked up on our local beaches.

Howchins Celebrate Golden Anniversary

Friday, April 7, was Don and Agnes Houchin's 50th wedding anniversary, so Mr. & Mrs. John Kerr, Mr. & Mrs. Bud Lockler, Mr. & Mrs. Otto Curry, and Mr. & Mrs. Ervin McLain took the Houchins to the Dorothy Vernon restaurant near Apple City, where they all celebrated the occasion. The Houchins received about 90 congratulatory cards also congratulations from Lester B. Pearson, Prime Minister of Canada; Mr. J. G. Diefenbaker, leader of the opposition; Mr. John P. Roberts, M.P. for York County; and Mr. A. M. Campbell, mayor of Scarborough, Ontario, which is the Houchin's home town. Don is well known for his art instructor and his friends wish Don and Agnes many more happy years of married life.

Spring Comes To Ocean Breeze

Spring is Spring wherever you are and Ocean Breeze is no exception. It is true, so close to the tropics as we are, nature seems a little confused and reversed from different species have been losing their old leaves and replacing them with new ones since mid January. Various flowering vines and trees have changed their displays such as the same vine which added sensational patches of color from early January and at this time is treating us to an unusual late "Return." Northern flowers such as the petunias have been with us all winter but at this time seem to be putting on a special effort to reward their owners for the tender care they have lavished on them through the winter. Speaking of flowers, the African flamevine has more than done it's share of beautifying the park with it's bright orange delay-ilke, masses of blossoms the past two or three weeks. East Ocean Boulevard, Stuart, last week was a pretty picture with it's golden shower and the pink trumpet trees in full bloom.

Our familiar pelicans have disappeared. Like many other birds, they have domestic matters to attend so and a family to raise. But is are not the only beings that are disappearing. Our winter human friends are fast closing up their trailers and heading north. Another sign of spring is noticeable the way it affect said human. As the sun climbs higher in the sky day after day, more and more people seek the shade. The sandbar and its favorite hangout is fast early morning or hour in the evening, every part is filled. There are a few eager stuffers—starlet-sotting jetsetters with their yachts are also visible in the bay. Chibaza, Clyde Rettiger, Archie Faille and Myrtle Ellingston engaged in a "surf" game on the sandbar.

By the way, our duck family are still with us. There seems to be a competition in progress as to who shall be the official feeder of the [illegible] Mallard [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Join To Preserve Our Waterways, Judge Crary Tells Yachtsmen

A call to have the members of The Anchorage Yacht Club join forces with the many groups working actively to preserve and protect the waterways of Martin County was given by Judge Evans Crary, Jr. last Saturday night as the annual installation of officers was held at the yacht club.

Over one hundred and fifty members of the yacht club, many dressed in flowing ball gowns and tuxedos, listened intently as Crary charged them with the responsibility to keep the waterways and the rivers of Martin County "so that we may enjoy them, and our children do the same."

Crary pointed to the fact that, as a child, he could dive off the Palm City Bridge and "never find the bottom." Now, he added, the silt from the St. Lucie Canal overflow has filled up that part of the river, and the river all the way to the St. Lucie Inlet.

Crary also was installing officer for the celebration ball. He charged the new officers and directors with their duties in the hour-long ceremonial presentation at the banquet dinner.

G. M. Robinson was installed commodore, and the following officers were installed in their ranks; stuart hartneau, vice-commodore; John Santarsiero, rear commodore; Frank Beardsley, fleet captain; Dr. R. G. Penick, fleet surgeon; Grace Miller, secretary; Dorothy Titus, corresponding secretary.

Board of directors, two-years, Richard Pryor, Gene Pollard, Joyce Kentfall and Lois Kristoffersen; one-year, Engel Petersen, Bill Gass, Al Palmer and Fred (Cotton) Rogers.

Following the installation, the guests at the ball danced to the music of the Doug Rumpa Trio.

Outgoing commodore Jack Addy said, following the party, "It was a perfect climax to the year. I think we had a good year."

Past commodores of the organization received life membership in the form of engraved silver metal scrip cards. Also, Don Johnson, manager of The Anchorage Boatel and Marina, received a life membership "for his many years of working and helping our yacht club to grow."

Friendship, in its truest sense, is next to love the most abused of words. One may call each "friend" and be still ignorant of that sentiment, nobler than passion, warmer than respect, more just and generous than either, which recognizes a kindred spirit in another, and claiming its right, keeps it sacred by the wise reserve that is to friendship what the purple bloom is to the grape, a charm, which once destroyed can never be restored.

Voting Machine Custodian Commended

J. George Smith, custodian of Martin County's voting machines, won compliments from R. F. Shoup, II, of The Shoup Voting Machine Corp., for having "three perfect elections."

In a letter to county commission chairman Jack F. Saunderson, Shoup reported that Smith's record "was indeed rare." No errors were found when the machines were checked out.

Smith was brought out of retirement by Mrs. Isabel Evans after Tommy Hellier, who had been custodian for many years, retired.

Mrs. Evans said she had quite a time convincing Smith he should take the job. He is her husband, but she has continued with her former name so voters would not be confused.

Shoup, through Saunderson, has offered Smith the opportunity of attending a week's custodian school at the Shoup factory in Canton, Ohio. The school is offered "free", with the county paying trip expenses. No decision has been reached.

Woman's Club To Install

The Woman's Club of Stuart will hold its installation of officers Wednesday, April 26 at 12:30 p.m. at St. Lucie Country Club.

Hostesses are Mrs. J. M. Hallenstell, Miss Jean Roos, Miss Helen Funnell, Mrs. Joseph Jarrell, Mrs. Howard West, Mrs. Raymond Robinson and Mrs. Howard Morgan.

Reservations should be made by April 20 by calling 287-5557 or 287-4915.

Mrs. Ruth G. Frawley of Palms Cottages, filed a quiet title suit against Ernest C. and Maxine McGuinness, of Rivers Edge Motel, both on Indian River Drive, Jensen Beach, on Monday.

Reason for the suit was given as "overlapping lot lines." Both owners claim title from a common source, Jensen Fruit Co.

Intimations in the suit were that either attorneys, abstractors, real estate agents or surveyors failed to carry out their part of the conveyance work in the past few years.

Fishing Charges Heard

Local conservationists attended county court Thursday to observe the results of several river fishing cases on the pleas day docket. Sentence of $40 or 15 days was levied against each of two brothers charged with illegal length of net. They were Early G. and Maurice Polk, both of Port Salerno.

Judge Mallory L. Johnson sentenced Franklin M. Murphy to $10 or three days for having no running lights on his boat.

Jimmie B. Williams and Jack Lawrence, both of Port Salerno, found guilty of illegal possession of snook, by a county court jury, were represented by counsel.

Their motion for a new trial was denied and the case was continued until April 21, pending filing an appeal in circuit court.

Local Waters High In Purity

Coastal waters in Martin County were catalogued high on the scale of water purity by the State Water Quality Control Board at a hearing held in Tallahassee last week, according to Philip (Bill) Lund, conservationist.

The ratings were supported by both Lund and Chuck Kindred, who appeared for the Martin County Conservation Council.

Indian River from Middle Cove on Hutchinson Island to St. Lucie Inlet, east of the channel of the Intracoastal Waterway, was classified "shellfish" quality, as was the Intracoastal Waterway in its entirety from the Crossroads south to Bear's Lake. From there to Jupiter Inlet and the Loxahatchee River, water was given "recreation" rating, third on the scale.

Indian River west of the channel north of the Crossroads to the county line was rated "recreation."

The Loxahatchee River was not rated pending studies urged by Lund, who asked that the stream be rated "shellfish". It was headed for a rating of "recreation" from the railroad bridge upstream.

St. Lucie River north and south forks were rated "recreation", with the exception of "man and oysters don't get along."

St. Lucie Canal will be rated later when Nathaniel Reed's board moves in from the coast in its studies.

Firemen Fight Blaze

Two trucks from Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department answered a call on an automobile affire south of the House of Refuge on Hutchinson Island about 5:30 Jaily Thursday.

The car, owned by Herbert Kernochan of Ansonia, Conn., was parked along the beach road while its owners walked the beach. The fire was caused by a cigarette thrown in the dark seat by someone, according to Fire Chief Randolph Spinney.

The Kernochans, staying at a Jensen Beach motel for about two weeks, said they had been troubled by the driver of a black touring car with Florida plates which "drove up to us, used a nasty tongue to scare us, then sped away," said Mrs. Kernochan.

About $800 damage was done to the 1962 Comet. Damage in the car was a total loss.

A Haid Full Of Sporting Tips

by Howard Lee Haid

Few people get more satisfaction from life than a game warden who really loves his work, even though the job is seldom easy. Such a man makes his own job. He practically lives in and works out of his car, which is a miniature quartermaster depot. More often than not it's crammed with writing pads, a sleeping bag, maps, binoculars, license blanks, hip boots, outboard motor, firearms, two-way radio, thermos of hot coffee, and maybe an old beagle that rides along for company. This man is in the public eye; lots of people know him so he must be a good example to other sportsmen.

HOW LONG SINCE you checked your rod guides, especially the tip-tops, for grooves and rough spots? Easiest way to find these line scrapers is to pull a nylon stocking through them. If the stocking catches or runs, smooth the rough spot by buffing it with emery cloth.

HERE'S AN EASY way to rust-proof hooks and prevent metal lures from tarnishing. Heat some petroleum jelly (Vaseline) until it becomes liquid, dip the lures in it and hang them up to let the surplus drain off. This leaves a colorless film that, unlike oil, has no odor to repel fish.

RUNNING an outboard motor out of water, even for a short test, can be risky. This may damage the rubber waterpump impeller, which should be wet when operating. There's also danger from the whirling prop, if you don't have a water barrel, wait until launching time.

TENTS are getting bigger and better, and other camping equipment is being improved, too. No matter what brand of camping you like, you can choose these days between the simple and the elaborate, the costly and the inexpensive. And if you ever decide to trade up in camping, there is a wide range of choices.

HOW DO YOU hang up your camp lantern? A cost hanger bent into a hook will support it from a tree limb or if there's a tree handy where you want it, I've been testing a good alternate for this. It's called a "Sky Hook." It's a telescoping, lightweight staff from which the lantern hangs. It can be stuck into the ground or clamped to a picnic table or boat gunwale.

Record Catch

A new record 14-lb. 4 oz. spotted sea trout was caught April 7 by Clarence McGee of Palm City. The fish was caught on rod and reel, using a lure, in the Indian River.

Dr. Walter Stokes of Stuart caught an 11 lb. 11 oz. black bass April 16.

Both fish have been entered in the Stuart Sailfish Tourney.

FRESH WATER FISHING--Fishing in the fresh-water Savannas, Jensen Beach, is mighty fine as proved by Martin County Deputy Sheriff Jack Curry of Port Salerno, and Florida Highway Patrolman George Emerson, Stuart. These fishermen caught the above black bass, the one at left weighing over 12 pounds, after fishing only a couple of hours.

Carroll's 1930 Ford Wins First

Rick Carroll's 1930 Model A Ford Cabriolet won first in a Model A Ford class competition at the annual Spring Antique Automobile Club of America meet in Winter Park last weekend. Carroll's Ford missed winning best-of-show by two points, he said.

Sixteen Model A Fords were entered in the show, including several top state prize-winning entries.

Awards are based on the authenticity of the automobile, from nuts and bolts on frame to headlights.

Accompanying Carroll was his wife, Judie.

Also at the show were Dr. and Mrs. Richard Q. Pentick, Jensen Beach, in a 1930 Model A 4-door sedan; Jimmy Tyson and Jim Jones, of Stuart; Lee and Ethel Sweet of Jensen Beach, and Paul Scofield, Jensen Beach, with his 1931 12-cylinder Pierce Arrow.

3 Tourneys

Three major golf tournaments of statewide interest will be held within the next month at St. Lucie Country Club. Participants will include some of the best amateur golfers in and around the State of Florida.

The meets include a state high school tournament for boys and girls April 20-21, a member invitational of the Florida State Golf Association, with more than 200 men amateurs April 27-30; and a state junior college championship, men, May 3-6.

Tigers Take Western Division Championship

Martin County High School Tigers won the Suncoast Conference Western Division baseball championship for the second straight year over the weekend with two one-run victories.

The Tigers defeated Pahokee 5-4 Friday in a home-game game and clinched the championship with a 6-5 victory at Okeechobee Saturday.

The two wins gave MCHS an 8-2-2 finish in the division, Boca Raton was second with 8-3-1.

Bob Thompson, despite thumps he suffered during the season, did yeoman duty in both games. He relieved Jim Dragseth in the sixth on Friday and struck out three of the seven men he faced. On Saturday he held Okeechobee to six hits, fanned seven and walked two.

Six of the Tigers' eight conference wins were by one run. That's why the coach says because these kids don't know how to give up," said Cliff Rollins, coach.

The Tigers tie for four runs in the fifth against Pahokee, George Funk hit a bases-loaded ball out right. It followed the three runners on an overthrow, with the winning run. He had also singled earlier in the game.

The Tigers struck for four runs in the first inning of the Okeechobee game, getting seven hits, but leaving bases loaded on the third out. Mike Snipes led the 12-hit round with three singles. Dragseth added two hits and two runs batted in; Lance Kahle scored two hits and three runs batted in.

Chips, Divots And Tips

by Matt Moore

We started our summer season with a mixed foursome Sunday, and 44 men and women turned out. A lot for this season is very good.

The winning foursome was Fred Thomas, Edmund Ward, Carol Volder and Bill Volder. For combined low net of four, the winning score was 295. Second place went to the Cliff Lucas with the Jones Wilsons. Third went to the Charles Grants with the Bill Hartsells.

Winning team in the blitz Saturday was Charlie Grant with Charlie Gipe, Elmer Pond and John Bateman.

Fundamentals of Golf

The head and feet are your balance points in a golf swing and they allow the other parts to work. Since everything to do with a golf swing has a certain order, we will take it from the foundation up.

The hips are really the understructure for the whole swing and theoretically is the hub of the swing. A golf swing like a wheel has a spoke which is the left arm and a rim which is the club head. The transmission of power is from the body to the arms to the hands to the club to the ball. The proper balance finds the weight on the left hip at the start, on the right hip for the back swing and back to the left hip for the hit and to the finish.

Turn is easy in golf swing, but the side to side balance is hard because it requires good footwork and good balance of your head. The correct order of movement for the hips is to shift to the left turn. Play the ball opposite the left heel at the start and balance on your left hip and you will find more power and more accuracy in your swing.

AND CLEARING--An end-loader clears underbrush from the new subdivision, Indian River Gardens, as the developers, Dr. A. J. Wiegand, right, and Frank Forsberg, left, direct the cleanup. The land is located at Skyline Drive, at rear, and on both sides of Indian River Drive (Hwy. 707), Jensen Beach.

Dr. A. J. Wiegand Develops 34 Lots

Indian River Gardens Is New Subdivision

The first new subdivision to be developed in the Jensen Beach area in several years is under way recently. It will load clearing and planning for South Indian River Drive and Skyline Drive, east of the Florida East Coast railroad tracks. Tobe developed by Dr. A. J. Wiegand, owner of the property, and Frank Forsberg, engineer.

A 34-lot plan is to be developed according to Mr. Wiegand. The 34 lots will range from 1 1/2 to 3 1/2 acres. There are waterfront lots on the Indian River, east of Indian River Drive and half-acre lots on the property west of the Drive.

The subdivision is on both sides of Skyline Drive, one block back from its dead-end into Indian River Drive. There are 15 acres of land involved in the subdivision.

At present the land is being cleared, and bulkheading of the land fill into the Indian River is being completed.

Forsberg stated that a model home will be built, for completion in June. A landscaped entrance is planned, and a row of coconut palms will line both sides of Skyline Drive to the drive, and then north and south to the property line.

Restrictions for building in the subdivision will include approval of architecture, all paved or approved driveways, and hidden full-flush containers.

"We hope to make this a development of which we can be proud," said Wiegand, who has a $50,000 home on the point of land jutting into the Indian River. "It is our reason we have left the trees and plan to make the 'garden' part of our name a reality as homes are developed."

Utility Bond Issue Validated

Stuart's $250,000 utility bond issue of 1966 was validated in circuit court late last week in a brief, uncontested hearing before Judge Wallace Sample of Ft. Pierce.

City manager Joe S. Crowder, sole witness to testify, was questioned by city attorney T. T. Oughterson. Crowder cited the ability of the city to back the revenue certificate issue with utility revenue from utilities or a pledge of utilities and cigarette taxes if needed.

Up to $2,300 bonds maturing in the years from 1968 to 1986, starting at $5,000 a year and ending (partially) at $40,000 a year, are issued. This figure is the amount of Federal participation under the already-approved housing and Urban Development grant of $134,700 and bids on the projects to be done.

Projects include a million gallon water storage tower, level tank near the sewage station at the corner of East 10th St. and Palm Beach Rd., Dessen Addition sewer mains; a lift station at 1st St., and extensions of water mains.

After a waiting period of 21 days, the issue will be advertised for interest only, with a limit of six per cent. Bids are due on Monday, June 5. The issue will bear the 1966 series date, although validated in 1967.

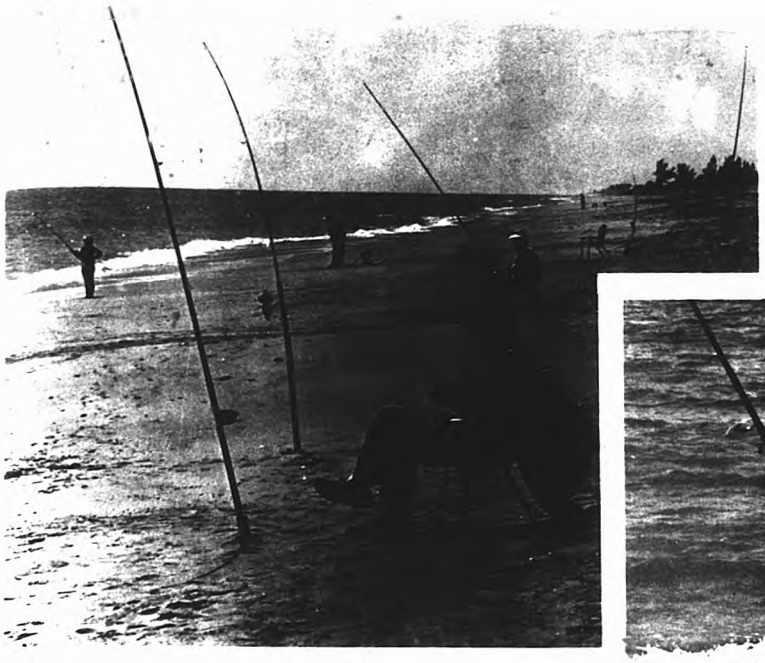
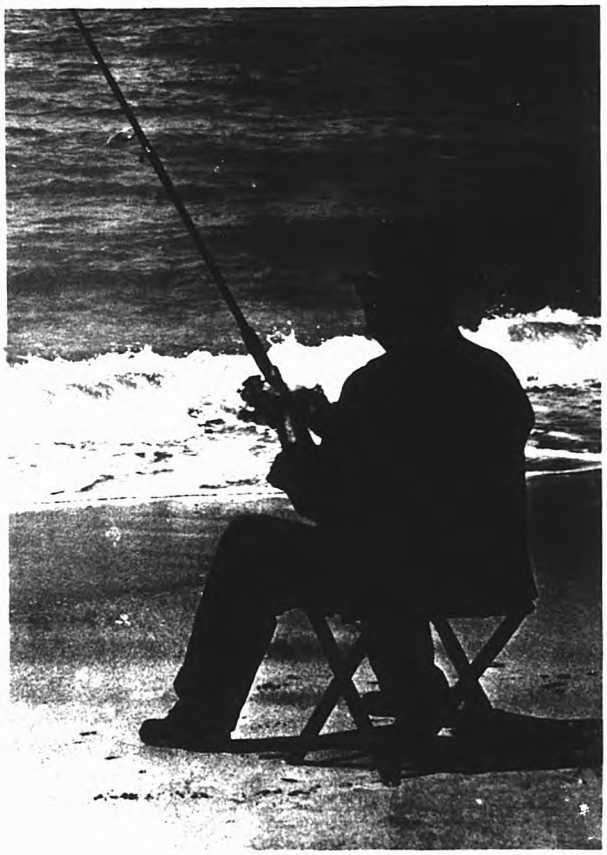
Literature and Information On Jensen Beach-Rio - Sewall's Point



Just Fishin'

Surf fishing on Martin County's white sand beaches is one of the greatest assets offered to visitors. What a fine way to spend a day.



Or Plain Relaxin'

Some people are fishermen - some are watchers. This colorful gentleman enjoys a book, the shade of a palm tree, the ocean's roar - and relaxin'.

There is plenty to see at the annual Rodeo held every winter.

Basketball for the elemtary school as well as the high school team.

Sports And Recreation Of All Types Are Here

For the outdoor enthusiast, the Jensen Beach area is close to Paradise. Fishing and boating are perhaps most popular, followed by swimming, surfing and organized sports.

Free bridges across the mile-wide Indian River take the surf fisherman to miles of white beaches. The new, modern Frank A. Wacha Bridge from Jensen Beach to Hutchinson Island provides lighted fishing walks parallel with the bridges, on the northeast and southwest sides, where fishermen may fish in safety just a few feet above the water.

Or try your hand at the deep sea variety, river fishing from boats, or fresh water fishing from canals or the Savannas, a series of fresh water lakes located between Jensen Beach and Ft. Pierce.

Boating of all types- sail or motor- provides entertainment for sportsmen, weather the craft be a tiny outboard or a luxurious yacht. Casual boating is a daily thing, but there are also organized boat races for the various type craft.

And, of course, there is swimming in the ocean, rivers and pools. Beach activities play a major role in the daily life of Martin County residents. A refreshing dip in the beautiful Indian River off Jensen Beach Causeway, or a plunge in the ocean on Hutchinson Island are attractions to people of all ages both winter and summer.

For the younger set there is the ever-popular surfing, and the cry, "Surf's Up" is answered by dozens of teenagers who enjoy this sport. Adults watch the action with much interest and amusement.

For those who like competition but prefer less strenuous sports, there is shuffleboard on free, lighted courts. Jensen Beach also boasts a large night-lighted ball field at Langford Park where new bleachers have been erected in addition to rest rooms and a concession stand.

Here, softball leagues meet, men's teams, girls, Peanut and Little Leagues. Competition is keen and players and spectators enjoy the action.

A comfortable, modern, air-conditioned bowling center, with seating and drinking facilities, is located in Jensen Beach.

The recreational picture is complete without golf, and Jensen residents can test their skill on three excellent courses nearby: Saints and Sinners at St. Lucie Country Club, and one at Martin County Golf and Country Club. Tennis enthusiasts have access to municipal courts in nearby Stuart, and horseback riding is popular in the area with frequent shows and competitions staged locally.

All forms of athletics are scheduled at Martin County schools, football, basketball, baseball and the like.

Ashley Gang Is Area's Story Of Gangsters

Fifty-five years ago last December 25, some 25 miles inland from Ft. Lauderdale, a dredge cutting a canal from Lake Okeechobee to the sea brought up the body of a Seminole Indian.

Investigation of the discovery of Desoto Tiger's body sparked a manhunt that ended suddenly at Hobe Sound, then such a vague spot on the map history refers to it as Olympia, where it had been rumored that John Ashley had been hiding.

The investigation had revealed that Ashley and Tiger had been seen together in a boat laden with otter hides, and that the hides subsequently had been disposed of by Ashley for $1,200 in Miami.

Sheriff George B. Baker of the then newly-formed Palm Beach County, sent his deputies, S. A. Barfield of Pahokee, and Bob Hannon of West Palm Beach, to hunt down Ashley.

Not particularly worried or alert, the deputies were walking along Dixie Highway at Fruita, now known chiefly as a palmetto patch between Hobe Sound and Port Salerno, when suddenly they found themselves gazing into the muzzles of a pair of revolvers held by John and Bob Ashley.

The Ashleys disarmed the deputies, bidded them along for a few minutes for being chicken-hearted, and sent them back to the sheriff without their guns.

The story was typical at the time, not only of the Ashleys, but of their ways.

Some of the methods authorities used in bringing them to heel would have scared the daylights out of a U.S. Supreme Court Justice, but that's beside the point a half-century later.

The stories about the Ashleys and their cohorts are as varied as they are wild, and now, roughly a half-century later, they have grown with re-telling until it has become difficult to separate truth from rumored legend.

Forty-two years ago, John Ashley, with members of his crowd, Ray Lyna, Hanford Mobley and John Clarence Middleton, were killed in a gun fight at Sebastian Bridge north of Vero Beach, where Sheriff Bob Baker with deputies Elmer Padgett, Henry Strobe, L. B. Thomas and O. B. Padgett of Palm Beach County, teamed up with Sheriff Merritt of Ft. Pierce and his deputies, Wiggins and Smith, to fight it out to the death at 10:50 p.m. on a Saturday night in November, 1924.

The last-stand fight ended a series of battles between authorities that had been fought over a wide area, including Pompano, in the 'glades areas west of Hobe Sound, (at the site of a moonshine still), at Salerno, Gomez and Fruita, at Indiantown, in what is now Martin County, and in which both law and the outlaws sides lost good men.

History records that an aura of tragedy was cast by John Ashley on his friends and often by many of those who came into his orbit in the sometimes comic, sometimes relentless battle against him as waged by the law.

After the Desoto Tiger incident, John Ashley fled to the woods of Northwest Canada, and although at one time he was thought to have robbed a Canadian bank, he worked as a timber cruiser there.

John's father, Joe W. Ashley, was killed in a raid on a woodland camp west of Hobe Sound in November, 1924. In one of the incidents that led up to the Sebastian Bridge battle.

Bob, a brother, died trying to rescue John from a Dade County jail in a fight that also ended with the death of jailer Wilbur Hendrickson.

Ed Ashley, the oldest brother, and Frank, the youngest, went to sea in a boat in 1927 and were never heard of after that.

Daisy Ashley, John's sister, committed suicide. Frank Marlo, a brother-in-law, drowned in St. Lucie Canal. Bill Ashley, about whose early life little has been recorded, but who was caught running a moonshine still in 1935, lost his life in an automobile accident.

Bill Medley was charged with forgery of an express money order as late as 1935. John Ashley's sweetheart, big, blurt, hearty Laura Upthegrove, died at Canal Pt. of a caustic poison taken at Okeechobee after a fight over the sale of a pint of corn liquor to a dissatisfied customer. (The former Queen of the Everglades, as she was known, tried to get the customer's gun, failed, and in pique, drank a disinfectant she found in the sink.)

Buck Tillman, her son, drowned in St. Lucie Canal; Sidney, another son, was charged with breaking into the Canal Point Post Office late in May, 1935. He was 18 at the time.

Haywood Register, one of John's gang, was slain in a fight with the law on the bank of Boynton Canal in 1928. Joe Tracey and his brother, Walter, met sad fates; Joe in a penitentiary, Walter in a killing at Alachua in 1931.

Not only were members of the "law" killed in brushes with the Ashley gang, including deputy sheriff Fred Baker, son of the Palm Beach Sheriff, but a number of them went on to violent deaths in the life of crime, as well, including a former Stuart police chief, a Broward County deputy and a Palm Beach County deputy.

The gang's career in hijacking and piracy, particularly of rum-laden boats which plied the waters between the Eastern Bahamas and such ports as Salerno, Jupiter and beaches along the coast tended to make heroes of the gang, except in West End, Great Bahama, where the gang raided government liquor warehouses.

There are many people in Palm Beach, Martin, St. Lucie and Okeechobee Counties who to this day can tell tales of many aspects of the gang's escapades.

But funniest of all, although serious, are those told about the two robberies of the Stuart Bank.

The first was in Feb., 1915, when they got about $4,100; the second was in September, 1924, when considerably less was taken.

The telling of the hilarious angles of the tales concerning the robberies had better wait until a few more of the old timers move on.

Things To Do In The Area

Life in Jensen Beach and Martin County, as its permanent residents well know and its visitors soon discover, is pleasant and rewarding.

One of the things contributing to this feeling is the various organizations, social, fraternal and civic. No matter where your interests and tastes lie, you are sure to find others of like interests.

Some groups are purely social, to others the members are bound together by fraternal ties, while still others have civic goals.

The veterans organizations include the American Legion, World War I Veterans, and their auxiliaries.

There is the Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department and its always-active auxiliary; the Jensen Beach Women's Club with its many busy members; the Jensen Beach Garden Club, Square Club and Wimodausis, Jensen Beach Elementary School Parent-Teachers Association, and the Jensen Beach Lions Club with its newly-organized eye bank substation at the nearby Martin Memorial Hospital.

And we can't forget the Samaritans who offer free ambulance service to all residents of the area.

One of the major organizations working for the good of the entire community of Jensen Beach and Rio is the Chamber of Commerce.

There are dozens of other groups, also, including card clubs, beach clubs, shuffleboard groups, reading circles, even a chapter of Alcoholics Anonymous.

With such an array of organizations, it is obvious that no one should feel left out of things. If one is lonely it is because he lacks the initiative or desire to look around and find others who have similar interests.

FASHION SHOWS--One of the most popular ways to spend an afternoon is to attend one of the many fashion shows and card parties held by the numerous clubs and organizations in the area. Mrs. Samuel Rhodes, above, models at one of the affairs.

HOW TO BLOW YOUR TOP--Crazy Hat Parties are only one of the novelty affairs held by the Jensen Beach Women's Association. Here, Mrs. Elsie Campbell shows a new way to use an oil well.

Sailfishing Is Thrilling Sport

Ask anyone, and they will tell you, Stuart is called the Sailfishing Capital of the world because this is where "they" are. Sailfish roam the gulf stream, in vast numbers just a few miles offshore. Experienced captains command a fleet of charter boats from various marinas on the many, many miles of protected water in the St. Lucie and Indian Rivers.

Every morning of the year the modern sailfishing craft leave the docks and slip down the river and out St. Lucie Inlet to search for and usually find the fighting sailfish. To try to explain the thrill of bringing a sailfish to the boat is impossible. The sail noted for its jumps, twists, dancing on its tail is one of the most exciting, and sought after catches in the world.

From the moment that the sail rises to follow the bait, excitement reigns supreme. Setting the hook, and then the long, and sometimes fantastic battle of man and fish begins. Most of the time the fish wins, by his very nature a competitor, but the catches are more than worth the losses.

In the interests of encouraging more and more sailfishing, the Stuart Sailfish Club has a sailfish release button, which it awards to any angler releasing a sailfish. And quite a few of these buttons are awarded in the county area, since most anglers realize that there is an abundant supply of the sporting fish within the reach of the many charter boats.

The annual sailfish tournament, now in its thirteenth season, draws the event each year, and is recognized as a premier big game fishing event.

The fish are here, and they are for catching. Best of all it's open season all year long and Marvelous Martin County invites "you all" to come.

Regatta Committee Is Named

Stuart Chamber of Commerce president Allyn H. Weigel will serve as general chairman of the special Sailfish Regatta committee which is making plans for hydroplane races off Ernest Lyons Causeway. Race will be held January 20 and 21, 1968.

Weigel, at Monday night's meeting of Chamber directors, assigned the board into two divisions, naming Herman L. Reitz as vice-chairman in charge of Race Days and Jack N. Sailer vice-chairman in charge of Preparation. Assisting Reitz are W. J. Barrios, A. H. Burson, Ha. M. Cooke and Kelly Rowell. Working with Sailer will be James P. Bartlett, Paul Dolan, Paul J. Hennings, James L. Overton and Richard N. Sever.

Categories under Reitz are race-course, causeway set-up, pits, first aid and medical, patrol, security, communications and officials. Under Sailer they are promotion, publicity, programs, admissions, registration, trophies and prizes, entertainment, budget and finance.

Weigel called for volunteers to fill the positions. American Power Boat officials have offered to inspect the mechanics of the race.

Denmark Kin Visit Jensen

Mr. and Mrs. Aage Jensen of Esbjerg, Denmark, are visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andreas Jensen, 518 Skyline Drive, Jensen Beach. Aage, brother of Andreas, and his wife will spend about two months in the United States, their first visit to this country.

The first few days of cool, windy, weather made them feel at home. They live along the North Sea so are used to the water, however there is little hot weather in Denmark, the temperature staying on the cool side all year round.

Visiting our beach one day, they tried swimming, but the undertow was too strong for pleasure. However, they got thoroughly wet and sandy, then walked along the beach in search of shells. They have quite a collection to take back, which are different from the types found in Denmark.

Sunday, April 9 was the 28th wedding anniversary of Aage and Sine Jensen, who were entertained at an open house at the Jensen residence, overlooking the mile-wide Indian River, with 60 guests attending. Several of the guests could speak Danish, which made the party most enjoyable for the visitors.

The Jensens arrived in this country just in time to read a recent article in The Mirror which was written in Danish. They were sure Andreas had submitted it as a joke to tease them. They have also begun to understand a little English.

The visitors have been very interested in all the beautiful flowers and trees in the area. They have discovered some that are grown indoors in Denmark, where everyone has a houseful of plants.

Aage and Sine are impressed and thrilled with the friendliness and hospitality in this community. An enjoyable day was spent recently with the George Durdins of Stuart on their boat, The Sea Dog. Last week they visited Palm Beach, touring the estates which they said were 'fabulous'.

The Jensens toured an orange grove in White City, watched the process of washing and packing the fruit, after which they had "Katie" in the home of the owner. They enjoy all the fruit available here, oranges, strawberries, melons, and of course all types of citrus. Oranges in Denmark are imported from Italy, none are grown in the country.

Mrs. Jensen keeps a diary of their activities while here, and she and Aage are taking dozens of pictures to take back to Denmark with them to show their three sons, a daughter-in-law and a grandson.

Before returning to their homeland, the Jensens will visit relatives in Miami, and another brother, Hans, who lives in Green Bay, Wis. They, and the Andreas Jensens, will drive to Wisconsin, traveling through the Smokies National Park and visiting areas of interest en route.

When they return to Denmark, they will take with them happy thoughts of a warm, beautiful and hospitable community, Jensen Beach.

VISITORS FROM DENMARK- Mr. and Mrs. Aage Jensen, center above, of Esbjerg, Denmark, are visiting his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Andreas Jensen, Skyline Drive, Jensen Beach. This is their first visit to the states. They are inspecting and admiring a collection of hammer-heads and tools dug up on the farmlands of relatives in Denmark. The stone articles once belonged to the Vikings and men of the stone age, according to the Jensens, who said such items are no longer permitted to be taken from the country but must be turned over to museums.

Mobile Home Living Comes Of Age

Mobile Home Living has grown up! Hundreds of thousands of people today live in mobile homes because they have found it to be a wonderful way to live.

When trailers were first invented many years ago, they were planned with mobility in mind and were, therefore, limited in size as to what could be hauled by a car or small truck. Today there are hundreds of thousands of people who enjoy the mobility of trailer travel life and spend their time moving around from place to place with their handy home-on-wheels or in a pick-up camper. These little mobile campers are convenient for short-period holidays, while others spend many months living in them as they move from place to place viewing the country.

Trailers and mobile homes can be seen by the thousands throughout Florida as vacationers and retirees enjoy the sunshine, scenery, fishing and excitement of this Sunshine State.

Due to the inability of many thousands of people to find living accommodations in the early 1940's, trailer parks were born. These provided a place where trailers could be parked and residents could live near their places of employment.

Most of these early trailer parks grew in unplanned, congested patterns. This early impression was not easily erased. Today's mobile home park is a far cry from the original trailer park.

Two types of mobile home parks are popular. The rental type, where homes are crowded into the smallest possible space, and the owner park, where each mobile home owner also owns the land upon which is mobile home is located.

The need for both types of parks is well exemplified throughout Florida. Trailer owners and mobile home owners can find the type of park and the kind of living and neighbors they are looking for.

There are numerous trailer parks and mobile home parks in Martin County. One can easily find the type living conditions he desires.

There are many spacious mobile home subdivisions established and now being developed in Martin County.

The term "mobile home" is a misnomer, as these units have wheels put on them only to deliver to the purchaser. Once they have been installed in a mobile home subdivision and connected to all services, patios are built, awnings attached, the bottom is built in, and they are fixed in place as a conventional home.

Mobile homes have proved to be a boon to retirees as well as young married families. They have provided living accommodations at lowely construction sites. Members of the Armed Forces have their families living in them. Mobile homes have been well tried and found to be an excellent alternative for the conventional home.

There are plenty of cabinets and storage closets in these easy-to-clean mobile homes. Owners find them comfortable and easy to maintain.

'Mrs. Turtle Lays Her Eggs'

Think you know turtles? Man you ain't seen nuthin' unless you have been on Hutchinson's Island between mid and dawn sometime during May, June, July, or August and have witnessed one of Nature's miracles—the egg-laying rites of a monster sea turtle.

During this four-month period literally hundreds of these behemoths of the deep come ashore nightly to lay their eggs on the sandy beaches of this almost uninhabited coastline. These giants range in size between 250 and 500 pounds for the loggerheads and green turtles and 500 to 2,000 pounds for the giant trunkbacks and hawksbacks. Depending on her own size and species, Mrs. Turtle lays between 100 and 300 eggs, which vary in size from ping pong to tennis balls. The eggs are white, have a leathery feeling and can be indented easily with thumb pressure but do not crack like chicken eggs.

Turtle authorities claim that Mama Turtle leaves her spouse about half a mile off shore and when Nature tells her she is about to becomes mother, comes in on a wave—mostly at high tide so she will not have so far to crawl to reach the bluff of sand where she digs her hole. The mark she leaves in her trail look like deep tractor tracks.

During the egg-laying season, when the moon rides high, you can peer down the beach and see her come ashore where she pauses for about five minutes, alert for the sound of man or predators or the sight of a light, either of which will drive her back into the sea.

If no danger impends, she makes her way laboriously up the beach to high ground. Many times the shell and her weight cut deeply into her flippers so that she leaves a bloody trail in the sand. She picks a dry spot which her feminine intuition tells her is high enough to be safe from possible hurricane waves, so that her eggs will not be washed away before hatching about seven weeks later. According to Ray Lorenz, Jensen Beach insurance broker, to whom we are indebted for much of this data, Indian legend has it that if she buries her eggs just above the high tide mark the area will be safe from hurricanes. But she picks a site high on a bluff, or over, watch out!

Mrs. Turtle starts digging with her rear flippers, alternating one and then the other until a hole is dug to the limit of her flippers, about two feet. The hole is neat, sharply round going down and bulbous at the bottom. When this task is completed in from 15 to 20 minutes, she begins laying eggs. The first few come one at a time; then in twos and threes. Just before each batch is laid, she curls up her rear flippers, lifts her head and emits a mournful sigh. Simultaneously with the egg laying, she begins to weep—tears as big as a teaspoon. Whether the tears are caused by sadness, joy or pain has never been determined, but dry she does, during the entire process. She looks neither to right or left and is entirely oblivious to flashlights or flash bulbs.

So intent is she on her job that the unwary may think it safe to stick out a hand, in which case he may draw back a bloody stub, because Mamma Turtle has powerful jaws. Parents who wish to photograph their youngsters astride one of these monsters of the deep may do safely, providing they keep a tight grip on the child so that she does not fall forward and be bitten.

Authorities are agreed that Mamma Turtle has probably swum hundreds of miles to perform her function as a reproducer of hundreds of her species. And once the job is done she does her utmost to see the eggs have a chance to hatch undisturbed by enemies. Covering the eggs is an interesting and complex process. She gathers sand from around her and packs it over the eggs. You can watch closely when she lays the eggs, but by the time she is finished tamping and packing dirt and moving around she may average three or four feet from the actual nest.

In a final painful effort using her front flippers, she hurls sand backward in showers of clods. These sometimes come at you with such force as to sting. Then she starts turning around to head back to the sea from whence she came. Her size and weight necessitate tremendous effort in extricating herself from the nesting area, for the trip back to safety in the sea. Or is it safety? If her flippers have bled she may become the target of a shark.

The Conservation Department does its best to see that the eggs are allowed to hatch, and that the tiny turtles are protected until they are able to fend for themselves. Likewise, laws protect the adult turtles. Persons who are apprehended killing turtles for their meat, or filching the eggs from the nest are subject to a fine of $500. But that does not mean that other predators will not end the embryonic turtle's career before it starts. Two raccoons can clean out an entire nest of eggs, finding the warm yolks delicious tidbits.

Even if the eggs hatch, the little turtles face a perilous future. The tiny creatures emerge from the sand and immediately head for the water. Fish are on hand to start down the gullet and swallow them as they appear, or if they reach the water, swoop down to devour them. Fish, too, find them appetizing and it is estimated that about only one of every tens survives to reproduce at the age of six years.

The egg-laying drama is one worth traveling far to see, and in fact, hundreds of people each year do travel to the Jensen Beach area for that purpose.

MAMA SEA TURTLE--Giant loggerhead turtles lumber out of the Atlantic Ocean during the night to the beaches along Hutchinson Island to lay their eggs, then crawl back to the surf to disappear for another year. This mama sea turtle struggles back to the water and hopes her family will be safe from raccoons, pelicans and fish.

Year Round Visitors Discover The Real Florida

This Is The Place Where Everyone Can Find Real Enjoyment In Living

Martin County might be listed as the most amazing county in the State of Florida, if you were looking at its many sides. To try to describe all of the many facets of this diamond on the gold coast of the Sunshine State would take more space than is available.

The incongruous nature of the county has beauty throughout. From the rolling hills of Jensen Beach to the plains of the western lands, and from the sunshine-bleached beaches of the Atlantic Ocean to the grassy, reed-filled waters of the lazy South Fork...all is beauty...all offers complete difference in scene.

Many visitors wonder at the acceptance of the local people of all the many differences of Martin County.

The answer is simple...

Martin County is a wonderful place where people come to work, and to live. It is a place where people want to settle down in the quiet countryside to live years in contentment. Married folks like to raise their children here, for it is a young county, by all standards, and offers the young the opportunity to build a future.

The county is rich in its heritage with a long list of founding fathers, and pioneers, reaching back to the Civil War days. But just as Brutus did not come to praise Caesar, so this edition of The Mirror does not delve into the history of the county. We are here to praise the many wonderful things we have, to tell the many stories of today that have been untold for so long, and to bring a touch of the Martin County we all love so much to the people who would someday become a part of it.

The theme of this edition of The Mirror is..."Marvelous Martin County!" And it is!

Home builders are ready. The local merchants are friendly and want the business of our newcomers. Our civic and fraternal organizations are offering the companionship and activity that makes newcomers feel at home when they arrive. In other words, Martin County is ready for the future. It has all the wonders that people think of when they come to Florida...beaches, rivers, lakes, streams and all of the scenery that God could stick into this small county without overcrowding it.

As they say in the South...myYall Come!"...Come To Marvelous Martin County!

Sandsprit Park near Port Salerno is an ideal camping site and is used by local residents as well as visitors year round.

These beautiful royal palm line the entrance to the St. Joseph College in Jensen Beach.

Martin County 'Boom Days'

The long awaited "boom" has come to Martin County. Throughout the county there is record building of homes, new business and industry as the diamond of the gold coast is discovered and is polished in its many faceted life.

New families are moving into the many communities, and the communities are solving problems of the influx as fast as they arise. Martin County has learned from the experiences of other towns, and is endeavoring to plan ahead.

Vast areas of palmetto brush and pasture lands are being cleared for homes and business areas as each individual community comes into its own share of this boom of people. New people require more and more services from the government of this county, and the county commission and various city commissions in the county are making every effort to meet the expansion.

Two new high schools have been built, New elementary schools have met the needs of the communities and more are planned. Jensen Beach boasts a new co-ed junior college. The school boards are active, progressive and dedicated. All boards and commissions are planning for the future when 40,000 persons are expected in Martin County by 1970.

All in all, the community is meeting the needs of its people. The bright future of Martin County is indicated by the continuous increase in business activity.

As an indication of the growth of Martin County, just look at the many new and fine tourist attractions developed in the past several years: The Elliott Museum, Frances Langford's Outrigger Restaurant, St. Lucie Country Club with its two 18-hole golf courses, Saints and Sinners, Yacht Club Restaurant, Villa Capri Restaurant, and a full 18-hole Martin County Golf and Country Club course.

New bridges to the ocean beaches add to our stature, plus modern conveniences and facilities on the Causeways. And don't forget the development of St. Lucie Training Grounds for thoroughbred horses, and Circle T Rodeo Arena. Thousands and thousands of acres of citrus plantings combine with vast areas of pasture for cattle in the west part of the county.

Passion Flower Was Here Before The White Man

It's 'Christ's Flower'— And Florida's

Christ's Flower blooms in many South Florida gardens and fields during the spring months, around Easter time.

That is the name the early Spanish explorers called the passion flower, the fantastically shaped bloom of the plant that is native to this part of the world.

At least ten of the 250 or more varieties of the passiflora were flowering in Florida long before the white man came, and others have been brought here since from the other Americas.

If the Indians composed legends about this blossom they are not generally known. But the Spanish, who followed the Cross to the New World, made flowers the language of faith and fantasy. They quickly saw in the passion flower all the symbolism of the crucifixion, the foundation rock of Christian belief.

First there was the color of it. The petals of the passion flower are shades of purple which, since earliest Christian times, signified Christ's passion on the Cross.

Looking closer these early arrivals found astonishing confirmation of their first impression.

The purplish parts that flare like a many-pointed star always number ten — never more, never less. These became symbols of the ten apostles at the Crucifixion, Peter and Judas being absent.

In the center is a sunburst of filaments, and these the Spaniards found to their mystification, always numbered 72. Ancient tradition affirms there were 72 thorns in Christ's crown on that Friday long ago.

These lilting colored threads reminded some who saw them of a bloody fringe, suggesting the scourge that tormented the Savior.

The five anthers in the center easily symbolized the five wounds of Christ and they also represented the hammers used to drive the nails. As for the nails, there they were in the three styles with rounded stigmas.

But this is only the beginning of the passion flower's wonders. Some varieties are vigorous vines, others are shrubs or low-growing herbs, and have divided leaves resembling a hand with spread fingers. These, according to the legends, are the clutching hands of the mob that demanded Christ's death of Pilate. Other varieties have lance-shaped leaves. They became the spears with which the Roman soldiers pierced Christ's side.

Still others have leaves shaped like the wings of angels.

Finally there are some passion flowers which have odd whitish spots on the underside, and it took little imagination to see there as the 30 coins of betrayal.

These symbols of the Crucifixion, one or all of them, every passiflora that blooms in Florida. They may range from the spectacular Tacsonias to the lowly Maypop flourishing in fields throughout the South. But they are all members of the family.

Florida's best passiflora [illegible] P. suberosa, which is tinged with blue and is found mostly in high, dry pinelands; and P. sexflora, a purplish variety which loves the humid hammocks.

P. pulchella has cherry-red blossoms and Coccinea has scarlet flowers and an orange crown.

There are many others but these are enough to illustrate the wide spectrum of beauty that is encompassed in this Florida flower of the Crucifixion.

These fabulously beautiful vine-like flowers can be seen growing in great profusion all over Eight Mile to Jensen Beach. So next time you're out you will be sure to see them.

Out-Of-State Applicants Must Take Test

Effective May 1, all persons holding an out-of-state driver's license, who apply for a Florida driver's license, will be required to pass a complete examination prior to the issuance of a Florida license.

Maj. C. W. Keith, supervisor of the Drivers' License Division of the State Dept. of Public Safety, has notified all county judges of the ruling according to County Judge Mallory L. Johnson, Stuart.

Rio Civic Club Has History Of Achievement

For want of a road, a committee was formed; for want of community action, a club was formed; for want of a place to meet, a building was built.

Those were the steps taken by residents of Rio, resulting in one of the finest communities centers in Martin County. Located on SR-707, Rio Civic Club hosts that unincorporated area together with deep civic pride.

It all started back in 1950 when 70 Rioites met at the Rio Baptist Chapel to plan a campaign to obtain road improvements on what was then known as A-1-A.

Heading the group were Ray DeWagenaire, Albert Walker, Sr., Herman Decker. Attending from Jensen Beach were V. B. Tilton and J. J. Pitchford. DeWagenaire was chairman and Lillie Walker, secretary.

The committee waited for repairs in the road and for signal lights at the FEC crossing in a petition drawn up to present to the county commissioners. The committee was also to meet with Merrill P. Barber, an SRD member.

The Rio Citizens committee, as they were known, included DeWagenaire, Walker, Decker, Mrs. B. Ward and Mrs. J. Kenney. They met with representatives of the Jensen Beach Business Men's Association, Mrs. Zola Swarthout and Charles Gay, both recently deceased.

Temporary chairman of a permanent civic organization was Howard McCormick, with Lilly Walker as secretary. Both were elected officers of the newly named Rio Civic Club on June 2, 1950, with Walker as vice-president and Mrs. Amie Frappier as treasurer. The area designated as "Rio" was obtained from the county records and included the boundaries of Rio when it was an incorporated town.

On July 12, 1950, Mr. and Mrs. B. Ward donated a 50 x 100' lot on A-1-A for construction of a civic club and the cornerstone-laying ceremony was held Oct. 14, 1951, last county commissioner Seymour Gideon.

A loan was made by Mrs. Ada Christiansen for construction of the building. This mortgage was burned May 19, 1955.

All the work on the building, except the laying of cement blocks, was done by members.

As of today there are 152 members, two honorary members, Mr. & Mrs. Frank Wachs; and two life members, Mrs. Ward and Mrs. Christianson, according to Mrs. Henry Spencer, president. Civic improvements have continued, including the securing of street lights, placing and painting of street signs, provisions for signal lights at FEC railroad crossing and other improvements.

On Oct. 31, 1963, dedication of the new building, twice the size of the original, was held. It now measures 40 x 54' and is debt-free. Current value of the building and grounds is $25,000.00.

Rio Civic Club is a polling place for Pct. 12.

The Club donates to many worthy causes, including the annual Jensen Beach-Rio United Fund drive. The Samaritans, Sheriff's Boys Town, beautification of Jensen Beach Causeway, Rio Fire Dept., Cancer and Heart Funds, fireworks fund, and Martin Memorial Hospital. The club sponsors the Peanut League each year.

Present officers include: Mrs. Henry Spencer, president; Joseph Foster, vice-president; Mrs. Ann Barthel, recording secretary; and Mrs. Carl Heasley, treasurer and corresponding secretary.

Ernest Jenkins is a three-year director, Alex Wilson and John Koman are two-year directors, and one-year directors are Mrs. Hubert Klein, Mrs. Jack Shomer and Al Walker.

Charter members as of June 2, 1950, were Mr. & Mrs. Howard McCormick, Mr. & Mrs. Albert Walker, Mr. & Mrs. Herbert Dabinett, Mr. & Mrs. Amie Frappier, Mr. & Mrs. James Nevins, Mr. & Mrs. John Taylor, Mr. & Mrs. George DeWagenaire, Mr. & Mrs. Jack Kenney, Mr. & Mrs. Herman Decker, J. Nick Thomas, Mrs. Litz, Charles Conner, Mr. & Mrs. Billy Tour, Mr. & Mrs. Hubert Potter, Lois Cribbs, Mrs. Ula Sellers, H. Nielson and Mrs. B. Ward.

FROM LIVELY
MARTIN COUNTY!
We're proud of the fine citrus we grow here. And, like all of our good neighbors in Martin County, we're looking to the years just ahead. ☐ The challenges to Florida citrus are more stimulating than ever before. We're faced with a situation of under-demand — not over-production. ☐ The solution? Salesmanship! We must persuade more people to enjoy the natural, wholesome flavor of citrus. Skillful marketing plans, combined with attractive advertising and promotion, can keep citrus a healthy industry in Martin County and all of Florida. ☐ And we practice what we preach. Minute Maid advertises on television, in the newspapers and magazines, and on the radio — not just in Central Florida, but all around the globe. ☐ Our goal? A heightened demand and preference for the citrus products that begin here in lively Martin County.

Legislators Listen

Petitions Favor Netting, 5 to 1

Over 5,000 petitioners interviewed continued on training in the Martin County rivers against about 1,000 petitioners who opposed the continuation, as heard at the two-and-a-half hour hearing on Saturday, Sen. Elizabeth (Beth) Johnson presided at the meeting.

However, the non-netting issue went to a floor vote, mostly non-statement from A. Wachs, who said he will sit with three people on each side to resolve the seine-haired issue.

The school board, through its attorney James Littman, asked for a new ceiling on the salary of the school superintendent, raising it from $12,500 to a permissive $15,000.

Littman said the move was made because superintendents have to receive more pay than the highest paid instructional or supervisory personnel.

Investigation showed the second-highest paid person in the system gets just under $12,000.

The board also asked permission to make purchases without bids of $500, up from the present non-bid limit of $300.

President of the Hunt Island Colony Homeowners Association, who said he was speaking for 98 per cent of the people in the colony, asked that the legislators [illegible] colony by Palm Beach Co.

The subdivision lies west of Loxahatchee River. Residents must travel through Jupiter to reach other parts of Martin County.

Representatives in the Martin-Palm Beach delegation in Stuart included Donald G. Reed, Dan Mahon, Joseph W. Humphrey, Bob DeYoung, Beach; Jack Fairbanks, Jupiter Island; Robert J. Hunt, Palm Beach; and William G. James, Delray Beach.

The two senators in the three-county area, including Martin, were also on hand. They were Sen. Elizabeth (Beth) Johnson and Sen. C. S. (Cliff) Kester.

The delegation was feted at a reception held by Mr. and Mrs. Wm. F. Murfin, State Republican Committee chairman and his wife, in Hobe Hills. A "Victory Dinner Celebration" was held Saturday night in Stuart, sponsored by the Young Republican Club, Women's Republican Club and Martin County Republican Club.

Bills with which people generally are familiar were presented, including:

Bill to permit the county to lease land from private owners to use for airport facilities, sought particularly for getting the Indiantown Airport from Troup family; a bill to permit the county to regulate the use of beach bicycles on the beaches; a bill to permit leasing of lands for public purposes, particularly fixed to go on the county the right to buy state land beach property on a 40-year lease purchase agreement.

Bill to permit support in all-county counties, with wide powers to fix and the commissioners' level necessary to maintain such services.

Bill to give the county the right to regulate the speed of trains on two railroads traversing the county; bill to require the railroad companies to pay half the cost of automatic signal devices, when and where they shall go; bill to strengthen dog and cat control; bill to strengthen and make constitutional, the county's present intervening ordinances.

Bill to lower the millage requirements in the present law allowing the county to raise funds for hospitalization of indigents; bill setting up an office of medical examiner for the first time here; bill to authorize the county to tax the items or real or personal property in cases where welfare funds are spent.

Bill to permit operators of hospitals to file such liens against non-paying patients, with some exceptions, such as those coming under Workmen's Compensation Act; bill to empower the county commission and county fee officers to set up more advanced group insurance than the county now has, and to permit participation by the county in payment of costs.

To The Editor:

During the past weekend, Jensen Beach firemen, units from other districts and volunteers put in many hours of hard work fighting the fires from Baker Road, Rio, to the Jensen Beach Cut-off Road. Many worked fourteen and fifteen hours without stopping. There were many times when personal property was endangered and these men worked diligently to put out the fire.

These men should be commended.

On behalf of the Jensen Beach Fire Auxiliary, I would like to take this opportunity to thank all of those who helped in their own way, the women who helped take ice water and food out to the men, Mat's Market and Floor Bob's for supplying us with the food to make sandwiches for them, and the Shook Nook for the ice.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Frank A. Wachs, President

Zoning, Roads, Fishing Major Problems To New Chamber Year---Forsberg

Problems of the year to come, facing the new officers of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce, were the keynote of a speech by Frank Forsberg, newly elected president of the Chamber at his installation dinner Monday night at St. Lucie Country Club.

Forsberg singled out the zoning of Hutchinson Island, fishing and new roads in the area as the top priority problems to face the new officers and directors.

"It seems to coming to Jensen Beach," Forsberg said, and we must work for it so that the future will mean something to you," he added that the members of the chamber should help the 20 elected officers and directors with ideas, and be an active part of the Chamber of Commerce.

Forsberg, a former president of the chamber, was installed by county commissioner Frank Wachs, himself a former president. Wachs also installed J. Fred Sievers, vice president; Mrs. Willard Bowman, secretary, and Robert B. Smith, treasurer. Directors included John

P & W Access Road Up For Bids June 1

The north two miles of the so-called Pratt & Whitney Access Road, between SR-76 and SR-708, will be up for bids in the June 1 letting of the State Road Department, according to county commission chairman Jack F. Saunderson on Wednesday. He received the word from the SRD.

The prediction was contingent on the receipt of all necessary documents, deeds and rights-of-way by the SRD, it was pointed out.

Saunderson said there appeared to be every reason to believe the documents would be in the hands of the SRD before that date.

Completion of the northern end of the road will complete the project in Martin County but will leave the southern one-mile link with SR-708 in Palm Beach County still to be constructed.

The north two miles will link SR-708 and SR-76 at a point where SR-76-A, so-called Loop Road, intersects SR-76.

Governor Kirk Salutes Our Martin County

The following is a letter received this week by The Mirror from Gov. Claude R. Kirk, Jr.

"We salute the residents of Martin County for having the good fortune of living in one of the best areas in Florida. Not only are you in a favored location on the East Coast, but the fish of hundreds of miles of natural waterways.

Nature has blessed you with an ideal climate and outstanding recreational opportunities. Your fame as a fishing paradise is world-wide. Sportsmen come from everywhere to try for sail and other gamesters in the ocean or for fresh-water fish in your lakes and streams.

Your beaches, fine golf courses and boating facilities are renowned. Whatever outdoor recreation is most enjoyed, you have it.

You are also noted for your agricultural abundance. Who has not heard of your fine citrus groves, tropical fruits and wide variety of vegetables? In addition, your county is famed as one of the largest commercial producers of chrysanthemums in the world.

What is more, you are a progressive county, developing at a fast pace. Since 1960, your population has increased more than 35 per cent. In the future, you will play an important role in the development of Florida.

As a vacationland, an ideal place to live and as a developing, prosperous area, Martin County faces a wonderful future.

Volunteers Battled Woods Fire; Burns 1800 Acres

Volunteer firemen and scores of hastily-recruited volunteers battled a three-day woods fire that burned off most of the brushland in the area bounded by U.S. 1, Jensen Cut-off Road and the Ocean. The fire was finally brought under control Monday after re-kindling about six times.

Endangered was Legion Heights, the Town of Ocean Breeze Park and many homes around the perimiter of the fire. Continuous containment of the fire by the departments of Jensen Beach, Rio, Port Salerno, Port St. Lucie and District Two of the county kept the fire from reaching any homes in the wild three days of burning.

The fire started Saturday afternoon about 2 p.m. in Rio. By nightime the sky was ablaze with the burning. Shifting winds hampered the firemen but at no time was the fire ever loose and on its own. Endangered areas saw backburning, where firemen burned the area next to a house or road to prevent the fire reaching homes or jumping across roads.

One hitch had to be filled to allow equipment to pass over. The fire never did get up on the ridge behind Ocean Breeze, but was headed in that direction, after firemen had thought it was out, when a recall put enough equipment and men into the field to stop the blaze.

At one time firemen had calls out on Radio Station WSTU asking for volunteers with shovels to fight the fire. Many responded.

The blaze called for large [illegible] and was [illegible] pears, burned off 1,800 acres after starting near Baker Road in Rio. Only one hillboard was scorched, according to Jensen Chief Randolph Spinner. The fire swept toward the Cutoff Road, which was backfired by the Ft. Pierce group. Flames were so high the fire jumped the Cutoff Road in three places, but was extinguished by firemen with brooms and shovels before it could spread to the north.

GAUNT AND TIRED--Willard Bowman, Jensen Beach, was not even a volunteer fireman, but answered a call for help and fought the three-day blaze from the front fender bucket seat of a fire truck. Looking tired after the three-day effort, Bowman was typical of hundreds of volunteers who fought the blaze in 24-hour shifts.

Marvelous Martin County

Martin County is an exciting place For people of varied interests, this is the place to be. More and more people are discovering it, and more and more people are buying it.

In Jensen Beach the newcomers look in wonder as our residents salute them with "Howdy", or a smile and wave. This isn't the way it is done in the big city. In Stuart, a motorist stops while driving down busy U.S. 1 to let another into the line of traffic. Again, a sign of the "just folks" attitude of Martin County.

Way down in Salerno, there is always time for a chat with the strange face over a cup of coffee, and in Hobe Sound and Indiantown the city folks of yesterday are the friendly country people of today.

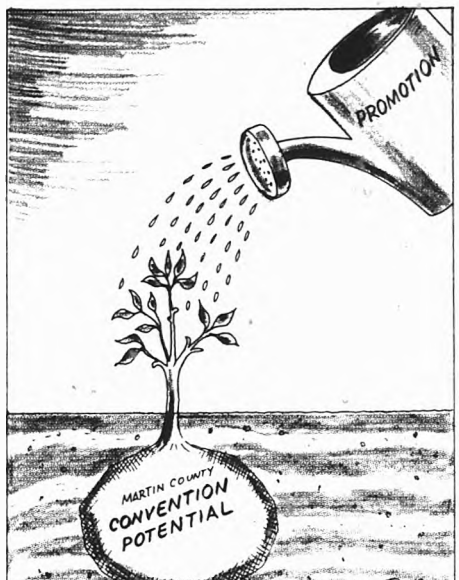
"Hello!", and "Howdy" are not just gestures of greeting. They are a way of life to the people of Martin County.

It is contagious. And, it isn't hard to learn. As a primer for the winter visitors and the passers-through, we might show you how it is done. The first time it is very difficult, and you feel a little silly). Just make up your mind to do it, and it is done. As you pass a stranger on the street, look that person straight in the eye until he knows you are looking at him. Then smile and say, "Hello."

Whether the person answers your greeting or not, you have taken the first step in becoming one of the friendly people of Martin County. After several Hellos, you begin to enjoy it. The puzzled looks you get, or the friendly greeting in answer will fill your heart with the joy of achievement. For you have made someone feel that much more important. And you have, like the magnificent Florida sun, brought sunshine to Martin County.

As we say, you don't know the feeling until you try it...and trying is like getting the Martin County sand in your shoes...you just keep coming back for more.

Marvelous Martin County is a wonderful place to be...to work, to retire, to live, to rear children, to attend school, to play, to make and enjoy a life that is rich and rewarding.



Let's Cultivate!

Watching Us Grow

All Florida is watching Martin County grow. This seems like a pretty wide statement, and many people will chuckle a little, but it is true.

All the promise of yesterday is here today, and tomorrow is nothing but brightness in Martin County's living, colorful growth, risk any member of the State Road Board, or the road department. They know where Martin County is and what it has to offer. Martin County has a friendly county commission, with a sense of propriety, and its members are willing to work with the road department in getting the most for tax dollars. Also, Martin County commissioners are building an attractive climate for businesses that might want to locate here.

Ask anyone in the governor's office. The past three governors have been quite friendly to this county, and have come here often to look at it, and often solve our problems. The governor knows Martin County exists, and is willing to help it grow.

Ask our Congressman, Paul Rogers has been a great help to this county, and even has commented that the county has a live-wire group of people who keep him informed so that he can do a better job. He has brought much to this county, more than would be admitted in proportion to the population he serves.

Ask our senators, or state or national agencies that have dealt with the officials of Martin County. They will tell you how easy it is to work with this county, and to get things done.

Martin County is a mature county on the grow. It is rapidly developing into a place where people who enjoy living come to stay.

We enjoy watching us grow, and find life more exciting and pleasant every year in this wonder Martin County.

Senior Citizen Drivers

The House of Representatives Public Safety Committee has been receiving a lot of mail in Tallahassee, according to Rep. W. H. Reed, from senior citizens who fear discrimination in drivers licenses by that committee. Reed's explains the stand of the public safety committee in the following manner:

"The Committee would like to make it crystal clear that it has no intention to propose anything which would adversely discriminate against the senior citizens of Florida requiring that they meet unfair standards as a pre-requisite for driving on the highways of Florida. The federal guidelines, as laid down by certain committees of traffic safety which all states, by law, must comply with; otherwise they will be subject to losing 10 per cent of their federal aid highway funds. One of the important requirements of federal law calls for periodic re-examinations of all drivers which further provides that drivers having physical or mental defects be required to have re-examinations more frequently so that, where possible, the defects can be corrected. If the defects are beyond correction and the person's driving ability is such that he would be unsafe behind the wheel, then for his own safety as well as for the safety of others, his driving privileges would be taken away.

"The federal guidelines specifically call for re-examination of persons over 75 and those over 65 more frequently than his drivers in other age categories. The main reason for checking the elderly drivers more frequently is because of deterioration of physical and mental faculties in the Golden Years. Elderly citizens in good physical or mental condition should by no means be deprived of their driving privileges and others having infirmities which may seriously handicap their driving ability through necessity have to have certain restrictions placed on their driving privileges. This will be strictly in the interest of the safety and well-being of the motorist so handicapped.

"The House Public Safety Committee is carefully studying the federal legislation relative to periodic re-examination of drivers and it is hoped that the committee's final decision will be one which will be in the interest and for the citizens of Florida and particularly our senior citizens."

We urge all senior citizens to write the public safety committee asking them to be considerate of the senior citizens of Florida, and to be certain that they do not discriminate against the elderly in any.

What is fair for all in certain groups would certainly be fair to us. However, care must be taken so that persons able to drive safely are not deprived of their right to drive through over-zealous legislation.

GRASSROOTS OPINION

"It is people participatorily should realize that the foundations of all financial provisions for retirement security is a social contract. They should demand, as should all Americans, that the social security system be properly managed so . . . that now by the working public will not rebel against the system under present benefits the combined tax on employees and employers will rise to 11.7 per cent within a few years. Social Security benefits should be adequate but they should not be vulnerable to political influence. It might be wise to make a yearly appraisal of the system, which is not three decades old, to see if it provides real security."

Herald
Thermopolis, Wyo.

"A couple of news items which appeared the same day recently must have caused readers to blink and think. One was about a couple of guys who stood in court with strikes on their faces as a reluctant judge had to give minor murder charges against them because their industry confessions had been made without benefit of attorneys to inform them of their rights. The other item was the solemn warning by the secretary of the U.S. Treasury that unless Congress boosted the government's debt limit by $5 billion within 30 days, it might be just too bad for elderly citizens who depend on Social Security, veterans' pensions and retirement pay. There just might be no money for such things."

Tribune, Mesa, Ariz.

"The national debt will rise to $336 billion, or more, from the present maximum of $330 billion. The year ago figure was not to be sneered at but the fact is we already are paying fourteen billions a year interest on this debt. Instead of being increased in these good times, the debt should be slowly decreased....Until we end the war, it would be prudent to limit social, domestic programs. We simply can't afford both at the same time."

News, Thayer, Mo.

"Everyone complains about the welfare expense and the way people abuse it but how many of you have complained to your lawmakers?"

A Splendid Symposium

Fred Bell tucked a nitroglycerin pill under his tongue and started hunting for Governor Kirk. He had been hurried and frustrated in his attempts to get the beach erosion symposium under way last week and seemingly he on the verge of another heart attack. The pill quieted him down.

Fred's wife, Gloria, always at his side when he needed her, was reassuring in her manner, and he quieted down a little. Then, with a flourish, the symposium was under way.

I don't know how Fred did it, I only know that not another everyone argued him said it couldn't be done. But Fred Bell stuck to his guns to have at least a session symposium that would not be just a bunch of talkers, but be a meeting that would get something done.

Few people know how much Sal Head, the governor's aid-at-large on conservation, means to the symposium. As the intermediary between Bell and the governor, Reed kept the heat and pressure on the Bell got the support he needed to make this possible. The most important meeting Florida will see in years on the problems of beach erosion.

When the governor's schedule couldn't include a quick trip to Stuart, Reed was on the telephone every week system. It was Reed who helped get the support from Governor Kirk, to the invitation by Kirk to the governors of the symposium.

Symposium members had talked with Kirk. Now they were asked to talk with Reed.

Bell's unique ability for organization was evident throughout the symposium. He had each speaker signed up for so many minutes, and he held them to those minutes. One speaker cut his talk short, and Bell criticized him, saying, "What you had to tell about was much more than you said."

He even organized his action committee meeting in possible follow-up the talk with recommendations for various programs even getting into the financing of the program.

I remember talking with Fred about it before the meeting. He said that he wanted to get something that would go to the legislature with the approval of those present...something that the legislature would be able to act on so that beach erosion becomes an important part of the state budget.

Bell wanted it badly, and his generaling of the symposium made it possible. Whatever comes out of the legislature this year will be a result of the fine job of organization Bell set up, and the result of his enthusiasm a bunch of engineers in the job to be done.

engineers and the legislators concerned to assist in evaluating the problems facing the Coastal Florida counties.

This symposium will eventually mean much to Martin County, as to all counties along the coast. The slow eating away of our shoreline can be stopped. The symposium reaffirmed the basic principles of beach erosion control, and, most important, offered a way to pay for that control.

There is now a follow-up plan to get information to all the participants in the symposium. Another action committee is at work compiling the materials presented during the symposium, and copies of these will go to the legislature.

The symposium was a great success. It is up to the people of Florida, and to our elected representatives to show that they are interested in what happens to our coastline. They have everything to work with.....we will see what comes out of it.

Adams Praises Martin County

The manager of Martin County have been described to readers of The Mirror by Tom Adams, secretary of state in this letter received in which he lists Tallahassee.

"The future of south County is as bright as Florida's sunshine.

"It takes no crystal ball to see that this corner of our country is destined to soon become one of the most populous and productive sections in the entire State of the United States.

"Martin's very geographic location--midway between the resort atmosphere of Miami and the industrial bustle of Cape Kennedy--is a major blessing. For Martin to be an excellent position to become a harmonious blend of the best of the two.

She has the climate and insightful leaders which have made South Florida's "Gold Coast" the tourist mecca of the Southeast, and she has the energetic people and the economic climate to make her into a showplace of clean, light industry.

In a very real sense, Martin County is one of Florida's "last frontiers". The fact that one has never late to bloom in Florida's recent population surge is a great advantage. For, with enlightened planning, Martin can and is avoiding the urban pitfalls and blights which have occurred in older fast-growing areas of our Nation.

"Thus, Martin can and is becoming a model of the best in American living, accommodating population growth gracefully while maintaining her natural beauty. In short, she is developing a wholesome and healthy climate of good living--developing the kind of environment in which we all want to live and raise our families.

"Truly, Florida is on the move, and Martin County is moving with her. Within the next generation Florida will rank among the five largest states in this Nation in population and economics. Martin County, now growing rapidly, can, too, in the future be one of the most desirable places to live in Florida's golden environment.

Rogers Lauds County

The following letter was sent to Mr. Paul G. Rogers, Washington, D.C., for publication in the Martin Area Issue of The Mirror:

"Dear Friends:

It has been a pleasure for us to serve the people of Martin County for 12 years and part of the pleasure has come from watching the growth of the area.

Martin County has taken its place among the leading counties of the state because of its concern for the interests in all phases of life--the cultural, educational, economic, spiritual and recreational.

Martin County has planned well for the future and has attracted industry which has contributed to the growth of the area. I sincerely believe that we will not see many of the difficult problems of Florida's larger cities develop since we have had this planning.

Nature has endowed Martin County with many beautiful resources. But the most outstanding trait is the people who live here. They are good people, ready to help their neighbor and welcome newcomers to the area. Herein lies the most important resource of Martin County--its people.

I send my congratulations to the people of Martin County. I know the area will continue to grow and prosper.

Sincerely yours,
Paul G. Rogers, M.C."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Editor:

I am writing this letter to bring out some of my own views and points on this feud between the sports and commercial. It is probably very hard for some sports to be satisfied with the amount of fish they catch at times. I have seen some of them fishing with as many as eleven poles to 1 (one) person. My own father is a business man here in Salerno he is also a sport fisherman with one pole. When he goes out for his day's fun he loves to catch plenty of fish just as we do with our nets however sometimes he is skunked just as we are. I have seen times when with only a very small piece of net we could get more than we wanted and again sometimes if you had all the nets in the whole county put together you couldn't catch enough to eat. I am not exaggerating about this (this is a fact). Sometimes fish are a biting good and a sport can catch one after another and then all of a sudden nothing. Well, who can explain it. I have seen fish in clear water just right there and look at bait and swim off. Why!?

It is also a shame that so many people who come down here for a few months of the year will not come any more if we are not stopped. The business people may hurt some by this but they will also hurt wise, over 250 commercial fishermen do not spend their money here, too. We do not buy our cigarettes from the Carolinas to save money, or bring our clothes from the north down here because of the big saving they got on them in August sales, etc.

More than 1,000 people a day eat right here in Martin County on money spent for food that is harvested by fishing not to mention a few hundred more people who don't even catch fish--the fish houses -- the fish stores -- and employees of their trucking firms, too. Many people too, like to eat fish and have no time or way to catch them. Oh, yes, it is true they can be shipped huge but just how far can we be pushed and stopped from trying to earn an honest living.

I suppose we fishermen should try taking a spare job to make some money when the weather is bad and we have days off like being a doctor, dentist, mechanic, salesman, etc. However, this takes a lot of experience and most times many years of college too. An) sport can catch a fish and in most cases if they can catch more than they need for their table they are sold. And this is very easy to prove.

A real true sport, which I have been fortunate enough to meet one day, told me he had 43 bass in one day but he only kept 3 of them and said that it was enough for his family. And in conversation, he told me he wasn't opposed to commercial fishing--"Everyone has to make a living." He said he was not his, and he was not capitalizing on his sport fishing. If we are stopped from making a living by fishing just what are we supposed to do? Most of us have never done anything else and could never do or enjoy doing anything else. Well, it is an event, we promise, that we are not going to try to stop sport fishing ever, though it would probably help to cure a little more money for our fish at times. We try not to bother anyone and we do not want anyone bothering us either.

I would like to say just this, that net fishing is necessary. It is probably one of the hardest and long-hauled jobs that there is to do when we are not fishing we are constantly mending holes from big fish that got through our nets and shark holes, tears, etc. We never really get a day off because we are caught up with our work as just take off. We have no set time to come and go or about salaries either, but we love our work or we wouldn't be doing it.

As a closing note, I would like to say that we hope very much if Martin County will really love to have visitors. The few that leave in return will probably not be any great finance to them, the county, but they will make more appreciative friends, much on the fine fishing of our own waters. We have heard many of those friends tout their fine catches from fish.

Sincerely,
Floyd B. Wilson
Port Salerno, Fla.

Interest Discontinued

United States Postal Savings certificates of deposit earning interest for depositors on April 25, 1967, according to Mrs. Charlotte B. Rinehart, postmaster of the Jensen Beach Post Office.

Nationwide the Post Office Department is holding more than $90 million in this now obsolete program which was discontinued by the Congress March 28, 1966.

As of last April 25, Postal savings were discontinued, and no deposits were accepted by the Post Office Department. Certificates whose anniversary dates have been reached since last April 26 have earned their final interest payment, Mrs. Rinehart said.

On June 30, all remaining funds in the program will be turned over to the Treasury Department to be held in a trust fund until claimed. There they will remain available for payment without time limitation whenever proper claims are received.

Mr. Rinehart urged that all postal savings depositors close out their accounts and invest their funds in United States savings bonds or the new Freedom Shares, which on May 1 will pay 4.74% interest.

Holders of Postal Savings certificates can arrange to redeem them by applying at the post office where the certificates were issued. The postmaster will provide necessary forms to assist in cashing certificates. All transactions can be handled by mail, and certificates issued to persons now deceased can be cashed by legal heirs in accordance with State laws governing such distributions.

why minor law infractions cannot be ignored

Some people believe that minor infractions of the law are nothing to be concerned about the are the big ones matter. This is dangerous reasoning in America. Human rights are protected by law and are secure just so long as the law is upheld. Infractions large or small breed disrespect. Without respect the laws cease to force and the rights it protects are endangered. Human rights once forfeited are difficult to regain. This is one reason why we observe Law Day U.S.A. on May 1.

County Museums Are Unique

Martin County, blessed by climate and natural beauty unsurpassed in all Florida, is also rich in culture that makes life more rewarding and interesting. The county takes pride in its two outstanding museums.

Offering a wide variety of interests, these two museums are located four miles south of Jensen Beach and four miles east of Stuart on picturesque Hutchinson Island. Martin County Historical Society and Martin County maintain and operate these two unique museums with well over a million dollar collections in antiques, artifacts, arts and historical documents. They display exhibits of Florida history, marine biology, vehicular evolution and nautical achievements. In addition they offer a varied series of cultural programs throughout the year.

The House of Refuge Museum, built in 1875 by the United States Life Saving Service, the fore-runner of the U.S. Coast Guard, stands alone in memory of the ten such houses built on the Florida east coast by the Federal government. In its earliest days it was exactly what the name implies: a house of refuge for shipwrecked sailors. Stocked with food, clothing and fuel it was a haven for those hardy souls who sailed the seas and had the misfortune to have their ships wrecked off Hutchinson Island.

Now, as a museum, it provides interested residents and visitors with outstanding displays--and here you will find the famous green turtle research being conducted, together with hundreds of live specimens.

About a mile north of The House of Refuge is The Elliott Museum, built by Harmon P. Elliott in 1960 in memory of his father, Sterling Elliott, the inventor in 1886 of the Quadricycle, the fore-runner of the American automobile. He also developed the Elliott Addressing Machine. Donated to the Historical Society, the building consists of three wings, each housing exhibits relating to a phase of Florida history.

In one wing is one of the finest collections of horse-drawn and motor vehicles. Here you will see the evolution of the Wheel from the earliest bicycles known as "bone-crushers" to a 1924 Rolls Royce - even an old-time fire engine - all in excellent working condition.

Another wing displays America as it existed at the turn of the century, with a replica of a country general store, a barber shop, jewelry store, old-time drug store complete with marble soda fountain, and a Florida pioneer kitchen and parlor. Cased exhibits also display a variety of antiques including old time implements, tools, and collections of shoes, banks, and typewriters.

A third wing holds maps and data related to Florida history including authentic replicas of a Seminole Chickee along with costumed manikins. The chickee (a thatched hut) was constructed especially for Elliott Museum by the Seminole Indians.

The Museum is the scene of a series of film classics, art exhibits and special lectures and programs presented by The Historical Society during the season.

Mrs. Janet Hutchinson is in charge of both museums which are open from 1 to 5 p.m. Tuesdays through Sundays. They are closed Mondays. William Allaway is caretaker at House of Refuge.

Experts and visitors agree that the tourist who fails to see and inspect these two museums is missing something not duplicated anywhere in the United States.

A Minute With Social Security

Q. When I reached age 62, I retired and began drawing my social security benefits. This was 18 months ago. Recently I became totally disabled as the result of an accident. Would this make any change in my social security monthly benefits?

A. Yes. You should get in touch with your social security office since you may be able to change over to disability benefits up until age 65. This may mean an increase in your social security check.

Q. Early in 1965 I was injured and as a result have been unable to work since. I filed for disability benefits and the claim was denied because it was thought that I would eventually be able to return to work. My doctor feels that I will not be able to work for another year. Is there any chance that I could now draw monthly benefits?

A. Yes. The 1965 amendments to the social security law changed the disability requirements to include persons who are unable to work for at least a year because of a severe disabling condition. You should check with your local social security office.

Whenever possible The Mirror will print this column as a public service. Questions may be mailed to "A Minute with Social Security", 1804 Okeechobee Rd., Ft. Pierce. All questions will receive personal replies.

Monthly Dances Held For Local Teenagers

Teenagers in the Jensen Beach area have plenty to keep them busy during daytime hours. School and assorted activities take up a great deal of time, after which there is swimming, surfing, water-skiing and running at the nearby beaches. Weekends saw the many teenagers spending their evenings at the movies, bowling or attending private parties.

The need for a public teenage dance was evident.

About three years ago the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce sponsored one of its many community daylong activities on the causeway including organized boat races, games and contests for children, and a barbecue picnic topped by a fabulous fireworks display. Chamber directors suggested a dance for teenagers to be held in the evening on the large pavilion on the causeway. Mr. and Mrs. Willard Bowman, parents of a teenage son, were asked to make arrangements for the dance.

Christmas lights were strung around the roof of the pavilion, records and a record player were borrowed from enthusiastic teenagers, and cold sodas were made available to the crowd of about 300 youngsters who thronged the causeway for what was to be the first of a series of monthly dances.

Subsequent dances have been held in the Jensen Beach Community Center, available free of charge to all local groups.

The first dances featured a record player and records brought by the dancers. Sodas were kept cold in the kitchen refrigerator and a supply of pretzels was always on hand for the group.

Appropriate decorations were supplied for holiday dances. Fresh-cut pine trees were brought from the woods to be trimmed with colored lights and tinsel. Live music replaced the records, with a 5 to 7-man rock and roll band supplying the music. About five bands are available and are booked a month or two in advance for future dances.

Dances are held the second Saturday of each month, chaperoned by the Bowmans. The crowd, in casual dress, starts gathering before 7:30 for the dances which run from 8 to 11:30 p.m.

The main requirement, according to the Bowmans, is that the teenagers conduct themselves like ladies and gentlemen.

Industrial Commission, who spoke before some 100 specialists attending the two-day Engineering Symposium on Beach Erosion Control last weekend.

The economic impact of Florida's beaches was reflected in the 17,900,000 tourists who spent $4 billion in Florida in 1966, not counting the money it took to provide for hobbies or whatever else they enjoyed, Boynton said.

About $8.5 million dollars was spent in Martin County by tourists last year, he said.

"I know that no one wants to see a decrease in that amount; indeed with a five million increase in annual tourism by 1970, or about 28 per cent, Martin County would be justified in planning to host 43,000 tourists in that year. They will spend $10,75 million in the area," said Boynton.

"By trying harder, even a much larger slice of the total could be yours. But let no one forget: three-quarters of your tourists enjoy the beaches, and one-fifth of them will probably go elsewhere if we fail to preserve the beaches we have, and even increase the available amount as preparation for the increased demands we are certain the future will bring," he added.

Florida has 1,016 miles of coast line fit for recreation-beach use, good sandy beach. Of this, for practical purposes, only 257 miles are available to the public, of which 156 miles are from Carrabelle west, in what has come to be known as The Miracle Strip on the Gulf Coast.

Col. H. C. Gee, Palm Beach County, a civil engineer, called for a study by the U.S. Corps of Engineers of every inlet on the Florida coast in an effort to seek ways of improving them to eliminate their erosion-producing characteristics.

W. T. Carlton, director of the Division of Beaches and Shores, Florida Board of Conservation, cited all erosion problems as basically financial, but added: "The state should be responsible for sand transfer works at inlets; the research program to eliminate erosion and a system of matching funds for erosion control projects."

He also suggested the need of a lobbyist for the people to urge the Legislature to spend some money on erosion control.

Arthur Strock, administration, Broward County Erosion Prevention District catalogued works under three categories: resistance, retainance and rebuilding. He went on to discuss various types of structures which might prevent erosion through resistance to the wave action, maintenance of beaches, or rebuilding of the shoreline.

"Structures which work in one area will not necessarily work in others; finances are a challenge as much as the types of structures to be used," he said.
